February Wholesale Prices Take Biggest Monthly Jump In Years

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Fueled by soaring food costs, wholesale prices jumped 1.1 percent in February for their biggest monthly gain in more than three years, the Labor Department said today.

On an annuul basis, that is a 13.2 percent increase — double the current basic inflation rate. Wholesale prices rose 0.6 percent in January.

The sharp February increase, particularly in the food sector, probably will show up at the consumer level in coming months, a development which may force President Carter to alter his economic projections for 1978.

Last monhh's jump in the finished goods category, which is the broadest measure of inflation at the wholesale level, was the fifth consecutive month of significant gains and was the largest since a 1.9 percent increase in November 1974, the department said.

The consumer foods sector gained 2.9 percent last month, the largest increase in that category since November 1974.

"Prices of food-related products rose much more than in the previous month at all three major stages of processing — finished, intermediate and crude — in part because of the impact of adverse weather on supplies of some items," a department statement said.

Food prices rose 1.1 percent at the wholesale level during January.

If food costs are excluded, the department said, the finished goods sector posted only a 0.4 percent increase compared with 0.6 percent in January.

Two Congressmen May Be Disciplined In Park Bribe Case

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The testimony of Tongsun Park and other evidence gathered by the House Ethics Committee will lead to disciplinary action against only about six current congressmen, say two members of the committee.

The two panel members — a Democrat and a Republican — offered their forecast without mentioning any names Wednesday, after Park was told to return for a seventh session today, with Special Counsel Leon Jaworski saying the long and tightly guarded secret questioning was almost done.

Before Park returned from South Korea, Jaworski estimated that up to two dozen incumbent congressmen might have broken House rules of official conduct by accepting cash or gifts from Park and that some might have misled the committee in describing their relationships with the millionaire rice dealer.

But the two committee members, who asked not to be identified, said they expect no more than about a half dozen of their colleagues to be punished unless significant new evidence surfaces in the Korean influence-buying probe.

"It could change," said one, "but based on what we now know, I'd say six sitting members at the most might face disciplinary action of varying degrees."

Ths other member agreed on an estimate of six as "a ballpark figure" and said: "I certainly don't think it's going to be two or three times that number."

Both members and other committee sources also said they had yet to see proof of any allegation that would warrant expulsion of a sitting congressman. Any penalties handed out apparently will depend on whether the committee concludes that Park, despite his denials, was a Korean government agent who sought to bribe congressmen and whether the congressmen, who accepted payments, had reason to suspect Park was anything but a private businessman making campaign contributions.

Park reportedly distributed appoximately $750,000 in cash and gifts to various members of Congress.

Several committee members said Park told the panel almost nothing that it did not know before it began questioning him and he did not reveal any new names of congressmen who might have acted improperly.

Park was said to have told the committee his biggest payments went to three former Democratic congressmen — nearly $200,000 to Otto Passman of Louisiana, and over $100,000 each to Richard Hanna of California and Cornelius Gallagher of New Jersey.

First place winners in the costume parade Sunday were these, from Old McDonald's farm. Their menagerie included two unwilling participants, but the animals' rebelliousness didn't keep the owners from winning a gold medal for the group contest.

UMW Official Says Strikers May Go Back If Benefits Guaranteed

A United Mine Workers official says striking miners might return to work under a Taft-Hartley injunction if their pension and hospitalization benefits are guaranteed under the 1974 contract.

"They might return to work and I emphasize the word 'might,'" Frank Dwyer, vice president of UMW Local 1619 in Indiana, Pa., said Wednesday. "This would be seriously considered because it would guarantee hospital funds and pensions for pensioners."

He said the miners would not go back to work under the present contract that expired Dec. 6 and contained cuts in hospital and pension benefits. However, he said they might return under provisions of the contract prior to last July 1, when the benefits still existed.

"If we went back under Taft-Hartley, though, we would more or less be admitting defeat," Dwyer said.

He said miners would be far more likely to return to the pits if the government seized the coal mines and opened up the coal operators' books to scrutiny.

"I think the government would take a close look at the books of the coal operators over the past years," Dwyer said. "They would find substantial reasons why the contract proposed to us for pension benefits and hospitalization could be increased right now.

"The pension fund for the retired miners is absolutely ridiculous. The government would ask why they are holding back on pensions for ths old people.

"I'm sure there would be a lot of weeping and gnashing of teeth over this (by the Bituminous Coal Operators Association). The BCOA is not excited about anyone looking into their books."

Next Move Up To Federal Government

The next move in the nation's longest continuous coal strike — a back-to-work court order — is up to the federal government and could come as early as today.

In a preliminary hearing Wednesday, the board of inquiry investigating the strike officially said what everyone already knew — hope of a negotiated settlement is virtually nil.

Miners braced for trouble and coal-dependent industries and utilities prepared to wind down. Dwindling fuel supplies pose further layoffs and power shortages for the nation, already staggering under the 94-day-old strike.

"Unless we get a good contract, the lights may go out and it may get cold in homes — then people will know what it's like in a coal mine," said Pennsylvania miner Jim Nuccetelli.

United Mine Workers leaders pressed for federal seizure of the mines — the only move, they said, that would send their 160,000 striking members to the pits.

In West Virginia, Supreme Court Justice Darrell McGraw called the try for an injunction a mistake.

He said the miners won't go back, because they don't want to stock up the coal companies so they can withstand another walkout. The Bituminous Coal Operators Association, its last contract offer accepted by the UMW leadership, but rejected 2-1 by the union's rank and file, said it will reopen the mines in obedience to a back-to-work order and blamed the UMW for perpetuating the walkout.

In Washington, the special board investigating the strike as a necessary preliminary to a court injunction under the Taft-Hartley Act, said the union and the coal operators are hopelessly deadlocked.

"It's quite obvious that there are rather deep divisons," said board member John N. Gentry. "It's awful difficult to see any settlement in a few days."

BCOA President Joseph Brennan said coal operators have done all they can.

"It must be called to the attention of the American people that the onus for bringing a resolution of the strike now must rest upon the United Mine Workers of America and its membership," he said.

Throughout the coal-dependent Midwest, a strike-scarred economy left thousands out of work and thousands more struggling under sharp power reductions.

Indiana and West Virginia took the brunt of the growing coal shortage, with three of Indiana's six major utilities — serving 3 million of the state's 5 million residents — under power reductions of 40 percent for schools, 25 percent for businesses and 15 percent for homes.

The strike so far has reduced West Virginia's coal-dependent economy by $1.4 billion, and in Pennsylvania, the state Bureau of Employment Security said as many as 50,000 persons will be laid off if coal is not moving by the end of the month.

In North Carolina, where voluntary conservation efforts have fallen below mandatory controls were threatened.

The auto industry, which maintains a fragile network of plants across the strike-ridden area, faced the most immediate threat of layoffs. A Chrysler spokesman predicted complete shutdown of the No. 3 automaker's operation if Ohio is forced to implement a planned 25 percent power cutback on March 23.

"If they cut back 25 percent, it will put us out of business ... and put 150,000 workers on the street," he said.

"Right now, our production schedules are subject to daily re-evaluation," said a Ford Motor Co. spokesman. "We have no plants down today or tomorrow — but Monday? I wouldn't even hazard a guess."

On the production lines, where United Auto Workers support for the striking miners has been measured by a $2 million donation to their union, workers were unruffled by impending layoffs. They earn company-paid unemployment benefits totaling 95 percent of their pay, and for them, a layoff is little more than a paid vacation.

"We can use a couple weeks off," said a worker at Chrysler's Hamtramck, Mich., assembly plant. "The important thing is that the miners get what they want, and if we get a couple of weeks off at 95 percent pay, so what?"

Enraged Woman Tries Revenge, Subway Style

NEW YORK (UPI) — Police say a 29-year-old woman pushed another woman off a crowded Times Square subway platform into the path of a train because the woman had accidentally stepped on her foot.

The victim was yanked back onto the platform by an unidentified man when the train was just 50 feet away from her, police said.

The suspect, Carolyn Spector, was charged with attempted murder.

Witnesses said the 25-year-old female victim accidentally stepped on her assailant's foot during the crush of rush-hour commuters through the Times Square station Wednesday.

Ms. Spector became enraged and began yelling. Police said the victim replied, "You can say anything you want, just don't hurt me."

But before she could move away, she was pushed by Ms. Spector down onto the track just as a train approached the platform, police said. A man quickly pulled her back onto the platform.

The woman, who did not want her identity released, was taken to a local hospital for treatment of hand and leg injuries.

Larry Flynt Is Again Critical

ATLANTA (UPI) — Sex magazine entrepreneur Larry Flynt relapsed into critical condition and was sent back into surgery today to remove bits of bone and bullet creating a paralyzing pressure on his spine.

Flynt was brought to Emory University Hospital in Atlanta Wednesday night from Button Gwinnett Hospital in Lawrenceville, 30 miles to the northeast, where the doctor who has already operated on him twice said he was "very stable and improving." But Dr. John T. Galambos, who first examined Flynt, put him back on the critical list as soon as he arrived at Emory and began treating the infection he said had already set in from his "dirty wounds" infected by the contents of his torn intestines.

Dr. George Tindall, chief of neurosurgery at Emory, examined X-rays of Flynt's spine and immediately scheduled two hours of surgery early today to relieve pressure on his spine caused by shards of bone and fragments of a .44-caliber slug.

Flynt and one of his lawyers, Gene Reeves, were shot by a sniper Monday in Lawrenceville during a recess in Flynt's obscenity trial there. Reeves, who was hit in the arm and abdomen, was listed in satisfactory condition.

Police said the sniper, using a high-powered rifle, apparently perched himself in a window of an abandoned hotel across the street from the courthouse.

The gunman continued to elude police. The one arrest made so far in the case — Teddy Morris, 20, picked up in Norfolk, Va., Tuesday night — turned sour when it developed he had concocted a hoax to get a reward and was not even in Lawrenceville when Flynt was shot.

Flynt, 35, owner of Hustler magazine, underwent three hours of surgery within moments after the shooting, and again the next morning.

Dr. Tehri Bagheri, who performed the initial surgery, rode to Atlanta Wednesday night with Flynt and said he was much improved, counting it "almost a miracle."

But an hour after Flynt was admitted to Emory, Galambos issued a statement saying, "I would not have taken him off the critcal list. He is still critical and will be for the next several days until the danger of infection is over."

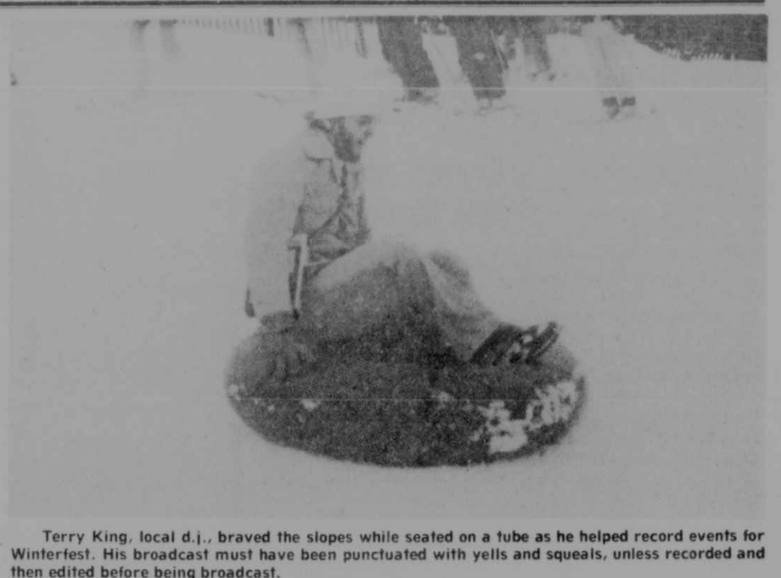
Reporters and photographers got their first glimpse of the wounded Flynt Wednesday night as he was wheeled into Emory from the emergency vehicle. Flynt's eyes were open but he was immobile and appeared dazed.

In Lawrenceville, police Col. Larry Puckett said his office was not impeded by the hoax and is "not relying solely or totally on one thing."

Flynt's family and aides Wednesday began advancing the theory that the attack was carried out by forces alarmed over his attempts to revive in his various publications the investigation into the assassination of President John F. Kennedy.

Colombians Capture DC-4 And Drugs

(UPI) — Colombian soldiers captured a U.S.-registered DC-4 as it was about to be loaded with marijuana but missed the drugs and the traffickers, who sped off in a dozen trucks, sources say.



The sources said more than 100 soldiers converged on a clandestine airport near Cienaga, about 20 miles south of Santa Marta, and rushed the airplane Wednesday.

But the crew of the DC-4 and their helpers on the ground managed to escape in a dozen trucks that apparently had transported the marijuana to the airfield and were still loaded, the sources said.

Authorities found 3,000 plastic bags inside the aircraft, apparently meant for packing the drugs, they said.

The plane's registration numbers had been erased but documents found inside showed it was registered in America and apparently was to have been flown back to the United States after loading, the sources said.

Santa Marta is the capital of Colombia's top marijuana-growing region, a huge area along the country's northern coast near the Venezuelan border.

Terry King, local d.j., braved the slopes while seated on a tube as he helped record events for Winterfest. His broadcast must have been punctuated with yells and squeals, unless recorded and then edited before being broadcast.

SIDS Victims May Be Unhealthy

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A silent killer, striking suddenly and without warning, kills 6,000 to 7,000 seemingly healthy babies every year.

Research can tell when the so-called crib death is most likely to strike, and who is most likely to be its victim, but nobody has identified the killer other than to call it Sudden Infant Death Syndrome.

Now the newest research indicates the victims may not be healthy infants after said Dr. Julius Richmond, the government's top doctor, in an unusual session of a Senate subcommittee Wednesday evening.

"These infants appear to have subtle anatomic and physiologic defects ... of a neurologic, cardio-respiratory or metabolic nature," Richmond testified.

Richmond, assistant secretary for health in the Department of Health, Education and Welfare and a former pediatrician, said he has seldom encountered a more harrowing tragedy for parents.

"In my years as a practicing pediatrician, I don't think I have observed any other experience which is as shattering a personal tragedy for those families, who without warning lose their seemingly healthy babies," he testified.

An estimated 6,000 to 7,000 infants die suddenly, quietly and unexpectedly in their cribs or baby carriages every year, during what has been considered normal sleep.

The mysterious malady is the leading cause of death between the ages of one month to a year, peaking between the second and fourth month.

"We know that the risk is higher in males than in females, in black babies than in white babies, in one of twins as compared to single-born babies, in low birth-weight infants ... and in babies who have had recent upper respiratory infections," he said.

He said the highest rate of SIDS is:

—Among mothers less than 20 years old.

—Among infants of mothers who smoke.

—Greatest during cold weather months and between midnight and 8 a.m.

Utah Scientists Will Reconstruct Huge Dinosaur

DINOSAUR — NATIONAL MONUMENT, Utah (UPI) — Utah scientists have begun examination and restoration of a long-necked dinosaur that lived about 60 million years ago in what is now Montana.

Three-quarters of a ton of plaster, petrified bone and shale arrived at the Utah laboratories earlier this month, said Monument Superintendent Cecil D. Lewis Jr.

The remains of a plesiosaur, a long-necked dinosaur with webbed limbs, was found at Custer Battlefield National Monument near Hardin, Mont.

"The speciman lived about 60-70 million years ago," Lewis said. "This animal appeared much more recently than the 140 million-year-old dinosaurs we find in our quarry."

Floyd Wilkins, a 25-year veteran at restoring fossils, will work on the skeleton and prepare it for lab examination and display.

Lewis said the final disposition of the plesiosaur had not been determined, but it probably will go to the Smithsonian in Washington D.C. or be loaned indefinitely to a major university.

New Method For Weather Predicting Found Workable

BERKELEY, Calif. (UPI) — They snickered last May when Orman Granger predicted California's three-year drought would end this season with a whopping rainfall.

Granger said rainfall for the season would be 63 percent above normal.

Now, it seems Orman Granger was right on the button.

The drought is over, and while the rainy season has a few storms to go, estimates for some measurement points are almost exact.

All the other experts missed the mark by wide margins.

The state hired Irving P. Krick, a private consultant who was Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's forecaster for the Normandy invasion. He said rainfall would be only 70 to 75 percent of California's normal amount.

Another respected expert predicted normal rain and a tree ring expert said the drought would continue another year.

Granger, a University of California climatologist, has developed a new method for long-range weather forecasting which he says gives him about a 95 percent chance of being right. During the next decade, he believes the method could be developed to cover most of the earth's land surface.

Granger's forecast for California in 1977-78 was not his first success. His model produced similar results for the two previous seasons, the only times the model has been tried.

The idea came from another researcher's discovery during the 1973 Sahara drought that there was a delayed relationship between a desert area and the North African coast.

Granger found the weather pattern of the Mexican coast south of Mazatlan repeats itself approximately seven years later in California. A student gathered Mexican weather data back to 1850 during a summer vacation and the relationship was refined by running the data through a computer.

"We were working on this in 1975," Granger said, "and at that time, nobody would have funded that kind of stuff. The only help we got was from the university computer."

Granger's 163 percent of normal forecast included an area between Redding and San Diego — the bulk of California — and was offered with a plus or minus variation of 14 percent.

Currently, the greater central valley has 154 percent. A San Diego measuring station which Granger thought would have 200 percent to date is within an error factor of only 2 percent.

Granger, 40, a Trinidadian who was educated in Canada, now looking for other areas where the technique may be applied. And, he said, "we are not going to be the only ones looking."

For example, there could be relationships between the parallel climactic regimes of the Mediterranean, Valparaiso, Chile, and California.

But a major pcoblem will be large blanks on the world data map, especially in tropical areas. Granger says his technique is most promising for the Northern Hemisphere, "but if you isolate key areas, you are well on your way."

Fifteen Rail Cars Derail In Texas

JUSTIN, Texas (UPI) — Fifteen cars of a Santa Fe freight train, including five tankers carrying flammable chemicals, derailed today north of Dallas, forcing evacuation of 30 rural families.

The Justin volunteer fire department reported chlorine gas was leaking from the derailed cars but the Denton County sheriff's office and Santa Fe officials said the tankers were filled with other chemicals.

"At first we believed it was chlorine from the characteristics, but it is not," said sheriff's dispatcher Randy Kaisner. "We do have several irritants and flammables — styrene minomer, butyl acetate and other chemicals — involved in the five cars. The other chemicals are butyl alcohol and ethylene glycol, commonly known as antifreeze, which we are concerned with because it's combustible.

"We're not sure which are and which are not leaking. But these are the chemicals in the cars which derailed. We know some are leaking but we're not sure which."

Kaisner said no more than 30 families had been moved from their homes into a community church.

"I've been running around town trying to get people who were in danger out," said David Ferryman, a volunteer firefighter.

There were no reported injuries in the 5 a.m. derailment.

A monkey on skis, complete with simian mannerisms, was among the unusual competitors on the slopes Sunday during the Yakapah costume parade at Wisp.

The Chemistry of Character

There is no precise formula. But there are certain elements usually found in significant measure in persons of character.

One is belief. And not just belief in one's self. The men and women we most admire generally have strong convictions which influence their daily lives.

Another is commitment. Far beyond mere involvement. Those who stir our admiration devote their time and talents unselfishly to worthwhile causes.

And there's usually a third element, but it's never boasted of or paraded about. That's sacrifice. People of character are always willing to deny themselves something to achieve something greater.

Nearby are plenty of "laboratories" where belief, commitment and sacrifice combine to produce Christian character. They're called CHURCHES.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

PENTECOST ANYONE?

Lesson for March 12, 1978

Background Scripture: Acts 2
Devotional Reading: Acts 2:16-21

"Will Pentecost ever happen again?"

This question was asked by a youthful member of one of my confirmation classes several years ago. Actually, the question is hardly one that is limited to the youth generation. Lots of people have wondered whether Pentecost was intended to be "once-and-done," or a continuing phenomenon in the life of the church.

Rev. Althouse

They were "all together"

I have often wondered whether the first Pentecost could have happened if the church then had been of the same mind and heart that exists within it today. In those days, for example, it was possible for them to assemble "all together in one place." Even apart from the considerations of numbers today, that would be a considerable challenge for us today for the chances of us agreeing to be "all together in one place" are not very great.

Even more importantly, however, I think it would be difficult to have another Pentecost today because many Christians would probably look with disdain upon any kind of event in which there would be a demonstration of religious enthusiasm. We seem naturally suspicious of anyone who is enthusiastic about their religion. I can imagine the debates by the theologians and the dogmatists who would seriously question whether such a blatant display of power would be appropriate. A good many church people today seem to think that there is something vulgar in displaying spiritual power. At the same time it is obvious from the New Testament that neither Jesus nor his disciples shared those concerns. Although the miracles were never vulgar or crass, Jesus and his disciples knew and used the power of signs and wonders for the sake of the kingdom.

A promise for all

Another roadblock that Pentecost might experience today would be in the matter of religious credentials. Each denomination would want to be quite certain that the leaders were properly certified and the lay people accredited in some fashion. After all, we can't have the wrong people displaying the power of the Holy Spirit! There would be creedal tests so that different denominational groups would be quite certain that it was "safe" to share this with another group outside its own ecclesiastical structure. Some groups would probably refuse to participate due to the presence of other groups whose doctrinal orthodoxy was suspect.

The end result would probably be a committee to "study" the whole matter. And there, quite possibly, the whole matter would simply end in failure to agree on the essentials of the experience. Pentacost, like so many other worthwhile things, would "die in committee."

But maybe the picture I've drawn above is too dark, too pessimistic. Maybe it can still happen today. All right, let's see: Pentacost anyone?

Potomac Edison To Offer Monthly Payment Program

Potomac Edison residential customers in Maryland who are faced with higher electric bills may want to consider a uniform monthly payment plan now available to all customers in that class regardless of annual usage.

The plan has been in effect for large-use residential customers for about a decade but, according to PE division manager J. L. Stitt, "We believe making the plan available to all residential customers would provide a method by which they can ease the burden of unavoidably high seasonal costs particularly during winter months."

Under the plan, Potomac Edison estimates the total annual charges for a residential customer's electric service and uses one-twelfth of this amount for a monthly payment. A customer using the plan would receive an electric bill for the same amount every month, thus leveling out seasonally high bills.

If at the end of a twelve-month period a customer has paid more than required, PE will either credit the account or refund the difference. If charges are more than actually paid, a customer will receive a bill for the difference.

Customers wanting to use the plan or seeking more information about it are urged to contact their local PE office.

ASC Urges Farm Pollution Checks

"Now is the time for farmers to take a good look at their farmland and determine conservation needs," Paul Crowl, Chairman of the Maryland Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation (ASC) Committee, said this week. The 1978 Agricultural Conservation Program (ACP) provides solutions to conservation and pollution problems on farms.

According to Crowl, the county ACP development groups have identified the overall conservation needs in the various counties and the ASC Committee has assigned priorities to these needs. The percentage of cost-sharing will be based on these priority ratings, Crowl said.

Solutions to high priority problems can be cost-shared up to 75 percent. "Farmers should see if they have any of these problems which need solving to conserve their soil and water."

Crowl explained that ACP cost-sharing funds are used to correct conservation and pollution problems on a farm, beyond that which would be accomplished with the farmer's own resources. "The program provides both technical and financial assistance to farmers whose land is a source of agricultural pollution or affected by wind or water erosion." The maximum cost-shares that a person can earn annually for conservation practices under ACP is $2,500. Long-term ACP agreements for 3 to 10 years may be requested for a complete farm, and 3 to 5 years for a portion of a farm.

"Farmers are encouraged to check their farms, identify conservation problems, and discuss them with the ASC Committee," Crowl said. Further assistance may also be obtained from the Soil Conservation Service and Extension Service.

Mathias Will Oppose Carter Efforts To Trim Education Aid

Senator Charles McC. Mathias, Jr. (R-Md.) says he will "strenuously resist" all efforts by the Carter Administration to reduce the amount of Federal impact aid supporting education in Maryland.

In his education message to Congress on Monday, President Carter announced sharp reductions in impact aid funding, which Mathias says will have a "devastating effect on Maryland's school districts." According to the Maryland Department of Education the state stands to lose nearly $4 million if the cutbacks are allowed to stand.

"I have always considered impact aid not a form of charity but the fulfillment of an obligation," Mathias said. "I am compelled to protest in the strongest terms possible President Carter's plan to slash the impact aid the Federal government pays to local jurisdictions."

Mathias said the move to slash impact aid is a "blow which falls squarely on those taxpayers who already bear the brunt of the tax burden." Impact aid, he said in a statement on the Senate floor, "is fair payment to local districts in lieu of taxes to help provide services for the people brought into local jurisdictions by federal activities." He added that for twenty years "the federal government has fulfilled its obligation, and many of our local districts are now dependent on the money to provide relief to the hard-pressed local taxpayer."

The Department of Education says local jurisdictions will lose funds as follows in 1979 if the cutbacks are allowed to stand: Baltimore City, $642,000; Baltimore County, $284,000; Anne Arundel County, $400,000; Carroll County, $145,000; Howard County, $538,000; Montgomery County, $614,000; Prince George's County, $825,000; Calvert County, $58,000; Cecil County, $81,000; Charles County, $126,000; Frederick County, $226,000; Harford County, $113,000; St. Mary's County, $29,000 and Washington County, $25,000.

Maryland Accredited Cattle "TB Free"

Maryland has become the 13th state in the nation to be accredited "free of tuberculosis" in cattle by the U. S. Department of Agriculture's Animap.

The official designation marking a milestone in MDA and USDA's constant battle for animal health, was presented to Maryland Secretary of Agriculture Young D. Hance, and State Veterinarian Dr. Hugh E. Binks in ceremonies last week by Dr. F. J. Mulhern, Administrator of USDA's Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service.

In remarks made during the presentation, Dr. Mulhern noted that elimination of bovine tuberculosis "has been a long, hard effort. Maryland should take great pride in its efforts to rid livestock producers of this costly disease."

He also noted, that MDA's Meat and Poultry Inspection arm played a vital role in the campaign and complimented Meat and Poultry Inspection chief Dr. Robert J. Lee for "daily, first line of defense efforts in the program."

Dr. Mulhern pointed out that bovine turberculosis posed a threat to the health of humans as the disease is transmissible and resulted in many said, human deformities, commonly known as "hunchbacks," which have practically ceased, due to control of the disease in cattle.

A state qualities as free of tuberculosis in cattle when:

— No dairy or beef cattle have been found infected in the past five years or longer;

— The state maintains the ability to trace infected animals — when found in normal trade channels — back to their herd of origin;

— The state has and enforces livestock dealer licensing laws and regulations that require maintainence of records of transactions and the identification of animals.

The following 32 states have previously qualified as accredited free of tuberculosis: Connecticut, Colorado, Maine, Minnesota, Montana, New Hampshire, New Mexico, North Carolina, North Dakota, Rhode Island, Utah and Wyoming.

Meeting Cancelled

Due to the energy crisis the March meeting of the Northern PTSA has been cancelled. The next meeting is tentatively set for April 13, at which time election of officers will be held and the English Department will present a program.

the ROCKPILE

by Cathy Helbig

Did you know that in 1928 it was possible to call Sweden by phone for "only" $81.75 for three minutes and $27.25 for each additional minute. Sweden was fourth in line after Belgium, Holland, and Germany of the foreign countries available to Garrett County callers.

The personal columns that year were filled with such items of interest as: "Mark Moon, residing on the Monte Vista Farm south of Oakland, claims that he should be accorded the champion for hog raising. One day last week he butchered two spring pigs. One of the animals dressed 427 and the other 397 pounds." Of course, that could be just a lot of hogwash.

A 150 gal. still and 4 barrels of mash were discovered in an abandoned house in the North Glade section of the county. No manufactured product was found and as no one was found near the premises, no arrests were made (and neither was any moonshine).

A special poultry train passed through Oakland and made its last stop in Maryland. More than 500 farmers and interested parties were there making it the largest number of those attending.

"The train consisted of an exhibit car, a lecture car, a stock car containing chickens, turkeys and geese; and a flat car upon which was a model chicken house."

The Oakland High School basketball team was defeated by Allegany High of Cumberland, 63-17 in the first game of the State championship tournament. They also lost two games to Davis High, one at Davis 29-27, and one at Oakland 16-14.

"Stemple, Sanders, Stanton and Stahl carried the brunt of the 'scoring attack', while Lohr played well on the defense."

March 21st, 1928 — the first day of spring and Garrett County received 22 inches of snow "disrupting traffic and blocking the highways for hours."

The flame of romance was burning a little too hot for a newlywed couple on their way to break the news to the bride's parents: "A Studebaker coach, belonging to a Friendsville woman, was almost entirely consumed by fire when flames broke out under the hood of the car. A high wind swept the fire into the body of the machine almost instantly and the occupants, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Bisbing, were just able to get away from the car before the entire machine was enveloped in flames.

"The car was partially insured and was guarded until daylight the following morning by Talmadge Frazee. Upon returning from breakfast to resume his vigil, he found the wreck stripped of the two remaining tires, the motometer, the lamps and everything else of value that was not consumed."

May 3rd, 1928 — Found in the Bittinger column — "Snow began falling in this section early Friday morning and continued without intermission until late Saturday evening, by which time, field, forest and highway was hidden beneath a white blanket more than two feet deep. The storm was accompanied by a strong east wind until Saturday morning when the wind shifted to the west and then the snow began to drift."

"Probably believing himself back in the wilds of Africa where snow is unknown and clothes are as scarce, a negro, about 39 years old, was found Friday morning wandering in the fields along Deep Creek Lake near Thayerville, minus clothing, and he says he doesn't remember how he got there, why he was there or where his clothes are.

"The negro was quite large, has several scars on his body and had but one eye. It was thought that he was the man wanted by W. Va. authorities for a murder committed several years ago near Kingwood and for purposes of identification an officer from the W. Va. Penitentiary at Moundsville came to Oakland to look him over but failed to identify him as the man wanted."

The man told the sheriff that he was from Philadelphia and on his way to Morgantown. He also said that he'd been shot through the eye some years ago and at times lost his mind as a result of the wound.

Apparently that is what caused his failing to remember where he put his clothing or any occurrence the night before.

"He was released from custody on condition that he leave the county. He immediately left, going in the direction of Morgantown."

The Preston County Sheriff was charged with assault after shooting an insurance salesman from Philippi three times. The salesman said he was passing the sheriff's office the morning of the shooting when the officer emerged, grabbed him and dragged him into the office. He said he knew of no motive for the attack — he did not even know the sheriff.

A later issue of The Republican carried the news of the Sheriff's conviction. He got 8 years in prison and a probable motive was revealed: The salesman did not know the sheriff — but he was well acquainted with the sheriff's wife.

"As a result of a clash over the order of precedence in the formation of a Memorial Day parade in an area town — two Memorial Day services were held.

"The Sons of Veterans and the Legion could not agree as to which organization should follow the GAR, and as a result the Legionnaires had their parade and Memorial Day services in the morning and the GAR Sons of Veterans and the Spanish-American War Veterans had a service and parade in the afternoon.

Exhibiting techniques that would make Minnesota Fats envious, Virgil Shaffer, left, and Ray Lewis relax at the Oakland Center by shooting pool. The Senior Citizens Center provides activities, programs and a comfortable lounge where Garrett County's elderly can socialize and enjoy themselves.

"It is said that conferences between the contenders were useless."

Isn't it strange how that happens so often between contenders?

Four Local Persons Hurt In Car Crash

A collision between a car and a cement truck March 3 on National Highway one mile west of LaVale caused injuries to four Garrett County residents.

Occupying the car were Mary Lou Spitzer, 22, of Route 2, McHenry, driver of the car; her husband, Timothy Spitzer, 23, and two-year-old daughter Rebecca; and a passenger, Phillip W. Yoder, 25, Mt. Lake Park. The operator of the cement truck, Stanley Lee Davis, 41, Rawlings, was uninjured.

State police said the Spitzer car went out of control, skidding sideways and striking the truck which was traveling in the same direction. The auto then struck the guardrail on one side of the roadway and returned to the other side, coming to rest on guardrails there.

The four injured were treated at Sacred Heart Hospital. Ambulances from the LaVale Rescue Squad and Cresaptown Volunteer fire company were dispatched to the scene, in addition to state police.

DNR Asks Owners To Control Dogs

Dogs running loose without owner's supervision are often a nuisance to people; however, they have a greater impact on wildlife resources.

According to Bernard F. Halla, Director, Maryland Wildlife Administration, free-running dogs are causing problems in Western Maryland where 18-30 inches of snow is now on the ground.

Deer are being chased, and, in a number of instances, caught and killed by dogs able to run on top of the crusted snow. Deer, with their pointed hooves, sink into the snow, making them easy prey for dogs. Even if the dogs do not catch their prey, they apply unneeded stress to deer already having a difficult time during this hard winter.

The Maryland Wildlife Administration asks that dog owners please keep their pets restrained during this difficult time for wildlife.

PET POINTERS

by jim willis

The pregnant pet may pose a problem for the novice pet owner. Actually the expectant mother does not need much pampering, although an extra ration of food, supplemented with vitamins is important for the animal's well being.

The animal should continue to be exercised to promote good muscle tone. A routine veterinary examination a few weeks before the blessed event would be wise.

A maternity box should be prepared for the animal. The placement of the box is most important because if the animal is not happy with the location she will simply deliver somewhere else. She will prefer a warm and secluded location.

Your pet will begin looking for the "maternity ward" approximately 2-3 weeks before delivery. After she has selected the site, place her box there and encourage her to get in it by putting her food and water next to the box.

The box itself can be any substantial cardboard box, packing crate, orange crate or the like. It should be devoid of any sharp corners or protruding nails. Lay a thick bed of newspaper in the bottom and add an old blanket for comfort.

It will be less worrisome if you know what day your animal was bred. Both dogs and cats have a 62-65 day gestation period. If you are unaware of the date, you will have to watch for the physical signs that herald the blessed event.

Your pet will begin a nesting procedure by shredding the newspaper in her box. She will lose her appetite a few hours before delivering and her temperature (101.5) will drop a degree or two. Finally her "water" will break with the advent of labor.

Most animals will want you to be near them while they deliver, especially if it is their first time. If it is your first time you will probably have a harder time of it than your pet will. Remember you are there to provide comfort and moral support only. You should not interfere unless the mother seems to be having difficulty or is being neglectful.

The mother will contract sharply until the newborn puppy or kitten is expelled. The newborn animal will be covered in a membraneous sheath which the mother will lick off. She will then sever the umbilical cord with her teeth and subsequent contractions will produce the afterbirth (placenta). The mother will then eat this as it contains an amino acid triggering system which aids in milk production.

The only time you should interfere with the delivery is if the mother neglects to attend the newborn animal. If she expels the newborn and ignores it you must take action. Break the membrane over the animal's face. Take the umbilical cord and tear it gently, 1½ - 2 inches from the newborn's abdomen, pulling towards the stomach, not towards the mother. This will prevent rupturing.

The newborn should be breathing by now. If not, take two fingers and press gently at regular intervals on the animal's rib cage. If there is still no sign of breathing the animal may have a mucous obstruction in the breathing passage. Place the animal in the palm of your hand with its back down. Grasp it gently but firmly, supporting its head between your first two fingers. Raise your arm and swing the animal downward to release the blockage. You should observe a fluid discharge from the nostrils and hopefully the puppy or kitten will begin breathing. Place the animal near the mother's stomach and encourage her to lick it.

Most likely your assistance will not be needed during the delivery, but it is better to be well informed and know what to do in case your services are needed. If the mother has an extremely prolonged labor, shows evidence of shock, bleeds profusely or exhibits signs of pain, you should call your veterinarian immediately and arrange to have the mother examined. Good luck with your first attempt at midwifery!

Bloomington Man's Sentence Upheld In Circuit Court

An Allegany County District Court sentence of 30 days in jail and a $500 fine for a Bloomington man convicted of driving while intoxicated last November was affirmed Monday, March 6, in Allegany County Circuit Court.

Sloan Wellington Shockey, 57, of near Bloomington, withdrew his appeal of the DWI conviction and pleaded guilty. Associate Judge James S. Getty gave him the same sentence he had received in District Court.

Shockey's attorney, John M. Robb, argued that although his client had been found not guilty of manslaughter in District Court, he was still being punished for it. Shockey was charged with driving while intoxicated, following an accident which caused the death of a man along Route 135.

In his statement, Robb said that it is nearly always the case in the lower court that someone found guilty of drunken driving is given a fine and not a jail sentence for the first offense.

Assistant State's Attorney Michael R. Burkey said the ruling in District Court was that intoxication by itself was not sufficient to sustain a verdict of guilty of manslaughter and that no other factors had been proved. He said it was the State's opinion that if Shockey hadn't been drinking, the accident wouldn't have happened.

The accident took place on State Route 135 a quarter-mile inside the Allegany County line between Luke and Bloomington. The victim of the collision was 60-year-old George (Nig) Pattison, who police said was standing behind his car when he was hit by the Shockey vehicle.

In affirming the lower court sentence, Judge Getty said he agreed that most first-time offenders are given only fines for drunk driving, but said that in his opinion they were being shown too much leniency.

Survey Workshop To Help Handicapped Slated This April

The Architectural Barrier Survey Committee of the Garrett County Governor's Committee to Promote Employment of the Handicapped met recently to complete arrangements for a Barrier Survey Workshop to be conducted in late April.

The committee is planning to conduct this survey through 1982, designating federal, state and county buildings to be surveyed in 1978-79. Banks, schools, stores, recreational facilities, churches and businesses are slated for review on a planned basis over the next few years.

The survey is designed to help public agencies, organizations, and businesses to become aware of how their facilities can be made more accessible to handicapped citizens who presently cannot avail themselves of these services.

The committee is sending a letter of introduction to local service organizations explaining the survey and requesting volunteers for the survey team.

The workshop will be divided into two half-day sessions. One session will be geared for those whose facilities will be surveyed and current legislation on accessibility, tax credit information on accessibility and specific problems encountered by the handicapped.

The other session will inform the survey teams of the procedures and functions for conducting the survey.

The committee is seeking any interested persons wanting to assist in conducting the survey or to provide financial help for the few materials needed. For further information, call Dan Elmlinger, 334-3330.

CAC Recreation Programs Must Be Planned Now

Community Action is now urging interested individuals, youths, and parents to contact the VISTA volunteers as soon as possible, so that recreation programs for area communities can be considered.

VISTA volunteers are available to work with individuals to develop summer recreation programs for young people. With a small amount of money and the use of CETA employes as recreation directors, programs at a recreation site can include basketball and other sports, games, arts and crafts, picnics, and various other summer activities.

Community Action must submit a proposal to the federal government for funds in early spring, and is requesting that all those interested call the CAC headquarters in Oakland soon for additional information.

AURORA-EGLON NEWS

Union Ambulance squad had a difficult time Saturday when they were needed to transport Mrs. Fanny Shaffer from the home of her son, Harold Shaffer at Brookside, to the Preston Memorial Hospital. Due to the drifted snow, the road into the Shaffer residence was impassable. A four-wheel drive vehicle owned by Eugene Shaffer transported them as far as Rhine Creek where Ernest Shaffer met them with a snowmobile which was used to pull their rescue sled and the EMT's into the Shaffer home. The return trip was made in the same way with the elderly Mrs. Shaffer riding in the rescue sled.

Mrs. Homer Fike celebrated her birthday in Eglon Saturday when her step-children arrived that evening bearing an especially decorated cake, baked by Mrs. Wayne Fike, and other refreshments. Mirror Of American Life VIII:

Editor's Note: This is the eighth in a series of 15 articles exploring "Popular Culture: Mirror of American Life." In this article, author and columnist Nat Hentoff describes the evolution of a variety of forms of popular music as the expressions of a variety of cultures within America. This series was written for Courses By Newspaper, a program developed by University Extension, University of California, San Diego, and funded by a grant from the National Endowment for the Humanities.

MIRROR OF AMERICAN LIFE VIII: POPULAR MUSIC: SOUNDS OF THE PEOPLE

By Nat Hentoff

Sidney Bechet, the moon-faced soprano saxophonist from New Orleans, who was among the first to introduce American jazz to Europe, once explained why he had to play: "Me, I want to explain myself so bad. I want to have myself understood. And the music, it can do that. The music, it's my whole story."

Bechet's credo has been at the core of American popular music from its vigorously diversified beginnings. "Art music" or "serious music" was for the relatively few. It was predominantly shaped by European dictates and required specialized and expensive training.

But popular music, starting with folk songs, was unabashedly homemade and invited democratic, communal participation — whether in a barroom, a logging camp, or an Appalachian hollow. And for the singer or player of this pridefully indigenous music, it has always been a way of getting himself understood. Not only himself but also the ways of life, the priorities, the complaints of the particular segment of the American grain that nurtured him.

In the isolated mountains and backwoods of the South, for example, transplanted and transmuted Scotch-Irish-English ballads spoke from the beginning for the stubborn independence of the people there and buttressed their sense of identity, of specialness.

In the East, folk tunes — self-celebration — and topical songs, roisterously vocalized in the taverns and hawked on the streets as cheap broadsides, flourished during the Colonial period.

Even Puritan ministers could not eliminate the desire of settlers in the new world to explain and celebrate themselves through music. One such minister spoke bitterly in 1720 of the sounds of the common man: "Left to the mercy of every unskillful Throat to chop and alter, twist and change, according to their odd Humours and Fancies, they sound like Five Hundred different tunes roared out at the same time."

Through the American centuries, similar jeremiads have been directed at various genres of popular music by clergymen, educators, and others fervently convinced that music which is not "serious" or at least "respectable" can corrode the spirit and numb the mind.

So, in the early 1920s, jazz was accused of being a direct cause of crimes of passion. And in the early 1970s, Richard Nixon, among others, was so concerned that rock lyrics were inciting antisocial behavior — from draft resistance to marijuana consumption to profligate sex — that the Federal Communications Commission tried to censor rock recordings. Not for obscenities, which were, in any case, forbidden on the air; but for heresy.

The rock musicians, however, were actually doing — for a much larger, nation-wide audience — what Appalachian songsters, New England seamen, western wranglers, and other popular bards had been engaged in long before. They were explaining themselves through their music, and they were also forging links of communication with others who shared their priorities, hopes, fantasies, ways of wit, and ways of coping with loss.

The Genteel Tradition

American popular music has not, of course, always been controversial. The music of Stephen Foster, for instance, was an extension of a significant mid-19th Century development, the advent of "genteel" songs. These, as American music scholar H. Wiley Hitchcock points out, "were aimed at the home — at the typical American parlor, with its little square piano or reed organ, its horsehair-stuffed sofa, its kerosene lanterns and candlelight." Music for devoted amateurs, its texts were "generally one step removed from ordinary American speech."

This "genteel" music also expressed the values — somewhat sentimental and idealized — of a particular group of Americans. So did the American phenomenon of vaudeville that grew in the "concert saloons" of the 1850s, went on to flourish in theaters, and expired when the movies permanently distracted its audiences.

Vaudeville and saloon songs were the popular music of the burgeoning city folk, who like their fun in overflowing portions and preferred expansively romantic ballads, along with rollicking novelties, bawdy and otherwise, for those in places far from "live" vaudeville, there were sheet music and, in time, recordings. A national popular music was being created.

The Nationalization Of Pop

With the advent of radio and the movies, the nationalization of the pop song was greatly intensified. While parts of the population held on to and kept regenerating their own musical heritages — white country and western music, black sounds, and rural regional ballads — Tin Pan Alley, the Broadway stage, the Hollywood studios, and the radio networks were fashioning what most Americans now define as popular music.

These mass-production sources also shaped and reflected certain popular values. Romance overshadowed all. Rather sanitized, dream-like romance, however, by contrast with the direct, nearly palpable expression of earthly love in black music.

Optimism was another basic ingredient. Even during the Depression, "Brother, Can You Spare a Dime?" was a rarity. In this music, America was still the land of infinite possibility where, over the rainbow, one might find a million-dollar baby in a five and ten cent store.

Departing from the sounds and rhythms of the Hollywood and Broadway stage, the songs of the 1960s, broadly called "rock," encompassed elements of blues, country, and Hispanic music.

Rock was and is in defiant opposition to the polished, skillfully crafted music of Lorenz Hart, Oscar Hammerstein, Richard Rodgers, Harold Arlen, and others who had previously set the standards for American popular song.

Rock's Rebellion

Often raw and poundingly loud, rock rebelled against both the music and the values of the older generations. In these songs, sex, while not pornographically depicted, was much more openly experienced and enjoyed. Optimism was also much tempered. Life was no longer an upwardly mobile crystal staircase in a land of unending plenty. Ecology came into popular music, as did a steady electronic indictment of unexamined materialism.

The music itself was ebullient and became a common language, a way of mutual identification, for hordes of the young denouncing the herd instinct of their elders.

The main directions of our music will change again — as always, unpredictably. In the meantime, while mass popular music remains within the flexible confines of rock, a growing number of younger musicians are exploring older musical roots. A number of country players, such as Willie Nelson, are discarding string sections and complex recording techniques, opting instead for simple songs and backgrounds with more traditional sounds.

Black musicians, such as trumpeter Leo Smith, while forging ahead with avant-garde jazz, are simultaneously studying the heritage available to them from the work of Louis Armstrong and other patriarchs of jazz. And Randy Newman, among other popular balladeers, is exploring a conversational, story-telling style that picks up the way a wide range of Americans actually talk and think.

Wherever American music goes, it will continue to be created in a multiplicity of idiomatic tongues, and the best of its makers will keep on exemplofying the dictum of jazzman Charlie Parker: "Music is your own experience, your thoughts, your wisdom." "If you don't live it, won't come out of your horn." Or your guitar. Or your voice.

Alcohol, Tobacco Tax Revenues Reported

Maryland State Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein announced this week that revenues from alcohol and tobacco taxes for the month of January 1978 totaled $7,280,330, an increase of 1.74% over January 1977. Beer tax receipts of $709,057 reflected a 13.28% growth over the same month of 1977. The tobacco tax revenue of $4,223,621 was $69,370 or 1.67% above the comparable month last year. Both distilled spirits and wine revenues were slightly less than the amounts collected for January 1977.

For the first seven months of Fiscal Year 1978, alcohol and tobacco tax revenue totaled $46,670,655, slightly less than the $47,051,458 collected for the identical period last year. Distilled spirits and wine tax receipts of $10,524,347 and $1,837,330 respectively show growth. Tobacco and beer tax revenue, despite a January upsurge, continue to trail last Fiscal Year's receipts. The $29,259 715 tobacco revenue was down 1.24%.

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of my mother, Mrs. William E. (Katie) Dunham, who passed away 20 years ago on March 8, 1958:
Twenty years have passed since you were called away.
You have been in my thoughts with each passing day.
But as we all have learned,
Time does not heal our hearts.
Sadly missed by daughter,
Mrs. Margaret Shoemaker and family
—Adv. 2-1t.

IN MEMORIAM

In memory of Carrie Mellinger who died March 8, 1976:
It's a lonesome world without you
So sad has been the way
Life and home haven't been the same
Since you were called away.
To some you may be forgotten
To others just part of the past
But to us who loved and lost you,
Your memory will always last.
Sadly missed by Husband
Harvey, and daughters
—Adv. 2-1t.

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of Sarah Ellen Glotfelty who departed this life twenty-five years ago, March 15th:
Loving thoughts of her so dear
Often bring a silent tear.
She lives with one in memory still,
Not just today, but always will Sadly missed by her parents and brother
Adv. 2-1t

IN MEMORIAM

In memory of Mrs. Mary K. Sukow who passed away March 16, 1977:
It was just a year ago
That you went away.
But we remember you
In every way.
The things you taught us
From an olden day,
And the unending love
That was yours to give away.
Grandmother, you are not forgotten.
In loving memory,
Grandson and family
Kenneth, Sandi and Kandi
—Adv. 2-1t.

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of Marjorie Hershberger who met with a terrible death in a car accident on March 10, 1977:
The blow was hard, the shock severe.
We never knew your death was so near.
Only those who have lost can tell,
The pain of parting without farewell.
We lost a loved one with a heart of gold.
Who was more to us than life untold.
The shock we received that evening no one will ever know.
God gave us strength and courage to fight that sudden blow.
We often sit and ask why
You had to leave without a good-bye.
In our hearts comes a longing,
If you were only home
We lost but God has gained,
One of the best the world contained.
Sadly missed by Husband and children, brothers and sisters

A Pittsburgh native, Miss Crawford and her parents, William and Joan Crawford, have been full-time residents of the area for the past eight years.

A graduate of Bucknell University, Lewisburg, Pa., Susan taught American History in high school at Radnor, and coached field hockey, basketball and lacrosse.

She then attended law school at the New England School of Law in Boston, graduating in June 1977.

During the summers while she was attending law school, she worked as a clerk in the office where she is employed now, Burnell and Caswell. She presently is assistant state's attorney, and is developing a private practice as an attorney doing civil work.

Miners Need Not Apply Immediately For BL Benefits

The Social Security Administration announced this week that persons who believe they could be eligible for benefits under the Black Lung Benefits Reform Act of 1977, signed into law by President Carter on March 1, need not make immediate application for benefits to protect their eligibility.

According to James E. Robertson, Manager of the Cumberland Social Security Office, a protective filing statement will be made available to all individuals who are likely to be eligible for such benefits.

Mr. Robertson stated that "We'll need some time to train our employees before we can actually begin to take applications for benefits. The protective filing statement, in the meantime, assures that no one will lose any benefits to which they may be entitled."

"Plans, at present," he said, "are for the establishment of a Black Lung Development Center here in Cumberland. It will not be located at the Social Security Office, but will be staffed by employees of the Cumberland Office and will be under the administrative direction of Social Security. An announcement as to the exact location of the Black Lung Office should be made soon."

Mr. Robertson said that a series of public meetings will be scheduled in the near future. Persons attending these meetings can complete the statement to protect the filing date and thereby prevent the loss of benefits.

DNR Asks People Not To Feed The Deer Hay Or Corn

Department of Natural Resources Wildlife Administration personnel are keeping a close watch on deer populations in Western Maryland, which are undergoing signs of winter stress. During times of stress, people feel they are helping wildlife by feeding, but human intervention tends to promote unnatural stress and related problems.

In Western Maryland people have been feeding deer hay and corn. The feeding of these items may appear to be doing the animals a favor but, in fact, may lead to their death. Deer, along with other ruminants such as cattle, contain micro-organisms in their stomachs which break down fibrous foods such as hay and corn into substances which the deer can digest. These micro-organisms are specific as to the type of food they can break down. During the normal course of a year deer gradually change from one food to another. This gradual change of food gives the micro-organisms a chance to adjust to their new types of food.

However, when deer eat a large quantity of a new food such as hay or corn, which has not previously been part of the deer's diet, the micro-organisms cannot break down the new food. This will cause a blockage of the digestive system by the undigested hay or corn mass and will eventually lead to death of the deer by starvation.

Persons wishing to feed deer may do so by cutting trees. This will give the deer access to woody twigs on the tree limbs, a substance which they can digest. This cutting should be restricted to private land and done with the landowner's permission.

Department of Natural Resources personnel are now making browse cuts on State-owned land for the purpose of providing a food source for deer populations on those areas.

Questionable Priorities . . .

The public meeting held Monday evening at the Southern Middle School by the Board of Education and the administrative and supervisory personnel of the Board may have some far-reaching benefits.

The meeting created a bridge of communication between the public and the administration personnel of the Board, a bridge that has been practically non-existent for some time. Pent-up hostilities were released and some long-smoldering questions were finally answered. There were some areas of long-awaited, mutual understanding.

However, there seems to be other areas which need further explanation and evaluation, the most obvious one being that of priorities.

Numerous apparent inconsistencies were revealed at the meeting, such as, while smaller automobiles should suffice for in-county travel, the Board insists on using big cars. While all money for student field trips has been cut off and some classrooms are without textbooks, the funding for administrative and supervisory personnel field trips" to various conferences continues without question. Teachers' salaries are not only low in dollars, but also seem to be low in priority.

It appears that the decision makers have gradually lost sight of the absolute basics which we feel are vital to the education of children.

By the testimony exchanged at this meeting and by the letters to the editor in today's issue, it seems that the Board of Education now has the massive task ahead of restoring public confidence. A re-examination of their fiscal priorities might be a great place to start.

Police Maintain Surveillance Of UMW Picketers

Seven Arrested

Scattered UMW picketers have been under observation by state police in the tri-state area during the past week, with seven arrests reported.

Three men were arrested in Friendsville Friday about 11:30 a.m., and charged with having concealed weapons after they reportedly classed five coal trucks across the West Virginia line.

The three, from Tunnelton, were released on their own recognizance pending trial. They were identified as Danny J. Bolyard, Don A. Morris and Hubert Thorn. The three were allegedly carrying two broken cue sticks and a nightstick.

Three men from Morgantown and one from Kingwood were arrested Tuesday following a demonstration at the Monongahela Power Company's Albright plant in Preston county.

About 200 pickets were gathered outside the Albright plant early Tuesday, and the four arrested were charged with obstructing traffic at the entrance to the power plant.

They were identified as Jesse Woody, Wilbur McMillen, Edgar Cosner, and Allen Teter.

An official of the company hauling the non-union coal into the plant said two windshields were broken and another truck stoned. There have been no further haulage problems there since the incident.

State Police and sheriff's department officials have been patrolling the roads heavily since the weather has moderated and since the Taft-Hartley act was invoked against the striking miners. The largest group of UMW protesters in the area gathered at the Grantsville Foodland on Route 219 about 10 a.m. Monday, with about 20 cars gathering. They travelled into Westernport, Clarysville and LaVale before dispersing and moving back to Pennsylvania. At Somerset police reported UMW Members tried to prevent vehicles from entering the Pennsylvania turnpike, but dispersed in an orderly fashion after a short time.

Only scattered pockets of non-union miners are working in the tri-state area, as most mine operators still anticipate trouble with UMW members if production is stepped up. Some companies indicated they would begin calling back their workers, but would stop production if trouble developed.

Pickets have been reported in both Garrett and Allegany counties all week, and police surveillance and patrols are being maintained. One spokesman for the sheriff's department indicated that no trouble is anticipated with UMW members at Mettiki's site near Table Rock, scene of problems in the early days of the now 101-day-old strike.

Picketers continue to rove in Pennsylvania, particularly in the Somerset area.

Incumbants Keep Offices In Town Election Monday

Mayor H. D. Swartzentruber and all other incumbents were returned to office as the result of Oakland's town election Monday. Less than half of the eligible voters turned out.

For the office of mayor, H. D. Swartzentruber polled 167 votes against two write-in votes for David C. Cosgray. The three incumbent council members were reelected. M. Paul DeWitt received 161 votes; George S. Stewart, 135, and Mrs. Frances C. Riley, 114. Other candidates for Council included Gordon K. Douglass who received 78 votes, G. David Green who received 66 votes and David C. Cosgray, one write-in vote. Mrs. Beryldine F. Stanton received 162 for treasurer and was unopposed.

Garrett County Board Of Education Discusses Budget At Public Meeting

The Garrett County Board of Education presented the Partial Budget Request for Fiscal Year 1979 to the public Monday. The budget request was previously given to the Garrett County Commissioners and the public meeting was the Board of Education's effort to hear public opinion and to answer questions on the categorical allotments made by the Board.

The meeting, held at the Southern Middle School cafetorium, was attended by more than 200 of the county's teachers, parents and taxpayers.

Dr. William H. Buser, Superintendent of Schools opened the meeting, remarking that Federal revenues should be adequate to cover the budgetary programs. The state and local general dollars, however, come far from meeting the income needed to cover the school board's requested expenditures.

Dr. Buser indicated that a county levy of $707,348 additional over the county levy of this year would be needed to cover the partial budget request. The budget is only a partial request at this time, inasmuch as the Garrett County Teachers' Association and the Garrett County Board of Education are at impasse over a negotiated agreement for Fiscal Year 1979.

The superintendent also indicated that the $214,000 additional local dollars the Commissioners tentatively plan to budget and the $162,000 additional (Barnes) state dollars produce approximately $376,000 in additional general revenue. He indicated among the requested increases were $376,000 in additional general revenue. He stated that among the requested increases were $396,787 for Salary/Wage Increase, $174,515 to open the Northern Middle School, $92,575 Fixed Charges, and $142,539 for Instructional Supplies and Equipment, Contracted Services and Other Charges for instruction.

Following the Board's budget presentation, the meeting was opened for questions. Robert Yunker, President of the Garrett County Teachers' Association, asked if the Board of Education and the Garrett County Commissioners would agree to meet face-to-face at another public meeting and discuss the budget.

Commissioner Wayne Hamilton, who was in attendance, stated that the Commissioners would agree to meet with the Board. Dr. Buser stated that he personally would agree to such a meeting, but that he couldn't speak for the entire Board at that time.

The Board cited the need to replace two of the automobiles being driven by personnel. The Board requests that the vehicles be replaced with "comparably sized vehicles." The question was then asked as to why the Board had not considered replacing the present vehicles with medium sized

Sanitary Group Asks Additional Operating Funds

Tom Jones and Edgar Harman presented a letter from the Garrett County Sanitary Commission to the Board of County Commissioners Monday, advising the Commissioners that cash flow shortages were so severe that the Sanitary Commission would have to cease operations in ten days unless additional operating funds were made available.

The commissioners took the letter under advisement and have made no decision as yet regarding the matter.

In other action, the Board then voted to amend the Garrett County master plan for water and sewage, following testimony presented at the regular meeting.

Mr. Jones and Mr. Harman presented four amendments, with the first two including sewage treatment plants for Camp Sunrise Mountain near Friendsville, and for Mettiki Coal Corporation.

The second two amendments concerned modification of the water supply system for the town of Barton and the Wisp Ski area. The Barton reservoir is located in Garrett County.

No additional testimony was presented. State law requires that any public or private water and sewage plant must be included in the master plan for the county before development is permitted and the project constructed.

The Commissioners, meeting as the county health board, talked with Scott Ward, from the county health department. Mr. Ward introduced Dr. Grooms, director of the Thomas B. Finan mental health center currently under construction east of Cumberland. Dr. Grooms briefed the commissioners on the progress in construction of the 250-bed hospital and advised that the facility would be open for operation July 1, 1978.

The Board then met with Herb McCrobie and Jack Turney, sitting as the county roads board, and Mr. McCrobie presented bids for fiscal year 1979. The Commissioners unanimously voted to award the tire bid to Del Boring, Inc. and the sand bid to Garrett Minerals, Inc., low bidders in both instances.

Palm Sunday Services Planned By Area Churches

There will be a special service in downtown Oakland this Sunday to commemorate the entrance of Jesus into Jerusalem, marking the beginning of Holy Week. The service is scheduled for 11 a.m. and will be led by the pastors of the sponsoring churches.

The service will feature music by a brass ensemble led by Richard Clever and by the St. Paul's United Methodist Church choir led by Dorothy Leighton. Hymn singing, the blessing of palms, scripture readings and prayers will also be included in the service.

Sponsoring churches include the Oak Park Church of the Brethren, St. Mark's Lutheran Church, St. Matthew's Episcopal Church, St. Paul's United Methodist Church and St. Peter's Roman Catholic Church. The community is encouraged to attend.

Bolden Bills Are Opposed By School Board Members

Clarence Stem, vice-president of the Garrett County Board of Education, and Albert Coviello, Supervisor of Pupil Services, presented statements at hearing in Annapolis on Wednesday, March 8, in opposition to House Bill 1247 and House Bill 1725, which are co-sponsored by Delegate De-Corsey Bolden of Garrett County.

In representing the superintendent, Mr. Coviello indicated the current legislation, in the superintendent's opinion, provides sufficient alternatives for school boards and the State Board of Education to handle school days lost due to natural or civil disasters or bad weather conditions. House Bill 1725 would permit local school boards and the State Board of Education to request forgiveness of days in the required 180 school year for any reasons the local school board and the State Board of Education were in agreement should be forgiven.

In other action by the Garrett County Board of Education at their meeting last week, the Board authorized the superintendent to write letters to Acting Governor Blair Lee, III and other appropriate officials asking that special consideration be given the schools of Garrett County for not further requiring the schools to reduce electricity consumption. The Board felt the nine days lost so far this school year and the possible loss of additional days due to severe weather by the Garrett County Schools was a contribution in conservation above and beyond that made by the other school systems in Western Maryland.

Salmonellosis Is Diagnosed In Two Area Beef Herds

Salmonellosis has been diagnosed in two beef herds in Garrett County, according to Dr. F. D. Custer, Maryland Department of Agriculture.

Salmonellosis is a disease caused by salmonella bacteria, and is capable of causing sickness in most all species of animals as well as man. The disease is usually associated with food or water that has been contaminated with fecal material containing the salmonella bacteria.

Salmonellosis is fairly common in poultry, young calves, and pigs, but is not often found in adult cattle. In fact, according to Dr. Custer, this is the first time the disease has been positively diagnosed in cattle in this area in the 32 years he has been here.

Symptoms vary from acute septicemia, acute enteritis, to asymptomatic carriers. In the septicemia and acute enteritis types, the mortality can be quite high. Carriers appear normal but can spread the disease. Symptoms most easily recognized by owners are diarrhea and loss of appetite, according to Dr. Custer.

All livestock owners are urged to keep a close watch on their animals. If they notice any symptoms which may indicate a disease condition they should contact their veterinarian for diagnosis. The Maryland Animal Health Laboratory at 12 South Third Street, Oakland is available to assist in diagnosis.

James McHenry, Extension Agent-Agriculture, urges farmers to use caution in transfer and purchase of livestock, and to use good sanitary measures in cleaning boots and clothes after visiting other premises. Mr. McHenry states the Extension Office is also available to advise farmers where they can find help. The Extension Office phone is 334-2145 and the Animal Health Laboratory phone is 334-2185.

Ben Ridder New Council President

Benjamin W. Ridder was chosen president of the Deep Creek Lake-Garrett County Promotion Council Wednesday in elections during a Board of Directors meeting.

Mr. Ridder, director of marketing for The First National Bank of Oakland, has been a member of the promotion council for two years. He succeeds Wendell Beitzel, who had served two terms as president.

Vice president will be Page Shanklin, employed with Beall, Garner, Screen and Geare, and treasurer, Maurice Brookhart, retired from the Garrett National Bank.

During the meeting chairmen were selected for various Autumn Glory committees. Page Shanklin will be dinner chairman with Ada Mae Welch co-chairman. Jim Crabtree will again be parade chairman, assisted by Ben Ridder as co-chairman. Sweepstakes chairman will be Tom Graham, assisted by Don Carstens. Antique auto show chairman will be Ralph Burnett, assisted by Mac Scofield.

Ernest Gregg will be general activities chairman for the coming Autumn Glory festival.

Edwin Walthall was reappointed executive director for the council, beginning his fourth year in that position. Mrs. Lois Friend is secretary.

School Board Lists Calendar Changes

Two adjustments were made in the school calendar at the March 9 meeting of the Board of Education.

Thursday, March 23, and Tuesday, March 28, will now be school days for students and school personnel. Other student days approved to complete the 180-day school year for students are Friday, April 7; Friday, May 5; Friday, June 9, and June 12 through 15.

Provided no additional adjustments are made necessary, Thursday, June 15, will be the last school day for students and Friday, June 16, will be the last work day for the teaching staff.

Several Holiday Services Slated

The Annual Good Friday service sponsored by the Mountain Top Ministerial Association will be held from noon to 3 p.m. on Friday, March 24 at St. Matthew's Episcopal Church, Oakland. The Rev. Manning Smith, Rector of St. Matthew's, announced that the theme for the different parts of the service will follow the "Seven Last Words" as chosen from the four Gospel accounts of the crucifixion of Jesus. Combined with this theme will be appropriate scriptural readings and musical selections.

In keeping with the custom of past years, a number of ministers and lay people from different churches in the Oakland area will participate in the Good Friday service at St. Matthew's.

The annual Sunrise service on Easter morning will be held at Garrett Memorial Gardens near Oakland, beginning at 7 a.m. Sponsored by the Mountain Top Ministerial Association in cooperation with service clubs and individuals of the area, the service will be conducted from the steps of the chapel situated in the upper part of the Gardens.

This service will be conducted by Rev. Martin Feild assisted by the Rev. James Remley who will direct the singing, and the Rev. John Grant who will deliver the message.

The public is asked to note the starting time for the service is 7 a.m. rather than an earlier hour as has been in the past. In case of rain or snow, the service will be held inside the chapel.

Miss Crawford Speaks To BPW

Miss Susan Crawford, assistant state's attorney, was the guest speaker for the March Meeting of the Garrett County Business and Professional Women's club last Thursday, conducted at Will o' the Wisp.

Miss Crawford addressed the group about the changing attitudes and enlightenment regarding rape, and informed the group of the legal technicalities surrounding such a charge, defining the terms for rape, sexual offenses, and statutory rape.

Twenty-three members and guests were present. Miss Mildred Wucik, legislative chairman, was in charge of the program, assisted by Mrs. Linda Thomas.

In the business session, the group made plans to sell Delores Truly candy for Easter this Friday and Saturday at the Garrett National Bank in Oakland, with Mrs. Mildred Dunbar in charge. The club will be making a quilt to celebrate the 50th anniversary of the founding of the Maryland Federation of B.P.W. with Mrs. Anne Connor in charge of the project.

The club also is planning a May dance at the Oakland Armory.

The next meeting will be April 13, at Will o' the Wisp. Election of officers will be held, and annual reports given.

An attractive display of handmade pillows, macramed objects, crafts and potted plants for sale, will greet visitors to the Fool's Bazaar, April 1, at the Crellin School. The fair will be open from 1 - 4 p.m., and will offer homemade ice cream and pies and a White Elephant sale. A quilt sewn by several parents will be auctioned off at the event.

Instructor Mary Glotfelty, left, aids Mrs. Betty Mullenex, a volunteer participant, in measuring the cord used to make macrame accessories. The crafts instructors are volunteers from the community and the money raised from the sale of the handicrafts will send Crellin students on a visit to the Carnegie Museum and the Aviary in Piffsburgh.

Letters to the Editor

Dear Editor:

On Saturday, March 11, I had been shopping in Browning's Foodland. After loading my groceries in the car I got in and drove away. I had my keys in my pocket.

After I got home I realized I had left my purse in the shopping cart.

I went back to Browning's and my purse had been turned in to the office.

I have no way of knowing who turned the purse in, so I'm using this way to thank them. I'm very grateful to who ever it was. I hope they read this and know how I feel.

Thank you,
Mabel M. Schell

To the Editor:

I am writing in regard to the bus, as I know there are some people who have been against it ever since it started.

But for senior citizens in Kitzmiller, like myself, it is the only way we have to get to Oakland for medicine, doctors, or just to get out. We are all widows, most in the 80s, and we can't afford to hire someone to take us.

So I hope someone thinks enough of the senior citizens to give their support to the bus system. Thank you.

Western Auto Store Holds Grand Opening

The Western Auto Store at 114 South Third Street, Oakland, opened its doors under new ownership yesterday with a Grand Opening celebration.

The new owner, Herbert Miller, has been associated with Western Auto for 12 years. Herb has extensive background in Western Auto merchandise as he started his career in management of retail stores and then progressed to Merchandise Buyer in the Kansas City, Missouri home office.

His wife, Della is employed at the store. Della wears a Western Auto emblem on her blazer lapel, a gift from her father who operated a Western Auto store in Kansas from 1942-1946. She has a background in credit management and most recently was employed as Personnel Director for 37 Petrie stores in Ohio.

Their daughter Leslee will also be involved in the store's operation, primarily working with bicycles and accessories.

Two-Time Loser?

An 18-year-old from near Markleysburg, Pa. was arrested by members of the sheriff's department twice in one week, on separate charges.

Gary W. Jenkins was first arrested March 7 for possession of marijuana. He was being chased by police in connection with a speeding violation. The arrest was made for possession after the deputy had stopped him and an investigation led to discovery of the drug.

Jenkins was released upon payment of 20 percent of a $500 bond set by the bond commissioner.

He was arrested March 10 on forgery charges, after he reportedly cashed three checks, valued at $125 each, at both W. H. Fratz stores and at Miller's Market. According to the deputy's report, he had stolen the checks from the Markleysburg home of a woman who died approximately two years ago.

In other sheriff department action, deputies are investigating an incident March 11 along Route 495 four miles north of Swanton. Dolph O'Brien reported that a tire and wheel had been taken from his pickup parked in the driveway of his home. Loss value was set at $80.

Joseph Sidebottom, arrested last fall on false pretenses charges, was sentenced Wednesday to serve 60 days in the county jail. He had been free pending sentencing.

Letters to the Editor

Dear Editor:

We feel the citizens of Garrett County should be aware that Dr. Buser sent a delegation of three (3) administrators from the Board of Education to Annapolis on March 8 to lobby against Delegate Bolden's bill which would allow students to go less than 180 days of school because of weather, etc. Students would not automatically go less days because the bill states the local Board of Education would have the final say of how many days students would go. But the option would be there.

We feel the vast majority of Garrett County parents and taxpayers are in favor of Delegate Bolden's bill and yet the Board of Education spends our tax money to fight such a bill.

On the other hand, we have been informed that county funds are not available for student field trips outside of the county. It is even questionable, at the present time, if the Board of Education will provide two substitutes for teachers escorting students on a Social Studies field trip to Annapolis, our state capital. If students are willing to pay transportation costs and teachers are willing to organize the trip, surely the Board can "find" a mere $40.00 to make this trip possible!

Dear Editor:

According to an article about a year ago in one of the Cumberland papers, students in West Virginia tested above the national average in reading — the gauge we use for success in our schools. Maryland does not have this enviable record, and Garrett County, I believe, is a little below the state norm. Yet Maryland requires that every day lost by bad weather must be made up. How can anyone forget the bad effects this had on students last year when 45 minutes were added to each day! Even then, our students go some days when bad roads and weather conditions are dangerous. West Virginia counts bad weather as an "act of God" and does not require that such days be made up.

What, then, should Garrett County citizens think when they learn that their county superintendent and other officials went to Annapolis recently to lobby against a bill introduced by our own delegate, DeCorsey Bolden, to give "our icebox area" (as they love to call us) some special consideration? I, for one, believe these officials might do us a greater service if they stayed home and lobbied for some better teaching on the days when school is in session.

"An interested citizen"

Dear Editor:

Recent letters in The Republican from miners' families criticising Oakland area business establishments for their apparent disregard of the miners' plight are at best unfair.

The business community exists obviously by conducting a profitable business. The current U.M.W. strike has an adverse effect on all of us. Business lost is seldom regained. We would hope the miners' families realize the business community is interested in providing goods and services to everyone.

We invite and welcome all customers. We can only hope an agreement acceptable to both the U.M.W. and the coal operators is reached soon.

Sir:

I would like to express my honest opinion on the proposed "Give Away" of the Panama Canal. I, as a lot of people in Garrett County, say why should we give away something that has been such an asset to our country, especially in "time of War" and to shipping of all kinds.

Besides, after giving it to Panama then we must pay a huge amount each year to use something that now gives us a sum of needed dollars each year. The canal has been a great advantage to US — especially in our relations with other nations; also, if we give it to Panama, who will run it, Castro, of Cuba?

Not only will we regret this move, but many other countries too. Call your Senators!

Thank you,
Ms. Ruby Evans

Dear Editor:

Spring brings many bright and cheery thoughts to everyone's mind, but while enroute to Oakland one day last week our conversation wandered to Springs goneby and the typical conditions of the state and county roads — the potholes, bumps, lumps and cracked surfaces. All years previous to this one, when confronted with the problems, the Commissioners and State and County Road Departments have had a very quick and logical answer to the cause of this problem — "the coal trucks traveling these roads had torn them up."

Being wives of a coal truck owner and operator and an employee of a local non-union coal stripping company, of course we were delighted to realize our husbands and the other innocent truckers and coal producers couldn't possibly be blamed for the road conditions this year since our men haven't been on the roads with their trucks. We'd like to ask one question, who will be blamed this year? This strike has set our men free of a long-term conviction. Thanks local unions? Also we stand behind and support you UMWA in your strike in order to obtain a fair and resonable contract. The world would be a better place, if more people had the courage to stand together in brotherhood against the things that are being pushed over on us "insignificant, little people" who are forced to pay enormous prices for food, taxes, electricity and all the other means of survival.

Sincerely,
Local coal truck owners and operators, employees of the strip jobs and their dedicated wives

Dear Sir:

Although not a Garrett County resident, I attended the Monday evening school board meeting with a friend of mine and came away with a poor opinion of the Garrett County Board of Education. Not only did the board members evade explicit questions but they did so in a manner unbecoming to any "professional" person.

Mr. Stem opened the meeting, stating the board would answer questions providing they weren't required to stay too late into the evening. Possibly made as a joke, the board is responsible to the citizens and it seems as long as concerned citizens were willing to ask questions, the board has the responsibility to answer them, regardless of the time.

When asked about considering smaller cars for administrative staff, several members replied they wouldn't ride in one and just wouldn't attend meetings if forced to ride in a smaller car. I too would certainly prefer to ride in a larger car but the fact is I don't, and I don't respond to assignments with "I won't go if I don't go in luxury."

The MSTA/NEA member from Allegany County also posed questions regarding salary scales. It never was answered why the superintendent ranks 18th while the teachers rank 24th out of 24 in salary. Granted, Dr. Buser may have received the least percentage increase but 5% of his salary cannot compare to 5% of a teacher's salary. As I heard one young lady comment, "Percentages don't put food on the table or pay bills, salaries do."

Unfortunately, the remainder of the meeting was not any better, with flippant evasive answers prevailing, when there were any answers at all.

To the taxpayers (which does include teachers, Mr. Stem) I only hope you persevere in attempting to gain honest answers from the board. It's your educational institutions that are at stake.

Sir:

A binding contract has been discovered between the Sanitary Commission and Mountain Lake Park and Loch Lynn. The contract, signed back in 1969, was filed away and ignored by the Sanitary Commission. The existence of this contract was not revealed to the public all these years. The Circuit Court judge wasn't told about it.

The contract said the Sanitary Commission would build and operate a sewerage system as described in an engineering report. If that had been done, sewerage rates would be $3 a month. All debts would be paid off by 1987 with a fat surplus.

The contract did not allow the Sanitary Commission to pass on one cent of overruns to the towns. We have never given them a blank check and never will.

We will not be cheated out of a contract by slick legal footwork. Now it is up to the Circuit Court to face this moment of truth: Are contracts to be honored in Garrett County?

A happy, happy Springtime to all you hard-working, law-abiding folks out there.

Dear Editor:

I would like to express a few comments concerning, in my opinion, the negative approach the national news media has taken concerning the negotiations between the Bituminous Coal Operators Assoc. and the United Mine Workers of America.

The news media, in general, has interviewed UMWA members in bars, on picket lines, in places where emotions run high and good sense almost non-existent. But not once, to my knowledge, has the media interviewed a typical level-headed coal miner in his home, and if this has been done, certainly not on an equal time basis. An interview with an intelligent individual who has a working knowlege of the new tentative agreement; an individual who has weighed the negative aspects against the good qualities of the new 1978 agreement. Your people (the media) have singled out a certain minority of hot-headed coal miners who either don't know or care what effect this situation has on the national economy. You have elevated these individuals into somewhat of a national hero. I, as well as many others, feel that this angle has been exploited to its fullest extent. I also feel that you will contend that the tentative agreement was turned down by an overwhelming majority and that this majority could not possibly be a bunch of radical individuals. But, thanks to the media's negative intentions this situation has mushroomed from a snowball into a national dilemma.

It may be worthwhile to undertake a poll to find out how much of the general public appreciate your projections on this situation. It should really give your people a sense of satisfaction to know that they can give the public their biased answers before the questions are even asked.

Please don't get me wrong, I do believe in freedom of the press but I also feel that the 1978 agreement would be settled a lot quicker and with more satisfaction if the first curtailment on electrical energy would be to cut off the power to your prejudicial TV stations and news presses.

Thank you,
D. P. Brink,
A Concerned Miner

Dear Mr. Brink,

While we don't believe that The Republican often prints slanted news items, we do totally agree with you that the major televison network news staffs have seemingly gone out of their way to approach the coal issue from the negative side.

The media is more powerful than many realize and, consequently, can at times be dangerous.

Thanks for your letter. You make an excellent point.

Editor

Dear Editor:

You have promised us the bad news would never run the good news from our newspaper and have performed admirably so far but the test continues.

Ceaseless news of the coal miners' strike is depressing but what can a person do to relieve the situation? How? Where? When? The answer seems to be nothing, no way, nowhere and never. This is not only boring but a lesson in futility which is unnecessary.

Local news on that subject is appreciated within limits.

I have lived here without electricity and can do so again, longer than any coal miner or mine operator. Such doesn't kill, just inconveniences.

So please keep up the good work — inform me when the juice goes off.

Pine Nut

Dear Mr. Sincell:

At a public Board of Education meeting held at Southern Middle School on Monday evening, I was impressed at the number of concerned citizens who attended and was dismayed at the responses of Board members.

Never before have I witnessed such artful dodging as that exhibited by the Superintendent of Schools, Dr. William H. Buser, and his henchmen. For representing a major force in the body politic, those men made an enormously poor show of intelligent discussion of issues that demand much more than evasion tactics.

As for the lay members, I am even more disappointed. One member claimed that he, too, might be eligible for welfare benefits when confronted with the news that some experienced teachers actually are living on subsistence levels.

Another member displayed his smooth and "eloquent" manner of speaking when pledging that he wouldn't want to ride in "one of them little cars". (This came after one query regarding the size of funded staff cars which fall short of economy-class automobiles, and why couldn't they be replaced by more compact models?)

The remaining lay member kept his eyes glued to his boots, not murmuring a sound.

With the heat on, it was evident that the public had made more than a few grown men squirm in their seats. Trouble was that in spite of some very pointed questions aimed at the Board, nothing emerged in the way of True Enlightenment — just more fancy dancin', i.e. The Bureaucratic Shuffle.

Curses, Taxpayers, foiled again!

Sincerely,
"A Member of a Captive Audience"

Dear Editor:

Some of our leaders and people who are paid to work for America's best interests would choke on a gnat and swallow an elephant.

They blame most of the country's problems on miners, farmers and steelworkers, the backbones of our nation. Then on the same day they give the red carpet treatment to a communist rich man (Tito). They spend thousands on entertaining and running to other countries trying to give away more, never saying anything about the waste or mismanagement or free giveways to foreigners or people who are paid instead of jailed.

Some people work only a few months out of the year and draw unemployment, food stamps, medical cards and anything else they can from social services. No one checks to see if they are entitled honestly to these benefits. Some have all these benefits and never gave our country a day's work. This is what is breaking our country.

The miners, farmers and steelworkers are "working people." They don't want welfare or food stamps. But they helped pay for them. Why should they not use them the same as Cubans or Vietnamese and others. These men have either fought or will fight to keep America free. Do you think these foreigners will fight for us?

You name it, we pay for it, like the Panama Canal.

We let Nazis and Communists use our parks and streets. But we arrest farmers and miners.

I beleive in giving for the glory of God, and our country and people first. Has anyone checked the percent a miner takes home, compared to a coal operator's profits?

Mrs. Ervin Kitzmiller
Accident

Dear Editor:

I would like to say I totally support you in any remarks you published concerning the current U.M.W.A. strike. I say "Thank God" we still have freedom of speech in this country. We certainly are losing our freedom elsewhere.

I can't believe one group is allowed to prevent everyone else from working until the country comes to the condition it's in.

They want the rest of us to support them in this strike but I wonder just how willing they'd be to stay out of work to support anyone else?

Perhaps the truckers and railway workers who move the coal after it's mined would like to strike and stop shipment so they could get higher wages to make up for what they lost.

Would the U.M.W.A. support that strike? After all, is one group really more important than the rest? How would the coal be moved so the miners could get paid if there weren't truckers and railroads?

As I see it, all we can look forward to is being forced out of work every 3 years because there's no law that protects those who want to work where and when they choose.

Finally is it fair for people who cause the strikes to get food stamps free? Our tax money goes for this too, yet we can't afford to buy them so we have to do without. By the time a person makes a mortgage payment and electric bill from the unemployment there's nothing left.

All we want is freedom to work where we want like a person should have under the constitution.

Sick and Tired of Being Broke

Mr. Editor:

I have read the pros and cons on articles about the coal strike. Being a miner myself, I would like to share some light on the trouble. People seem to think the miners are "bad guys" and the companies and government are the "good guys".

I wonder how quickly the coal operators (also oil owners) would allow a public audit of their books showing the "small" profit made since coal has become "gold"?

How many people would be so quick to judge a coal miner if they were to spend a cold, dark, day underground with a miner watching the roof cave in on a buddy because a safety grievance had been filed and ignored?

The latest contract proposed, with $40,000 spent in promotions, wasn't as good as the media led us to believe.

What do the miners want?

Three main concerns, in this order: Health and Retirement Funds, Pension Fund, Wages.

In the proposed contract, Arnold Miller got a 37% increase in this order: One—31% wages, two—3% pension, three—3% health and retirement, backwards of what the miners wanted. We dislike this proposal because: One—31% increase in wages: Not guaranteed, government will get about 1/3, 1/3 will go to health care because of having a high risk job, and 1/3 will go to the higher cost of living; two—3% increase in pension: put pensioners into a higher tax scale. They lose more than they gain; three—3% increase in health funds: a fund 30 years in existence was eliminated. $825 a year would have to be paid by a miner for insurance.

These are just a few of the many things Arnold Miller and the media seemed to get backwards. And you ask: "why are the miners mad?"

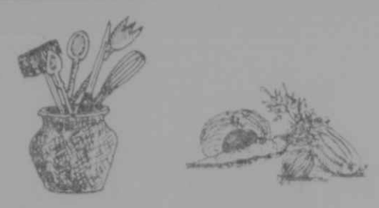
"I've been out of work for over 3 months. I'm glad I have a friend at the bank."

When your work stops, the bills just keep on coming. Your family has to eat and the payments have to be made on time, or you may ruin your credit rating. Worse yet, you could lose your car, your furniture, or anything else you may be buying in monthly installments.

The First National Bank of Oakland doesn't want this to happen to you. That's why we offer TIME-OUT LOANS . . . so that you can skip up to two payments a year if you need to. You choose the months and the reasons for skipping payments.



But maybe you didn't know about TIME-OUT LOANS the last time you borrowed money from us. No problem! Just give us a call or stop by and ask for an extension on your present loan. We'll work it out so that you can make those payments without straining your limited budget.

We make PERSONAL LOANS, too! Perhaps you don't have a loan with us at the moment. Maybe you just need a few hundred bucks to carry you through until the paychecks start coming again. Come in and talk to us about your situation. We will be glad to help, if we can. After all, that's what friends are for!

We're the only financial friend you'll ever need!

Happy St. Patrick's Day! Happy First Day of Spring! Happy Easter is coming! Too bad, we can't say Happy Electric Bill-is-Coming Day. St. Patrick's Day is March 17th and on March 20th, the first day of Spring greets us and I intend to enjoy these days regardless of that horribly high electric bill sitting on my shelf. How about a picnic? Last year, my family and I headed out to Herrington Manor around the end of March, loaded down with barbecued chicken and macaroni salad, for a rather chilly and breezy but refreshing and rejuvenating picnic. I doubt that anyone feels like having an outdoor picnic now but you have to admit that the thought of a picnic brings memories of carefree fun, good weather and just plain good food. So, let's have a picnic . . . indoors. Get out that picnic tablecloth, fry some hamburgers, make some potato salad, fix some carrot and celery sticks, make a quick cake and celebrate the arrival of Spring with an indoor picnic. It's bound to take your mind off of snow and get you thinking of the good weather that's coming.

The following Potato Salad is especially for those people who must follow a low cholesterol, low fat diet but everyone will enjoy it and never miss the mayonnaise or eggs.

POTATO SALAD

1 cup (8 oz. container) plain, lowfat yogurt
¼ cup lowfat milk
1 Tbsp. light corn syrup
1 tsp. prepared mustard
1 tsp. salt
1/8 tsp. black pepper
½ cup sliced celery (2 stalks)
1 cup gr. pepper, chopped (1 large)
½ cup fresh, chopped onion or 2 Tbsp. instant minced onion
5 cups potatoes, cooked, cubed and cooled (about 8 med.-sized potatoes)

Combine all ingredients. Add additional salt and pepper to suit your taste and chill in the refrigerator overnight or at least for several hours. NOTE: Yogurt comes in many flavored varieties so be sure you buy the plain, unflavored kind. This recipe makes about 7 cups of potato salad.

The following recipe comes from the Junior Woman's Civic Club Centennial Cookbook and was submitted by Louise Messenger.

WACKY CHOCOLATE CAKE

Measure and sift twice:

1½ cups flour
1 cup sugar
3 Tbsp. cocoa (Plain cocoa, not chocolate flavored milk powder)
1 tsp. baking soda
½ tsp. salt

Last time, sift into an 11"x7" pan or an 8"x8"x2" pan. Make 3 indentatins with a spoon. To the indentations add:

⅓ cup Wesson oil
1 Tbsp. vinegar
1 tsp. vanilla

Add 1 cup cold water over all and blend thoroughly with a fork. Bake at 350 degrees for 30 minutes. This is a moist cake which is good without frosting but you could top with your favorite frosting.

NUTRITION NOTE: In continuing last week's information about cholesterol and saturated fats, I can reassure you that you are not alone if you find these terms confusing. Many advertisements about cholesterol are misleading. Remember that cholesterol is found in very high amounts in mainly, egg yolks, shellfish and organ meats such as kidneys, heart, etc. Now, saturated fats, which tend to raise cholesterol levels in the blood, are found in beef, lamb, pork, butter, cream, whole milk and cheeses made from cream and whole milk. Saturated vegetable fats found in many solid and hydrogenated (hardened) shortenings, coconut oil, cocoa butter and palm oil will also tend to raise cholesterol levels. Polyunsaturated fats will tend to lower levels of cholesterol in the blood by helping the body to eliminate excess, newly formed cholesterol. Oils such as corn, cottonseed, safflower, sesame seed, soybean and sunflower are high in polyunsaturated fat. Mayonnaise, which has a high content of egg yolks, and eggs were eliminated from the Potato Salad and Wacky Chocolate Cake recipes this week because egg yolks are high in actual cholesterol.

TIP OF THE WEEK: Make your oven do double duty for you. You are using the same amount of energy and will be paying the same for it whether you cook just one item or several items in a heated oven. For example, you can bake just one meatloaf or, using the same amount of heat, you can bake two meatloaves, a dish of scalloped potatoes, and some baked potatoes. Of course, you won't use all of this food for one meal. You can serve one meatloaf, topped with tomato sauce, and the scalloped potatoes for one meal. Slice the other meatloaf and put into the freezer to be served another time with gravy and mashed potatoes. The baked potatoes can be peeled and quick fried with onions a few days later.

SPECIAL NOTE: I'll bet that each of you has a special recipe that you and your family really enjoy. Maybe you have found your special way to cook something or save time or effort in the kitchen or save some money at the grocery store. Perhaps you're looking for a certain recipe or you have a question. Remember, the Cooking Corner is your special place, so won't you share your recipes, thoughts or questions with us? Just drop a note to: Cooking Corner, c/o The Republican, 108 S. Second Street, Oakland, Md. 21550.

Customers Will Receive Higher Electric Bills

Abnormally cold temperatures in February may have increased electric consumption enough to nullify sincere conservation efforts for some Potomac Edison customers, the company said today, and may result in higher electric bills due to factors over which PE had no control.

"We believe most of our customers are making a dedicated effort to conserve electricity," according to PE executive vice president and general manager J. M. McCardell, "but temperatures 23 percent colder than normal in February may have increased kilowatthour consumption despite these efforts. However, our customers pay only for the kilowatthours used, and any conservation effort will result in saving over what billing would have been without conservation."

Temperature records maintained by the company in Hagerstown show:

— Daily average temperatures during February, 1978, were 36.2% lower than during February, 1977.

— Of the 28 days of the month, the temperature was above the freezing mark (32%F) on only nine days for a total of 62 hours.

"In fact," McCardell said, "in the 51 days between January 9 and February 28, the temperature was above freezing on only 10 days."

In terms of "degree days," a measure of the number of days the temperature falls below a certain level (65.F), company records show that February, 1978, was 30.5% colder than February, 1977, and 23.3% colder than the average for the past 18 years.

The company pointed out that even in homes without electric heating the kilowatthour consumption may increase or offset conservation efforts because of electrically operated fans, blowers and motors on other types of heating equipment. In addition, the temperature of water coming into the home is also colder, which increases the amount of energy needed to heat it in electric water heaters.

It has been necessary for Potomac Edison to purchase extremely expensive electricity from other utilities to cope with the fuel shortage caused by the coal strike, and these costs are also being reflected in the "Fuel Cost" entry on Maryland bills and increasing the net total. Beginning with March bills the "Fuel Cost" entry will also include a portion of fuel costs previously in the regular charges. This Public Service Commission mandated change now clearly places all costs of fuel in the "Fuel Costs" entry but does not increase the net total of the bill because regular charges were reduced to offset this.

Potomac Edison has received only very limited deliveries of coal, which is normally used to produce more than 95 percent of the electricity used here, since the beginning of the coal strike in early December. To prolong the coal supply, PE has been buying as much as half of its electricity from other utilities. Most of it has been coming from utilities located in Pennsylvania, New Jersey and eastern Maryland. Electricity supplied by the PJM interconnection is generated using oil as fuel and is three to four times as expensive as electricity generated by PE with coal.

In January and February, Potomac Edison purchased 366,381,000 kilowatthours of electricity from PJM for PE customers in Maryland, Virginia and West Virginia. Total cost to PE for the PJM purchases alone in the two months was more than $14.7 million. Part of that cost is now being reflected in the "Fuel Cost" entry on bills being sent to Maryland customers.

"Without this purchased power," McCardell said, "Potomac Edison would have exhausted its coal supply by late February or early March and would have had to shut down its major coal-burning generators. None of us likes to have to pay this higher cost, but when the alternative is no electricity most of us would choose to pay it."

A Uniform Payment Plan available to all residential customers has been approved in Maryland to help level-out seasonally high bills. Local PE offices have details of the plan.

Garrett Community College opens its Spring Baseball season March 22 on the road at Dundalk Community College.

The Laker team coached by Dennis Fearnow is the only two year college team in Maryland playing both fall and spring baseball, with some 50 games scheduled over that period.

The Lakers will enter the spring season with 11 wins and one loss carried over from the fall.

Garrett will again compete in the difficult Region XX. The Lakers will face such top teams as Allegany Community College, Potomac State College and Beaver Community College. New teams on the schedule are Catonsville Community College and Fairmont State College.

The 15 man roster shows a total of seven sophomores and eight freshman. Among returning lettermen are pitchers, Mike Filosemi and Bill McGarvey; outfielders — Tim Hornich, Jim Whelen and Terry Barkey; and catcher, Mark Martini. Filosemi and McGarvey double at other positions when not being utilized on the mound.

Craig McGory, a transfer from Heidelberg College in Ohio, is another sophomore. He is an infielder and will be positioned at second.

With an excellent freshman group, the Lakers have depth at each position. Numbered among the new faces are infielders, Rex Walbolt, Bob Varner, Kevin Kline and John Galici. New pitchers include Brett Hillegas, Fred Griffin, Ron Kaufman and the new catcher is Jim Hasinger.

Last year the Laker baseball team combined their seasons for a record of 31 wins and nine losses. This is the second season in a row that Garrett has tallied over 30 wins. Over the past five years, the Laker baseball team under the direction of Coach Fearnow, has scored 106 wins and 30 losses.

Southern Wrestlers Finish Season With Outstanding Record, 8-1-1

By Earl Clark

The Southern High School Wrestling Team recently finished their season with an impressive record of 8 wins, 1 loss, and 1 tie. In addition the Rams Wrestling Team won the Beall High School Wrestling Tournament held during the Christmas Holidays, the Potomac Valley Conference Tournament, the Bi-State League Championship, and the Garrett County Championship. This is an outstanding accomplishment for a team that had won 3 matches and lost 7 a year ago. This striking improvement was due to the hard work and determination of the individuals on the team, and the winning spirit and leadership provided by Coach Mike Huddleston.

Leading the Rams Wrestling Team were Co-Captains, Jim Clark and Bob Wolfe, who worked with Coach Huddleston in getting the members of the team in top physical condition.

The individual record of each wrestler is as follows:

Name and Weight Class	Wins	Loss	Ties	Percent	Pins
Jim Clark 185 lb.	20	3		.870	11
John Toston 138 lb.	14	3		.824	8
Bob Wolfe 112 lb.	14	4	1	.763	2
Dave Browning 126	12	4		.750	8
John Hayhurst 119 lb.	12	5		.706	7
Jeff Hinebaugh Unlimited	13	5	2	.650	5
Stan McRobie 132 lb.	10	6		.625	6
Bill Herring 98 lb.	10	7	1	.555	5
Perry Clark 155 lb.	7	7	2	.500	7
Jim Barnes 145 lb.	8	9		.471	2
Mike Klier 167 lb.	1	3		.250	1
Jeff Paolucci 105 lb.	2	12		.143	2
Gregg Skiles 167 lb.	0	11		.000	0
Bill Brown 132 lb.	0	1		.000	0
Team Totals	123	80	6	.603	64

The best individual record belongs to Jim Clark with 20 wins and 3 losses, followed by John Toston with 14 wins and 3 losses, and Bob Wolfe with 14 wins, 4 losses, and 1 tie. Jim Clark led the team with the most pins with 11, followed by John Toston and Dave Browning with 8 each, and Perry Clark and John Hayhurst with 7 each.

The most Takedowns was by John Toston with 21, followed by Jeff Hinebaugh with 20, and Jim Clark with 15. Bill Herring led the team with 20 Reversals, followed by Jim Clark with 18 and John Hayhurst with 16.

The escape artists were led by John Toston with 12, Bob Wolfe with 11, and Jeff Hinebaugh and Stan McRobie 9 each.

Jim Clark became the fourth wrestler from Southern High School to win a District 1 Wrestling Title, winning the 185 lb. Championship. Bob Wolfe finished second in the 112 lb. class and Jeff Hinebaugh won third place in the Unlimited Class.

In Region I Competition, Jim Clark was second in the 185 lb. Class, losing in the finals to LeRoy Barton of Gaithersburg.

On March 4, Jim also became the second wrestler in Southern's history to compete in the Maryland Public Secondary School Athletic Association State Championship Tournament. Jim won his first match defeating Daryl Williams from Westminister 3-2 and then lost to Perry Lewnes of Annapolis 4-3 in the quarter finals, thus finishing in the top 8 wrestlers from the State in the 185 lb. class.

Coach Huddleston and the Southern Wrestling Team are to be congratulated for their accomplishments this year. Coach Huddleston has stated that next year should be a rather good year for the team, because of the program that has been started. Plans are underway for a wrestling clinic that will begin on March 20 and run for two weeks with a tournament to be held April 1, at Northern High School. The clinic will be open to students from the 4th grade through the 9th grade. Interested students are requested to call Coach Huddleston at the Southern High School Athletic Department.

League May Be Forced To End Season

At a special meeting of the Mt. Top Basketball League Tuesday, it became apparent that the conclusion of the season will depend on the availability of playing space. If the Southern High School gym becomes available by Monday, March 20 then the entire schedule would be completed. If the court is not available until March 27, then the remainder of the scheduled games would be cancelled and a play-off held among the eight top-ranking teams.

It was also decided that if the gym was still unavailable by Monday, April 3, the season would be suspended entirely.

If the season is terminated prematurely the Martin Auto Body players will be awarded a trophy for their present first place status. The remaining funds in the treasury will also be placed in a special savings account to be applied to the present teams' league entry fees for the next season. New teams entering the league would be responsible for the customary entry fee.

Present league standings were announced as follows:

Snow Follows Moderation In Week's Weather

Moderating temperatures of the past week were a welcome trend and melted away much of the ice and snow, but snows were back again this morning. The melt-off did fill rivers and streams to bank tops at least. The snow storm began during the night and was continuing this morning.

Skies were overcast with some fine rain last Thursday. Friday and Saturday skies were mostly cloudy. Sunday was overcast with some light showers followed by fog later in the day. Monday was overcast as was Tuesday morning. Light rain showers prevailed throughout Tuesday with variable cloudiness in the afternoon. Yesterday was overcast with light rain, mist and fine snow. Two to three inches of snow had fallen by this morning and was continuing. Precipitation this past week amounted to about .25 inch.

For the first time in several months the temperature averaged near normal, one degree above. Highs averaged 45.9 degrees or 1.5 below normal. The high was Tuesday's 54 degrees. It was 53 degrees last Saturday. All readings were 42 degrees or above, except yesterday. Lows averaged 27.9 degrees or 3.6 above normal. The low was Saturday's 21 degrees. It was a mild 36 degrees Tuesday.

Three of the accompanying photographs, including one full-page photo, depict Cpl. Neil Henline, of the Executive Protection Division which guards the governor. Cpl. Henline is a son of Sgt. and Mrs. Robert Henline, Mt. Lake Park. Sgt. Henline is retired from the Maryland State Police.

The lengthy article details the history of the guard service from its beginning in the 1920's through its modern methods used today.

Neil is a 1964 graduate of Southern High School and is married to the former Connie Savage.

State's Supply Of Premium Gasoline Said Drying Up

ANNAPOLIS (UPI) — Maryland's supply of premium gasoline for cars is drying up because 15 major oil companies have stopped selling the high test gas and others may follow, State Comptroller Louis Goldstein said Tuesday.

"Our office is receiving almost daily communications from major oil companies, indicating that they will no longer offer gasoline with an octane rating of 95.0 or more (the required rating for gas to be advertised as premium)," Goldstein said.

He said 15 gas companies have stopped selling premium. Only Texaco, Sunoco, Gulf, Mobil, and Chevron still offer premium gas and they soon may stop.

"I have ordered all references to 'premium' removed from gasoline pumps and advertising in cases where the octane is now below 95.0," Goldstein said. "Consumers should look carefully at pumps before they buy and not be deceived by references such as 'super.' "

About 162,000 of the 2 million cars registered in Maryland require premium gasoline, according to state Motor Vehicle Administration statistics.

"Drivers with pre-1971 automobiles are the largest group that might be affected by the dwindling availability of premium because most later model cars are designed to operate on regular or unleaded fuel," Goldstein said.

The drop in premium gasoline's availability is due to a decline in sales — from 46 percent of all gas sales in 1970 to 15 percent in January, 1978, he said.

The comptroller said the reduced availability is also caused by efforts to refine more gas per barrel of crude oil, resulting in lower grades of gas, and a recent announcement by the Colonial Pipeline, a major Maryland gas supplier, that it will no longer guarantee most shipments of gasoline with an octane rating higher than 94.0.

Goldstein said the state cannot require gas companies to supply premium gasoline, but added he will "watch the situation closely."

"We have published a brochure answering many questions about octane ratings," he said. "The brochure also includes a step-by-step test to follow to determine the exact grade of gasoline actually required by your automobile."

Judge Thayer Charges Grand Jury

Circuit Court Judge, Fred Thayer told the March term of the Grand Jury that serious crimes have increased 19 percent in Garrett County over the past five years. Judge Thayer further speculated as to how great the increase might have been without the improvement of crime prevention efforts in the county.

Judge Thayer said, in his charge, "You may be interested to know that in the last five years — crime, as measured by the number of criminal cases filed and tried in Garrett County, has increased 19 percent, or an annual increase of just about four percent.

"This represents a total of 75 criminal cases processed in Circuit Court and 507 in the District Court for fiscal year 1977," he noted. "The Circuit Court cases represent the more serious crimes and have decreased from the five-year average of 89 cases; the less serious criminal cases in the District Court have increased from the five-year average of 444.

"Not all of these cases are actually tried, particularly at the District Court level, and certainly, most of the cases do not receive Grand Jury investigation."

"I am advised by Mr. Burnett that there has been an increase in the number of criminal cases, both in the District Court and in the Circuit Court in the latter half of 1977, which do not appear in the statistics presently available," he continued.

"Suffice it to say that as in most of the counties, Garrett County has not escaped the rise in criminal activity. Although criminal activity has increased, we cannot conclude that crime prevention is not successful. How much greater might the crime rate be without the dedicated and skillful law enforcement personnel we have in Garrett County?

"The increase in statistics also reflects better investigation, detection and apprehension by these enforcement officials.

"One further statistic," the judge offered," juvenile cases, which are filed and tried exclusively in the Circuit Court, but which rarely, if ever, come to the attention of the Grand Jury, have increased over the past five years 67 percent, with the largest increase in this past year, after a two-year decline in 1974 and 1975.

"This compares with a statewide increase of 16 percent. The significance of this is being studied.

"If there is any message in all of these figures it is this: Criminal activity, juvenile or adult, is everyone's problem, and cannot be combated or curbed by law enforcement alone. We must all become involved, to the extent appropriate to help solve the problem.

"When I thank you for your service on this Grand Jury," he said, "I am not merely uttering idle words; "I mean the thanks as a heartfelt expression of gratitude for your agreement to become involved in the administration of criminal justice in Garrett County. Thank you."

PTA Council Ends Fund-Raising Drive

The Garrett County Council of PTAs, under the direction of Ruth Glotfelty, president, completed its fundraising drive last night. A total of $368.50 was collected during the one-month effort by selling chances for $100 worth of groceries donated by the Grantsville Foodland.

Jane Fox and Matthew Stieringer were co-chairmen for the fund-raising. The proceeds are being used to offset operation costs incurred by the organization. Winning the $100 worth of groceries was Ernest Savage of Friendsville.

Grand Jury Returns Two Indictments

The Grand Jury for the March 1978 session has released its findings after one day of deliberation, March 13. The group first examined two witnesses and have returned true bills of indictment in both cases.

The group heard the charge delivered by Associate Judge Fred A. Thayer, and after retirement to the Grand Jury room, appointed Mrs. Nancy Deckman and Mrs. Carole Lovett as clerks, Richard Eugene Friend foreman, and James Mack Rush as doorkeeper.

After returning indictments, the body toured various county facilities to make reports on the conditions of the buildings, and to suggest needed improvements.

According to the Grand Jury report, the Garrett County Roads Department was inspected and found to be in excellent condition. The Jury recommended that the county purchase one new grader, one new front end loader, a pole-type building for salt storage, new carpet throughout the office, and additional filing cabinets for the office.

The Jury then inspected the hospital and its recommendations will be included in the new building program. The Jury suggests that a doctor is needed full time in the emergency room, and that preventative measures be taken to eliminate ice at the emergency entrance.

At the county jail, the Jury made no recommendations for repair work as the building is to be razed after completion of a new jail.

The Jury did recommend however, that the sheriff's cars be replaced on a two-year basis, as the cost of repairs would outweigh advantages to keeping them longer.

When the Jury inspected the Courthouse, they made the following recommendations: signs be erected as soon as possible directing strangers into the Courthouse, and walkways be cleared of material that could cause injury to anyone.

At the District Court of Maryland, Jurors recommended that there be more offices for the number of personnel, and more storage room be permitted to activate more form and file records.

Next and final stop was the county dog pound, where the visitors suggested that more people are needed to help catch dogs; laws to keep dogs tied be more strictly enforced; fines be given for dumping of dogs; pets be listed in newspaper so that people can either claim or buy them; facilities be found and used so pets can be spayed, and publish the information in some type of newspapers.

Also on March 13, the Grand Jury heard testimony from various county officials.

The Garrett County Commissioners, including George Edwards, Wayne Hamilton and Don S. Bender, spoke of plans for renovation of the county Courthouse, sheriff's residence and jail. The Grand Jury then recommended that the statutory responsibilities of the Commissioners be extended from 1½ days to five days per week in light of recommended salary increases.

Ken Richmond addressed the Jury about present and future operations of the hospital, and answered questions posed by the Jury. The Jury recommended that Mr. Richmond, as administrator, and his staff be commended for operation of the hospital as well as plans for its future.

The Jury then heard testimony from Herbert McCrobie of the Garrett County Roads Department regarding road conditions, maintenance procedures and working conditions in the Garrett County garage. The Jury felt strongly that roads workers should be praised for their work, especially for snow removal during the recent winter.

Sheriff John Evans, Jr., answered questions posed by the Jury, including qualifications of deputies, the various services provided by the department to county residents, and control and enforcement of the littering laws of the state, in Garrett County. Upon basis of this testimony, the Grand Jury recommended that the sheriff's department be allotted and hire two additional deputies, and further that vehicles be replaced after two years of use.

Roy Arnold, dog warden, testified regarding conditions at the county animal shelter and the prevalence of stray dogs in the county. The Grand Jury recommended that the Commissioners take action regarding these problems.

Jerome Moyer and Exxie Colaw appeared and gave testimony about the Department of Assessments and Taxation.

Two From Here Named To EMS Advisory Council

Two local residents were named as officers for the Region I Emergency Medical Services (EMS) Advisory Council at the February meeting. New officers include president, Brad Stewart; vice president, Dr. Fred W. Miltenberger, and secretary-treasurer, Mildred Dunbar.

Mr. Stewart, of Oakland, has been active in emergency medical services, serving as president of the Southern Garrett County Rescue Squad, and is one of the original members of the EMS Council.

Mrs. Dunbar, R. N., is nursing director of Garrett County Memorial Hospital and has been an active member of the council for three years.

Dr. Miltenberger, surgeon from Cumberland, continues his service on the executive board after having been president in 1977.

The Region I EMS Council is an advisory committee to the Boards of County Commissioners in Allegany and Garrett counties, to help develop, implement and coordinate programs to improve emergency medical care in the region. In working with the Maryland Institute of Emergency Medical Services and other groups, the Council has made possible $500,000 in grants to the Region.

Board Discusses

cars as many other county and state agencies have done in an effort to cutback on travel expenses.

Two lay-members of the Board commented that Board personnel make numerous long trips and it would be too uncomfortable to ride in smaller vehicles.

The Board was asked why the administrative and supervisory personnel commuted to their homes in the state vehicles. Clarence Stem, vice-president of the lay Board, explained that these persons were subject to being called out in the evening or in the middle of the night. He stated that there was no place to house the vehicles at night and that personnel would often have to make frequent stops on the way to the Board office each morning.

Dr. Jerome Ryscavage, Assistant Superintendent of Educational Services noted that the budget request included a salary for a new clerical position at the Board office. Dr. Ryscavage explained that the new position was necessary because the present staff which handles the payroll is carrying too much of a burden. Some clerical employees are working eight to 16 hours each month in excess of their required workload in order to complete the payroll. He also stated that several teachers were interested in receiving bi-monthly paychecks, instead of the present monthly check. It is the Board's opinion that the additional data processor would be necessary in order to complete the expanded workload.

The Board requested a sum in excess of $60,000 for utility expenses at the new all electric Northern Middle School. When asked as to why the new school was designed with electric heat in the face of exorbitant costs of electricity, Mr. Stem responded that at the time the school was designed and approved some four or five years ago, the recommended heating system was total-electric.

The Board was questioned on the justification for allocating funds to cover expenses for educational conferences attended by administrative and supervisory personnel, the latest one held in San Francisco. It was thought that this was a lavish expense when some classes in Garrett County school lack even such educational necessities as textbooks.

Albert Ringer, Assistant Superintendent of Curriculum, answered that these conferences provided new ideas to the Board and were "personal education experiences" providing new ideas and were of indirect benefit to the county's educational system. He added that the Board provided only $309 per person for the latest conference trip, a figure representing .000023% of the total budget. Tom Shaffer, MSTA (NEA) UNISERV representative for the Garrett and Allegany Counties Teachers' Association presented the Board and the public with a fact sheet. The fact sheet contained a listing of fifteen items which the associations feel should have been considered more closely when the Board of Education prepared its proposed fiscal budget.

Both the fact sheet and the Board's budget presentation were in agreement on one particular point. That is, most Maryland counties supply in excess of 50% of the revenue required for school board budgets. The Garrett School Board received 27.6% of the county's revenue in fiscal '77, 42% in fiscal '76, 43.2% in fiscal '75, 44.5% in fiscal '74, and 37.8% in '73. A downward trend in this support is noticed since fiscal '74.

In fiscal '73, the instructional salaries category of the school budget was 61% of the total School Budget expenditures. In fiscal '77 this percentage effort declined to 55%. The fact sheet further stated that although the overall School Board budgets have increase 66% since fiscal '73, the instructional salaries category which includes teachers' salaries increased only 50% during this same period.

Judith France, immediate past-president of the GCTA, when addressing Dr. Buser, stated that contrary to reports issued by the Board of Education, there was a near 9% salary increase in administrative salaries, while the instructional personnel were being offered a 5% increase. The Board did not respond to Ms. France's statement.

Teacher salary inadequacies was a main point of controversy. James A. Zimmerman, a math teacher from Southern High School asked the Board if they realized that "it is rumored that some teachers in this county with children are eligible for welfare benefits." Mr. Clarence Stem, vice-president of the Board, in answering, jokingly agreed that because of his large family, he too may be elgible and stated that he personally was not aware of that.

Both the public and the GCTA fact sheet made mention of the fact that in inter-state ranking the county's teacher salaries rank 23 and 24 of 24 subdivisions while other selected positions within the school system rank 18, 20 and 21, compared with all other jurisdictions in Maryland. Lou Dominick, Director of Personnel in the school system disagreed that the rankings were in error and that the teachers' salaries ranked a unit or so higher.

Dr. Buser concluded that the rankings of some administrative personnel, including those holding superintendent positions, was misleading. Dr. Buser stated that his own ranking should be viewed in the light of the rankings falling within a narrow margin, between $30,000 and $34,000.

Tanker Driver Trapped When Rig Overturns

Three county fire companies were on the scene of a tractor-tanker accident on Route 48 at the nine-mile marker at press time this morning. First reports indicated that the driver had been trapped inside the vehicle.

Friendsville, Grantsville and Accident responded to the scene, with Deep Creek and Deer Park companies placed on stand by. Members of the Northern Garrett County Rescue Squad were called, and they in turn called the county medical examiner, Dr. James A. Feaster, who was enroute at presstime.

According to Central Communications Center, the tanker, property of Lander Transfer Company of New Jersey, was carrying methylene liquid which is highly toxic but is not extremely flammable. The DNR was notified due to possible stream pollution.

Governor's Salary To More Than Double Next Year

ANNAPOLIS (UPI) — The Governor's salary would jump $35,000 next year to $60,000 annually under a bill the Senate approved and the House pushed through in one day by suspending voting rules.

The House Wednesday approved the measure, already passed by the Senate, that would increase governors' salaries from the current $25,000 a year to $60,000.

The bill, which now goes to the acting Gov. Blair Lee III for his signature, also would give the governor a $20,000 pension and a $20,000 transition allowance to return to private life after a completed, four-year term.

The House members suspended regular voting rules on the bill to allow them to give tentative and then final approval to the bill on the same day. The Senate passed the measure Monday.

Delegate Donald Munson, R-Washington, urged the House members to lower the recommended salary to $48,500 for the governor and $42,500 for the Lieutenant governor. The House rejected the recommendation.

"I don't think we should raise the governor's salary so much when other state workers are getting much lower salary increases," he said. "I think we should try to hold the line on these state expenses."

Delegate John Hargreaves, D-Caroline, said, "The salary is appropriate for the work that is required, expecially compared to other states."

Hargreaves, who is chairman of the House Appropriations Committee that recommended the bill, said testimony revealed the governor is presently the lowest paid chief executive of any state in the nation.

The $60,000 annual salary was recommended by a select commission that included state treasurer William James who told the committee:

—The cost of living index has risen 85 percent since 1967 when the governor's current salary was set.

—The tasks of the governor have increased considerably in the last ten years.

Alfred Scanlan, the chairman of the commission, testified the governor's salary should be high enough to eliminate the need for "external financial assistance" while in office.

Baltimore Subway Contracts Approved

ANNAPOLIS (UPI) — The State Board of Public Works has approved contracts totaling nearly $23 million for construction of Baltimore subway stations.

Sen. Robert Douglass, D-Baltimore, opposed the contract awards Wednesday.

He said Maryland minority firms have not received enough consideration in the awarding of construction contracts for the $721 million Baltimore subway.

Douglass said "opportunistic companies that have no tracks records" should not be awarded contracts, referring to the Y&M Steel Co., which was awarded a subcontracting contract through Ohio Valley Construction Co. for $5.2 million.

Y&M began operations in April 1977.

He said Y&M is not a "valid minority company" because it is a front for a larger company.

The $5.2 million award is for construction of a subway station entrance and another $17.5 million contract was awarded for construction of the Lexington Market station.

USDA To Reduce Sodium Nitrate Use

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A recommendation from a panel of experts studying the safety of sodium nitrite used as a meat preservative has been made to the Agriculture Department to warn the public of cancer risk from fried bacon and bacon grease.

The recommendation comes as the Agriculture Department is moving ahead with its plan to reduce the amount of sodium nitrite in bacon. One official said the industry appears "very close" to being able to make a bacon so low in sodium nitrite that it will not contain nitrosamines, the cancer-causing agents formed when bacon is cooked.

Gunmen Kidnap Former Italian Premier Moro

ROME (UPI) — Gunmen kidnapped former Premier Moro and killed his five-man police escort just as Italy's new government was about to be presented to Parliament, Rome Radio said today.

The 61-year-old Moro, prime minister from 1963 to 1968 and again from 1974 to 1976, was kidnapped in the attack near the Christian Democratic study center in the residential Camilluccia district, the radio said. All five escorts were killed, it said.

It was the first kidnapping of a major politician since the end of World War II and came only one hour before Premier Giulio Andreotti was to present his newly formed Cabinet to Parliament after a two-month political crisis.

Moro is president of Andreotti's Christian Democratic Party and he played a decisive role in bringing about an agreement under which the Communists will support Andreotti's minority government in Parliament — the first such deal in 31 years.

No political group claimed responsibility for the kidnapping.

Italy has been plagued by political instability and partisan violence in recent years.

The instability has stemmed from the fact the country has been unable to elect a government with a solid majority of the seat in Parliament. The Christian Democrats and Communists received just about the same percentage of the vote in the last elections.

The political violence is coming from both the extreme left and right. Terrorists have staged attacks in Italy over the past few years at a frequency unmatched elsewhere in the world.

There have been dozens of bombings, kidnappings of minor officials and shootings, but Moro's abduction was the boldest to date.

The timing of the kidnapping — just as a new government was being installed — appeared to indicate those responsible were attempting to continue the political crisis that has beset Italy.

Moro's name has been mentioned as a likely candidate for the largely ceremonial office of president, now held by Giovanni Leone.

Fuel Economy Standards Eased

DETROIT (UPI) — Transportation Secretary Brock Adams announced revised gas economy standards Wednesday that for the first time seek to regulate fuel efficiency in trucks and vans weighing up to 8,500 pounds. He said although the standards are more lenient now they "will save more than 8 billion gallons of fuel over the life of the vehicles produced in two model years."

Auto industry officials were relieved by the government's decision to ease the 1980-81 standards and say they are confident they now can meet the minimum gas mileage requirements on time. The rules require two-wheel drive vehicles to achieve 16 mpg and four-wheel drive vehicles 14 mpg by 1980 and a year later, two-wheel drive vehicles must get 18 mpg, and four-wheel drive vehicles, 15.5 mpg.

Washington Now Five-Star General

WASHINGTON (UPI) — George Washington led the 13 colonies in war and the United States in peace — but it took 203 years before he joined the likes of Douglas MacArthur and John J. Pershing as a five-star general.

Washington's posthumous promotion Wednesday concluded a move by Congress for the Bicentennial. Legislation passed Jan. 19, 1976, and approved by President Ford in October initially was thought to be enough to add another star to Washington's rank.

But research later showed the Army would have to issue orders to promote the "general and commander-in-chief of the Army of the United Colonies," a rank conferred by the Continental Congress.

Army Secretary Clifford Alexander signed the order, which was announced Wednesday.

The United States now has only one living five-star general, the Army's Omar S. Bradley, 85, who lives in retirement at Fort Bliss, Tex.

The U. S. posted a $2.38 billion trade deficit in January.

Israelis Pour Into Lebanese Battle Zones

Renewed fighting broke out today between invading Israeli forces and Palestinian guerrillas in a 6-mile-wide strip of Lebanese soil and the Palestinians said Israeli reinforcements were pouring into the battle zone.

Israeli Prime Minister Menachem Begin said Wednesday his country's 17-hour punitive raid had ended and Israeli forces would stay put until an agreement is reached to prevent terrorists from returning to the border region.

But a Palestinian military communique in Beirut today said guerrillas fought off repeated Israeli air and ground strikes in south Lebanon and reported fresh helicopter-borne Israeli troop arrivals in the border regions.

"Since daybreak, Israeli warplanes have raided several of our south Lebanon positions and border villages east of (the Lebanese rightist-held town of) Marjayoun," a Palestinian military communique said.

"A number of enemy helicopters brought in troop reinforcements as fresh tanks crossed the frontier in what looks like a new attempt to push inland."

Palestinian officials acknowledged guerrillas had made some "strategic withdrawals" from some positions.

An earlier communique said the guerrillas fought nightlong battles with invading Israeli troops and tanks and checked fresh Israeli advances on the ground.

In Tel Aviv, the armed forces radio confirmed that new clashes erupted today in the central sector of a 64-mile-long front following a quiet night, but gave no details on the ferocity of the fighting.

The right-wing Phalangist Voice of Lebanon radio said the Israelis captured the south Lebanon village of Rashaya el Fukhar early today "and blew up two bridges in south Lebanon."

One Palestinian official disputed Israeli reports the invading force had captured all the guerrilla targets and was now mopping up the holdouts.

Woman's Suicide Jump A Failure

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Linda Susan Hamilton, 26, was reported by doctors at San Francisco General Hospital in "stable" condition despite unspecified internal injuries, after attempting to leap to her death off the 238-foot-high Golden Gate Bridge.

Her intent was stymied when brothers West and Alan Carter saw her jump and dived into the chilly Pacific and rescued her. Miss Hamilton became the ninth known person to survive the leap, but, ironically, four hours before she jumped an unidentified man became the 637th known suicide off the famous span. His body still has not been found.

Senate To Vote On Treaty Today

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Panama treaty voted on in the Senate today would guarantee perpetual neutrality of the Panama Canal and grant indefinite U.S. authority to defend it.

The pact's major provisions, at a glance:

—The canal will remain neutral after Panama takes full control Dec. 31, 1999. Any other canal built in Panama will be permanently neutral also.

—The canal will remain open in peace and war to all ships. No vessel may commit hostilities in the waterway.

—The canal will be operated efficiently and tolls will be just and equitable.

—The United States and Panama will defend the canal; the United States has the right to act against any threat to the canal but not to intervene in the internal affairs of Panama.

—U.S. and Panamanian warships will "go to the head of the line" in times of war.

—The United States may continue to grant Colombia toll-free transit. When Panama takes over, Costa Rica and Colombia may get toll-free passage.

Russian Cosmonauts Return To Earth After Record Trip

MOSCOW (UPI) — The Soviet Union's two Soyuz 26 cosmonauts returned to earth today, ending their record 96-day mission in space.

The official Soviet news agency Tass announced, "The 96-day space manned flight — the longest one in the history of cosmonautics — is over.

"Soviet cosmonauts Yuri Romanenko and Georgy Grechko came back to earth today," Tass added.

Tass said the Soyuz space capsule landed safely at 2:19 p.m. (6:19 a.m. EST) in the spaceflight recovery zone in Soviet Central Asia.

The Soviet agency said the capsule made a parachute-assisted soft landing 164 miles west of the Kazakhstan city of Tselinograd.

"The preliminary medical examination of the cosmonauts made on the landing site immediately after the soft landing of the descent vehicle has shown that the cosmonauts have endured well the long orbital flight," Tass said.

Before Romanenko and Grechko concluded their mission Soviet doctors put them on a special physical exercises regimen to strengthen their bodies for the return to earth's gravity after so long in the weightlessness of space.

When the 96-day Soyuz 26 mission is added to the 30 days Grechko spent in space aboard Soyuz 17 his personal time in orbit stretches to 126 days.

Although the Salyut space lab was shut down and unmanned with the departure of Romanenko and Grechko, the Soviets have promised that more Soyuz missions — some featuring East European cosmonauts — would be mounted to the space lab this year.

Driver Education Bill Survives Senate Vote

ANNAPOLIS (UPI) — A bill to continue state funding of driver's education, which opponents said would result in funneling money away from an education system "that's been indicted because students can't read and write," survived in the Senate Wednesday.

The Senate voted 38-4 to adopt a Budget and Taxation Committee report favoring the bill, despite nearly an hour of strenuous objections that funding of driver's education on-the-road training is the counties' responsibility.

Further consideration of the bill was delayed.

The bill would repeal a law passed last year that would stop state funding for driving practice in 1980.

The training costs the state about $1.3 million. The state also provides another $3.7 million for classroom driver's education that is not affected by the bill.

The state funds come from the Department of Transportation's trust fund.

The driver's education programs also are paid for by counties at a rate of about $7 million a year.

Sen. Harry McGuirk, D-Baltimore, objected to continuation of the $1.3 million in state financing, saying on-the-road training of potential drivers is parents' responsibility.

"The additional costs are coming out of an education system that's been indicted because students can't read and write," McGuirk said.

Sen. John Coolahan, D-Baltimore County, echoed McGuirk's feelings.

"The purpose of schools is to educate, not teach driving," Coolahan said.

Sen. Edward Conroy, D-Prince George's, said the accident rate for drivers who do not take driver's education is higher than for those who have had the training.

He said if the schools do not provide the training, teenagers will be forced to pay for the instruction at private driving schools. A person must have driver's education training to receive a driver's license before the age of 18.

Goats Roam Capitol

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Capitol is a long way from the open prairie but Wednesday there were similarities.

Some 50 goats were unleashed by striking farmers and before the errant animals were corralled they roamed the halls and grounds of Congress, scrambled into a fountain and butted police.

The farmers also loosed a mule and several geese and chickens to dramatize demands for higher farm prices.

Several goats were freed on the Capitol plaza, others in the first-floor hallways of the Russell Senate Office Building.

A group of South Carolinians led one goat into the office of Ernest Hollings, D-S. C., but were persuaded to remove it. Mopping-up operations were ordered.

Three trucks took the animals to the dog pound while the National Park Service sought more permanent quarters.

There were no arrests because police said they were unable to trace the goats back to their owners.

UMW Feels New Contract Proposal "Step Backward"

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Optimism was fading today that a new agreement between the Workers union would be ratified by striking miners, despite approval of the pact by the union's bargaining council.

In an effort to prevent a steamroller effect that some felt aided defeat of an earlier proposal a week ago, the union's International Executive Board imposed a one-day ratification timetable with all voting set for Friday, March 24.

But the 22-17 vote by the bargaining council was narrower than the 25-13 tally when it sent the last contract to the rank and file. That agreement was rejected by a larger than 2-to-1 margin and led to President Carter's invoking of the Taft-Hartley Act.

The strikers have mostly ignored a subsequent order by U.S. District Judge Aubrey Robinson, which directed the 160,000 UMW miners to return to work.

UMW President Arnold Miller evaded reporters waiting at the Labor Department for word of the council vote. Other council members forecast a close, and possibly negative, ratification tally.

Miller earlier had hastily moved the council session from UMW headquarters to the department's conference room after about 100 angry miners demonstrated around the union headquarters against the contract.

The walkout, which began, Dec. 6, was in its 101st day today.

The narrow margin of the council approval, which followed a 4¼-hour closed-door meeting, came as a surprise since the latest agreement included several concessions by the Bituminous Coal Operators Association to union demands.

These included improved health and pension benefits and elimination of a work stability clause.

Two council members who voted against approving the agreement were Eddie Sturgill, from a central Kentucky and Tennessee district, and Bill Lamb from District 6 in Ohio and the West Virginia panhandle.

"They'll pick up 5,000 (votes), that's it," Sturgill said. The last offer was defeated by more than 30,000 votes.

"You don't go backwards," Lamb added, compuring the new proposal with the 1974 contract.

"I just think it's going to have tough sledding" among the rank and file, Lamb said.

And Tom Gaston, from a western Kentucky district, would not predict ratification even though he voted for approval. All he would say was, "There's no doubt it'll get more votes."

Broiler Chick Orders Must Be Made By Monday

The 1978 4-H and Southern High School FFA Broiler Show will be held on Saturday, June 3, at the Southern High Vo-Ag Center from 9:00 a.m. until noon, it was announced by Lawrence F. Little, extension agent, 4-H and Youth.

Sterling Processing of Oakland has agreed to furnish the chicks free of charge again this year, Mr. Little said. Youth receiving broilers will need only pay the postage for shipping the chicks from the hatchery which is estimated to a $2.00 fee, based upon the number of birds ordered.

Because of the lead time involved in hatching chicks, orders must be placed by Monday, March 20, Mr. Little said. Multiples of 25 birds may be ordered. Persons should call the Garrett County Extension Office to place orders.

An initial introductory meeting will be held on Tuesday, March 28, from 7:30 until 9:30 p.m. at the Southern High Vo-Ag Center to help youth learn more about how to prepare their brooder houses for the peeps, how to provide heat for the birds, recommendations as to how best to feed and water the broilers, how to start record books and how to grow the birds out for the dressed broiler show. Meetings in other areas of the county will be arranged upon request.

The broilers will be shipped from the hatchery in Seaford, Delaware, on Tuesday morning and should arrive at the Oakland Post Office by early Wednesday, April 5. Mr. Little reminds that the earlier youth pick up their chicks, the better the selection will be. Persons may pay the postage fee when they receive their chicks. Persons should call the Extension Office to ensure the chicks have arrived before coming to Oakland to pick them up.

William Dressman, USDA Inspector at Sterling Processing, will conduct a demonstration at the Southern Vo-Ag Center Thursday evening, June 1, from 5:00 p.m. until 7:00 p.m. to teach youth how to dress their broilers for table use. Youth should bring a few birds to this demonstration.

Any youth in Garrett County wishing to participate in the 4-H and FFA Broiler program may enroll as a special project member if he or she is not presently a member of a 4-H club or FFA chapter.

Amid joyous hosannas and waving of palm branches, He rode into the city of Jerusalem, past these same walls which are standing today.

Long ago in ancient Palestine, the prophet had heralded the coming of a king. But now few thought it more than the usual procession of some new earthly ruler. Yet no king ever came as He came. No king ever built such a kingdom.

This was the King of Heaven who rode into the hearts of men and built there a Kingdom of Love!

They crucified Him, but death could not stop His coming. He comes in every age to all who will believe. He comes to you.

Go to church this Palm Sunday, for "thy king cometh." Let the King of Heaven ride into your heart.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

STALKING IVORY

Lesson for March 19, 1978

Background Scripture: Acts 3:1 through 4:4
Devotional Reading: Acts 3:18-26

Despite the fact that I had attended Sunday school as a child—or maybe because of it—when I reached my early teens I drifted away from the church. As a maturing eighth-grader I was too busy with other pursuits, including the pursuit of a beautiful eighth-grade girl who had recently moved to our junior high. It wasn't long until we were "going steady."

Rev. Althouse

As I walked her home after school each day she would frequently mention the youth group of her church. From what she said, it was the most interesting group of youth I could imagine. Still, I was resistant, but since it was an extra opportunity to be with her, I consented to go along one Sunday evening.

Something more

From then on I was "hooked." Although the girl and I soon had a parting of the ways, I continued to attend the Sunday night fellowship meetings, as well as the frequent additional activities. Initially, I went because I liked the people in the group. In time, however, I found something even more important: a faith.

It had been an interesting string of circumstances: to be with a girl I had attended in a meeting; because the meeting was fun I joined a group; because I joined the group I found a faith.

It wasn't long until we were "going steady."

As I walked her home after school each day she would frequently mention the youth group of her church. From what she said, it was the most interesting group of youth I could imagine. Still, I was resistant, but since it was an extra opportunity to be with her, I consented to go along one Sunday evening.

Something more

From then on I was "hooked." Although the girl and I soon had a parting of the ways, I continued to attend the Sunday night fellowship meetings, as well as the frequent additional activities. Initially, I went because I liked the people in the group. In time, however, I found something even more important: a faith.

It had been an interesting string of circumstances: to be with a girl I had attended in a meeting; because the meeting was fun I joined a group; because I joined the group I found a faith.

I got a great deal more than I was looking for.

Often that's the way it has been with people's spiritual experiences. They have asked for one thing that seemed important and received considerably more than they asked for. This is what happened that day when Peter and John were going up to the temple for prayer and came upon a crippled man lying at the Beautiful Gate. As was his custom, he asked for alms—a handout (after all, what else was there for a man who was lame from birth?). Unlike many who went up to the temple, these two men stopped and looked at him.

Expecting to receive

Luke tells us that "he fixed his attention upon them, expecting to receive something from them." And he was right, for they would give him something, in fact, more than what he asked for. "I have no silver and gold," said Peter, "but I give you what I have: in the name of Jesus Christ of Nazareth, walk" (Acts 3:6). Immediately the man received what had been denied him since birth: he could walk. In fact, he could run and leap—and he did, praising God!

What happened with that man at the Beautiful Gate is still happening today: we ask for something that seems important, but God responds by giving us something far better. We may come to him with the wrong motives and desires, but if we are receptive, if we expect to receive something, we will and far beyond our expectations.

An old proverb says, "He who goes off hunting ivory usually finds there's an elephant attached." So we may look for happiness and find it only when we recognize that there's a God attached!

the ROCKPILE

by Cathy Helbig

The year 1909 is one of the least humorous I have encountered since doing research for The Rockpile.

Since we are all familiar with the Panama Canal situation, it may be of interest to you that 1909 was the year in which construction was to begin.

The estimated cost, $375,201,000. "Sums now and hereafter available will provide $375,200,900 for construction work, showing that the engineers will be sailing pretty close to the wind as the canal nears completion."

"Carrie Nation intends to raise chickens now. If she is as successful with them as she is at raising — well, what she's been raising — she ought to put aside a little nest egg for her older age. Which is not a pun either as she is reputed to be worth $150,000."

"Our sister city of Terra Alta is coming to the front as witness the contract awarded one day last week for more than 5,000 square yards of street paving to the Enterprise Paving Company, of Elkins, W. Va.

"With her streets paved, natural gas, water and sewerage and her enterprising business men — and all of them work in harmony — Terra Alta will soon rival her more pretentious neighbors, such as Grafton, Fairmont and other towns. Oakland is too far ahead for Terra Alta to ever catch up."

"What is a barbarian, Pop?" asked an Oakland boy of his pater the other day. "Well, son," the father replied, "a barbarian is a man who lives in Grafton and is not ashamed to acknowledge it."

Please keep in mind, West Virginians, that these are quotes and not necessarily the opinions of The Republican today.

"Mr. Wayback was tugging and straining at a bureau drawer that stubbornly refused to be opened. After five minutes strenuous exercise, he remarked quite forcefully: "Gol ram the balky thing anyway! No wonder the government is abolishin' all bureaus from the Navy department." The November 4th edition carried the results of a recent election: Harvey J. Speicher — State Senator-Elect; Member House of Delegates-Elect; DeCoursey E. Bolden and J. Elbert Chappel.

Andrew Shartzer was elected sheriff while Robert M. Friese became County Treasurer. County Commissioners were W. M. Lowdermilk, Don Dixon and A. G. Ross was clerk to the commissioners. Alex. C. Mason — People's Party — Surveyor. All the elected officials were on the Republican ticket.

In the November 18th edition this follow-up to the election was found: "District Attorney Rose has Evidence of Election Fraud."

"Most of the facts concern the extraordinary lengths to which the Democrats went in order to keep the Republicans in ignorance of the making-up of the official ballot.

"It is said evidence will be produced before Governor Crothers of violations of the election law of a character that he as chief executive of the state cannot afford to ignore. It is desired that the hearing before the Governor be public, in order that the people can learn through the testimony printed in the newspapers just what the conditions are in some of the counties. It is expected some of the election Supervisors will be promptly removed from office by the Governor if, indeed, they escape criminal prosecution.

"Just what date the Governor will fix for the hearing has not been decided. Those who will insist that he shall listen to the testimony concerning alleged fraud to be offered wish to have him place himself on record as Governor of the state as to just what he will and will not stand for."

Finally, a short and sad event was found in the papers of 1909. Perhaps, someone else can be spared by this advice following:

"A 65-year old Oakland man died of blood poisoning which came from gangrene. He had pared corns on his toes with a pocketknife a month before the malady resulted."

He'd lost part of his right leg as it had to be amputated below the knee. So, be careful when you're paring your corns!

Local Chapter Of Delta Kappa Gamma Elects Officers

Alpha Alpha Chapter of Delta Kappa Gamma Society held a luncheon meeting Saturday, March 4, at the Will o' the Wisp.

The program, "Personal Achievement," was planned and written by Anna K. Beachy, chairman of the Personal Growth and Services Committee. The program, which was led by Jane Fox, discussed the role of women in the last 50 years — their achievements and influences in American life. Participating in the program were Joanne Harris, Margaret Dean, Alice Snyder, Lillian Mitchell, Lillian Reckner, and Jeanne Whitehair.

The business meeting was conducted by Jean Wolfe, president. Officers for the upcoming year were elected. Serving as president of the chapter will be Evelyn Watson. Anna Bishop was elected first vice president and Anna Beachy second vice president. Jean Grose will serve as recording secretary, and Lucille Sines will act as corresponding secretary.

Plans for the state convention to be held at the Wisp April 28-30 were then discussed.

Adoption Group To Meet Friday

A group of persons interested in adoption will meet Friday, March 17, at 10 a.m. in the basement of St. Mark's Lutheran Church in Oakland.

The group formed last fall to meet bi-monthly to provide support and information for persons who are adopting children or interested in learning more about adoption.

Participants include residents of Preston County as well as Garrett County. Experienced adoptive parents, applicants with adoptions in progress, and also those "just interested" share information from diverse backgrounds and resources, while accompanying children play together.

Weather cancelled the January meeting and it is expected that there will be much to report regarding happenings since the November meeting. New member prospects are invited.

5 REASONS WHY PLYMOUTH VOLARÉ IS AMERICA'S 1ST CHOICE IN WAGONS OVER THE PAST TWO YEARS.

1. HIGH RESALE VALUE.

One reason why Volare's America's first choice in wagons over the past two years is that its resale value is higher than its competition at both Ford and GM.†

†% of return of original sticker price for one year old wagons on a competitive model basis. Based on recent Automotive Market Report publication.

2. PASSENGER ROOM.

Hauling cargo is important, and so is hauling people. Volare seats six comfortably and gives more passenger room than all the new down-sized GM intermediate wagons based on eight key interior dimensions.

3. BIG CAR RIDE.

Volare is the only wagon in its class with a special front isolated transverse suspension system. The system of unique design that delivers a remarkable ride like a big car.

4. LOW PRICE.

You could pay more for some wagons with all the room, comfort and ride of a Volare. Compared to its GM competition, Volare's low price will surprise you.

5. SMALL CAR ECONOMY.

Volare offers big passenger room and spacious cargo area and still does a remarkable job of giving down-to-earth economy, especially in gas mileage. 25 MPG HWY / 18* MPG CITY

Based on EPA estimates. Volare wagon with manual transmission. Your actual mileage may differ depending on your driving habits, the condition of your car and its optional equipment.

Student Selected To Participate In National Program

Mrs. Glenna Lake Machado, Porterville, California, is one of seven students selected from a class of 150 applicants for a federally-funded national program to teach during the summer months in undergraduate research in psychology.

Mrs. Machado will specialize in biofeedback research on hemospheric differences in the human brain, and will be working with Dr. Steve Suter, who is a graduate of Johns Hopkins University.

She will have the opportunity to present her findings at the American Psychology Association meeting in San Francisco.

Mrs. Machado is the former Glenna Lake Loughry, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lester Loughry, of the White Church community.

State Police May Use New Bullet

PIKESVILLE, MD. (UPI) — State Police hope to have a new type of bullet by summer that has more "stopping power," Police spokesman Bill Clark said Tuesday.

Clark said police Superintendent Thomas Smith has received a report recommending a new kind of .38 calibre bullet for troopers that is currently used by the U.S. Secret Service.

The recommended bullet is 110 grain in a semi-jacketed hollow point shell, instead of the 158 grain rain bullet currently in use, Clark said.

The Secret Service uses it because it has more "stopping power and poses less hazard to bystanders," Clark said.

"The bullet expands to twice its diameter upon impact, transferring the energy to the target rather than passing through as the 158 grain is more likely to do," he said.

The bullet now in use is more likely to ricochet, which has caused serious problems, Clark said. The new bullet would not, and it is more likely to stop an assailant rather than just stun him.

He added the new type of bullet is not the "Dum-Dum" kind, which is far more likely to cause fatal injuries because it hits the target and tumbles through the body, creating a much bigger hole.

One reason for the study was the shooting death last year of Trooper Gregg Presbury, who was killed by an assailant even though he fired at least one shot from his service revolver. His bullet hit the assailant in the hand.

Baptist Church Plans Special Services

Services will begin at 7:30 each evening. Rev. Richard Tepper is the pastor, and invites the public.

Elwood Groves Is Legislative Intern

Delegate DeCorsey E. Bolden (R-Garrett & Allegany Counties), discusses legislative matters with his aide, Elwood Groves of Mt. Lake Park. Groves is a participant in the political internship program sponsored by Frostburg State College. All F.S.C. interns to the Maryland General Assembly in Annapolis will earn semester credits as they work full time during the ninety day legislative session.

Elwood L. Groves II, of 320 Shenandoah Avenue, Mt. Lake Park, is presently serving as legislative intern to Delegate DeCorsey E. Bolden (R-Garrett & Allegany Counties) at the Maryland General Assembly in Annapolis. He began his internship on January 11 which was the first day of the 1978 legislative session.

Groves, who is a senior at Frostburg State College, is the first student from Garrett County to be chosen to participate in the fulltime internship program sponsored by the Public Affairs Institute of FSC. He is required to work a minimum of forty hours per week for the entire ninety day session of the legislature which will end on April 10. In addition to his legislative work for Delegate Bolden, Groves is responsible for certain academic assignments such as daily reports and research papers that are required by the college.

During this internship all full-time interns from Frostburg State College will receive fifteen credit hours for the semester as their salary as well as the invaluable experience in practical politics and the legislative process. According to the Public Affairs Institute, FSC is the only college in Maryland that has developed a full-time internship program equal to a semester of in-college work.

Groves plans to complete his education at Frostburg State later this spring earning his Bachelor of Science degree in political science with minors in philosophy and history. He presently serves as state vice chairman of Maryland Young Americans for Freedom and is an active member of Mt. Top Christian Assembly. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. E. Lawrence Groves of Mt. Lake Park.

Faculty Forum

Public Relations Officer,
Garrett County
Teachers' Association
3/15/78

Garrett County taxpayers turned out over 200 strong Monday night, March 13, to fill the cafetorium of Southern Middle School. The evening's "entertainment" was none other than our own local Board of Education, at last meeting the public to unveil the columns upon columns of figures for next year's education budget.

While the audience was being inundated with numbers, several minds were absorbed not so much in the budget report but in some longstanding questions concerning priorities: who decides how much money goes where?

Some of those questions came from county teachers who made an impressive showing at that meeting of the minds, questions like: why, in the face of extensive cutbacks in electricity, heat, and categorical funding, are administrative and supervisory personnel treated to their junkets out West for conferences?

Why does the Board of Education insist on operating gas-guzzling automobiles that are left in the custody of staff members 24 hours a day?

Why were administrative and supervisory personnel handed a 9.6% salary increase last year while instructional personnel were given not much more than a 5% increase?

Why is it necessary to hire an additional payroll clerk when teachers would gladly forego receiving bi-monthly paychecks, meaning more instructional materials and books for students?

The Board members are not solely responsible for the teachers having to tighten belts at home and at work. The Garrett County Commissioners have consistently decreased the percentage of funds annually allotted for education. As if inflation were not in itself a major concern, Everyone — student, teacher, taxpayer — must confront additional burdens: with less money, there are less books, less materials, less educational opportunities.

Now with an impasse in teacher contract negotiations declared, push may come to shove. The county's wealth per pupil ('76-'77, latest figures from MSDE) shows Garrett County ranks 17th in state ($35,704) yet Garrett County teachers reaching a maximum salary with master's degree and 25 years service rank 22nd in the state. There are 24 subdivisions.

Garrett teachers' minimum salary for 1977-78 is $8,800 this year, an increase of $400 over last year, or 4.8%, which is 2% below the cost-of-living (6.8%) in 1977. Garrett County's beginning teachers' salary is the lowest in Maryland.

Garrett teachers' maximum salary with a master's degree and 16 years of teaching for 1977-78 is $14,350, a $725.00 increase over last year, or 5.3%, 1½% below the cost-of-living in 1977. Garrett's maximum salary with a master's this year is the second lowest salary paid teachers in Maryland!

The Board of Education's final offer on salary (prior to impasse) for teachers next year is a 3½% average increase, the lowest settlement reported in Maryland for 1978-79.

While Garrett teachers' salaries rank 23rd and 24th of 24 subdivisions in Maryland, other selected positions within the school system rank 18th, 20th, and 21st, compared with all other jurisdictions in Maryland.

In fiscal 1973, the instructional salaries category of school budget was 61% of the total School Budget expenditures. In fiscal 1977, (last year) this percentage effort declined to only 55% of the total School Budget expenditures. Although the overall School Budget expenditures have increased 66% since fiscal 1973, the instructional salaries category increased only 50% during this same period.

The School Board's partial budget proposal is up 14% or $995,120, of which $707,348 more (23.1%) is requested from county government. It must be pointed out that of this increase in funds requested in this partial budget ($995,120) only $200,000 of increase cost is attributed to teachers represented by the Board's best offer prior to the negotiations impasse on next year's contract.

The teachers of Garrett County cannot be expected to stand idly by while these trends continue. We need and demand our fair share of increases. Funding of schools must be a high priority and funding of teacher salaries at a level commensurate with at least a cost-of-living adjustment must be equally prioritized.

Our ranking in the state is not justified by the resources available to the county, both at the commissioner level and the Board of Education level. We seek adequate recognition. We demand it.

Woman Injured When Car Strikes Tractor Trailer

A Cumberland woman was admitted to Memorial Hospital Monday after she was injured in an accident on Route 40 near Flintstone, shortly before 11:30 a.m.

Lisa Diane Miller, 20, of Route 2, Cumberland, was hurt after she apparently fell asleep, crossed the center line, and hit the side of the tractor trailer driven by Howard Van-Meter Messick, 54, of Route 1, Flintstone. Neither Messick nor the passenger in his truck, Owen B. Kinsinger, Grantsville, were hurt.

Tfc. D. W. Cadwell, Hagerstown detachment of the Maryland State Police, investigated.

Commission On Aging Fund Raising Drive Gets $225 Boast

Mrs. Marilyn Metheny, Director of Senior Citizen Programs for the Garrett County Commission On Aging revealed today that the Commission received $225 in their drive for funds for a station wagon.

Mrs. Virginia Poling donated $200 in memory of her late father, Roy Simon Cogley.

The First National Bank of Oakland donated $25.00 toward the purchase of the vehicle.

Mrs. Metheny explained that the vehicle would cost almost $6,000.00, with a local match of $1,200.00 required. "We still have about $300.00 to raise and any donations would be very welcome." Mrs. Metheny added.

Laurence Carette Is County AFS Exchange Student

Miss Laurence (Lolo) Carette, from Arras, France, has been a guest in the United States since last August, on a visit sponsored by the American Field Service program. Her United States hosts are Mr. and Mrs. Frank Herring, Oakland, and their children, Judy, Christy and Bill.

The local chapter of AFS, at Southern High School, is beginning a membership drive this week, to obtain both new school members, adult sponsors, and AFS family sponsors for the organization. AFS is worldwide, in over 60 countries, and sponsors a student exchange program in all member countries.

AFS, an international non-profit association, pays transportation and insurance costs for exchange students such as Lolo. Local officers are Mrs. Dale (Marie) Custer, chapter president for adults sector; Ginger Bailey, president of the Southern AFS chapter; Helen Niner, vice president; and Beth Earley, secretary-treasurer; Ms. Duey Snyder, French teacher at Southern, is school advisor.

Anyone interested in becoming a member may contact any of the above for more information. To help publicize their membership drive, the local chapter plans various events and fund raisers.

From April 7-9, the AFS is planning an "AFS Weekend" to introduce exchange students from other areas. Students from Cumberland, Frostburg and Keyser will join Miss Carette for a planned swim party, bowling, and a picnic.

The current AFS exchange student is an outdoors enthusiast, and loves skiing, volleyball and swimming. She was on the Southern volleyball team, and in her home town in France, was a member of the swimming and karate teams. She emphatically states, however, that she does not enjoy cooking and sewing. She hopes to become a veterinarian, but if not accepted, will take business courses.

She has been a guest speaker for various clubs and organizations around the area, telling of her country, her ambitions, AFS, and differences between the U. S. and France.

So far, she and the Herrings have visited New York City, Pittsburgh, Charleston, W. Va. Lolo will be returning to Arras in July.

Board Establishes Residency Policy

In action at the regular monthly meeting of the Garrett County Board of Education, presided over by Clarence L. Stem, vice-president of the Board, the Board voted to approve the requirement that, effective July 1, 1978, all new administrators and supervisors who receive salaries above regular teacher pay would be required to live in Garrett County as an employment condition. The policy in no way affects the current administrators and supervisors who may live outside the boundaries of Garrett County.

Dr. William H. Buser, Superintendent of Schools, presented a discussion policy related to the non-replacement of personnel and a reduction of force, should a limited budget for Fiscal Year 1979 require that school related employees not be hired for next school year. He indicated he hoped this would not be necessary, but felt it should be brought to the Board's attention at this time for discussion and possible future action. He indicated that people who resign or retire in many instances may not be replaced should funding not permit it.

In other business, the Board awarded bids from several furniture manufacturers for equipping the new Northern Middle School and awarded bids for the purchase of many of the instructional supplies for all schools for the next school year.

"These days, the first thing a new employee wants to know is when he can get in our Blue Cross and Blue Shield plan."

"A long illness can make a poor man out of a rich man. And they know it."

Douglas R. Abbott, General Manager of the Oxford Boatyard, knows from personal experience how fast hospital and medical bills can add up. And how his company's Blue Cross and Blue Shield program provides protection against most of those costs.

His employees consider it an important part of their benefit package. They're anxious to become eligible for the program as soon as possible. "Our Blue Cross and Blue Shield program contributes much to employee morale and satisfaction."

"We adjust our coverage to be best for the times."

As the management of Oxford Boatyard modifies its health care program to keep pace with the changing needs of the company and its employees, so Blue Cross and Blue Shield are constantly studying existing and new forms of coverage to make sure they keep up with the times.

Where there's a need, new or modified programs are quickly made available.

We can move fast. We're local companies. We make our own decisions based on local needs. And we can stay flexible because we deal strictly with Marylanders and Maryland problems.

Your coverage travels with you.

Even though we're Maryland companies, your Blue Cross and Blue Shield coverage is good in all 50 states. Mr. Abbott found this out for himself when his son was injured in a neighboring state. His card was accepted immediately. No questions, no hassle.

If you or your employees travel, that's a good thing to know.

"More coverage for the money."

Year in and year out, we return more money to Marylanders in health care benefits than anyone else. That's because we're experts in what we do. But beyond that, we're non-profit organizations. We have no dividends to pay, no stockholders to satisfy.

Douglas R. Abbott, General Manager, Oxford Boatyard

"We hardly ever have any administrative problems."

Blue Cross and Blue Shield handle all the paperwork. A modern computer system gives high efficiency while keeping costs down. If there's ever a complaint or problem, a phone call puts the right people to work to straighten things out. Fast. It's service and benefits like these that make Blue Cross and Blue Shield an important part of so many people's lives. It's why Mr. Abbott, his company, and his employees don't want to be without it.

You shouldn't either. Call us for full information on high-value, high-service Blue Cross and Blue Shield programs.

Maryland State Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein announced this week he had been notified that Maryland has retained its triple A credit rating once again.

"Both major rating agencies, Moody's Investor's Service and Standard and Poor's have renewed Maryland's Triple A credit rating. That's the best credit rating you can get. It really shows the confidence of our nation's financial and investment community in Maryland," Mr. Goldstein said.

The credit ratings were issued prior to a sale of $78,815,000 in Maryland General Obligation Bonds set for Wednesday, March 15, 1978 at 12:00 noon in the State Treasury Building in Annapolis.

"Acting Governor Lee, State Treasurer James, State Budget Secretary Schmidt and I met with members of the rating agencies and the investment community in New York City on Monday, March 6th to answer questions about the upcoming bond sale and Maryland's economic condition," Mr. Goldstein said.

"The confirmation of our Triple A credit rating is a result of that meeting and Maryland's fiscal responsibility, balanced budget, and revenue surplus."

The Triple A credit rating generally means the State was charged lower interest when it sold its bonds on March 15. This lower interest cost is a direct savings for taxpayers.

Black Lung Reform To Be Discussed

Six public meetings have been scheduled in the western Maryland area to discuss the Black Lung Reform Act of 1977, according to James E. Robertson, district manager of the local Social Security office.

Persons who have never applied for Black Lung benefits but think they may be eligible should attend one of the meetings.

On Thursday, March 30, a meeting will be held at the Grantsville fire hall from 9:30 a.m. until 2:30 p.m.

On Monday, March 27, there will be a meeting at the Mt. Storm Fire hall from 10 a.m. until 2:30 p.m.

Persons whose claim for Black Lung benefits were previously denied by Social Security, do not have to take any action at this time to take advantage of the recently enacted law. All denied claims will automatically be reviewed under the new provisions and Social Security will notify these persons by mail of their rights under the new law in the next several weeks.

"If your denied claim was filed with the Department of Labor, that agency will automatically review your claim," Robertson said.

Serious Crime In Maryland Increases 1% In 1977

Serious crime increased by 1 percent in Maryland during 1977 according to a preliminary annual report just released by the State Police.

The murder category showed a 5 percent decline which is a continuing four year downward trend. There were 19 fewer murders during 1977 as compared to the previous year.

There were 235,902 serious crimes reported to police in Maryland during 1977.

Crime increased by 2 percent in the Baltimore metropolitan region and was down .2 percent in the Washington metropolitan region. A 5 percent increase was reported in Southern Maryland while crime dropped by 4 percent in Western Maryland and on the Eastern Shore.

Baltimore City accounted for 29 percent of the total crimes and was followed by Prince George's County with 20 percent. The third highest jurisdiction was Baltimore County which recorded 16 percent of the State total.

Violent crimes accounted for 12 percent of the reported crime. There were 14,856 aggravated assaults; 12,088 robberies; 1,439 forcible rapes and 333 murders.

Property crimes made up the remaining 88 percent of the total. Larcenies led the list with 131,516 reported cases, followed by 57,938 breaking and enterings and 17,732 motor vehicle thefts.

These crime figures were compiled under an expanded uniform crime reporting system initiated in Maryland by a Federal grant through the Governor's Commission on Law Enforcement and the Administration of Justice.

Caltrider New Administrator For State Highways

M. Slade Caltrider was appointed last week as State Highway Administrator by Maryland Transportation Secretary Hermann K. Intemann, replacing Bernard M. Evans who has resigned.

As State Highway Administrator, Caltrider will oversee an agency with 4,300 employees and an annual budget responsibility of $500 million.

A career employee with more than 29 years of experience with the state highway system, Caltrider has served for the past nine years as State Highway Administration District Engineer for Prince George's and Montgomery counties.

Caltrider, who is 49, joined the State Highway Administration in 1948 as a road inspector. Following four years as a survey party chief and four years as a construction project engineer, he was named Area Construction Engineer in 1960 for the Prince George's and Montgomery County area. In that position he supervised construction on highway projects including much of the Capital Beltway (I-495) and at one point simultaneously directed 44 separate construction projects.

Mirror of American Life IX:

WE'RE NUMBER ONE — Jubilant fans climb atop a city bus in Pittsburgh as they celebrate the Steelers' victory in the Super Bowl, January 12, 1974.

Editor's Note: This is the ninth in a series of 15 articles exploring "Popular Culture: Mirror of American Life." In this article, Robert Lipsyte, sports commentator and writer, begins a two-part discussion of the meaning of sports — variously called "the opiate of the people" and "the new religion" — in our society. This series was written for Courses by Newspaper, a program developed by University Extension, University of California, San Diego, and funded by a grant from the National Endowment for the Humanities.

SPORTS: THE PLEASURE OF THE FLESH

By Robert Lipsyte

On the day the Steelers clinched their second straight Super Bowl appearance, the streets of Pittsburgh were suddenly thronged with people jabbing their forefingers at a wintry sky and screaming, "We're number one, we're number one!"

It didn't seem to matter that day that the teachers were still on strike in Pittsburgh, that there had been no public education in the city for weeks, that millions of lives were feeling dislocation and damage: the Steelers — hyped as a mythic extension of the city — had won to show the world that the Iron City was "OK, Jack," and deserved to be plugged into the national happy news network. For the moment, at least, it was a hero city of super people.

Those cries of "We're number one!" from major league cities and from high school gyms, have been described lately by social scientists as symptoms of the growing need of Americans to identify with tangible and respected organizations; the increasing fragmentation of American life has made sports fandom a hook to hang onto.

The Opiate Of The People

More and more commentators have begun describing spectator sports as "the opiate of the people," as the "modern bread and circuses" and as the nation's "real religion" (while describing religion as America's real spectator sport), as if it were a seventies' phenomenon, sprung full-blown from the swollen coffers of the television networks, instead of a logical progression in the growing cultural importance of sports as a shaper of ethics, values and definitions.

Since the industrial revolution, the playing and watching of competitive games have been promoted as healthful activities for both the individual and the nation. Youth will develop courage and self-control, while Age will find blissful nostalgia. Or so we were told. Families will discover new lines of internal communication, and immigrants will find shortcuts to recognition as Americans.

Industry, the military, government, the media, have promoted this faith in sports, and in so doing have imposed the values of the arena and the locker room upon our national life.

"Only winners are truly alive," said George Allen of the Washington Redskins, one of the all-time winningest coaches and a friend of presidents. "Winning is living. Every time you win, you're reborn. When you lose, you die a little."

There are dissenters, of course, more and more these days, ranging from parents trying to defuse the tense competitiveness of Little League programs to such sports radicals as Dave Meggyesy, the apostate all-pro linebacker, who said: "Football is an attempt to sell a blown out, smacked out people, fighting inflation, the exploitation of their work, of their earth, that our system is still socially, economically and politically viable."

Impact Of Sports

Heretic or defender of the faith, or nonparticipant, there is no escape from the impact of sports. Traditionally, sports has acted as the first separator of the sexes; sometime soon after kindergarten, half the population — the girls — were cut from the team, literally or symbolically handed the majorette's baton and told to prepare for their careers as encouragers of men.

In recent years, the resurgence of the women's movement has significantly increased the number of females who participate in sports, but equality on the playing fields is nowhere near as prevalent as one might guess from the current type of female sports stars.

From the middle grades on, boys are divided into athletes and failed athletes, worthy and unworthy, just at a time when they are most confused about their bodies and their relationships with their peers.

Most Americans, early winnowed from organized sports, either turn away from sports entirely, or become avid fans, a pastime encouraged by daily newspapers (which typically fill 25 percent of their newshole with sports results and gossip), by television (for whom sports programming and revenue is a mainstay), and by the ritual man-chat that makes sports our most common currency of communication.

Those who have survived all the cuts to make a world-class amateur team or a professional club have beaten odds that have been figured at one in a thousand. (Even then, success is generally short-lived — few pros spend more than five years playing for pay). They have usually sacrificed the chance to develop themselves socially, emotionally and intellectually, so narrow is their specialty. As Mel Rogers, a black high school basketball coach in Louisiana once pointed out, a boy who devotes his life to becoming president of the United States, even if he fails, will pick up enough experience and information along the way to make a successful and fulfilling career. A boy who devotes his life to becoming center for the Philadelphia 76ers had better get there if he expects to get anywhere at all.

Superficial Glory

Athletes are seemingly lionized in our society, but the adulation is superficial and comes mostly from children, groupies and the adult male "jock worshipers" that athletes hold in contempt. People usually want something from the athlete. "Thousands of people who don't know me," says Bill Bradley, the Rhodes Scholar who played 10 years in the National Basketball Association, "use my participation as an excuse for non-action, as a fix to help them escape their everyday problems."

If the pro athlete sometimes seems "ungrateful" for this ephemeral and hypocritical celebrity status, small wonder that the black athlete, who has been most cruelly used by the sports industry, has led the way in demanding more concrete rewards in the form of super salaries. Spencer Haywood, the 19-year-old hero of the 1968 Olympic basketball team, set some sort of record by jumping from one college to another, then suddenly turning pro, then jumping to another league. It was very hard to argue with his credo: "If you're from the ghetto, it doesn't matter what you do or how you get it, only if you got it. What loyalties you got? To your family. To your (black) brothers and sisters. But to basketball? To some team? forget it."

Sports is a socializer for work or war or depression. Listen to the historian, John A. Krout, prepare us in 1929 for tough innings: "During depression, with thousands out of work, sports helps refocus our attention on the Great American values and ideals, and also helps us remember that life does not begin and end with the dollar."

The New Spirituality

Forty-five years later, a Miami Dolphin lineman, Norm Evans, prepares us for the new spirituality: "I guarantee you Christ would be the toughest guy who ever played this game . . . Jesus was a real man, all right . . . aggressive and a tremendous competitor . . . I have no doubt he could play in the National Football League . . . He would be a star . . ."

Even in golf, tennis and bowling, the sports with the greatest spectator-participant interface, the media thrust has been consumerism — the clothes, money and strength to buy more — rather than the joy of games.

Perhaps it is the lingering Puritan influence or the work ethic that compels us to justify our leisure, to make of sport a metaphor and a lesson and a preparation rather than a healthful high, the most fun a body can have in public. The emphasis on the discipline of sport, rather than the creativity, and on spectatorship rather than participation, has made sports into a work camp. Those who would break out to truly play have been made to sound radical.

"For starters," wrote the distance runner, Bruce Kidd, "we should stop preaching about sport's moral values. Sport, after all, isn't Lent. It's a pleasure of the flesh."

Community Forum Slated On Sports

"Recruitment for Athletics" will be the topic of the third Popular Culture Courses by Newspaper Community Forum to be held in the Garrett Community College gymnasium this Friday, March 17, at 7:00 p.m.

The panelists for the forum are coaches Dennis Fearnow and Paul Holzshu of GCC who will present the role of the college in recruiting athletes, and Blue Marucci and Jim Sassak who will present the roles of the community and the media. The forum is open to the public and questions from the audience will be welcomed.

Following the discussion, Coach Fearnow's baseball team will demonstrate an indoor practice session showing how they prepare for their sport in spite of the weather.

Nearly two hundred attended last week's forum on Popular Music which was followed by the Britton Sister's demonstration and concert.

The cosponsors for this week's forum on sports are The Garrett County Board of Education and Radio Station WMSG.

The Community College Courses by Newspaper Forums is a project of the American Association of Community and Junior Colleges and is supported by a grant from the National Endowment for the Humanities.

Sports: The Pleasure of the Flesh

In recent years, organized sports have come under attack. What do such questions tell us about sports, ourselves, and the times in which they are posed? Have we become a nation of on-lookers rather than participants? What about sexism, racism, and hypocrisy in organized sports? Is there an overemphasis on winning? What are the real joys of sport?

Maryland Receives Employment Grant

Senator Charles McC. Mathias, Jr. (R-Md.) has announced a $132,111 employment grant to the State of Maryland by the U. S. Department of Commerce.

The award was made under the Public Works and Economic Development Act to provide incentives for attracting private industry and to generate jobs in areas of high unemployment. The funds may be used to construct or improve public facilities essential to growth, or as loans by the State to business firms to create jobs in lagging areas.

Under the program, the State must contribute at least an additional twenty-five percent of the cost of each project.

The Ultimate Sacrifice, The Greatest Gift

Most of the turmoil in today's world can be broken down to one fine ingredient — greed. The human practice of take, take and take some more continues to plague mankind. War, poverty, inflation, labor strikes, high taxes . . . all can be linked to too much greed and too little giving. Someone is always afraid of not getting his fair share and having to make too many personal sacrifices.

About 2000 years ago this week there was a man preparing to give the greatest gift in the history of man — the gift of forgiveness and salvation for everyone. To do that, he had to make the ultimate sacrifice — his life. He gave to each one of us. He sought no personal gain, he took nothing.

His sacrifice shows so clearly the insignificance of our sacrifices. His giving so far outweighs our giving. His crucifixion was no less horrible for him than it would have been for one of us. The pain was just as great.

His life and death was a true gift of love, because he did indeed have the power to step down from that cross. But, he didn't. The receivers of his gift included even those who ridiculed him, spit on him, beat him and finally killed him.

Let us remember the sacrifice and the giving of one named Jesus Christ, not just during the Easter Celebration, but every day. Besides giving us his life, he gave us the perfect example to follow. Though we will continue to stumble, surely we can all try harder to follow that example.

Arbor Day Program Scheduled For April 6 At Camp Hickory Center

Donald E. MacLauchlan

Tommie J. Holder

The Garrett County Forest Conservancy Board is sponsoring an Arbor Day program at Camp Hickory Environmental Education Center, near Accident, on April 6, beginning at 10:00 a.m. The theme of the program will be "conservation education and its values today," combined with the traditional Arbor Day activities.

The morning activities will consist of a dedication ceremony honoring the Camp Hickory staff for its efforts in the field of conservation education. Representatives from state and local governments, school boards, civic organizations, etc., will be in attendance. Donald E. MacLauchlan, Director of the Maryland Forest Service, and Tommie J. Holder, Assistant State Conservationist, USDA, will be guest speakers during the morning program.

Mr. MacLauchlan graduated from the University of Maine with a BS degree in forestry in 1961 and he accepted a position with the State of Maryland under the old Department of Forests and Parks the same year. He served in various administrative capacities in the Department until 1972, when it was separated into the Forest Service and the Park Service. In 1972, he was appointed Assistant Director of the Park Service, the position he occupied until accepting director ship of the Maryland Forest Service in 1977.

As Director of the Maryland Forest Service, Mr. MacLauchlan supervises the administration of all of the Forest Service programs.

Mr. Holder came to the Maryland State Office of the Soil Conservation Service (SCS) in College Park in June, 1977. He is a graduate of Tarleton State College and Texas A&M University with a BS degree in Agronomy. In 1977 he attended the John F. Kennedy School of Government at Harvard University where he was granted the Master of Public Administration degree.

Prior to coming to Maryland, he served as State Soil Scientist in Colorado; Soil Correlator and field soil scientist in Montana; and field soil scientist in Texas.

Hearing Scheduled For Deep Creek Sewage Ordinance

A public hearing has been scheduled April 19 to discuss the draft sewage disposal system ordinance for the Deep Creek Lake watershed, according to the Board of County Commissioners, who will be conducting the meeting.

Interested persons will gather at 7:30 on the 19th at the Garrett Community College auditorium.

The draft would change standards for sewage disposal for residential and businesses in the watershed.

The decision to hold the hearing was reached during Monday's commissioner session, after discussing with Tom Jones and Edgar Harman.

In other business Monday, the commissioners appointed Frank Junkins, Mt. Lake Park, to the Sanitary Commission, replacing Deb Bittinger, whose term has expired.

The board commended Mr. Bittinger for his performance of duties as a member of the commission.

Bids were evaluated for the new ambulance for the Northern Garrett County Rescue Squad, and a bid of $19,188 from H&A Ambulance Company was accepted. That amount, for a 1977 Dodge, will be paid for with an Emergency Medical System grant, with the remainder raised by the squad through fund drives.

The Commissioners unanimously voted to appoint Robert Railey to the Garrett County zoning appeals board, replacing Mrs. Dana Thoman, who resigned. Mr. Railey was a former alternate member of the board. Mac Pusey has been named an alternate board member by the commissioners.

Lions To Sponsor White Cane Days

Members of the Oakland-Mt. Lake Parks Lions club will again be sponsoring a White Cane Days Drive planned March 31 and April 1, to raise funds and help obtain eye glasses for the club's sight project.

The club will set up tables at Browning's Foodland, Proudfoot's Oakland Pharmacy and Heck's to receive the donations and used eye glasses which may be given.

Charles Grubb is chairman of the project, which is held in conjunction with the other 49 Lions clubs in District 22-W.

Each person contributing either glasses or a cash donation will be given a small white cane to show the Lions' appreciation.

Potomac Edison Seeks Rate Increase

(UPI) — The Potomac Edison Co. says it will ask the Public Service Commission for an additional increase in its electricity rates because inflation has "outstripped" its revenues.

Spokesman Lynn Keller said Wednesday the utility, which raised its basic electricity rates 11 percent last August, is "not coming close" to the 9.1 percent rate of return on its investment that the PSC authorized last summer in granting the increase.

He said the utility, which serves Western Maryland, is scheduled to go before the commission within two weeks to seek the additional rate hike. The amount of the rate hike request has not yet been determined, Keller said. "We probably will not know until the day before the increase request is filed with the commission," he said.

Keller said the company has not been reaping its expected rate of return because the request for the $12.3 million rate increase granted in August had been filed with the commission last February and was based on 1976 operations. Since then, inflation has been "outstripping our revenues" and the rate of return has been between 6 percent and 7 percent, he said.

The last increase granted before August was a 9 percent hike in March 1975.

The pending rate increase request would be on basic operating charges and will not reflect higher fuel costs since the beginning of the coal strike. They are charged under a separate fuel adjustment clause.

But in a related matter, the PSC will hold a hearing Monday on imposing a ceiling on the cost of fuel to Potomac Edison customers. The request comes from the people's counsel, which represents consumers in rate cases.

John K. Keane, director of the people's counsel department, said Wednesday that the coal strike has nearly doubled electricity bills for Western Maryland consumers.

Keane said he wants the PSC to limit the amount the utility can charge for each kilowatt hour. He said the company can recover its costs above the ceiling in later base rate increases.

"The relief will not unduly inhibit the company's ability to earn a reasonable return nor affect its ability to provide adequate service . . ," he said.

Keller acknowledged that fuel costs passed on to the consumer have increased dramatically since the beginning of the coal strike because the utility, which normally uses mostly coal, has had to purchase 50 to 60 percent of its power in more expensive oil-generated electricity from other sources.

He said that the fuel adjustment charge in February was .6 of a cent for each kilowatt hour, compared to 2.5 cents in March.

"If a customer used 2,000 kilowatt hours over a two-month period in January and February, his bill would have been $104 in March, while the bill for the two-month period before that for the same amount of electricity would have been $78," he said.

"While we recognize that bills are up because of the extravagant expense, we still feel the fuel adjustment rates are the most equitable way to collect the money," he said. "If we had not purchased this more expensive power, we would have shut down three weeks ago. We would not have had enough coal."

Keller said the utility has a 17-day supply of coal left, compared to a 15-day supply last week, when 89,000 tons of coal were shipped in to supplement the dwindling supplies.

Keller also said a periodic check of electric meters shows major companies in the area have been complying with a 20 percent cutback in electricity use, mandated by acting Gov. Blair Lee, III, to help stretch out coal supplies.

Approval Given To Obtain Vehicles For County Agencies

The Governor's Interagency Committee on Specialized Transportation announced this week the approval of applications of 22 non-profit organizations in Maryland for the purchase of 34 vehicles for projects designed to transport the elderly and handicapped.

Local programs authorized to receive the specially equipped vans, buses or station wagons were Garrett County Community Action Committee and Garrett County Commission on Aging.

According to Frederick Dewberry, chairman of the Interagency Committee, the federal government will provide 80 percent of the purchase price of each vehicle, and the non-profit organization will contribute 20 percent.

The Maryland Department of Transportation will procure the vehicles through competitive bidding and will make them available for use as soon as possible after purchase.

The department also will administer the project and will act as liaison with the federal government. The non-profit organizations will be responsible for all operating costs.

The Interagency Committee membership includes representatives of the state departments of Transportation, Education, Human Resources, State Planning, Health and Mental Hygiene, and the Maryland Office on Aging.

THE ETERNAL PROMISE of spring is delightfully and fragrantly demonstrated by clumps of crocus which dare to defy March weather and bring hope to winter-worn people. These early bloomers are in the flower garden of Mrs. Cora Schrock, Blue Ribbon Road, and can symbolize to everyone that winter's farce is nearly spent, and spring's warmth can't be far away.

Commission Receives Financial Reprieve

The Garrett County Sanitary Commission received a financial reprieve Monday, when the County Commissioners voted to lend the Commission $20,000 for operating purposes.

The Sanitary Commission had requested last week that the Commissioners advance funds, saying cash flow shortages were so severe that the sanitary group would have to cease operations in ten days unless additional funds were made available.

The commissioners will take the money from the contingency fund. The loan is to be repaid when Mt. Lake Park pays its debt to the Sanitary Commission, an issue which is before the Garrett County Circuit Court at this time. A pre-trial conference on the case was held in Circuit Court Friday, but no settlement has been reached.

In the letter requesting funds last week, the sanitary commission stated that it faced the immediate problem of paying $18,000 worth of bills. There is also an additional debt of $25,000 which will come due at the end of May.

The county government has subsidized the Commission in the past and is now owed over $400,000.

Commissioner George Edwards abstained from the voting, saying that he "can't ask the taxpayers of Garrett County to continue paying into the sanitary commission." He pointed out that citizens in towns such as Accident and Friendsville have their own sewer systems to pay for and should not have to pay for Mt. Lake Park and Loch Lynn.

The town of Mt. Lake Park is currently being sued by the commission for allegedly not paying its sewerage service bills. Mt. Lake is contending that the fee charged by the sanitary commission is in excess of what the town believes is reasonable.

The sanitary commission, a voluntary lay board appointed by the commissioners, is facing a debt of $626,000 with no immediate revenue sources.

Fire Destroys Home Near Swanton

An early-morning fire Sunday destroyed most of a two-story home near Swanton, leaving five persons homeless.

The fire, reported at 3:32 a.m., damaged the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Harold E. Harris, Fort Hill Road. No one was injured in the blaze which ruined the two-story home.

According to Robert Shimer, fire investigator for Allegany and Garrett Counties, Mr. Harris was disturbed from his sleep by a noise and found a wall in the vicinity of the family's television set on fire.

He awakened his wife and three sons, ages 17, 11 and 9, and the family fled outside. Mr. Harris then had to run to the nearest neighbor, about one-half mile away, to telephone the fire department. The family phone was located on a wall near the TV.

Although the family escaped with only their nightclothes, they were later able to enter the basement where additional clothing was stored.

Two rooms on the first floor of the two-story building were heavily damaged while the remainder of the house sustained heavy smoke and heat damage. Mr. Shimer's investigation showed a mal-function of the television set caused the fire.

Firemen from Deer Park and Bittinger fought the blaze, and were on the scene two and one-half hours. Volunteer firemen from Oakland stood by at Deer Park in case assistance was needed. Winds gusting up to 50 miles an hour caused problems for the firemen, who were later praised by Shimer, who stated that they had made an outstanding stop in confining the fire.

Harris is not home through the week because of his job as a surveyor with the State Highway Administration in Baltimore.

Family members include Delmas, a student at Southern High School; Kenneth, who attends Southern Middle School, and Richard, a pupil at Broad Ford Elementary School.

The family is staying with Mr. Harris' parents, who reside near Swanton. The house is owned by Harris' father, Edward, who reported of the house and some of its contents will be covered by insurance.

GCC Building Bids $100,000 Over Estimate

The Board of Commissioners for Garrett County Monday decided to provide an additional $20,000 as the county's share of the coal technology project at Garrett Community College.

Goebel Jessup and Randall Harman, from the college, had approached the commissioners for the additional funds after bids opened for the project Thursday were over $100,000 higher than preliminary estimates. Low bid was $512,000.

The commissioners will include the $20,000 figure, the county's share of the overrun, in next year's budget.

Dr. Jan W. Janssen, acting president of Garrett Community College, and several staff members opened the four bids Thursday on the new building, in which miners would be trained. A $420,000 estimate had been placed on the cost of the new GCC building because it was almost identical to one built two years ago for that amount.

The Tri-County Council for Western Maryland has already begun efforts to obtain additional Section 214 funds from the Appalachian Regional Commission for the building. Under TCC procedure, whenever there is a cost overrun on a project, the overrun is placed at the top of the project list for supplementary funds.

Bidders on the project were Brown Construction, Fairmont; George Construction, Cumberland; Jackard Construction, Bedford, Pa., and Mellon-Stuart, Harrisburg, Pa.

Tanker Driver Killed Thursday

A New Jersey man died from injuries sustained in a tractor-tanker mishap on Route 48 last Thursday about 9:30 a.m., and several persons were treated after inhaling fumes from the chemical carried by the tanker.

Harold J. Keller, 28, Westwood, N. J., was pronounced dead at the scene by Garrett county medical examiner, Dr. James H. Feaster. A passenger in the truck, Paul J. Duncan, 35, also of Westwood, was not injured. He was sleeping in a compartment when the accident occurred.

According to state police, Keller was traveling west on Route 48 in the vicinity of the nine-mile marker when he ran off the side of the snow-covered road into the left shoulder, where the vehicle overturned.

The tank of the truck was ruptured, sending the compressed chemical, Naphthelene, onto the roadway. The liquid chemical changed to flakes as it hit the air.

Fumes of the chemical were inhaled by those working at the scene of the accident, and four troopers, ten members of the Northern Rescue Squad and several fire department members were sent to Sacred Heart hospital as a result. Officials reported those on the scene did not immediately make use of breathing apparatus available and as a result became nauseated.

The Northern Rescue Squad transported the injured to the hospital and firemen from Grantsville, Friendsville and Accident were called to the scene. Deer Park and Deep Creek were asked to stand by at their stations.

Firemen from Shaft were also on the scene, to help refill air packs for the Allegany-Garrett cascade truck.

The Department of Natural Resources was also called, to counteract effects of the chemical on local streams.

An official from the firm owning the tractor rig, Lander Transportion Co., flew in from New Jersey Thursday afternoon to help with clean up operations.

Route 48 was blocked to traffic from 9:45 a.m. until about 7 p.m., according to State Police. Traffic was not permitted on Route 48 between the six-mile marker and Keyser's Ridge. Traffic at the west exit was rerouted through Friendsville and on the east end, Route 40, was rerouted over Keyser's Ridge.

Fuel Cost Proposal Goes Before Senate

A bill requiring public hearings anytime a utility fuel adjustment rate increases five percent or more has been proposed before the state Senate.

Sen. Edward J. Mason (R-Allegany, Garrett) said the hearing requirement is part of a bill sponsored by Acting Gov. Blair Lee III. In a separate bill, Mason is proposing more frequent utility audits to determine if fuel is being purchased as economically as possible.

The two concepts, Mason said, are being merged into one bill and should come out of the Senate Economic Affairs Committee soon for full Senate approval.

He said the audit legislation is modeled after a brand new Virginia law requiring audits by the Public Service Commission every three months to "make sure purchasing is being done as economically as possible for the benefit of the consumers."

The senator said he has no reason to believe the utilities are not buying fuel as cheaply as possible but the audits would make certain no extra costs are involved. The national average marketplace statistics would be used as a guideline for the PSC to determine if utility fuel purchase costs are in line.

Mason said he likes Le's idea for public hearings before the PSC when fuel adjustment rates jump by five percent or more. "This again is encouraging utilities to keep costs down as much as they can," he stated.

He also said he is working with Sen. Charles H. Smelser (D-Frederick) to revive legislation calling for a reduction in the state sales tax added to fuel adjustment charges.

The original bill called for abolishment of the tax; however, the Economic Affairs Committee killed the proposal. Smelser and Mason are now suggesting instead of a five percent sales tax on fuel adjustment charges, a two percent charge is enough.

Mason said the bill would be an emergency measure so it could take effect immediately and would be effective only one year to see if the sales tax reduction idea is beneficial. He said the proposal could then be extended next year.

Six Senators Ask Utility Relief Here

ANNAPOLIS (UPI) — Six Maryland senators say since President Carter has decided to allow union miners to use illegal tactics and threats in their strike, the Federal Government should provide financial aid to Western Maryland residents who are faced with rising utility bills.

Sens. Edward Mason, R-Allegany; Victor Cushwa, D-Washington; Edward Thomas, R-Frederick; Charles Smelser, D-Carroll; Porter Hopkins, R-Baltimore County and Laurence Levitan, D-Montgomery, sent a letter to Carter Wednesday urging federal action.

Western Maryland mines are non-union and coal is being mined, but the coal either cannot be transported or utilities will not use it due to United Mine Workers' threats.

"How do we explain to our constituents they should pay $300 to $400 a month utility bills that are the direct result of permitting one segment of our society to blatantly defy the law of our country to further their own ends?" they asked.

The utility bills are rising because Potomac Edison Co., the major electricity supplier in Western Maryland, is running out of coal due to the strike.

The senators said if Carter has decided to allow the union miners to use illegal tactics and threats to enhance their bargaining position, then the cost of the decision should be borne by the Federal Government.

"Citizens in Western Maryland who are in no way responsible for the condition that exists should not be expected to pay the costs that are incurred as a result of the condition," they said.

Mild Weather Greets Spring

Spring arrived under mostly cloudy skies and mild temperatures. Three days prior to this, seven inches of new snow had fallen. Mild temperatures of the past few days have now melted much of the past three months' snowfall.

Snow began last Thursday morning and continued as flurries and heavy showers until Saturday morning. The snow then stopped and skies became mostly clear. A warmer wind picked up before dawn Sunday and the melting period began. Variable wind intensity continued through Sunday under mostly cloudy skies. These gave way to clearing late at night and continued into Monday morning. The rest of Monday and early Tuesday were mostly cloudy. By mid-day Tuesday, skies were mostly clear but becoming variable cloudy later in the day. Yesterday was mostly sunny but with a cool breeze blowing. Clouds gathered late yesterday afternoon accompanied by a light shower. Skies were cloudy through the night changing to mostly cloudy this morning. The sun did peek through a few times this morning but a light sprinkle followed.

Due to the cool spell, the latter part of last week, temperatures were slightly below normal by 1.7 degrees. Highs averaged 45.3 degrees or 2.1 below normal. The high was Tuesday's 64 degrees. Last Friday's high was a chilly 29 degrees and 30 on Saturday. Highs have been 51 or above since. Lows averaged 23 degrees or 1.3 below normal. The lowest was 15 degrees last Saturday. It was 18 Friday and 16 Monday. Temperatures were below freezing every night except last night. Temperature rises occurred during the night early Sunday and this morning.

Spring arrived at 6:34 Monday evening. It is also known as the Spring Equinox when the sun passes over the Equator on its journey north and the days and nights are equal in length. Skies were mostly cloudy at the time and the temperature was 55 degrees or 8 above normal.

Snowfall for the 1977-78 season now totals 129.4 inches. With the recent mild days much of it has melted away.

All 15 of Robbins, Ill., police officers were fired recently being charged with armed robbery, burglary and car theft.

Parent Aide Program Underway

The Garrett County Team on Child Abuse and Neglect is now actively recruiting volunteers for a Parent Aid Program.

This program is related to the public awareness campaign the Team undertook in the last six months. Members of the Team have been addressing local service organizations, public agencies, school and church groups on the problem of child abuse and the citizen's responsibility to report suspected abuse or neglect to the Department of Social Services or the State Police.

The Garrett County Department of Social Services has been receiving more reports of child abuse and neglect due to an increase in public awareness. Robert Shaffer, Supervisor of Services, expects the number of reports to have increased 30-40 percent over last year's total, by the end of 1978.

According to Ann Abrahamson, Project Coordinator, one of the best ways to help an abused or neglected child is to help the parents. A greater understanding of the parent's stress and problems can do much to deter incidents.

The child abuse problem is expected to be solved, not by federal tax dollars, but by the interest of participating volunteers, Ms Abrahamson said.

The purpose of a Parent Aide is to provide instruction in strengthening family life, particularly where family problems are endangering the well-being of a child.

The Team feels that if children are "our greatest natural resource" then it is a resource to be protected and developed. Ms. Abrahamson said that insuring the future strength of our society is everyone's responsibility. Persons interested in becoming a Parent Aide Volunteer should telephone the Garrett County Department of Social Services.

Cuppett-Weeks Nursing Home Holds Annual Volunteer Appreciation Dinner

Volunteers, staff members and officers of Cuppett-Weeks nursing home gathered at St. Paul's United Methodist Church Friday evening for the Annual Volunteer Appreciation Dinner.

Highlights of the two-hour banquet included a three course dinner prepared by kitchen staffers, Louella Cryser and Loretta Scott, the introduction of honored guests, a speech on the importance of volunteering, and a concluding half hour of entertainment provided by "Bitterblue" the popular local singing group.

Seated at the head table were Mrs. Bess Cuppett, President; Sandy Stanton, Volunteer Coordinator; Linda Haley, Activities Director and Dinner Coordinator; Rev. John Grant, who delivered the invocation and benediction; Diana Geare, medical secretary; and Scott Geare, master of ceremonies.

Other honored guests included Jim Cuppett, Personnel Director; his wife, Lois, Assistant Director of Nurses; Administrator Tom Cuppett and his wife, Carol; Physical Plant Chief Engineer, Bob Weeks and his wife Imogene, former Medication Aide; and Kay Trantham, Director of Nurses.

Long term volunteers in attendance included Arts and Crafts Director, Linda Fike; Card Game Coordinator, Jo Fisher; Opal Crowe, a volunteer for five years; Kathryn Helbig and Ellen Brender among others. Bob Shaffer, the home's Bingo Director for the past five years was unable to attend.

Mr. Geare's presentation touched on the humorous aspects of volunteering and then equated the volunteer's spirit with vitality in American community life. Warning the dinner guests of a grown American attitude "to let the government do it," Mr. Geare said that volunteers could restore local institutions to their former prominence in maintaining community values and cut the cost of government social programs at the same time. He characterized the 56 dinner guests as the living proof that we are our "brothers and sisters keepers." He continued by thanking the volunteers for their hard work and ended his speech with "this dinner is really in celebration of us!"

Mr. Geare then introduced the evening's entertainment. Musicians and vocalists Kurt Chiappardi, Paula Skiles and Julie Truss, members of "Bitterblue" performed and the evening closed with the awarding of a door prize, a flower arrangement, to Opal Crowe.

Dear Editor:

As a member of the Garrett County Board of Education, I would like to state my position on Delegate Bolden's bill, HB 1247, concerning missed school days. HB 1247 provides nothing that cannot be accomplished under the existing law. It does, however, eliminate all options local boards now have for making up lost days.

I strongly believe the 180-day requirement is a MINIMUM requirement and should be regarded as such. I am convinced our children need all the education they can get to function in today's society. I believe our children will ultimately be the losers if we fail in our obligation to provide them with the best education possible.

Recent published facts indicate one of every five people in the United States are illiterate. They can't read, write, compare pricing of products, fill out employment forms, fill out income tax forms, fill out time sheets, read and understand labels, etc. Tests administered in our school system indicate some of the students are below the level of literacy. These students need and are getting remedial work in areas where they are deficient. I challenge the supporters and sponsors of HB 1247 to demonstrate how these students will benefit by simply forgetting missed school days. I maintain if the children are in school and the teachers do their job properly, the children will benefit.

Perhaps a few of our parents, citizens and teachers are not concerned about the quality of education our children receive, but I believe the majority of parents and citizens want a good educational process and the majority of our teachers work very hard to provide your children with a good education. The question this bill poses is, should we do whatever is convenient or should we do the best job we can for our children's future?

Clarence L. Stem

Dear Editor:

Do you know of the cutback in funding of Camp Hickory? This is where the love of nature and the basics of conservation are demonstrated to the children of our county.

Why should the state forestry camps offer more training in forestry work and we offer less and less? Don't our children have the better right to our way of life?

History may read that frontiersmen raced across this continent "subduing all in their path" but Garrett Countians know otherwise. We know the mighty fortresses that were bypassed—our mountains. These mountains are still not domesticated. Maybe they never will but that challenge belongs to our children and no one else! Shame on those who plan for reason of economy to give that challenge to outsiders.

We can afford the price of teaching the love of mountains and the challenges that they represent. We can afford to train our own "mountain subduers".

What we can't afford are those county commissioners who now designate educational programs in forestry as "Unessential". We can't afford them at any price.

Whose mountains are these? Whose children? Who cares?

Sorehead

Dear Editor:

I have been reading the letters in your paper for several weeks. They are always about the trouble facing our world — school problems, high taxes, high electric bills, high food prices, bad roads, miners and farmers strikes. We turn the T.V. on to hear the news, it is always about world problems — trouble in the Middle East, the Panama Canal, floods, fire, storms, murder, etc. We have really made a mess of God's beautiful world he gave us. God is the answer to these problems. All through the Bible when people let sin control their lives and rejected God's warning, they were destroyed.

I believe unless we all put our sins behind us, and turn to God for help we are going to be destroyed and I believe it will be soon. So I ask all who read this, to try God. He never fails if we ask and believe.

Dear Editor Sincell:

Having attended the open meeting of the Garrett County Board of Education last week, a few questions came to mind regarding administrative use of county vehicles.

As no administrators except the Supervisors of Maintenance and Transportation are often called out at night, there seems to be no urgent need for these vehicles to be taken home. Shouldn't they be left parked on the lot behind the central board office?

A member of the school board stated at the meeting that the parking lot was not large enough to hold all of the county cars. How many do we have!? If the existing lot could not hold them all, maybe we have too many! As for fear that vandalism would occur on the lot, is it not true that the county vehicles left parked on the Social Services lot in Shady Acres, a far more vulnerable spot, have never been vandalized?

Who pays for the gasoline, maintenance, etc., for the administrative staff of the Board of Education to drive these vehicles to and from their homes each day, often using county cars for personal matters totally unrelated to the educational process? Perhaps the vehicles presently slated for replacement due to excessive mileage would have lasted much longer if used for educational purposes only. How many other workers in Garrett County are provided with transportation to and from work at the taxpayers' expense?

In a time of an "energy crunch" supervisors and other administrative staff could and should double up on their visits to county schools.

Would not the quality of education in Garrett County be considerably improved if funding priorities were directed more to meeting the educational needs of the classroom than spending taxpayers' money for the comfort and convenience of the administrative and supervisory staff?

Sincerely,
A concerned citizen

Sir:

Is it any wonder that the Oakland downtown businessmen have need to worry about other stores moving into the Oakland area. My wife and child were in a local store recently, and were treated in a very rude manner by the gentleman, (I use the term loosely), working there.

My wife was upset by this and stated that it was not the first encounter of this nature with the same person. I advised her not to do business there anymore even if she had to go to Cumberland to purchase what was needed.

It has been my opinion for some time that the local businesses were far too complacent in dealing with the public. If this type of treatment is common in downtown stores, they do indeed have need to worry.

Yours truly,
John L. Williams

Dear Editor:

In reply to the letter from the dedicated wives of coal truck owners and operators who haul coal over county and state roads in Garrett County:

These wives are making cracks about roads in our county being full of "bumps, lumps, potholes and cracked surfaces," saying their husbands and all coal trucks are "off the hook" concerning these bad road conditions. Do they think the public is so dumb not to realize they have been on strike just this winter, and that in the wintertime the roads are frozen and damage isn't nearly as high as in the springtime when thawing is occurring? The damage has already been done. Already in Garrett County, since a few of the mines have gone back to hauling coal these past few weeks, we see a difference in our back roads.

We, the public would like to see more coal tax money spent on our roads. Considering the amount of money miners and haulers make, we don't feel this is asking too much. We the taxpayers in low or middle income brackets bear the brunt of taxes going for road repair.

So ladies and gentlemen, don't think this lousy strike has set you free from damaging our roads. It hasn't.

Mother Nature has done her share of the damage, and so have you.

Sincerely,
A Local Taxpayer

Sir:

I would like to know if the people who are trying to break the U.M.W.A. realize that if it ever happens, that the non-union mines now and then will only pay the minimum wage. I'm from a coal mining family from way back through generations. Most of them have been killed or marred from their work. I listen every day in my job to different people who say they don't feel sorry for the coal miners, but I wonder how they would feel if they had to work under those conditions and ask for a little extra benefits. If it wasn't for the union coal miners in this part of W. Va. and Maryland, Garrett County wouldn't be getting much business and I know one thing — Mettiki's men can't make up for all the other miners so some of them people who have never had anything to do with the coal mines had better watch what they say about the union miners, and about them getting food stamps, they pay taxes the same as other people.

They aren't asking for much in comparison with the steel and U.A.W. workers, I know, because I have family in all of them.

Everyone worries about their electric bills going up, but don't complain about paying thousands of dollars on big cars and fancy homes due to the high prices of steel and lumber, so why treat the union miners like they are asking for the money from your pockets?

Mrs. Patsy Mikles

Dear Editor:

Last week's Republican had several letters about the Board of Education's priorities.

Another example of the Board's priorities is this: the Ski Club from one of the high schools is presently in Vermont skiing (as if we did not have snow and an excellent resort in Garrett County). This involves four (4) substitute teachers days that are paid for by the Board. At the same time, trips that involve two (2) substitute duty days (two subs for one day) are not approved even though this trip directly relates to the studies the students are involved in.

Four sub days are being used to "educate?" 18 students in Vermont while two sub days cannot be used to educate around 150 to 180 students. It should be pointed out the Ski Club is NOT part of the students' school work but is an extra-curricular activity. Yet this is approved and substitute teachers paid while a school related trip is not. (Students pay their own way in both cases).

It appears that based on the above, teachers should plan fishing, hunting, and skiing trips and not plan any trips that are directly related to what they are teaching.

An interested and disgusted parent

Dear Sir:

The ninth grade civics classes from Southern High School are planning a field trip to Annapolis. Total cost of the trip would be paid by students except for the substitute teacher. We are now told the Board of Education won't pay $40.00 for substitute teacher because of lack of funds.

Please explain why:

1) Ski Club is taking trip to Vermont chaperoned by a teacher requiring a substitute teacher for five days ($100.00).

2) Approximately 15 students are taking a trip to France accompanied by a teacher requiring a substitute teacher for seven days ($140.00).

Perhaps Maryland Civic classes should be replaced by a ski class.

Concerned student

Dear Editor:

After the recent electric bills I wonder if the people will wake up and get a tax on local coal that will really help the county.

Why should we help the robber barons of Park Avenue with a tax break.

Why should we give Japan, Germany, and Italy a tax break on Garrett County coal.

Our recent electric bill read like this:

Energy used	$ 121.66
Fuel Cost	133.74
State sales tax	12.78
Sitting surcharge	.07
	$ 268.25

We operate a small corn and hog operation but we cannot add a corn charge to the hogs we sell!

Jim Ross, Sr.

Dear Sirs:

I am writing to voice my dissatisfaction with the treatment of the interscholastic sports program at the Southern Middle School.

When Mr. Ernest Gregg first mentioned the possibility of an interscholastic sports program at the school, many teachers were in full opposition to the proposal. We wrote a petition and had it signed by the faculty members who were in agreement with it.

Several weeks later, Mr. Rickman arranged for an official vote to be taken. Again the majority of the faculty were in opposition to the institution of an interscholastic sports program at the school.!

The problem that has arisen is this: the administration and athletic faculty of the school have organized a boys' team and are at the present pulling students out of class to go to other schools to compete. We as teachers were not even given a day's notice to prepare for this and so some of the boys missed important tests.

The administration and coaches are saying that these boys are not an official school team and that this justifies their action.

I say that this is pure backtalk and run around! They have in fact chosen the boys and a cheerleading squad and they are taking the students out of class for afternoon trips. They are also collecting money from students for uniforms for the boys next year.

This has gone far enough. It is up to the board to decide if there will be an interscholastic sports team or not.

The majority of the faculty opposes it, but what good has the fight been if we in fact have lost?

The administration and the athletic coaches have not fooled us! I wonder, are they fooling the Board of Education?

Sincerely yours,
Southern Middle School

Dear Editor:

I am a CETA worker with the C.A.C. VISTA program offering housing counseling to the low-income in Garrett County. Since I have started working here, I have met many people unable to purchase decent shelter at the existing interest rates offered by banks.

President Carter has asked Congress for a home ownership program which will be aimed towards the low-income homeowner who cannot afford even a one percent interest loan through the Farmers' Home Administration. Bill S1150 "Deep Subsidy," before Congress at this time, would bring the interest rates for home ownership loans below one percent. If passed, it might even provide no-interest loans for the very poor. A shocking number of low-income families, because of rising costs, cannot afford to buy any type of housing, even at one percent interest. The "Deep Subsidy" program will help change that! It will help many more of the families needing safe, decent housing.

Congressional hearings about "Deep Subsidy" for homeownership are scheduled to begin sometime in April. Without congressional approval, the "Deep Sudsidy" program will not come about. Supporters of the bill request that interested citizens write:

The Honorable Paul S. Sarbanes, Russell Office Building, Suite 362, Washington, D.C. 20510, Phone: (202) 224-4524.

Senator Charles Mac Mathias, Jr., Russell Office Building, Suite 358, Washington, D.C. 20510, Phone: (202) 224-4654.

The bill should be mentioned by its number—S1150. It's amazing what several letters or phone calls can do! And unless our legislators realize that the people need and want "Deep Subsidy," the bill may be killed!

Sincerely,
James Ford
Housing Worker

Dear Mr. Sincell:

Having served as president of the Garrett County Board of Education for the past five years, your editorial of last week has prompted me to write this letter. In my opinion, the article raised questions in the minds of some readers as to whether the school board has any established priorities. If so, let me take this opportunity to indicate the Board has established program priorities with extensive community involvement.

In its program position statement the Board stated it would continue its efforts "in all given curricular and programatic areas," however, we went on to state "all basic skills, which includes reading, writing, listening, speaking, and arithmetic in all grade levels," would be stressed. It further stated self-responsibility for disciplinary and citizenship purposes would be a major area of responsibility. Workshop experiences, committee groups, and teaching staff are being used to further these goals.

In implementing our overall program we spend money for people, salaries, heat, light and many other items for seeing the programs implemented. We have consistently in the past spent the funds available to us for priorities that we believed improved school programming for children. As the total budget is finalized this year, we again make many value judgments related to fiscal priorities and place the dollars where they will improve the priorities listed above. The Board looks to all concerned groups...public groups, P.T.A.'s, and others for their comments and opinions as we finalize the budget this year.

Sincerely yours,
Herbert G. Harman
School Board President
Accident, Maryland

Sir:

Suppose something that wouldn't happen. Suppose you hired a man to rewire your house. For a week he worked sometimes on your house, sometimes on a house down the street. Then he handed you a bill for $516. The bill said nothing about cost of wire, fixtures, or switches. It didn't say how many hours he worked or his rate.

"What's the $516 for?" you ask. "Very simple," said he. "I'm charging $1032 for the week and splitting it down the middle between you and the house down the street."

When the Sanitary Commission presented a bill for sewerage service to Mt. Lake Park and Loch Lynn, their lawyer put in an item for several thousand dollars for legal services. He split it down the middle, 50% for their sewerage project, 50% for his other work for them. The bill didn't say what he did, when he did it, why, or what his rate is.

The people in Mt. Lake Park aren't half-wits. We now have a Town Administration that is tough and business-like. Never will a bill like that be paid. Surely the judge of the Circuit Court won't insult us by expecting us to pay it.

Come to think of it, the same lawyer is the lawyer for the County Commissioners? Do they pay vague bills?

This is election year. The big broom's a'comin.

Letters to the Editor

Dear Editor:

Sometimes people in power believe the public is either ignorant, apathetic or inarticulate. "The Republican" has provided a public forum which has proved this assumption false.

No public institution affects us more personally than the schools which influence and guide our children to adulthood. School officials should be our allies not adversaries in whom we have no trust or confidence. The future strength of our community and our country rest on the intellectual and moral growth and development of our children. Taking this responsibility of educating our children lightly will decay our national strength and squander our greatest natural resource — our childen.

I am particularly saddened when members of any "helping profession" generate policies and programs that are not motivated by the philosophy that it is better to serve your fellowman and God than it is to be self-elevating.

The courage and integrity of your reporting, Mr. Sincell, has raised our community consciousness.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Ann N. Abrahamson
Oakland, Md.

Dear Editor:

I have something to add to a letter you published and hope you publish this one.

Richard W. Perando wrote that some people think that the coal miners are "Bad Guys." Well, I think they're the most beautiful people in the world. After all, what would this world do without them? The people that are mostly saying this are the non-coal miners. They work in warm cozy offices, and they can go to a dry, warm, safe place to eat. As for the coal miners, they have to spend their working hours in a cold, dark, damp hole dug in the ground that isn't safe at all. These guys even have to eat their lunches with coal black hands and try and find a warm place to eat it on some cold rock. But they get that coal out. You bet they do. These guys know what working conditions they have to face before they enter those mines. But they still go down into them and do it. It takes brave men to do this so don't say they're the bad guys until you, the non-coal miners, go down underground and see what it really is like. Most of the coal miners go underground not knowing if they'll ever see daylight again. Think about it before you say they're "Bad Guys."

The Devil's Advocate

By Jim Willis and Kristin Milne

The Devil's Advocate is a new feature in The Republican. We will be taking timely topics and debating the issues. As the title implies, we may not be presenting our actual personal views, but rather, for the sake of argument, we will be attempting to cover both sides of an issue. The reader's response and suggestions for topics will be especially appreciated.

This weeks topic is "Parenthood."

Pro: (Jim) An argument pro-children, designed to change any skeptic's mind, would be useless and dangerous. Anyone so convinced not to have children should not listen to arguments to the contrary — they probably wouldn't make good parents anyway.

The reasons for having children are as many and varied as the number of possible parents. The best "reason" is because you (and your spouse) want to. Peer, societal, tax deductions, and prospective grand-parental pressures are not good excuses for bringing a child into this world.

We choose to have children because it is the greatest gift we can give each of our spouses. It is the epitome of the Biblical, "and the two shall become one." The number of marriages that have survived stormy periods as a consideration to the children is staggering. Children are the world's greatest marriage counselors.

Children are an extension of ourselves, and the ultimate expression of our creativity. Parenthood gives us the opportunity to teach and be taught. Many grown-ups never really "grow-up" until they realize that they now must be the sole guides of another person's welfare. Children are the world's greatest teachers of responsibility.

As parents you must learn to sacrifice. Raising a child is an exercise in give and take, an important requirement in coping with today's society. Children are born with no prejudices or biases, and it will be one of your primary responsibilities as a parent to prevent them from developing these. Children are the world's greatest examples of unselfishness.

Having a child takes nine months. Raising a child takes a lifetime, — a lifetime of joy and sorrow, the bitter and the sweet. Parents must provide, up to a point, financial support, guidance, moral support, love, understanding, criticism, and an open ear. Sometimes we fall short of our own aspirations and occasionally the children just don't measure up to our expectations. Bad children rarely come from model parents and good children are just as unusual as the products of an unfit upbringing. Of course there are exceptions to every rule, but "train a child in the way he should go, and he shall not depart from it," is 99% true. I like those odds. Children are the world's greatest reflection of ourselves.

So, by the same token, if you are planning a family, don't let anti-progenitive arguments attempt to sway you. That baby's first step, first word, first bruised knee, and first date, will be adequate compensation for the years of self-sacrifice that made them possible. In fact, children are the world's greatest!

Con (Kristin)

At this moment, the baby is shrieking his lungs to shreds. He is probably lying in soggy drawers and is demanding, at 150 decibels, his share of attention. In addition, the telephone is jangling, the television is blasting some message about "those dirty rings" that defy even chlorine bleach, and the elder child, not quite two, is playing "xylophone" on the cat's head.

This is all happening next door. I'm grateful; if it were in here, you can bet that I would not be.

Don't get me wrong: I like kids. And I want to keep on liking them. I have to — I'm a teacher. But I leave my maternal "instincts" to those who are more adept at handling stretch marks, labor pains, and 2 a.m. feedings.

Frankly, I was starting to feel somewhat out of sync (but not anymore!) because I am 24 years old, still single, and barren. Nearly all of my associates, male and female, have spouses, homes, and families or plans to start families. At some social gatherings, I'm the fifth wheel: I can not add anything pertinent to conversations centered around marriage and babies. "Babies," by the way, has recently been reported as the Number One item discussed among people aged 18-35.

Not that I begrudge anyone their right? privilege? joy? of having any of these things. I like nothing more than to see my friends smiling from heart and soul over their happiness with one another and/or the coming "blessed event." But what happens when Baby finally arrives? Can friendships withstand the added pressures of Single VS Married with Children? Or am I expecting too much?

Too much emphasis is placed on us by our culture to be fruitful and multiply. Those of us, particularly women, who choose to forego the parenthood bit are made to feel guilty and appear as irresponsible and selfish ogres. Why should we feel guilty at all to anyone for choosing our own lifestyle free of children? Why should we apologize for not producing yet another human being on an already overcrowded, polluted Earth?

I certainly do not feel sorry for myself because I'm not a candidate for the maternity ward and harbor no plans to help subsidize some obstetrician's mortgage payment. I do not need to fulfill myself through children. I am more than satisfied in finding myself through my personal and professional endeavors.

Marriage? Maybe. Children? Highly unlikely! I've witnessed far too many fine people in otherwise fine relationships succumb to the Living-In-A-Rut routine once the children are allowed to dominate the scene. I can not fathom myself in any rut of any kind. To drag a kid down with me would be valid reason for feeling guilty, irresponsible, and selfish — and kids don't need that kind of example from parents.

Alcohol, Tobacco Tax Revenue Has Slight Increase

Maryland State Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein said today that February 1978 revenue from alcoholic beverage and tobacco taxes totaled $5,620,539. Those net receipts exceeded February 1977 revenue by .69%. Revenue from distilled spirits, beer and wine taxes all reflect growth over February 1977.

Distilled spirits tax receipts of $961,853 were up 13.76%, wine increased 20.72% to net $231,421 and the beer tax of $572,671 showed a 1.56% growth. The $3,893,027 derived from cigarette taxes during February 1978 was $98,975 or 2.48% less than the $3,992,001 received for the same month of 1977.

Total receipts for the first eight months of Fiscal Year 1978 were $52,291,194, almost identical to the $52,633,269 received for the same period last year. The revenue from distilled spirits and wine taxes displayed growth of 2.19% and 5.19% respectively. During this eight-month period, taxes from beer and cigarettes trailed last year's receipts. Beer tax revenue was $5,772,841, down 2.24%, while the cigarette tax receipts of $33,152,742 were off 1.39% from the same eight months of Fiscal Year 1977.

Streams Receiving Trout Allotments

Trout stocking is proceeding almost on schedule despite late thawing of several streams, according to Cecil Edwards, conservation associate with the Fisheries Administration, and manager of Bear Creek fish hatchery near Accident.

All streams will be stocked by this weekend with the possible exception of Muddy Creek, where access roads remain blocked by deep snow.

Stock rainbow trout, from Bear Creek and from federal fish hatcheries in Virginia, will be providing trout 9-12 inches long for local fishermen. A trout stamp is required in all non-tidal waters in the state in order to possess trout. At a specific area at Savage River, all fishermen must have a trout stamp regardless of whether or not they have trout in their possession. Possession limit is five trout per day.

All streams in the county will be open to trout fishermen this Saturday and Sunday. Sunday evening Bear Creek and the Savage River area will close until April 8, to allow additional stocking. These two areas will again be closed May 7 to 13.

Other streams, including Salt Block Run, Mill Run, Muddy Creek, Buffalo Run, and Glade Run will be closed March 12 to 25, reopening the 25th until April 9. The streams will reopen for fishing April 22.

So far, 1700 trout have been freed into Savage River; 250 each in Salt Block Run and Glade Run; and 500 each in Mill Run and Buffalo Run. Muddy Creek will also receive 500.

Bear Creek Hatchery is open to the public daily from 9 a.m. until 4 p.m.

State Requiring Additional Work On Stripped Lands

The State is requiring additional reclamation work on 232 acres of land that had been strip mined in Western Maryland. At the same time, 788 acres including 135 acres in Savage River State Forest have been approved as sufficiently revegetated to meet the requirements of the State's mining laws during 1977.

The actions were taken by the Maryland Land Reclamation Committee after consideration of planting reports filed by fifteen surface mining companies involving 25 permits and 1,020 acres of reclaimed land.

Fred Bagley, revegetation specialist with the Bureau of Mines of the Department of Natural Resources, evaluated the reports and made recommendations to the Land Reclamation Committee. The Bureau of Mines is a component of DNR's Energy & Coastal Zone Administration.

Work needed on the 232 acres, according to Mr. Bagley, includes topdressing of lime or fertilizer, reseeding, and in some cases, total replanting.

The State's strip mining rules and regulations call for a two-year holding period after planting to determine if adequate vegetation is growing on the mined land before the revegetation bond, currently $600 per acre, is considered for release. Some areas may require a longer holding period if the Bureau determines that more time or effort is needed to meet the revegetation requirements.

Under a recently adopted policy, the general public will be given a greater opportunity to participate in the State's reclamation evaluation process in the future. In the spring of each year a listing of acres eligible for revegetation bond release will be publicized, and any interested Maryland citizen will have the opportunity to visit these areas by notifying the Bureau of Mines in Westernport.

Of the 788 acres approved for release, all were planted with a mixture of grass and legume species to insure adequate eroision control protection. In addition to the herbaceous cover, trees were planted on 220 acres. The tree species planted were Black Locust, Hybrid Poplar, European Alder and various coniferous species.

In the past four years there has been an increase in revegetation efforts by the strip mine operators. Mr. Bagley said this has occurred because the Bureau of Mines and the Land Reclamation Committee have scrutinized the revegetation accomplishments of each coal company and because the operators themselves are becoming more concerned and knowledgeable about their revegetation practices.

House, Senate Pass Property Tax Relief Bills

ANNAPOLIS (UPI) — A bill that would repeal a regulation allowing utilities to pass on to customers any increases in fuel costs was given a favorable recommendation Wednesday by the Senate Economic Affairs Committee.

The bill, offered by acting Gov. Blair Lee III, would partially repeal the fuel rate adjustment clause in the Public Service Commission regulations.

Lee originally proposed repeal of the entire clause, but softened his position to limit the automatic pass-on of fuel costs to no more than 5 percent a month.

Higher increases would need PSC approval.

The bill now goes to the Senate for approval.

Bette Midler is still the undisputed Divine Miss M. Although she's lost both songwriter, Barry Manilow and her talented back-up vocalists, the Harlettes, during her musical career, Bette has enough of her own campy charisma to make any of her albums shine.

Her newest release, Broken Blossom (Atlantic Records) is evidence that it was a long, difficult trip from a New York bath-house to this slick set of music.

Bette, as always, is the lovable, diversified songstylist. Cuts from her latest album are funny, melodramatic, sentimental, bouncy and jazzy. She's comparable to Bessie Smith on "Empty Bed Blues," and then flows easily into "Yellow Beach Umbrella."

Midler's music charges the room with intant-hype, exuding excitement with every breath.

Gasoline Prices Continue To Rise

WASHINGTON (UPI) — There should be plenty of gasoline for holiday travel this Easter, but pump prices will be slightly higher than they were at Christmas, the American Automobile Association reported this week.

The association said warm areas of the nation — the West, the Southwest and the Southeast — show the sharpest price increases since December, with gas up as much as 2.7 cents a gallon in some parts of the Southwest.

In colder regions, where bad weather is still hampering driving, prices are down from their December level, the AAA said. It said those decreases helped offset the sunbelt increases, producing a national increase of a few tenths of a cent per gallon.

The report said regular gas is selling for a national average 63.4 cents, up from 63.1 in December, premium for 69.0, up from 68.3, unleaded for 67.0, up from 66.6, and Diesel for 57.8, up from 57.2.

The highest priced regular gas in the nation over Easter — an average 65.3 cents a gallon — is expected to be in the West, the AAA said. It said the lowest, at 62.2, should be in New England and the Middle Atlantic states.

Athletic Boosters Conducting 1978 Membership Drive

The 1978 Membership Drive of the Southern Garrett County Athletic Association is currently underway, it was announced this week by Paul Shockey, president.

The primary goal of the association, now in its second year of existence, is to work with the Garrett County Board of Education, school athletic departments, coaches and teams for the overall improvement and advancement of athletic opportunities for youth in southern Garrett County. Projects the past year not only involved raising money to purchase new athletic equipment, but also actual work details on athletic fields and equipment throughout southern Garrett County. Some of the major accomplishments included the purchasing and installation of new lights at the Southern High football field and the purchasing of new uniforms for the Southern High Wrestling Team and the Southern Girls' Basketball Team.

A current project of the association is the sale of Southern Garrett County Athletic Booster hats, which can be purchased from any member, or at Gregg's Pharmacy and Green Acres Garden Center, at a cost of $8.00. Proceeds from this endeaver are tentatively planned to go towards the purchase of a baseball pitching machine, to be used by Southern High School as well as pony and little league teams.

Membership dues are $5.00 per year and the association meets the second Wednesday of each month in the conference room of the First National Bank of Oakland at 7:30 p.m.

"The association has plans for numerous new projects this summer and we could certainly use a lot of new, enthusiastic members to help us complete these projects," Mr. Shockey said.

PSC Rules Utilities Cannot Pass Along Non-Operating Costs

BALTIMORE (UPI) — The Maryland Public Service Commission has ruled that gas and electric utilities can no longer pass along their advertising costs and other non-operating expenses to their customers.

The ruling, unanimously approved by the commission Wednesday, also bans companies from charging consumers for lobbying expenses and charitable donations.

The new rule will affect 27 gas and electric companies, but will not affect telephone companies.

A spokesman for the Baltimore Gas & Electric Co. said the rule would have a "negligible" impact on the utility.

Under the rule, utilities can no longer charge customers for promotional ads that encourage customers to use more gas and electricity, institutional ads aimed at creating a favorable image of the company and community advertisements seeking to influence public opinion on controversial issues.

Straight Talk About Aging

By Dr. Matthew Tayback,
State Director On Aging

WOMEN—PREPARING FOR THE FUTURE

As it stands now, the grim reaper is a chauvinist, plucking the male from the midst of life at 69 years of age on the average, while allowing the female an extra seven years.

However, life expectancy rates may change as more women enter the high-stress professions traditionally dominated by men and pick up the bad habits — smoking, drinking and physical inactivity — generally associated with the male of our species.

But if you are a woman at or near retirement age, you can expect to be among the three out of four wives who will someday have to face the grim reality of widowhood. On the average, women enter widowhood at about 65 years of age and the average length of life beyond that is 18 years.

While many women are fully capable of taking care of their financial needs once their husbands are gone, some are unprepared to cope with the new challenges widowhood brings. In the usual case, it has been the man who charts the couple's financial course through life. When the unexpected death does occur, the woman can find herself at sea without so much as a compass.

This can be prevented with a minimal amount of advance planning, perhaps yearly sessions where the couple discusses their financial conditions to determine exactly what the future holds for the surviving partner.

Ask yourselves these questions:

Is there a will? According to insurance company figures, less than three out of 10 husbands leave a will behind. And if a will does not distribute the assets properly, a widow can come up with much less than she is entitled to.

Do you have a special cash account in your own name? The laws in many states freeze all the accounts of the deceased person for as long as one month after his death. And it takes four months on the average for the first Social Security check to arrive. So it pays to keep a readily available store of cash on hand in order to meet household expenses during the initial period following a partner's death.

What about your health? Are you prepared to finance your own medical requirements? If you need more health insurance, it is best to purchase it now.

How much do you know about the family's bank accounts, stocks, bonds and real estate? Who owes money to you? Who do you owe money to?

These questions are designed to start you thinking in the right direction. Remember that women are often more creative than men when it comes to finances. In a University of Oklahoma study, women were tested against men on management of investment portfolios. Seventy two percent of the women did better than the Dow Jones Industrial Averages, while only 33 percent of the men outperformed the Dow.

Both widows and the experts on aging agree on this point: It is far better to prepare together for the death of one spouse. And there is never a better time than the present to begin that preparation.

A Washington, D. C., man has been accused of putting sewing needles in packages of butter and sausage in a food store.

Better hurry.

Better call Reuben H. Donnelley and get your ad in the next Yellow Pages. Where thousands of your customers will shop first.

In fact, better call right now. Because the Yellow Pages is closing soon.

And when you call, don't just settle for a small listing. Ask for a full-fledged display ad. It can give you a real edge on your competitors who do settle for smaller listings.

Why? Because nine out of ten Yellow Pages shoppers say they want to know more than just your name, address and phone number. And because three out of four of those customers choose companies with display ads, not just listings.

So don't get left out. Look for The Reuben H. Donnelley Corporation listing in the Yellow Pages under "Advertising-Directory & Guide."

Better hurry, though. After all, your customers can't find you if you're not there.

The Southern Middle School industrial arts department, under the instruction of Charles Coddington and Ernest Umbel, is establishing an industrial arts program that consists of a progression of industrial activities for students in grades six through eight. Presently the total enrollment of boys and girls is cycled through the industrial arts areas on a six-week change basis. This allows students to be exposed to both drafting and general laboratory activities. According to Mr. Coddington, in these middle school years industrial arts is used as an important tool in enabling a child to relate to his environment. Pictured, left to right, in the design phase of the students' production of wooden toys, are Karen Wolfe, Kim Beckman and Sally Beckman with instructor Mr. Umbel.

Tom Dumire displays axle support cast from scrap aluminum. The hardware is processed in the foundry and will undergo several mass production techniques before installation on the finished wooden toys.

Angie Noland counts her fingers while cutting out a section of her wooden toy. "To promote safe attitudes and habits relative to an industrial/technical environment," is another concept taught by instructors Ernest Umbel and Charles Coddington.

Patty Roberts knows her safety glasses may not be the most fashionable accessory, but they serve a practical purpose as she operates the drill press, drilling axle holes in the wooden wheels.

Board Sponsoring "Week Of Young Child" In April

The Garrett County Board of Education, in cooperation with the Maryland Board and with the National Association for Education of Young Children, will be sponsoring "Week of the Young Child" April 2 through 9 in local Child Development, Board of Education and Headstart programs.

David Hornbeck, state superintendent of schools, is honorary chairman, and will be in Garrett County April 5 to help promote local activities.

The week has been set aside to emphasize the rights, needs and well being of all young children, with persons who work on behalf of young children joining in an effort to provide information about the nature of, and the need for, quality services for young children.

On Sunday, April 2, notices of the week's activities will be inserted in church bulletins around the county.

On Monday, April 3, the Board of Commissioners for Garrett County will sign a proclamation officially declaring April 2-9 "Week of The Young Child" in Garrett County. There will also be a radio interview at 3:05 p.m. on WMSG.

Tuesday, April 4, is teacher exchange day. On Wednesday, April 5, the Child Development Center in Oakland, located in the former Center Street School, will hold open house from 10 a.m. until 2 p.m. Oak Park Headstart will hold open house from 5 until 8:30 p.m.

Thursday, April 6, there will be open house at the Jennings Headstart Center from 9 a.m. until 3 p.m.

Mrs. Dot Leuba will conduct a "Play Day" for all children involved in the above programs on April 7 at GCC, from 10 a.m. until noon.

Throughout the week, displays of art work will be in libraries in Oakland, Accident and Grantsville.

In Garrett County, the Child Development preschool program operates centers at Oakland, Friendsville, and Kitzmiller, and also sponsors an Outreach program with home visitors. Approximately 100 youngsters are part of the Child Development project in this county. Child Development is administered through the Maryland Department of Employment, Social Services and the ARC. For additional information, Mrs. Linda Wengerd, director, may be reached at 334-8152.

Headstart programs are principally for pre-school and handicapped assistance to low income families. Mr. Coddington, industrial arts instructor notes that, "during the construction of their wooden toys, students will be introduced to areas of instruction involving dendrology, safety, measurement, surfacing procedures and warpage, hand tools, power tools, adhesives, the foundry process, abrasives, fasteners, the use of mass production fixtures, assembly techniques, and finishing techniques. Industrial arts becomes more than a tool to aid other disciplines. It becomes the primary method in teaching the broad concepts of industry and presents an orientation to a vast range of industrial experiences and possibilities for future career choices." Pictured is student, Keith Andrews, drilling axle holes through metal cast in the foundry process. Scrap metal for the project was donated by several people in the community, with steel rods for the axles donated by Cecil Holtschneider, owner of Quality Machinery.

Southern Middle School eighth grader, Susan Shaffer, carefully cuts one of the wooden component parts to be used in the construction of a toy. The wooden toys are created on the drafting board with consideration to geometric construction, structural stability, modern design and market ability. The students use brain-storming techniques to gain a cluster of design possibilities, then are guided by the instructor to consolidate ideas. The toy is subdivided into parts in the form of an assembly drawing. The students, with their completed assembly drawings, progress into the lab area to begin construction.

"To promote creativity through problem-solving experiences with tools and materials," is a goal of the Southern Middle School's industrial arts program. Student, Eddie Bowman demonstrates the concept by utilizing a better understanding of safety while operating a hand drill and belt sander simultaneously to round wooden wheels used on the completed toys.

Miss Falkenstein Honored At St. Mark's Lutheran

Miss Grace Falkenstein was the guest of honor at a surprise reception last Friday evening at St. Mark's Lutheran Church in Oakland.

Miss Falkenstein, a life-long resident of Oakland and member of St. Mark's, recently celebrated her 90th birthday. She was honored for her many years of service to the church, which included singing in the choir, serving as financial secretary for many years, serving as a Sunday School teacher and pianist. She still attends church fairly regularly.

A covered dish dinner was followed by various skits, depicting the numerous aspects of Miss Falkenstein's life with the church, performed by members of her family and the congregation. Hymns were sung and the senior choir presented one of her favorite anthems.

A gift from the church presented in Miss Falkenstein's honor was a sound system to be installed in the church in the near future which will amplify the church service for those members with hearing difficulties. The system will initially include three hearing units, but additional ones may be purchased at a later date.

Miss Falkenstein also received a gift from the Lutheran Church Women, presented by Mrs. Polly Hanst, who organized the reception along with Mrs. Sue Pagenhardt.

Miss Falkenstein is the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Falkenstein. She has four sisters, all of whom were at the reception, including Mrs. Lorena Smouse, Ravenswood, W. Va. Mrs. Mary Heinbaugh, Canton, Ohio; Mrs. Eva Bishoff, Friendsville, and Mrs. Mabel Kahl, with whom Miss Falkenstein resides on Fourth Street. Several nieces and nephews and their families were also in attendence.

"Circus" Comes To Broad Ford School

Mrs. Debbie Woods' first grade class at Broad Ford Elementary School presented a circus to the kindergarten, first and second grade classes last Wednesday. This was a culminating activity for a Social Studies circus unit in which the children studied the behavior and habitats of circus animals. All of the children participated in circus acts including, "The Dancing Bears:" Bobbie Jo Harvey, Brian Evans, Terry Artice and Donna Smith; "The Twirley Whirleys:" Denise Riley, Angie Lewis and Beckey Ahern; "Lion Tamer and Lions:" Gary Reams, Greg Simmons, Dewey Warnick and Shawn Groves; "Strong Men:" Billy Sweitzer, Scott Clever and Scott Swick; "Tallman:" Mike Kepple; "Fat Lady:" Lisa Ellifritz; "Acrobats:" Robin Johnson, Jennifer Glotfelty and Kim Fredericks; "Clowns:" Krystal O'Brien, Debbie White and Cindy McCartney, (with make-up by Wayne Johnson, principal); and the "Ring Master:" Mickey Michaels; "Jugglers:" Patty Collins, Mike Rodeheaver and Steve O'Brien.

The children, upon returning to their rooms, enjoyed popcorn and balloons distributed by Mr. Johnson, a member of the Ali Ghan Shrine Clown Unit who was dressed as a clown.

JUST CLOWNING AROUND are these three students of Broad Ford Elementary School who were part of a circus which was presented by Mrs. Tom Woods' first grade class to kindergarten children, the rest of the first grade and a second grade class last week. These girls were all made up by their principal, Wayne Johnson, who also dressed as a clown. Mr. Johnson is a member of the Ali Ghan Shrine Clown Unit of Cumberland. Poison Center Has Record Phone Calls

The Maryland Poison Information Center (MPIC), a division of the University of Maryland School of Pharmacy, received a record number of 27,310 calls during 1977. For the 11th straight year, more than 50 percent of all calls involved inquiries for children under the age of five.

Because of the consistently high number of accidental poisonings among preschoolers, the focus of this year's National Poison Prevention Week, March 19-25, is again aimed at parents and others involved in caring for young children.

Since National Poison Prevention Week coincides with the beginning of Spring, parents are urged to use this time to clean out medicine chests, kitchen storage cabinets, garages, and other places where potential poisons may be stored. The poison center also recommends the purchase of a one ounce container of Syrup of Ipecac to be administered if an accidental poisoning occurs.

In conjunction with National Poison Prevention Week, the Maryland Poison Information Center has planned a wide range of activities beginning with the recent proclamation presented to the center by Acting Governor Blair Lee and including an Open House for health professionals to be held at the center, 636 W. Lombard Street, on Wednesday, March 22 from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. and from 6 p.m. to 8 p.m. Staff members of the poison center are also participating in a series of informational health fairs throughout the state, appearing on radio and television shows to discuss poison prevention, and distributing educational materials to the general public.

The poison center is again using the MR.YUK program to heighten public awareness regarding poisons. MR. YUK stickers are poison warning signals that can be attached to potentially dangerous agents in the house. Children should be taught that the green, scowling face of MR. YUK means danger and that they should not touch any container bearing the MR.YUK symbol.

Telephones at the Maryland Poison Information Center are manned 24 hours a day, seven days a week. If someone swallows a drug, commercial product, or anything else not intended for ingestion, the poison center or a doctor should be called immediately. The telephone number for the center is 528-7701 for metropolitan Baltimore and 1-800-492-2414 for calls outside the metropolitan area.

For information regarding the Open House for health professionals or to order MR. YUK stickers, call 528-7604.

Kodak Loses 113 Million In Anti-Trust Litigation

NEW YORK (UPI) — Eastman Kodak Co., the world's largest photographic firm, says it will appeal a jury ruling that awarded nearly $113 million in antitrust damages to a small New York firm.

The damages were awarded Wednesday by a federal court jury to Berkey Photo Inc., which claimed Kodak had used its technical dominance to monopolize the amateur photographic market in violation of antiturst laws.

Kodak said it would appeal the damage award as "Unwarranted because the company continues to believe that the court applied an incorrect standard of law in the case."

"We believe," the company said, "that Kodak's introduction of new and innovative products has not violated the law. We intend to appeal both the liability and damages findings of the jury."

The same eight-woman, two-man jury that assessed the damages Wednesday ruled in January that Kodak, of Rochester, N.Y., was liable for monopolizing the amateur market.

The liability decision was said to be the first case in which jurors were callled upon to judge the conduct of a major corporation.

The jury actually set damages at $37.6 million, but Berkey's lawyer, Alvin M. Stein, said that under federal antitrust laws the award automatically is trebled to $112.8 million.

"This is an absolutely historic case," a jubilant Stein said after the jury was excused. "It represents the effective use and enforcement of the antitrust laws by a private litigant."

Two other antitrust complaints filed against Kodak in 1973, by G.A.F. Co. and Pavelle Corp., are now expected to go forward with the completion of the Berkey trial.

The jury found that Berkey, with annual sales of less than $200 million, was entitled to recover $37.6 million in damages from Kodak, which reports annual sales of nearly $6 billion.

The jury decided Kodak not only had the power to monopolize much of the amateur photographic business, but actually did so in such areas as color film, still cameras and color print paper and thereby injured Berkey's business.

Berkey, which sued originally for $300 million in damages, runs retail camera stores, makes cameras, and processes film. Its main claim was that Kodak illegally gained a dominant position in such products as cameras and color print paper by linking them with the sale of film.

One Killed In Bomb Explosion In Denver

DENVER (UPI) — Police Chief Art Dill reported Wednesday two powerful bombs exploded minutes apart early Wednesday morning in locations four blocks apart in downtown Denver. A third device, a paper-wrapped dynamite bomb with a timer, was discovered near one of the sites and defused.

The lone victim, described as male, 25 to 30 years of age, was crouched over one of the bombs when it exploded. Dill said the man was blown to pieces by the blast and his body was scattered over a two-block area. Today deputy coroners are examining the bits of bone and flesh gathered in hopes in identifying him.

Karl Wallenda Dies Wednesday

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico (UPI) — The patriarch of the Fly Wallendas family, Karl Wallenda, 73, died Wednesday when a gust of wind swept him off the high wire he was walking 10 stories above the ground.

The wire was strung between two 10-story hotels in the heart of San Juan's tourist district. When the wind hit him he tried to grab the wire but failed and plunged 150 feet to his death on a paved parking lot. His family said their daredevil walks in the air will go on — "That's how Karl would have wanted it."

A Former FBI Clerk Pleads Guilty

CLEVELAND (UPI) — A former FBI file clerk and her husband have pleaded guilty to charges they sold secret government documents to organized crime figures.

Geraldine M. Rabinowitz, 30, and her husband, Jeffrey, 32, entered the surprise plea to two counts each of bribery in U. S. District Court late Wednesday.

The FBI said it was only the second time in history an FBI employee had been charged with such an offense.

Since their arrest on March 15, the pair reportedly have been cooperating with federal authorities. But U. S. Justice Department attorneys said they made no deal with the suburban Cleveland couple for a reduced sentence or later reduction of charges.

The couple has been unable to make bond and will remain in federal custody. U. S. District Judge Robert Krupansky delayed sentencing, pending a pre-sentence report on the defendants.

The FBI said the couple sold the documents to now-fugitive mobster Anthony "Tony Lib" Liberatore. Authorities believe Liberatore, indicted in connection with the bomb slaying of Cleveland racketeer Daniel J. "Danny" Greene, has fled the United States.

Reportedly among the stolen documents Rabinowitz and his wife were charged with selling to Liberatore was a list of 100 or more FBI informants. The list included names of union officials and other well-known Cleveland residents.

It has been rumored that Greene himself may have been an FBI informant. Federal authorities have said Greene was murdered last October as part of an underworld power struggle in Northeast Ohio.

Many of the stolen documents also allegedly concerned James T. Licavoli, alias "Jack White," the reputed head of organized crime in Cleveland. Licavoli is on trial along with five other underworld members for the Greene bombing death.

The FBI became aware of the leak from its own staff when the bureau learned confidential FBI documents had gotten into the hands of Licavoli and that Licavoli had a contact in the Cleveland FBI office.

Liveratore, 56, was a political appointee of former Cleveland Mayor Ralph Perk. He was serving on the Cleveland Regional Sewer Board at the time of his indictment earlier this month.

Bill To Halt Fuel Costs To Consumers Gets Good Review

ANNAPOLIS (UPI) — The Senate and House of Delegates have passed separate bills to provide about $30 million in property tax relief for homeowners.

The Senate Wednesday passed a bill that would extend the current circuit breaker tax relief program for elderly homeowners to all homeowners, based on their tax rates and income. It would provide about $30 million in tax relief.

But only 124,000 of the state's 1.2 million homeowners will qualify, according to Sen. James Simpson, D-Charles.

Simpson said it is the "biggest Hoax" he has seen in his four years in the Senate because it will not provide relief to those "hit hardest."

Sen. Fred Malkus, D-Dorchester, also argued against the bill.

He said it would promote county government spending because counties with high tax rates needed to finance the spending would get the most relief under the program.

"It puts a premium on inefficiency in government," Malkus said.

Sen. John Collahan, D-Baltimore County, said the bill provides no relief for the average taxpayer.

"All the steelworker in Dundalk wants to know is how many more bucks does he have to put out," Coolahan said.

Despite the opposition, the bill passed the Senate 33-13.

Sen. Robert Stroble, R-Baltimore County, said acting Gov. Blair Lee III should not have abandoned his proposed increase in the state income tax standard deduction to go along with the legislature's circuit breaker plan. Lee originally opposed the circuit breaker, but has since said he will sign it.

The increase in the standard deduction allowance was abandoned because the state could not afford both it and the circuit breaker relief, according to legislative leaders.

The House passed a package of tax reform measures to give a total of $100 million financial relief to homeowners. It includes the circuit breaker and a second bill that would reduce the amount at which a home can be assessed from the current 50 percent of its market value to 45 percent.

The Senate passed an identical bill, offered by Lee. It would provide homeowners with tax breaks totaling about $38.9 million.

In other action, the Senate approved a bill that would continue the state's financial support for driver's education programs.

The state aid was scheduled to end in 1980, but the bill will continue it.

Coolahan opposed the bill, saying instruction in driving for young people should be their parents' responsibility.

"Maybe we'd get to know them," he said.

But Sen. Edward Conroy, D-Prince George's, sponsor of the bill, said driver's education makes better drivers.

French Troopers Head For Lebanon

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — French paratroopers flew into Lebanon today to join U. N. peace-keeping forces and Israel said it might withdraw from the war zone within a few days.

In Washington, President Carter and Prime Minister Menachen Begin ended their talks in sharp disagreement.

An Air France jetliner landed in Beirut carrying 165 French troops and their commander, Col. Jean Salvan, from Toulouse in southern France. Other planes were arriving later in the day with 300 more men, jeeps and trucks.

Also arriving from Jerusalem was Maj. Gen. Emmanuel Erskine of Ghana, overall commander of the 4,000-man U. N. force.

"Peace has been very difficult to maintain here for years," Salvan said at the airport. "That task will not suddenly become easier just because we are arriving here."

The colonel said the full French unit of 600 soldiers would probably head south in a few days to take up positions in a buffer zone between invading Israeli soldiers and Palestinian guerrillas.

An advance U. N. party of some 65 Iranian troops already has reached the south, setting up headquarters in the only intact structure at the bombed-out village of Rhandariya, overlooking the Kai bridge on the Litani River.

Army Chief of Staff Lt. Gen. Mordechai Gur told foreign correspondents touring Israeli frontline positions around the Lebanese port of Tyre an Israeli pullout might start soon after deployment of the U. N. forces in the south.

Israel captured 700 square miles of Lebanese territory between the Litani and the border in a massive seven-day thrust against Palestinian guerrillas. It called a unilateral cease-fire Tuesday.

The truce held in most parts of the south Wednesday, although guerrillas in a refugee camp near the port of Tyre and in the southeast frontier area fired scattered rocket and shell salvos on Israeli positions.

Begin, ending two days of intense and apparently futile talks with Carter in Washington, was taking his case to the American public today in a speech to the National Press Club and a televised interview before flying to New York and home.

"At this historic moment, peace seems far away," Carter said somberly as he escorted Begin from the White House.

American officials said key differences involved the issues of Israeli withdrawal from occupied Arab lands, Israeli settlements in occupied territory and the U. S. decision to sell warplanes to Egypt and Saudi Arabia.

Carter Wednesday urged the House International Relations Committee to support his proposal for a Middle East arms package. Begin publicly complained that Arab states were "armed to the teeth."

Midwest Hit By Storms, Flooding

(UPI) — A cold front headed east today dumping hailstones and threatening floods in parts of the Midwest while pushing rain into the Ohio Valley.

Kansas residents were urged to be on the alert for lowland flooding near streams, as heavy thunderstorms moving across the eastern half of Kansas brought hail and heavy rain late Wednesday.

The National Weather Service reported dime-sized hail falling at Lebo, Kan., and 61 mph gusts of winds striking Wichita, Kan., where over an inch of rain was recorded.

North-central Texas saw hail, and a wet mixture of rain and snow fell in Wyoming, Colorado and the northwest Nebraska.

Stockmen's advisories were issued by the NWS for eastern Colorado and western Nebraska as temperatures dipped into the 30s — unfavorable weather for newborn spring cattle and sheep.

Showers stretched ahead of the front into the Ohio Valley. The NWS said flooding along Ohio's Ottawa River, which flows through the northern portion of Toledo, would continue today before the waters start to recede.

An employee parking lot at a north Toledo industrial plant was partially submerged and nearby residents were urged to take precautions against the flooding.

The NWS said a high pressure system moving over the upper Midwest behind the cold front was pushing temperatures back down from the relatively balmy 40s and 50s.

Chicago enjoyed a 61 degree reading Wednesday — the highest the mercury has climbed since last fall — but temperatures returned to seasonal 40s and low 50s today.

Lee Criticizes Compromise Bill

ANNAPOLIS (UPI) — Acting Gov. Blair Lee III today criticized an ethics bill for public officials being considered by the Senate, charging it fails to close all the conflict of interest and financial disclosure loopholes.

Lee told a news conference he likes his ethics bill much better because it is stronger.

However, the Senate decided to take parts of his bill and add it to a measure sponsored by Senate President Steny Hoyer, D-Prince George's, and Sen. John Byrnes, D-Baltimore.

"I will go along with a certain amount of game playing, but when you mess up good legislation it's not funny any more," Lee said.

Lee said the Hoyer-Byrnes bill will help in the administration of financial disclosure and conflict of interest laws for public officials because it creates a single agency to oversee the laws.

"But they (the sponsors of the bill) are not going to remove all the loopholes," he said. "That's abundantly clear."

Lee said he did not know Byrnes had been working on a bill when he decided to draft one in October.

"It was the best-kept secrets in town," he said.

Lee was skeptical about another Senate bill, which was passed and sent to the House of Delegates Wednesday. The bill would limit state and local government spending to increase no more than 7 percent from one year to the next.

"It's sort of a beautiful thought, but I'm not sure it's practical in terms of the way we do our budgets," Lee said. "I don't think it's feasible to fine tune the tax laws each year (to meet the 7 percent increase limit)."

However, he said it would be easier to impose the limit at the local level because counties use the property tax as their main source of income and it is less difficult to adjust the tax rate.

"I have serious misgivings about the bill, certainly at the state level," he said.

Lee said he remains confident that his bill to move a state prison site, now at the old Continental Can Co. Factory in East Baltimore, to Fort Armistead in South Baltimore will pass the legislature.

Baltimore legislators have offered an alternative location near the State Penitentiary in central Baltimore.

"I don't want it near the penitentiary," Lee said. "It's simply not an alternative."

CWA Pledges Help To Striking Miners

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Communications Workers of America has pledged $1 million from the union's defense fund to relieve the financial stress on striking United Mine Workers union members.

The coal strike has lasted 107 days, leaving miners without paychecks since December. Several other unions, including the United Auto Workers and United Steel Workers, have pledged assistance to the UMW.

"The union's action to provide assistance to striking mine workers and their families comes at a time when CWA itself is facing a major financial crisis due to the combined effects of inflation, unemployment and ever-increasing automation in the communications industry," said CWA president Glenn Watts.

The CWA covers 575,000 workers nationwide.

Despite the financial bind facing his union members, Watts said, "we cannot stand by while mine workers and their families are paying the ultimate price for their union beliefs: going without wages, without health care, without food in many cases."

Father's Day Founder Dies

SPOKANE, WASH. (UPI) — Mrs. John Bruce Dodd, 96, who suggested the idea of Father's Day nearly 68 years ago because of admiration for her own father, died Wednesday at a nursing home.

It was in 1910 Mrs. Dodd first suggested a day to honor fathers. She later recalled the thought came to mind while listening to a Mother's Day sermon in church.

She said it was the courage and selflessness of her own father, Henry Smart, in fulfilling the double duties of father and mother that inspired her to found such a day. She was 16 when she and five younger children were left motherless.

Mrs. Dodd officially proposed Father's Day on June 6, 1910, and later that year William Jennings Bryan heard of the proposal and offered his support.

Congress endorsed the idea in 1914, and a presidential proclamation in 1917 firmly established the observance.

House Votes For Pay Increases

ANNAPOLIS (UPI) — The House of Delegates acted Tuesday to raise General Assembly salaries to $18,500 annually by 1982 by rejecting a senate resolution for a pay hike to $16,000 from the current $12,500.

House members, divided by worries about voter reaction to the pay hike in the 1978 election year and angered at the Senate for leaving the final decision in their laps, voted down the Senate recommendation 73-60.

As a result of the House vote, a recommendation by the Governor's Salary Commission takes effect in 1979 when salaries will jump to $16,000 and then to $18,500 by 1982.

Delegate Benjamin Cardin, D-Baltimore, said, "We created the salary commission recommend our salaries because they are in a better situation than us to determine what the next legislators should receive."

Cardin said the increased workload expected in the next four years in addition to the rising cost of living justified the full salary hike.

The House voted in February to accept the recommendation of $18,500.

However, the Senate then passed the resolution to lower the salary hike and sent it back to the House for Tuesday's vote.

A roll call showed all four members of the Western Maryland delegation voted against the lower pay raise, including Delegates William B. Byrnes, Casper R. Taylor, Jr., Thomas B. Cumiskey, Jr., and DeCorsey E. Bolden.

Byrnes, chairman of the delegation, said early this week he voted against the resolution because he votes against every piece of legislation calling for a pay increase. Reminded that the House action means a bigger pay increase for legislators, he said he wants his voting to be "consistent" and despite the ramifications his main argument is that no increase at all is needed.

Byrnes said he knew what the House of Delegates job paid when he ran for office and he has no problem with the present salary. He said any increase he receives will be turned over to a worthy Allegany County charity.

Fiddle Lovers Head For North Carolina

UNION GROVE N.C. (UPI) — It's a Woodstock with mountain men, where pot smokin' and banjo pickin' combine in an event that was grown and changed enormously from its start as a rural school fund-raiser 54 years ago.

More than 130,000 persons, mostly young, are expected to fill J. Pierce VanHoy's 70-acre cow pasture this weekend for the 54th annual Old Time Fiddlers' Convention.

Organizers of the event say it has become a spring happening comparable to the mass student migration to Florida. Some come from as far as Alaska, Lt. Guy Griffin of the Iredell County Sheriff's Department said.

More than 10,000 persons had arrived by Wednesday evening, setting up tents amidst bluegrass musicians, sunbathers and Frisbee throwers.

"They fought the dad-blamed snow all winter," VanHoy said. "They're enjoying the sunshine now. They deserve it." The field began filling on Sunday, he said.

The Iredell County Sheriff's Department also is getting ready for the convention's start today. Sheriff Tom Thompson said his 40 officers have made six arrests already for misdemeanor marijuana possession.

Police usually describe the crowds as peaceful. Drug and drunkenness arrests usually total 100 or 150 for the weekend, they say.

What brings the crowds to the Blue Ridge Mountain foothills are the 20 band and scores of individual players. Last year's "World Champion Fiddler," Postman Buddy Pendleton of Stuart, Va., is expected to seek his fifth title.

Musicians compete in preliminary contests tonight and Friday in order to reach Saturday night's finals. The top fiddler picks up $1,000, while $500 goes to the best bluegrass band and the No. 1 old time band (groups that don't use dobros and pick the banjo differently than bluegrass players). Clogging exhibitions and other performances also are planned.

This is the second year the convention will be at VanHoy's 12,000-seat outdoor arena, a far cry from the schoolyard where the first convention took place. It has grown ever since VanHoy moved it to his property.

We had to dig deep for the Grand Canyon.

$15,000,000 is a lot of money for a hole in the ground.

But that's what we paid Mexico for territory that included the magnificent Grand Canyon.

Americans had to dig deep for the money. So, they invested in government securities. Because they knew they could take stock in America.

You can take stock in America today by buying Savings Bonds.

It's easy when you join the Payroll Savings Plan. That way, a little is set aside automatically from each paycheck to buy Bonds.

It's a great way to save. For a new house. Or your children's education.

Or even a trip to the Grand Canyon.

So buy Bonds. It's a savings plan you'll really dig.

Take stock in America.

Extension Service To Offer Session On Gardening

Gardening will be the topic of the Cooperative Extension Service's March Leisure Time Update Series. James McHenry, Extension Agent, Agricultural Science, will be presenting up-to-date material for the home gardener.

The areas which will be presented in this session will be sight selection, fertilizer and liming, appropriate varieties for Garrett County, amount to plant, weed control, insects and disease control, and harvesting and storage. This information could be useful for those people who are interested in having a successful, productive garden this year, according to Mr. McHenry.

The gardening workshop will take place on March 29, at the Garrett Community College Oakland Center from 7:00-9:00 p.m. Only one meeting will be held for this topic due to the limited use of meeting places during the current energy crisis.

All interested persons are invited to attend. For further information, persons may contact the Garrett County Cooperative Extension Service.

SHA Directive Will Aid County Road Construction

A State Highway Administration directive, effective April 3, will make it simpler for counties to use State Aid funds for the construction of county roads.

Developed by the SHA's Office of Finance and Program Management, the directive is expected to encourage counties to make more effective use of State Aid funds.

Under the State Aid program, counties, at their option, may execute an agreement with the Administration to exchange for State funds Federal monies appropriated for construction and reconstruction of county roads. Because the State imposes fewer restrictions than the Federal Government on how the funds are spent, the arrangement gives the counties more flexibility in their use.

At present, SHA District Engineers supervise projects for which State Aid funds are used. The new directive calls for turning the field reviews and control of such projects over to the counties. These reviews and the voluminous documentation required under the former system are eliminated under the new procedure.

John A. Agro, Jr., Director, Office of Finance and Program Management, expects the new procedure to benefit both the State and the counties. In addition to minimizing the administrative red tape involved in the State Aid process, SHA personnel will be relieved of the responsibility for frequent engineering reviews of each project, and the counties will see an overall reduction in paperwork.

In drafting the directive the Office of Finance and Program Management consulted district engineers, key management personnel in the SHA, and representatives of the counties in order to identify current problems and solicit recommendations. Comments were also solicited from the Maryland Department of Transportation to ensure that the directive conforms to general DOT policy.

The new directive is being distributed to give counties an opportunity to review the plan before it goes into effect. Questions concerning the new program may be answered by calling Richard Pazourek, Assistant Director, Office of Finance and Program Management, at 383-4285.

At 7:30 p.m., the Bittinger Homemakers club will meet at the Bittinger fire hall. Mrs. Ann Abrahamson will be presenting a program on child abuse, and the public is invited.

Stewart Funeral Home Invited To NSM Membership

The Stewart Funeral Home, Oakland, recently accepted an invitation into membership in National Selected Morticians, an international association of leading privately owned and independently operated funeral homes and mortuaries.

The Stewart Funeral Home was formerly known as the Minnich Funeral Home and before that, the Bolden Funeral Home. The present owner, Bradley A. Stewart, has been associated with the firm since 1966. The Stewart Funeral Home has been recognized by NSM as "meeting its high standards of invitational membership, and in providing responsible funeral service for those it is called upon to serve."

Affiliation with NSM is considered an honor because of the high standards of funeral service which are required. Invitation to membership is extended only to a leading mortuary after a thorough investigation and evaluation of its standards of service, reputation and facilities has been made within the community.

The essential purposes of National Selected Morticians are four fold: 1) to study, develop and establish the highest standards of service for the benefit of the public; 2) to provide a continuing forum for the exchange, development and dissemination of knowledge and information beneficial to members and to the public; 3) to furnish information to members and to the public regarding all aspects of funeral service; 4) to cooperate with other organizations, public and private, to achieve these purposes.

NSM Headquarters is in Evanston, Illinois. Over 900 member mortuaries are located in the United States and Canada, as well as elected members in England, Scotland, Ireland, Wales, France, Belgium, Sweden, Mexico, New Zealand, Australia, Sri Lanka, Guam and the Philippines.

The Stewart Funeral Home was congratulated by the President of National Selected Morticians, John McGilley, Kansas City, Missouri who said, "I am privileged to welcome the Stewart Funeral Home into NSM, with every assurance that this reliable firm will continue to serve the people of the Mountain Top area in complete accord with the Principles and Code of Good Funeral Practice of our association."

This thing we call hope — it is a strange thing. It springs eternal in the human breast . . . and yet so often it has been mocked by time and tragedy.

Why, indeed, does every man cling to his hope, even when the self-styled realists cry "hopeless."

The answer is written in the beautiful history of the first Easter Day. Faithful friends of the Master came to anoint His Body. Came sorrowing . . . without hope.

And they returned rejoicing: "Christ is risen."

That was the birthday of Hope . . . the certainty of Christians that even death cannot destroy the believing soul!

And every Easter Day countless men and women discover or rediscover that Hope. It brings a new joy to their lives. It will, to yours . . .

RESURRECTION AND YOU

Lesson for March 26, 1978

Background Scripture: Acts 4:5-31
Devotional Reading: 1 Peter 1:3-9

Most of us tend to think of Easter solely in terms of Christ's victory over the grave and the forces of opposition. Well, it is that, but it is considerably more, too.

Rev. Althouse

Easter is Christ's victory, but it is also our victory. Unless the resurrection was something that we also can experience in our lives, Easter would be little more than just another celebration of a historic event in the chronicles of time.

By what power?

So it was in the early church, too. Easter was important, not only because it restored the Master to them, but because with his own victory he brought to them a power that would utterly transform their lives. Wonderful as was his escape from the tomb in Joseph's garden, the most wonderful part of Easter was the effect that it would have on the lives of the disciples ever afterward.

As we trace their story in the four gospels, the disciples are not all that impressive. To be sure, they have some high moments, but often they are slow to believe and understand and even slower to put the Good News to work in their lives. Particularly at the death of Jesus they are anything but impressive in their faith and courage.

But after Christ has risen from the tomb something remarkable happens to these men. It becomes obvious that the same power that restored Jesus to life and rolled a heavy stone from his tomb has brought new life to them and rolled away from their lives some momentous barriers. After the resurrection of Jesus Christ there is a continuing resurrection taking place within their lives.

In Jesus' name

We see this power evident in them in two ways. First, as the Master had performed marvelous signs and wonders, so now would they. Peter and John on the way to the temple for prayer stop to heal a man born an invalid. For many years afterward these signs and wonders would continue to be important in the outreach and witness of the church.

Of course, the signs and wonders got them into trouble and gave occasion for another instance in which the resurrection power became visible in their lives. Although they were common and uneducated men, as they stood before the officials in Jerusalem, the power of the resurrection moved within them and gave them the ability to speak and witness boldly and convincingly for Christ. No wonder, as Luke tells us, "when they saw the boldness of Peter and John, and perceived that they were uneducated, common men, they wondered" (Acts 4:13).

For the early disciples the resurrection was not just something that Jesus experienced; it was also the power of God let loose in their own lives. And that's what it can mean for you, too.

Burch Says Non-Profit Status Of Blue Cross May Be Jeopardized

BALTIMORE (UPI) — Attorney General Francis B. Burch said Tuesday that Blue Cross's nonprofit status could be jeopardized if the insurer carries out its plan to start a profit-making life insurance agency.

Burch said in a legal opinion that Blue Cross could lose its tax favors as a non-profit agency and it could raise antitrust issues.

The proposed insurance company, called Constellation Services Agency Inc., already has a state charter and plans to sell life and disability insurance.

But State Insurance Commissioner Edward J. Birrane, Jr., must issue a license before it can do business, and Birrane has postponed making a decision until Burch's legal opinion.

Birrane made no immediate comment after Burch's opinion.

Because of its non-profit status, Blue Cross is exempt from paying taxes on the premiums it collects. Private insurers have no such exemption.

"Any Blue Cross participation in Constellation's operation or any exercise of control over its management, however slight, may convert Blue Cross into a conventional insurer," Burch worte.

Constellation lists as its directors Thomas H. Sherlock, president of Blue Cross; Denwood N. Kelly, president of Blue Shield; and H. Allen Becker, Blue Cross vice president of sales and marketing.

Burch said that for Blue Cross to maintain its non-profit status it "must limit its investments to securities of the highest order and-or certain kinds of real estate."

Dentist's Mailbox

Q. My first visit to a dentist was at age 17 to have a tooth out. I continued to visit the same dentist for 4 years for cleaning and fillings. One day, I began to notice a space between my front teeth. The dentist said that it was in my head, and refused to X-ray my teeth. In fact, he never took X-rays or used novacaine. Finally, he referred me to an orthodontist who in turn sent me to a gum specialist. The gum specialist told me I have advanced gum disease. Shouldn't the first dentist have known that?

A. Possibly. However, it is difficult to judge at this time treatment that was given 4 or 5 years ago. We don't know what condition your mouth was in at that time, nor how effective your home dental care was, nor the amount of sweets you were consuming. And, it is also important to know how regularly you went to the dentist and how cooperative you were as a patient.

But it is unusual for the dentist not to take X-ray pictures, especially since you were 17 years old before your first dental visit. Most dentists take at least the biting position X-ray pictures periodically. And many dentists also take a complete series or panograph every 3 to 5 years.

A very significant factor in your dental problem is that you had no dental care until age 17. By that time, your periodontal (gum) problems could already have taken hold.

The dentist coulc, perhaps, have suspected something when you noticed an increasingly larger space between your front teeth.

Under our freedom of choice system of health care, patients have the opportunity to consult with other dentists whenever they have any questions regarding treatment or its costs.

Q. Our child needs braces but we cannot afford the fee that the orthodontists want to treat her. What can we do?

A. There are various degrees of orthodontic care that can be rendered. Depending on the child's age and specific problem, the orthodontist may be able to provide partial treatment for a fee that you can afford. Ask about this possibility.

It is possible that your regular family (general) dentist can provide some orthodontic care. Some family dentists render this type of treatment and their fee may be less than that charged by a specialist.

The dental school of the University of Maryland treats a limited number of patients with orthodontic problems. You may wish to call them at 528-7908, for additional information.

Local health departments' clinics, although they have very limited orthodontic programs, may be able to assist you.

In any case, try to avoid the removal of any teeth that could be orthodontically moved to a better position later in life. Orthodontic care can be rendered in adult life. Your daughter may be able to have this treatment rendered after she is on her own.

Q. Is it true that teeth can be damaged by chewing on a pencil? My children have this habit when they are doing their homework.

A. It is true that teeth can be, and are, damaged by pencil-chewing. Leaning on the jaw against the hand, cheek-biting, lip-licking, tongue-thrusting — all result in wear and tear on the teeth and gum, malocculsion and misshapen jaws.

These habits cause sore areas in the mouth and chapping around the mouth. Some practices may be induced by music listened to during the homework period. If possible, discourage them and see that the young students have regular dental checkups.

Q. My family and I have been drinking low-calorie soft drinks ever since they came on the market. Is this type of drink harmful to our teeth?

A. No. A low-calorie soft drink is not particularly harmful to the teeth. Sugar, which is one of the main causes of decay, is eliminated in low-calorie drinks, so the main reason for decay is also eliminated.

Also, low-calorie drinks contain phospheric acid. Research has found that this type of acid increases the amount of saliva in the mouth. The saliva in turn tends to protect the teeth from acid attacks by bacteria.

Q. Is it true that my healthy-looking teeth may actually be pitfalls in disguise?

A. There is a strong similarity between fused rolls and the crown of a tooth, (the part outside the gums). When hot rolls come out of the oven, they have a smooth brown crust which is thickest on the top. The crust tapers off in color and firmness to the grooves where one roll fuses with another. At the point where the four rolls are joined, there is a deep pit lined with soft uncrusted baked dough.

When a tooth is forming in the jawbone, it begins to calcify at several points on a lacy outline, created earlier. Eventually, these calcifying blobs meet and fuse, forming hardened crown. The enamel covering is thickest on the biting surface of the tooth. And like the baked roll crust, it is thinner in the grooves. Sometimes the enamel covering is completely missing in the deep pits. Dentists explore these pits for soft or sticky areas indicating the start of decay.

A particularly hazardous pit area is on the inside of the upper front tooth near the gum. The thin front tooth and the deep pit allow bacteria to establish headquarters only a few thousandths of an inch from the pulp which is the nerve area inside the tooth. To prevent the bacterial attacks on the pulp a miniature filling in these deep pits is just as important as a filling which restores half a tooth. Even "healthy-looking" teeth may well be pitfalls in disguise. A dental checkup is always a safety measure.

Q. Is it true that a mother loses a tooth for every child she bears? Does pregnancy cause tooth decay?

A. Pregnancy makes no demands on the mother's teeth. Some minor gum disorders may result from changes in the hormones or blood vessels at this time, but these can be minimized by proper professional treatment.

An increase in tooth decay during pregnancy is usually caused by eating too many sweets, poor dental hygiene and failure to visit the dentist regularly. Losing a tooth for every baby born is an old wives' tale. Pregnancy does not cause tooth decay.

Q. Should a mother follow a special diet while she is pregnant to insure good teeth for the unborn child?

A. From the time a child is conceived, nature takes on the responsibility of laying a foundation for a healthy human being with all the right things in the right places. Although the newborn appears to be toothless, there are, actually, deep in those tiny jawbones under the gums, 20 primary teeth which were formed in the womb. The toothbuds which become the child's teeth started taking shape about the sixth or eighth week of pregnancy. The hardening process or calcification begins three or four months before birth.

Toothbuds, like bone, require calcium and phosphorous which are taken from nutrients supplied to the entire fetus. It is well to mention that the fetus does not absorb calcium from the mother's teeth. Therefore, no special diet is necessary for the unborn child's teeth development. The diet recommended for general health during pregnancy will supply the required elements essential to promote the growth of the embryo infant, including the teeth.

Alamanac

(UPI) — Today is Thursday, March 23, the 82nd day of 1978 with 283 to follow.

The moon is approaching its full phase.

There is no morning star.

The evening stars are Mercury, Mars, Venus, Jupiter and Saturn.

Those born on this date are under the sign of Aries.

German rocket scientist Wernher von Braun and American actress Joan Crawford were born on March 23 — he in 1912 and she in 1908.

On this day in history:

In 1775, Patrick Henry, advocating arming Virginia in preparation for war with England, declared, "I know not what course others may take, but for me, give me liberty or give me death."

In 1942, Japanese-Americans were moved from their homes along the Pacific Coast to inland relocation sites as a wartime precaution.

In 1965, Virgil "Gus" Grissom and John Young were launched from Cape Kennedy to become the first two-man American space team to go into orbit.

In 1975, Secretary of State Henry Kissinger returned to Washington after failing in a personal mission to Egypt and Israel to bring about a peace agreement.

A thought for the day: American movie magnate Samuel Goldwyn is reported to have said: "A verbal contract isn't worth the paper it's written on."

ASCS Answers Crop Questions

Many farmers are asking: "If I plant 50 percent of my land in 1978, how will that affect the normal crop acreage (NCA) for my farm?" Paul A. Crowl, Chairperson of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation (ASC) Committee, said: "We frequently hear that question. The answer is — a 50 percent reduction in planting in 1978 will not jeopardize a farmer's NCA."

"If a producer chooses to reduce his plantings by one-half or some quantity over the Federally established amount, that producer will be idling more than the program requirements."

Crowl said: "The Set-Aside Program calls for a 20 percent set-aside of 1978 wheat acreage planted for harvest and a 10 percent set-aside for feed grains (corn, sorghum and barley)."

"The question has related provisions," Crowl said. "First, farmers who have not yet certified their 1977 crops are urged to do so immediately. This crop information is needed by the county ASC Committee to establish a farm's NCA. The NCA must be established before a farmer is eligible for program benefits."

"Second, a sign-up period for set-aside program benefits will be held through May 1. And third, designated set-aside acreage must be devoted to an approved cover," Crowl noted.

State Sells Bonds

The Maryland Board of Public Works, consisting of Acting Governor Blair Lee, State Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein, and State Treasurer William S. James recently sold $78,815,000 in Triple A rated, General Obligation bonds for a low interest bid of 4.729151 percent. The low bid was submitted by the First Boston Corporation, There was a total of four bids submitted by national banking syndicates.

"The low interest bid we received today, the number of bids submitted, and the fact that both major bond rating agencies, Moody's and Standard and Poor's, gave these bonds their highest, Triple A rating, indicates Maryland's high standing in the financial community. Moody's Investor Service described today's sale in glowing terms, citing Maryland's surplus, sound finances and strong economy. You can't get a much better recommendation than that," Mr. Goldstein said.

Of the $78,815,000 in bonds sold today, $48,915,000 will be used in Public School and Community College Construction, $8 million as the State's second installment on the Baltimore City Convention Center, and the remainder for other miscellaneous projects.

Today's sale of $78,815,000 in General Obligation Bonds was the smallest amount offered by the State since February, 1974.

The continued Triple A credit rating is important to Maryland's taxpayers because it helps to hold down the State real estate tax rate.

Operators Of Antique Farm Equipment Do Not Need Permit

The State Highway Administration has ruled that movers of wide antique farm equipment on Maryland highways are exempt from vehicle laws requiring permits for oversized loads.

Under present Hauling Permit Regulations, permits are required for transporting loads more than eight feet wide. Farm equipment and vehicles transporting farm equipment are exempt. The State Highway Administrator, M. S. Caltrider, has said this exemption is extended to include antique farm equipment, regardless of whether it is still used for that or other purposes.

All other laws pertaining to highway movement of wide loads will apply to antique farm equipment, he continued. These include proper signs, flags, and lighting.

"Great care should be used in choosing the times of travel and routes taken," he said. Normally, wide loads requiring permits are permitted on State highways only during daylight hours on week days.

The exemption will not apply to equipment which is more than 13 feet, six inches in height, including the height of the transporter, or exceeds weight limits. No vehicle weighing more than 73,280 pounds is allowed on Maryland highways without a proper permit.

With the help of the State Department of Agriculture and the Farm Bureau, the SHA is contacting owners of antique farm equipment to inform them of the ruling. Antique farm equipment owners are asked to send in the dimensions of their particular item to Hauling Permits Section, State Highway Administration, 300 West Preston Street, Baltimore, Maryland 21201, Attention: Mr. Joseph M. Millstone, (301-383-7284) in order to be notified whether a permit is required for the equipment to travel Maryland roads.

GRANTSVILLE NEWS

Discuss Association Meeting

Members of the Woodmen of the World Alcamp No. 41 met Monday, March 13, at 8 p.m. at the Woodmen Hall to discuss plans for the Western Maryland Association meeting to be held at Grantsville.

Eleven members were present, and the group also discussed completion of the remodeling of the hall.

Jim Guthrie won the door prize. Refreshments were then served. The next meeting will be held March 27 at the hall at 8 p.m.

Sunrise Service

A Sunrise Service is planned for the Maple Grove Church Easter Sunday morning from 7:30 until 8:30. The service will be followed by a light breakfast and a children's program and worship at 9:30 a.m.

A mini-revival service will be held on Friday and Saturday evenings at 7:30 p.m. with Lynn Rohrbaugh, Petersburg, W. Va., as evangelist. The public is invited. John Moyers is the pastor.

Fellowship Meets

The Maple Grove Women's Fellowship met at the home of Mrs. Jessie Miller Tuesday evening. Theme of the meeting was "Love."

The group made plans for the District Rally in May. Donations were sent to the church treasurer, and a memorial donation was made for new church hymnals.

Mrs. Jessie Miller will have devotions at the next meeting, in April. Refreshments were served in honor of Mrs. Millers's birthday by Mrs. Vena Beachy.

Cooking Corner

by Marianne

Baked ham, sweet potatoes and sweet rolls and breads will traditionally be served in many homes as Christians around the world celebrate Easter Sunday on March 26. A renewal of hope for mankind will bring joy internally and outwardly, brightly colored eggs, chocolate candies and spring clothing will delight both children and adults.

I found it interesting to learn that Jewish people are celebrating a holiday this week also. It's called Purim and it's a celebration of rejoicing. Hamantaschen (small, filled cookie-like pastries) will be enjoyed by Jewish people on Purim in remembrance of the defeat of Haman who plotted against the Jews. The Biblical Book of Esther relates the story.

I found the following recipe for Hamantaschen, which are shaped like the triangular hat of Haman, in "Love and Knishes", a cookbook by Sara Kasdan. Thought you might have fun trying it!

HAMENTASCHEN

2 cups sifted flour
1½ tsp. baking powder
6 Tbsp. sugar
pinch of salt
2 eggs, beaten
3 Tbsp. oil

Sift together dry ingredients. Make a depression in the center and add eggs and oil. Mix thoroughly. Roll out to 1/8 inch thickness on lightly floured board. Cut into rounds about 3 inches in diameter. Place a tablespoon of filling (see below) on each round. Bring three sides of the circles together at the center to form triangles. Pinch the edges together to form a slight ridge. Bake on a greased cookie sheet in a 350 degree oven until golden brown (about 30 minutes). Makes 12 small Hamentaschen.

Hamentaschen Fillings

Prune

1 pound prunes, stewed
1 cup chopped nuts
1 Tbsp. lemon juice
¼ tsp. cinnamon mixed with 1 Tbsp. sugar

Remove pits from prunes. Chop prunes and nuts very fine. Add lemon juice and cinnamon-sugar mix.

POPPY SEED

1 cup poppy seed
2 Tbsp. sugar
¼ cup honey
pinch of salt
½ cup water
½ cup finely chopped almonds boiling water

Pour boiling water over poppy seed and let stand until cool; drain. Pound poppy seeds well. (If they are large, they can be run through a food grinder). Cook together poppy seed, sugar, honey, salt and ½ cup water over moderate heat until thick, stirring frequently. Remove from heat and stir in chopped almonds. Cool.

The following recipe is a different way to use leftover ham.

BAKED HAM AND CHEESE PUFF

3 cups cubed French or Italian bread
3 cups cubed cooked ham
1 cup grated cheddar cheese
3 Tbsp. flour
1 Tbsp. dry mustard
¼ cup melted margarine
4 eggs
3 cups milk
2 shakes Worcestershire Sauce

Grease a 2-quart casserole or baking dish. In bottom, layer bread cubes, then ham, then grated cheese. Mix flour and mustard and sprinkle over cheese. Drizzle margarine over top. Beat eggs and milk together, add Worcestershire Sauce and pour over layers. Cover and chill in refrigerator at least 4 hours and preferably overnight. Bake uncovered at 350 degrees for 1 hour. Serve at once. Makes 6 servings. This would be good with a Tossed Salad with French Dressing, Buttered Broccoli and Baked Apple Crisp.

NUTRITION NOTE: Good nutrition can and should be enjoyed by everyone. Just think a moment about how enjoyable spring is to everyone. One reason is color. Green grass, blue skies and brightly colored flowers warm our senses and make us feel good. Bright and contrasting colors at mealtime stimulate appetites too. Food can be nutritious but if it lacks color appeal, it won't be as enjoyable.

TIP OF THE WEEK: When you purchase groceries, be sure you take them home with you. Earlier this week, I left my groceries in the cart outside the store and started home without them. Of course, I didn't plan to do that but when I found my car rearranged by my new puppy . . . well, confusion took over and you know the rest of the story. Thought you might enjoy a laugh over something which certainly rates a spot on my list of Dumb Things I Do. Seriously, my tip for this week will interest you if your children receive enough chocolate at Easter to give the Jolly Green Giant a stomach ache. Wrap the extra chocolate candies in plastic food wrap and then aluminum foil and hide them in the freezer to be enjoyed at a later date. Be sure to wrap tightly to keep out air. My children were eating a chocolate Easter Bunny on the 4th of July one year and they thought it tasted just great. I wouldn't try freezing cream-filled chocolates.

FOP Awards Banquet Slated For April 8

At a recent meeting of Fraternal Order of Police Western Lodge #99, plans were finalized for the Lodge's annual awards banquet and dance, to be held April 8 at 6 p.m. at the Village Inn, McHenry.

Social hour will begin at 6 p.m. followed by dinner and a dance with music by the Chinese Bandits.

Plaques and awards of merit will be given to Sheriff June Evans, Supervisor of the Year; Donald MacLauchlan, Director of Maryland Forest Service and Hobert Shillingburg, Oakland Chief of Police, runners-up for Supervisor of the Year. John Walters and John Williams will be honored for past service to the Lodge. An award will be presented to the Maryland Forest Service for helping and cooperating with FOP. The award will be accepted by George Gilmore, Cumberland, Regional Forester with the Maryland Forest Service.

Bus Inspections Slated In April

A school bus inspection for all buses in Garrett County has been scheduled April 10, 11 and 12, according to a release by Eugene Flinn, supervisor of transportation. This will be the third inspection of the school year.

On Monday, April 10, inspections will be held at Southern High School from 8:30 a.m. until the early afternoon.

On Tuesday, April 11, inspections will take place from 9 a.m. until 11 a.m. at Northern High School, and from 12:30 p.m. until 2 p.m. at Friendsville School.

Inspectors will be at Grantsville School from 9 a.m. until 10:30 a.m. Wednesday, April 12, and at Bloomington School from noon until 2 p.m.

Each bus has been assigned a specific location for inspection. A total of 103 buses have been scheduled.

PET POINTERS

by jim willis

One of the more common questions asked of a veterinarian is "why does my dog (or cat) shed so much?"

The answer is that pets and other animals shed hair in response to certain factors in their environment, primarily temperature changes and the amount of light they're exposed to. When cats and dogs were basically outdoor animals, they shed twice a year. In the spring, the heavy winter hair dropped out to make way for a lighter summer coat. In fall, this light coat made way for a coarser, thicker winter coat. The change was completed in three to four weeks.

For pets that live indoors, shedding becomes a year-round activity. Lack of exercise, indoor heating and the extra hours of artificial daylight combine to produce a steady, sometimes annoying hair loss.

Shedding is a natural process. There is little you can do to control it except to keep your pet well-groomed.

Grooming equipment varies according to the type of coat your pet has. A fine comb is good for short-haired dogs. A comb with widely-spaced teeth is better for long-haired breeds. You also need a brush: one with short bristles if you have a short or medium-haired dog and longer bristles for a long-haired dog.

Basic grooming work is done with the comb. It helps to remove loose hair, small twigs and other debris, and is useful in unraveling knots and snarls. When the pet is thoroughly combed, you are ready to use the brush.

Brushing should supplement but not replace combing since brush bristles often do not reach the under-coat on long-haired pets. For a smooth and fluffy coat, brush in the direction you want the hair to lie.

Proper cat grooming is somewhat different. A long-haired cat is groomed primarily with the brush and finished with the comb to fluff the fur. Short-haired cats need only a short brushing, followed by gentle petting. The oil from your own skin will smooth the fur and add to the coat's sheen.

Despite your good intentions, your pet may refuse to cooperate with grooming. If possible, start grooming your pet while it is young to avoid irksome obedience problems later. You can teach an older pet to tolerate grooming by doing only a small section at a time and being careful not to pull the skin. In the beginning you may need a friend to restrain the pet if it persists in wriggling away.

Shedding is routine, but excessive hair loss can be the symptom of an underlying problem. Excessive bathing with strong soap dries the skin and the hair and will cause abnormal shedding. Dogs also lose hair from thyroid gland problems, allergies and high fevers.

Some pregnant females, particularly long-haired pets, lose hair when they are fed inadequate diets following delivery of their offspring. Diets that are adequate for a normal adult pet do not always provide adequate nutrition for a nursing mother. She may need more protein and fat until the young are weaned.

If you think your pet is losing too much hair, check with your veterinarian. Excessive shedding, especially when the skin is also irritated, is not normal. Your pet deserves the benefit of professional medical attention.

Letters To Bombard Carter On Fuel Rate Adjustment

A letter-writing campaign calling for an immediate end to fuel rate adjustments is underway in central and western Maryland, at the instigation of Dan Rupli founder of the Organization for Consumer Justice, formed in 1975 to fight rising electric rates.

The letters, urging President Carter to take action to outlaw the use of the fuel rate adjustment and stop soaring electric bills, were conceived by Mr. Rupli after a visit to an elderly widow in Washington county, who had just received an electric bill for $412.33, $235.50 of which was attributed to the fuel rate adjustment.

Any organization or individual wishing for a copy of the preprinted letter being sent to President Carter may write to Mr. Rupli at Route 4, FDS 165, Alabaster Court, Middletown, Md. 21769, or call 371-9664.

This is my first full-time job with a newspaper. I really enjoy working at The Republican (they're paying me to say this.)

Our staff consists of about 20 people. Most of them were chosen on the basis of wit, charm, creativity and insanity.

Don is the editor. I wouldn't want his job - neither did anyone else, which is why he's editor. Actually Don does an excellent job. He's not only a good editor, but he gets along well with his staff . . . he refers to us in such endearing terms as "meat-head," "cabbage-head," and "bubble-brain."

Carol, our assistant editor is a "Coke-aholic." She consumes 47 times her body weight in soft drinks a day. Her desk looks like an aluminum recycling center and she signs the by-lines of her articles "me and my R.C."

Cathy is the receptionist and is well equipped to deal with the public. She's intelligent, attractive and mean. We don't dare insult her because her stenographer's notebook has been seen flying through the air in our direction a number of times. Here it comes now, right on schedule.

Carla and Hester are our type-setters. Carla once entered a dog show because "if they have Irish setters and English setters, then they should certainly allow type-setters." There's no arguing with that kind of logic.

Bob is the managing editor. He's also our Mr. Fixit. Whenever anything breaks down he fixes it - with a well-placed kick. His wife Hannah, sets the advertisements, assists the type-setters with headlines and cutlines. She's the only one the editor can't yell at, because she's his mother.

Joe works on the news staff. When I first started here I'd come in the office and find him face down at his typewriter. I supposed he was either in deep thought or maybe he was cleaning the typewriter keys. I was wrong - he was asleep.

Jim is our camera man. He photographs the newspaper layouts. Before "shooting" he slams his little clap-board, screams, "Quiet on the set! Page 12 - take two!," and goes running into the darkroom.

Linda and Harry staff our advertising department. Their selling techniques are so good that they once sold a hairbrush to Telly Savalas.

John and Gary work in the printing shop. John was just trained to operate our newest piece of machinery - the stuffing machine which inserts one section of the newpaper into the other. John knows every detail of that equipment, and if anyone could tell you how to stuff it, he could. Gary plays in a rock and roll band on the weekends. He runs around playing an imaginary guitar and screaming rock lyrics over the sound of the press.

It was written into the company charter that "Newt" be blamed for everything. It doesn't matter if it is an electrical, mechanical or plumbing problem, "Newt" gets the blame. "Newt" assists with the paste-up. Paste-ups are done with hot wax, and by the time he's completed a day's work he looks like a candidate for the National Wax Museum.

Jack is another paste-up person. His official title is Director of Off-Color Humor. Jack chases anything in a skirt and due to an error in judgment, he became the first person to discover what a Scotsman wears under his kilt.

Elsie and Tink are proof readers. Armed wit magnifying glass and dictinary they wage a never-ending batle agianst typographicle erors, mis-speled words and stupiditie.

Rubie is in charge of circulation. She makes sure that all of our subscriptions are kept up. The Republican's circulation keeps getting better and Rubie's keeps getting worse.

Jerry is the bookkeeper. He does the payroll. I like Jerry. He's witty, kind, sincere, understanding, intelligent, charming, efficient, cooperative, GENEROUS . . .

Kathryn assists in the darkroom, developing and printing film. She sees to it that the darkroom door is kept tightly shut so the dark won't leak out.

Donald R. Sincell, otherwise known as "Mose," is the ringleader of The Republican staff. He oversees the operation to make sure everything is running smoothly. We in turn follow him around the building making sure he's running smoothly.

Just about everyone on the Republican staff doubles as an ambulance attendant and/or a fireman. Whenever the monitor or fire whistle goes off the office resembles an elementary school after the recess bell has rung.

On Fridays all of the ambulance attendants walk around in their white coats. A stranger to the office would think he was in a zoo or an insane asylum - he'd be right on both counts!

About the Author:

You can tell from the above descriptions, Jim writes with tongue in cheek and foot in mouth, he's young and maybe with our help we can teach him to wash his feet, since he also keeps several pets.

Roadrunners Elect Dale Glass President

Fifteen member families of the Garrett County Roadrunners attended the March meeting held at the Hamburger House at Accident. Items of business were amending the Constitution and By-laws, planning of the summer camping schedule — especially the Maryland State Campout in May at the Cumberland Fair Grounds, and reaffirming appointed committees.

The officers for 1978 are Dale Glass, president; David Beachy, vice-president; and Christine Dressman, secretary-treasurer.

Others attending were the families of Harold Humberson, Milton Fike, Bill Graham, Laurence Selby, Gene Sines, Melvin Schwing, Winston Teats, Ralph Sines, Elwood Jameson, Gary Teats, Gerald Glass, and David Davis.

The first campout is planned for April 14-16 at Gettysburg, Pennsylvania.

the ROCKPILE

by Cathy Helbig

1927 was a year for much activity in and around Garrett County: Two young men were arrested after taking pot shots at anyone near the railroad tracks. The men were riding in a freight car en route from Pittsburgh to their homes in Clarksburg.

The authorities were alerted and awaited in Oakland to pick them up. They were charged with transporting moonshine, possessing a high-power rifle, resisting arrest and "promiscuous shooting."

Spring was late in arriving that year and some complaints against Mother Nature were made public: "The South has too much cotton; Cuba has too much sugar and up here in Garrett County we have too much weather just at present."

In Grantsville, Mr. Simon Miller had a narrow escape after being bumped over and rolled around by a borrowed Guernsey bull. Mr. Miller struck the animal over the head with a tin pail hoping to frighten the bull away, but the bull did attack and would've killed him if not for Mr. Miller's son-in-law who drove the animal away with a fork.

However, not only animals behaved erratically as spring approached. A man from near the White Church on Backbone Mountain "is being held in the County jail in default of $200 bond, the charge against him being cruelty to animals. It is alleged in the information leading to his arrest that in a fit of anger he had cut off a cow's tail and had otherwise mistreated and maimed the animal by running a pitchfork through her udder — he was found guilty as charged and held."

Nine ladies were hurt when the porch they were standing on gave way as they were leaving after attending a funeral of a gentleman friend in Oakland.

The accident happened immediately after the casket containing the remains of the deceased man had already been removed, fortunately.

Several Garrett County women made the papers in 1927 and not in a feminine manner:

"An appeal was taken in the case of a Mrs. Glass vs Mrs. Westlake, when Magistrate E. I. West handed down a decision finding Mrs. Westlake guilty of simple assault and fining her $5 and costs.

"The case was the outgrowth of a street brawl staged by the two women on Second Street in front of a pool room and bowling alley which resulted in Mrs. Glass receiving a hair pulling and an alleged bruised eye which cleared up before the hearing.

"The contention which led to the fight is of long-standing, and, it is said, was caused by the 'alienation of affections' of Mrs. Westlake's husband by Mrs. Glass — whom enticed her husband to her home on the outskirts of Oakland."

Quite a bit of 'soiled linen' was aired and Mrs. Westlake was to have stated: "Your Honor, I came down town Saturday night to administer a good beating to Mrs. Glass, and I ask you to give me at least sixty days for not having been successful in my intention.

"I have tried for three years to keep this woman from my husband and I do not ask the lenience of the Court but I do promise that Mrs. Glass will wear a 'wooden kimona' in the near future."

At this point, Mrs. Westlake was put under a peace bond by the Magistrate.

Finally, a Swanton woman was charged with killing her landlord also of the Swanton area; "The woman is an eccentric character, and until she went to the Swanton community lived on a farm west of Oakland. She always dressed like a man, wearing kneehigh gum boots and made a living by driving a coal or lumber wagon, as occasion required. It is said that upon one occasion she was heard to remark that two things would not be tolerated on her farm — a man and a hog."

Upon going to the farm the Sheriff found the woman who gave herself up, and who stated "that the dead man had tried to break into the house to collect the rent due him; that she shot him with a .22 calibre rifle and apparently does not regret the deed." So much for Women's Lib!

Two Plead Guilty In Circuit Court

Two men pleaded guilty before Judge Fred A. Thayer in Circuit Court last Thursday and Friday, one for arson and the other for misuse of a truck.

Mark John Johnston, RD 1, Friendsville, pleaded guilty of arson and a presentence investigation was ordered at a trial last Friday. Johnston was released on personal recognizance pending sentencing. The arson involved the burning of a storehouse and barn of Blaine Frantz Inc. at Friendsville last July. The case was transferred from District Court last September.

Last Thursday, Roger H. Walley, formerly of Arizona, lately local, pleaded guilty of the unauthorized use of a truck of Sterling Processing Inc. Walley was sentenced to the custody of the Sheriff of Garrett County for one year. At the completion of his term, Walley is to be placed on probation under supervision for two years. The incident leading to the conviction took place last November in Oakland.

Assessment Answers

by James Burley

Q. Why is it that people like myself who improve their houses should pay higher taxes than those who do not?

A. This is one of the most frequently asked questions. Many property owners believe, as does this inquirer, that whenever they make an improvement to their homes, their properities are promptly reassessed.

Bear in mind that the assessor's responsibility is to seek and find value. Legally and literally, therefore, any improvement made to a property which adds to the value is supposed to be discovered and assessed. This may not be a pleasant thought, but it is fact.

The concept of taxing property owners dates to colonial days when it was considered that the ownership of property was a reflection of wealth and a measurement of a person's ability to pay for the costs of government. In our country, the tradition has been to levy taxes on the basis of the ability to pay and not in accordance with services rendered or received.

In actual practice, however, all improvements do not result in any increase in the overall assessment. In assessing, which is a system of mass appraising, it is virtually impossible to measure fine distinctions. Who, for example, can measure with real precision the difference in value between a roof that is two or three years old and one that is five or six years old. Generally speaking, improvements that fall into the category of normal maintenance do not result in a change in the assessment. Typical examples of this would be painting your home, getting a new roof, repairing a sidewalk, installing storm windows, replacing a furnace, or resurfacing a driveway. These kinds of improvements tend to keep the value, rather than add to the value. They are considered necessary in order to keep your home functional. Rewiring your home for housepower would probably not affect the assessment. Even insulating your home to conserve energy and save fuel costs falls into this category.

Homeowners may also make improvements which obviously add to the value of their homes, and these, when known, will be considered in the assessment. A major renovation of a house or completely modernizing an outdated kitchen would certainly add to the value. Adding a room, such as a clubroom or another bedroom, would normally make the home more valuable. And, although replacing a furnace of the same kind would not affect your assessment, installing a new heating system of a more modern type or air conditioning your home would add to the value and should be assessed.

You can be guided by this principle in determining which improvements would or would not affect your assessment. If you repair or replace something that had been part of your property to start with, it would not figure in a reassessment. If you add a room, make a substantial change or an extensive improvement that adds to the market value of your property, then it would have to be included in the assessment. Usually the average homeowner can only make improvements of routine maintenance, and only in relatively few cases does this kind of upkeep cause a change in the assessment.

Regardless of the nature of the improvement, the equity that accrues to the owner far outweighs any additional tax liability.

Q. My husband and I applied for the circuit breaker tax credit last year, but we were turned down on account of my income. Since I am no longer employed, should we apply again this year?

A. Yes. The fact that you were disqualified for the credit in a previous year is no reason for you not to apply again the next year. In your case, you were denied the tax credit on the basis of your combined income. As you are no longer employed, this is not a factor this year. But even if nothing had changed in your personal situations, you should still apply every year if you have any doubt because any number of things could have happened.

Last year several important changes were made in the law, making it easier for some who were formerly excluded to qualify, and this year the Legislature is considering more changes. So in your own best interest, apply every year. The due date is September 1.

Q. I checked one lot 50' x 150', and this seems to be the standard size lot in my section of town. My lot is 60' x 100', but is assessed at a higher amount. I was told by my local assessments office that lots in my area were assessed on a front-foot basis, and then given a percentage for depth. This does not seem fair to me. Could you explain this?

A. Your property is located in a town where a unit system of land valuation is used in the assessment computation.

Under the unit system, it is assumed that all of the inside lots of a given block, calculated to an equal depth, have the same value per front foot. Front foot rates are based on a standard depth of 150 feet, and the unit value is the value of an inside strip of ground 1 foot wide and 150 feet deep, with frontage on a street. Corner and irregular lots require special consideration.

As an example of the unit system, a standard lot 50' x 150' that is valued at $25 a front foot would result in an assessment of $1,250.

As all lots are not the same depth, a depth factor standard has been developed. Assessors employ this standard as a guide to estimate the value of a lot that is shorter than the standard, as in your case. The first quarter of the lot immediately back from the street frontage is worth 40 percent of the value of a lot 150 feet deep, the second quarter is worth 30 percent, the third 20 percent, and the fourth 10 percent. A lot 60' x 100' would, therefore, be assessed at $1,320, or $22 a front foot under the same conditions that were given in the example of the standard sized lot. Although your lot is smaller than the standard lot, it has a greater front footage. Thus, your assessment is greater.

The unit, or front-foot system of valuation, is not as valid as it once was, and the trend is in the direction of using total square footage in estimating value. Hopefully, this will be the case when your property is reassessed the next time.

Q. I do not object to the new valuation of my property and it does, probably, represent approximately 50 percent of market value, but it has been increased 61 percent in one year. Can this be done?

A. If the assessment is correct and represents 50 percent of the market value, then the percent of increase over last year is probably valid; but the chances are in your favor that you will not have to pay a property tax that reflects the full amount of this assessment increase.

Many property taxpayers are still confused regarding the tax credit for homestead reassessments law which expires this year unless it is extended by the legislature. Contrary to what many believe, this law does not limit the percent of an increase in any assessment. The assessment itself is supposed to reflect 50 percent of the market value. So, an assessment can increase by any percentage that is necessary to bring the amount up to the 50 percent figure.

What the law does provide is that, if an assessment on a dwelling increased by more than 15 percent from that of last year, then the owner of the dwelling will be entitled to a tax credit for the amount that exceeds the 15 percent, under certain conditions. The property must not have changed ownership, the increase must not be due to a zoning change, no extensive improvements must not have been made, and the previous assessment was not clearly erroneous. Also, the dwelling must be the owner's principal residence, and the owner must live in it for more than six months of the year.

This tax credit will be calculated in the property tax bill.

Questions or Letters of general interest on assessments and the property tax should be addressed to 'Assessment Answers — James Burley' in care of this newspaper. They will be answered through this column to the extent that space allows.

This column was written with the co-operation of the Maryland State Department of Assessments and Taxation.

Chessie Steam Train To Travel To Terra Alta

A Chessie steam excursion train pulling 12 cars will pass through Oakland Sunday, May 12, arriving in Terra Alta, W. Va., at 3 p.m. Citizens of that mountaintop community will be preparing a variety of home cooked meals to greet all passengers and spectators.

The steam locomotive and passenger cars will depart Cumberland at 11:30 a.m. After a three hour layover in Terra Alta, during which time an estimated 20,000 gallons of water will have to be taken on, the train will leave at 6:15 p.m., and the excursion is planned to arrive in Cumberland at 8:30.

The engine that heads the excursion is the same one that pulled the Freedom Train during the Bicentennial.

Terra Alta is one of the few places along the old B & O line between Cumberland and Grafton where an engine can be turned. A "Y" in Terra Alta will be used to turn the engine and it will then hook up with the passenger cars, pulling then back to Cumberland from the opposite end.

In addition to the home cooked meals, which will include roast beef, ham, chicken, steak, and even ramps, the town is planning an old-fashioned celebration. Historic Washington Avenue will be closed and bake sales, flea markets, an auction, arts and crafts and historic displays will be featured.

For more information on Terra Alta's "Chessie Day," write: Chessie Day, PO Box 225, Terra Alta, W. Va. 26764. For ticket information write: Chessie Steam Special, 12 Grant St., Pittsburgh, Pa. 15219.

THE ARTS

by jim willis

The Southern High School seniors presented Agatha Christie's, "The Mouse Trap" Saturday evening at the GCC auditorium under the direction of Mr. Robert Trantham.

The action of the play takes place in a large old house called Monkswell Manor. The owners, Giles (Paul Naylor) and Mollie Ralston (Diane Frazee), have just opened up the house as a guest house.

A strange array of guests begins to arrive: Christopher Wren (Bill Herring) a comical pseudo-architect; Mrs. Boyle (Jennilee Stemple) the cynical, spinsterish ex-magistrate; Major Metcalf (Jimmy Shaffer) an amusing old gentleman; Miss Casewell (Ginger Bailey) the cosmopolitan fire-brand; Mr. Paravicini (Jerry Hanlin) the mysterious "drop-in" guest and Detective Sergeant Trotter (Perry Clark) the brash overbearing policeman.

As always Dame Agatha has woven a suspenseful tale. The anticipated murders, three of them, are in keeping with the nursery rhyme, "Three Blind Mice." After the forewarned policeman arrives on the scene via skis, the magistrate is killed. Two down (one a previous murder) and one to go. To get to the rationale of the murderer's modus operandi, the detective delves into the background of everyone present and rattles a lot of skeletons. Another famous Christie switch finish. Chalk up another superb intrigue for the foremost mystery writer of her half century and a great production, with well done set, make-up and props by the Southern seniors.

The players were in character throughout the play. Bill Herring as Christopher Wren deserves special accolades for his hilarious depiction of the eccentric architect.

For those who didn't attend the play, too bad, and a word of explanation in closing, — the butler didn't do it!

The winning design for the 1978-79 Maryland migratory waterfowl stamp depicts a flight of Redhead ducks over a wintry marshland.

It is the work of Stanley Stearns, of Stevensville, Queen Anne's County, who is a previous winner in both the Maryland and national stamp design contests.

This year's Maryland contest drew a record 96 paintings submitted by 50 artists. Rules specify that competitors must be residents of Maryland.

While there were no official second or third place awards, a picture of swan in flight against an overcast sky by Beebe Winterbottom of Trappe drew the second highest vote total from the panel of five judges while John W. Taylor's picture of standing snow geese tallied the third highest total.

Judges were Sharon L. Martin, art gallery employee from Lutherville; Warren W. Blandin, waterfowl biologist with the U. S. Patuxent Wildlife Research Center; Lonnie P. Williamson, of the Wildlife Management Institute; Mr. Robert Wirth, professor at the Maryland Institute; and Cindy Vreeland, of the Easton Waterfowl Festival.

Last week it was reported to The Republican that Tammy Thayer was a multiple winner in the Blue Pine Spring Riders 4-H club Art Show. The name was incorrect and should have been Tommy Schroyer. Congratulations and apologies, Tommy.

Congressman Goodloe Byron
Maryland—Sixth District

This column serves as another vehicle to keep in touch with my fellow residents of central and western Maryland. Send your questions or comments to me C/O U. S. House of Representatives, Washington, D. C. 20515. While I'll be unable to print all replies, I will answer each of you who contacts me.

The following questions were typical of the kind asked of me in recent weeks.

How do I obtain a Golden Age Passport?

The Golden Age Passport is a lifetime permit which allows citizens 62 years of age or older free entrance into our national parks, monuments and recreation areas. The passport also provides fifty percent discounts on Federal "use" fees charged for facilities and services within the Federal areas, such as camping fees. For further information you may write Heritage Conservation and Recreation Service, Department of the Interior South, Washington, D. C. 20240.

What are you doing to curb Federal spending?

I have always believed that Congress must exercise fiscal restraint in order to reduce the budget deficit. In this regard, I have sponsored legislation to require that the Federal government balance its budget, except in times of national emergency. I have also consistently opposed spending tax money for foreign aid and have introduced legislation in Congress to require that all bills proposing government regulations must contain an estimate of the direct and indirect costs of complying with the bill.

Is it possible for miners to receive benefits for partial disability due to black lung?

No. The law restricts benefits to miners who are totally disabled from Black Lung disease. However, dependent survivors may now be entitled to Black Lung benefits if the miner died on or before March 1, 1978, and worked at least 25 years in the coal mines prior to June 30, 1971. The miner's dependent survivors must supply the Department of Labor with whatever medical evidence is available.

What is the maximum FHA insured mortgage amount for houses?

The Department of Housing and Urban Development has increased the maximum FHA insured mortgage amount for one-family residences from $45,000 to $60,000 and has also reduced the amount for down payment.

I will soon graduate high school and would like to know what jobs are in most demand?

The Federal government publishes a general monthly leaflet on "Occupations in Demand" which lists the number of job openings for over 100 occupations, including the cities or localities in which they are available. For your free copy of this booklet, write the Consumer Information Center, Pueblo, Colorado 81009.

What steps do I take to apply for a Service Academy Appointment?

From now until October 30th, I will be accepting applications for appointments to the United States Service Academies for the class entering in July, 1979. Nominations are open to the Naval Academy, Military Academy, Air Force Academy and the Merchant Marine Academy. Interested candidates should write me, care of the U. S. House of Representatives, 1232 Longworth Building, Washington, D. C. 20515. Applications will be sent to prospective nominees who will later be subject to written and physical examinations and an interview by my Academy Selection Board.

How does a community qualify for the National Flood Insurance Program?

The National Flood Insurance Program enables property owners to buy flood insurance at a reasonable cost. A community may apply for the emergency program by adopting preliminary flood plain management measures. Over 14,500 communities have joined this phase of the program. After the Department of Housing & Urban Development completes a detailed on-site survey that establishes flood levels, the community qualifies for the regular program by adopting more comprehensive flood plain construction measures. To find out if you are eligible for flood insurance you may call the toll-free number 800-492-6605.

Will a coal miner drawing Black Lung Benefits from the Social Security Administration lose those benefits by applying under the Department of Labor Program?

No. A miner may refile with the U. S. Department of Labor for medical treatment benefits only. If the miner is found not entitled to those benefits, for any reason, it usually will not affect the Black Lung benefits from the Social Security Administration.

Goldstein Questions Legality Of Stopping Sale Of Premium Gas

ANNAPOLIS (UPI) — State Comptroller Louis Goldstein asked Maryland's congressional delegation Tuesday to determine if 15 gasoline companies violated federal regulations by stopping the sale of premium gas in the state.

Last week, 15 of the 20 major gas suppliers in Maryland notified Goldstein they would no longer offer gas with an octane rating of 95.0 - Maryland's definition of premium, or high test, gas.

About 162,000 of the 2 million cars registered in Maryland require high-test gas, according to the state Motor Vehicle Administration.

"Our preliminary contacts with the U. S. Department of Energy indicate this action by the oil companies may be a violation of federal regulations, either as a diminution of services or as being equivalent to a price increase," Goldstein said.

John Cheever's Falconer (1977 Random House — Ballantine Books) is the anatomy of one man's prison experience from sentencing to unexpected liberation. Inmate Ezekiel Farragut tells this story from within the confines of Falconer Federal Penitentiary where his incarceration for fratricide has promised a lengthy visit — from zero to ten. In that time, Farragut sees more of life as a captive than as a free man.

Our hero is a seemingly unlikely candidate for prison life: he is a college professor, married, and a father. His suburban life was not so much different than yours or mine, with the exception of his addiction to heroin, a throw-back to an old war wound. Nothing about this man is boring. His day-to-day existence has its perilous and tedious moments, usually set off by visits from his brother, a man of immeasurable conceit and unsententious means.

Farragut puts an end to his tormentor to find, oddly enough, a certain release from his neuroses behind bars. For the first time he must confront himself in true perspective and is amazed at what he finds.

This is not a novel which thrills the reader with graphic displays of the prison realm. Granted, some of the characters on either side of the law prove to be unsavory fellows, but transcending even these, Farragut succeeds where others fail in understanding the value of the human spirit and the endurance of compassion which, as time proves, is the most constant element in the human condition.

This is Cheever at his very best — funny, sad, wholly serious. Falconer is enormously sympathetic and worth every moment and cent invested in it. It is a powerful, affirmative work, and one of America's outstanding authors proves what we are always wont to overlook: that great art is not technical deception, novelty, or effect. Rather, it is absolute clarity, directly on course, taking every reader along with it.

Other members attending were Todd Arnold, Alan Snyder, Gary Lipscomb and Norma Hauser. Plans were made to go to the Pizza Hut and then to the movie, "Pete's Dragon" on March 17. Also planned for the near future is a traveling bake sale.

Their first meeting in three months was held Monday night, March 13, at the Eglon Memorial building by the Eglon Mountaineer 4-H Club. Sheila Delaney, president, called the meeting to order and conducted the business session during which goals and a community project were selected. Two goals are to have 100% project completion and to have 50% attendance at county camp. One community project will be to provide care for the Lutheran Cemetery in Eglon and another is under investigation by a committee composed of Roxanne Evans and Terry Hauser. County Round-Up, to be held April 15 in Kingwood, was also discussed and those who plan to enter were enlisted.

Talks were given as follows: Charlotte Roth, Making Yeast Bread; Patricia Slaubaugh, Sewing Equipment; Jeanne Reeves, How to Measure Ingredients; Joyce Delaney, Good Nutrition; Lyvonne Harsh, Utensils Needed for Cooking; Jackie Lantz, How to Prepare Popcorn; Cheri Minnig, Ingredients for My Cookies; Willie Lantz, How to Show a Calf Properly, and Sheila Delaney, How to Make Pie Crust.

Local Projects Recommended To Health Agency

Continuation of the funds for the Friendsville health center was one of several county projects which were recommended for endorsement by the Governing Body of the Health Systems Agency of Western Maryland, at its meeting in Thurmont March 15, Col. J. Haig Jackson, chairman, presided.

Dr. Gilcin F. Meadors III, health resources development advisory committee chairman, stated that his committee recommended endorsement of the Friendsville health center to improve the health status of the people of Northern Garrett County and adjacent areas.

Funding of $160,000 would be used to underwrite the operating deficit of the second operating year of medical service based in Friendsville, assuring continuation of services to achievement of self sufficiency.

Funds would also be used to renovate a newly-acquired facility in Friendsville, improving the acceptability and efficiency of the services offered and facilitating the long-term provision of services, according to Dr. Meador's report.

Dr. Meadors also stated that his committee recommended endorsement of a state immunization and surveillance program, and an Accident area primary care center.

The Maryland immunization program would ask funding of $1,055,377 to achieve higher immunization levels in children by October 1979. Levels to be achieved are: 90 percent of children 15 and under will be adequately immunized against diptheria, pertussis, tetanus, polio, and measles; 90 percent of children 12 and under will be immunized against rubella; and 90 percent of children six and under will be immunized against mumps.

Funding of $104,480 would be requested to fund the Accident area primary care center, to implement the operational phase of a primary care center. A physician and support staff would be recruited to establish and maintain an ambulatory care center in an existing building.

Philmore F. Fleming, Sr., state and federal certification advistory committee chairman, reported that his committee recommended three area projects for recertification; including construction of Frostburg Village Nursing Home and construction of Allegany County Nursing Home.

Col. Jackson announced that public hearings on the draft Health Systems Plan will be held April 17 in various locations. The local meeting will be at 10 a.m. that day at Will o' the Wisp, Deep Creek Lake.

The next governing body meeting will be held April 19 at 1 p.m. at the Ali Ghan Country Club, Cumberland.

Attending the March meeting from Garrett County were Mrs. Marilyn J. Filemyr, Mrs. Mary E. Friend, Col. Jackson, and Dr. Meadors.

POPULAR CULTURE:

Mirror of American Life X:

Editor's Note: This is the 10th in a series of 15 articles exploring "Popular Culture: Mirror of American Life." In this article, sports writer Robert Lipstye discusses three sports figures — Namath, King, and Ali — whose rise to the status of super heroes reflects our fantasies and dreams. This series was written for Courses by Newspaper, a program developed by University Extension, University of California, San Diego, and funded by a grant from the National Endowment for the Humanities.

SPORTS: INSTANT LEGENDS AND SUPER HEROES

By Robert Lipsyte

Sports is an unsparing mirror of our life and fantasies. Nowhere is this easier to see than in sports' choice of its super heroes.

The Gold-Plated Age of American sports, that mid-'60s to late '70s era of instant legends and sudden millionaires and overnight bankrupts, was dominated by the images of three celebrity athletes whose impact on the nation's psyche was as deep and significant as their effect on the games they played.

Joe Namath, Billie Jean King, and Muhammad Ali were supreme performers at their peaks, now past, but each had something more. Call it magnetism or sex appeal or charisma, it allowed people to use them as extensions of their hopes and daydreams, as living symbols of the ultimate.

Broadway Joe

Physically tough, sentimental, street-wise men like Joe Namath flanked the assembly lines and daydreamed of dressing up on Saturday night, drinking with the boys and chasing girls — their rewards for using their bodies as investment capital, as had their fathers and grandfathers. It is no accident that so many of the white football players are the sons and grandsons of those men who came to America from Eastern and South-Central Europe.

Namath's father had come from Hungary as a boy, settled in Beaver Falls, Pa., a steel-mill town, and instead of encouraging his four sons to play soccer, his own game (and Nelson Rockefeller's), he steered them into baseball and football. These were the American sports, the high-risk, short-term games that could get an unscholastic "ethnic" some local recognition, discount clothes downtown, a municipal summer job, a free college education, and a one-way ticket out of town.

Joe made it to the University of Alabama, where he starred but never graduated. Then to New York, where the owner of the Jets, a weakling team in a shaky new league that desperately needed a television contract, paid him $400,000 to play quarterback, an unheard of price in 1965.

America was astounded. What could be worth that much money? So everyone rushed out to see what $400,000 looked like, and in so doing justified the price.

The publicity was enormous, the stadium was packed, the networks were ready to make a deal. And Namath, long before he showed his truly electrifying talent, was authenticated in the the popular mind by the price tag on his arm.

Image and Reality

Had Namath really been the Sixties Superstud of his image — cool, hip, mod, swinging, the bait to hook the youth cult buck — he could never have been the effective athlete he was. Broadway Joe was really a throwback to an earlier tradition in sports; he was dedicated to his team, highly responsible in his work habits, and loyal to his friends and family. His longish hair, his occasional beards, his peacock clothes were a reflection what bank tellers and steel humpers were wearing on their weekends.

It was only the middle-management, white-collar "technojockeys," the young men who were buying pro football as a romanticized psychodrama of their own corporate careers, who somehow saw Namath as outrageous or liberated or transcendant.

Numero Uno

Billie Jean's road to the top was more difficult and less-traveled than Joe's, but she was no pioneer — Babe Didrickson and Althea Gibson, among others, had suffered and sacrificed before her. A great male athlete is always considered a superman, while a great female athlete has traditionally been thought of as something less than a complete woman.

Billie Jean became special in the same ruthless way everyone else becomes special. She let her marriage slide into a sporadic relationship, she traveled continually for instruction and tournament experience, she underwent extensive knee surgery, she blotted out anything that might distract her from becoming what she called Numero Uno.

When people asked her why she didn't go home and have babies, she would snap right back, "Why don't you ask Rod Laver why he doesn't stay home?"

Ironically, it eventually took a man to authenticate Billie Jean. On September 20, 1973, in a grotesque extravaganza in the Houston Astrodome that brought tennis into big-time show biz, Little Myth America beat Bobby Riggs, a male of comparable size, but considerably less championship experience, 26 years older, and of far less accomplishment.

That Billie Jean would represent all women in such a contest was logical — she was Number One. The trick, of course, was that Riggs, a middle-aged hustler, was allowed to represent all men. Nevertheless, the victory was seen as a feminist triumph, and the Joan of Ace joined Broadway Joe as a folk hero for the Seventies.

As Namath emerged from what has been called "the rise of the unmeltable ethnics," so King was a natural product of the women's movement.

The Greatest

But Muhammad Ali, as befits a hero who rose and fell and rose again, came out of the confluence of several movements.

The earliest professional athletes in America were black slaves — boxers, jockeys and oarsmen. As soon as money, prestige, and mythic symbolism were offered to sports heroes, the blacks were squeezed out. They have yet to regain their places in rowing and at the racetrack.

In the 20th Century they began boxing again, and by the Sixties they were on their way to dominating most mjaor sports. Black sports participation was being encouraged by the establishment, to the detriment of black progress; all those young black men's energies and talents being diverted toward thousand-to-one shots in sports.

Cassius Clay of Louisville, a handsome, ebullient functional illiterate, came out of both traditions. He jocked his way through high school, won a gold medal at the 1960 Olympics in Rome, and was "bought" by a group of 10 Kentucky whiskey and tobacco millionaries who had, as Clay put it, "the complexion and connection to give me protection and direction."

Clay-Ali has never been given proper credit for understanding that his only hope for personal independence was through divorcement from mainstream America. His repudiation of his white owners, of Christianity, of the American involvement in Vietnam were of a piece with his unorthodox boxing style and his immodest publicity-seeking ("I am the greatest!").

His sense of his own destiny was far greater than Namath's or King's ("Moses had troubles, too, so did Jesus . . .") and his impact, of course, was not only greater than theirs, but his example made it easier for them to take political stands or challenge their own sports' bureaucracies.

The Exile

The three-and-a-half years of Ali's exile, in which he was illegally deprived of his livelihood, was the factor that authenticated Ali in the public mind. It proved even to people who hated his color, Muslim religion, and social position that he was not "putting them on." He lost millions of dollars by refusing to be drafted, proof of his "sincerity."

Ultimately, his largest fandom developed in Africa and Asia among nonwhites. As Ali has said, "This is Joe Namath's country, but my world." His multimillion-dollar boxing spectacles abroad have helped make his face the most recognized on the planet.

But legends always die; sports legends are among the most intense and have the shortest shelf life. New generations demand their own heroes as prisms and standards.

And even now Namath and King and Ali are in the bathroom of Valhalla, selling us toiletries on television, the last stop before the certifiable obsolescence called sports immortality.

SUPER HEROES OF SPORTS — Joe Namath, left, Billie Jean King, center, and Muhammad Ali were living symbols of the hopes and dreams of millions of Americans.

Maryland Uses Record Amount Of Fertilizer

Maryland farmers in 1977 used a record-breaking 463,867 tons of mixed fertilizers and materials according to figures just compiled by David Clarke, State Chemist with the Maryland Department of Agriculture.

The previous record of fertilizer use in Maryland at 441,000 tons, had stood since 1973. For the 12th straight year, the 10-10-10 general purpose mixed fertilizer, was the top seller, accounting for almost 58,000 tons.

The second most popular mixed fertilizer was the 10-20-20 blend and the 18-46-0 blend ranked number three.

In the materials category, 30% nitrogen solution was the most popular material accounting for 60,529 tons, or almost half of the total materials usage. Second most popular material was muriate of potash, which accounted for approximately 35,000 tons, according to tonnage reports received by Mr. Clarke's office.

MDA's State Chemist Section registers, examines, labels and chemically tests and analyzes commercial fertilizers, feeds, pesticides, soil conditioners and liming materials in the state to determine if they conform to Maryland's strict laws governing quality, content and labeling.

Consumers Wasting $20 Billion A Year On Auto Repairs

WASHINGTON (UPI) — American consumers are wasting $20 billion a year on automobile repairs, thanks to a host of problems including fraud and incompetence, the government's top car safety expert said today.

Joan Claybrook, head of the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration, said almost 40 cents of every dollar spent on car repairs goes down the drain, and the real total is probably higher.

"Right now, we believe that slightly more than half of the $20 billion waste results from fraudulent, incompetent or unnecessary repairs performed by the repair industry," Ms. Claybrook told a Senate hearing.

"The remaining losses appear to be attributable to new car design or lack of owner understanding of their car's maintenance and repair needs," she said.

The problems, she said, range from unnecessary "package" deals - such as a complete tune-up when only one spark plug is bad - to wasteful maintenance by car owners who are making unnecessary repairs just to be safe.

"In thinking our way through the problem this time, we have concluded that the remedies most likely to succeed are those which arm the individual consumer with the tools he needs to solve the problem himself," she said. "The key lies in providing the consumer with sufficient knowledge and authority to take action himself in eliminating institutional barriers that currently limit consumers' rights of action."

Veterans' Booklet Now Available

The Veterans Administration's enlarged booklet, "Federal Benefits for Veterans and Dependents" is now available from the Superintendent of Documents in Washington, D. C., according to VA Regional Director, John W. Rue.

In addition to reflecting changes resulting from the GI Bill Improvement Act and new compensation and pension rates, the 71-page booklet provides an updated summary of other VA and non-Va benefits available to veterans and dependents.

One major improvement in the 1978 edition, Mr. Rue said, is the listing of toll-free as well as local VA phone numbers. These numbers enable everyone in the 50 states and Puerto Rico to call VA, without charge, to consult a veterans benefits couselor for first-hand information on benefits.

"Federal Benefits for Veterans and Dependents" is available for $1.00 from the Superintendent of Documents, U. S. Government Printing Office, Washington, D. C. 20402.

Grain Set-Aside Program Open

Maryland farmers can sign up now for the 1978 feed grain and wheat set-aside program, according to Paul A. Crowl, Chairperson of the Maryland Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation (ASC) Committee. Set-aside requirements are 10 percent for feed grains and 20 percent for wheat.

"Participation in the program is voluntary," Crowl said. All farmers planting feed grain and/or wheat are eligible to participate in the voluntary program. Farmers who sign up will be eligible for price support loans, target price and disaster payments for barley, corn, grain sorghum or wheat on the participating farm, and eligible for loans on any other normal crop acreage (NCA) grown on the farm.

The ASC official said both the set-aside and the grain reserve program are tools that farmers can use to help raise grain prices. "By participating in the set-aside program, they help cut the oversupplies that are currently holding down prices. By putting their grain in the reserve program, they will remove excess supplies from the market until farm prices rise."

Barley, corn, grain sorghum or wheat producers who do not participate lose target prices, loan eligibility, and disaster protection for these crops. "They also lose loans on all other crops in the normal crop acreage of the farm," Crowl added.

Farmers who participate in the program agree to take out of production one acre for every ten planted in 1978 to corn, grain sorghum, and barley for grain; two acres for every ten planted to wheat for grain; and reduce the acreage of NCA crops by this set-aside amount.

Sign-up will be conducted through May 1. This will be the first year since 1973 that a set-aside program has been in effect, Crowl said. In 1973, 1,852,274 farms participated in the national feed grain program and 1,033,019 participated in the wheat program.

Drivers Reminded Again Of 1979 Tag Renewal Date

The Maryland Motor Vehicle Administration reminded motorists again this week that the deadline for displaying 1978 tag renewal stickers on all passenger vehicles, station wagons, and motorcycles is midnight, March 31.

"At this point the only sure way to secure renewal stickers in time to meet the March 31 deadline is in person," a spokesman said. "The stickers are available at MVA headquarters in Glen Burnie, at branch offices throughout the state, and at certain County Treasurer's offices."

The closest MVA branch office for Garrett Countians is located at: Cumberland, Route 53, Winchester Road.

Renewal stickers may also be obtained from the County Treasurer's offices in Anne Arundel, Calvert, Caroline, Cecil, Charles, Dorchester, Garrett, Harford, Kent, Montgomery, Prince George's, Queen Anne's, Somerset, St. Mary's, Talbot, and Worcester County.

MVA headquarters in Glen Burnie and all branch offices are open 8:30 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. weekdays. Motorists are reminded, however, that all state offices, including the MVA, will be closed in observance of Good Friday, March 24.

Surface Mining Proposals Heard

Hearings on water discharge and mining permits were held in conjunction with the Land Reclamation Committee meeting on March 15. Reclamation plans for original mining operations were approved for the following: Buffalo Coal Company; Interstate Lumber Company — two applications.

Reclamation plans for amended mining operations were approved for: F. S. S. Mining; Brashear Coal Mines. A hearing for Savage Mining Company was continued until April 12 Meeting.

County planning and zoning approvals and soil conservation district sediment and erosion control plan approvals have also been granted for the proposed mining operations.

A reclamation plan for an original permit for L. C. Coal Company was dissapproved. Late in the investigation of the permit it was found that the mining permit could possibly affect the water supply for Crellin. Following a recommendation for disapproval by the Bureau of Mines, the Land Reclamation Committee voted to disapprove the application. The L. C. Coal Company has a right of appeal and the opportunity to submit another mining plan if the potential water problems could be resolved.

Glaciation

One theory of glaciation claims that variations in the orientation of the earth's axis, and in its orbital shape cause changes in the distribution of heat over the earth's surface. If less heat is received by a portion of the earth in the summer than is required to melt winter snows, the snow will accumulate. As the snow pack becomes greater, its weight causes the edges to move slowly out from the snow pack. These protruding tongues of snow and ice which creep over the landscape are called glaciers. This theory linking astronomy and glaciation is known as the Milankovitch theory.

Moon

Full Moon phase of the moon occurs at 11:20 a.m. tomorrow as the moon, earth, and sun line up in that order. At this Full Moon, the moon passes through the earth's shadow. When the moon passes through the earth's shadow, a total eclipse of the moon occurs. Friday's eclipse will not be visible from the eastern U. S., since it occurs during the early daylight hours in this area. Moonrise varies as the week passes from 5:44 p.m. today to 12 minutes past midnight next Thursday morning.

Visible Planets

Mercury, Venus, Mars, Jupiter, and Saturn are the visible planets. Mercury can be seen 45 minutes after sunset to the upper right of Venus which is very bright just above the west horizon. Mars is among the stars of Gemini, not far from Pollux. Jupiter is in the south at sunset, with the stars of Taurus. Saturn remains among the stars of Leo, high in the east at sunset.

Increasing Daylight

Wednesday will have 16 minutes more daylight than today. Sunrise was at 6:17 a.m. this morning. Sunset follows 12 hours 14 minutes later at 6:31 p.m. Wednesday the sun will rise nine minutes earlier and will set seven minutes later than it does today.

IN MEMORIAM

In memory of my beloved Grandma, Edith E. Friend, who went to be with Jesus, April 1, 1977.

Jesus took you home, Grandma
I know it was His will,
But there isn't a day that goes by,
I don't feel your presence still.
It's hard to believe sometimes
That I will not see
You at home, waiting, to visit just with me.
No matter when I came

Or how busy you would be.
You'd always sit and talk
And always had time for me.
Sometimes yet I want to stop
To visit just a while.
To have a little talk with you
And see your "grandma" smile.
I loved you so and miss you
More than words can say.
But with God's grace and love,
I'll be with you someday.

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of my mother, Willovene Ridder, with love:

BLOSSOMS OF LOVE
By Elaine Iden

Short days that seem so very long,
How I miss the robin's song.
Weeks go on, forever it seems,
My frustration builds, I want to scream.
Then a day so fair and clear,
Is that a robin's song I hear?
The urge is stronger than I can stand.
I grab a spade and attack the land.
A million thoughts run through my mind,
This spade is a solace to my kind.
As I toil my tears flow free,
Inside I search for that person called me.
Ashes to ashes, dust to dust,
Just as life, death is a must.
Ground now turned and seeds in hand,
I start to plant my master plan.
Each seed that sprouts, each plant that grows,
Somehow I feel my mother knows.
Each flower is saying "I loved you so."
—Adv. 4-1t.

Appropriation Permit Application No.: 77-SAP-032 Mettiki Coal Corporation, Rt. 3, Box 124-A, Deer Park, Maryland 21550; proposes to appropriate for cooling water in the operation of a coal preparation plant, a yearly average of 221,000 gallons of water per day, and a maximum of 504,000 gallons in any one day, from a pond to be constructed on the South Fork of Sand Run near Wilson, Maryland. Tentative Decision: Issue permit subject to a number of restrictive conditions, including: 1) cessation of withdrawals and maintenance of a minimum stream flow release of 0.255 cubic feet per second at all times downstream of the dam; 2) construction of a flow measurement weir for enforcement of this release; 3) submission of monthly withdrawal records for all water used. No existing water users should be adversely impacted by the proposed appropriation.

Waterway Obstruction Plan Development Permit Application No.: 77-PD-0606 Mettiki Coal Corporation, Rt. 3, Box 124-A Deer Park, Maryland 21550 proposes to construct a dam on South Fork, Sand Run about 3200 feet upstream from its confluence with North Fork, Sand Run, west of Wilson, Maryland for the purpose of storing water for pump cooling and coal washing processes. Tentative Decision: Issue permit for the use of the site for a dam 110 feet long, maximum height of 8 feet above streambed, top width of 15 feet with 3:1 slopes, and emergency spillway of 40 foot bottom width with 2:1 slopes; and subject to a number of restrictive conditions, including those provided in Appropriation Permit Application No. 77-SAP-032, for the water to be withdrawn from the impoundment to be created. Members of the Southern Garrett County Rescue Squad traveled to Southern Middle School to conduct a seminar last Thursday. The children were taught the proper techniques of cardio-pulmonary resuscitation, taking blood pressure and were then given an opportunity to tour a rescue vehicle. The children were members of Pam Biser's seventh grade class and have been studying the functions of the human body. Pictured, left to right, are EMTs Patsy Stewart, Brad Stewart, and teacher, Pam Biser. Brad is demonstrating CPR on an instructional model.

Nearly Half Must Still File State Income Tax Forms

Maryland State Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein announced this week that while more than half of the State's income taxpayers have filed their State income tax returns, about 800,000 tax forms are still expected by April 17th, this year's filing deadline.

"While returns are being filed more quickly this year than in 1977, we are entering a slack period when there is little backlog. I am encouraging taxpayers to file their returns now, especially the 400,000 or more taxpayers who have not filed and who will likely be receiving refund checks," Mr. Goldstein said. "It will take much longer to process refund checks if the taxpayer files a return at the end of the filing period."

All eleven offices of the Maryland Income Tax Division will offer additional hours of taxpayer assistance on Monday, March 27 and Monday, April 3. The offices will accept telephone inquiries from taxpayers from 4:30 p.m. until 7:00 p.m. on both days. "These evening telephone service hours are especially helpful to taxpayers who cannot get their questions answered during normal working hours," Mr. Goldstein said. The addresses and telephone numbers of the offices are listed on the back of the tax packet and in local telephone directories.

The Comptroller stated that his office has already mailed more than one-half million refund checks to State income taxpayers this year. Each check averages approximately $163.

For the first seven months of Fiscal Year 1978, State and local income tax revenues total $844,669,330, an increase of 14.84 percent over the $735,516,077 received during the same period of the previous fiscal year.

Maryland Gasoline Use Moderates

Maryland State Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein announced this week that gasoline use in the State moderated during January 1978 after exceptionally heavy consumption was reported for December 1977. A total of 152,050,771 gallons of gasoline were consumed in the State during January 1978, one-tenth of one percent more than the amount used during January 1977.

Motorists consumed 177,944,830 gallons of gasoline during December 1977, the second highest amount ever consumed during a single month in Maryland.

"It appears that Maryland gasoline use is returning to the stablizing trend we reported last fall, and the holiday traveling during December was the reason for the heavy gasoline use during that month," Mr. Goldstein said.

Gasoline use in Maryland was almost identical during September and October 1977, and even declined during November of that year.

Mr. Goldstein noted that motor vehicle fuel tax revenue for the first eight months of Fiscal Year 1978 totals $131,066,129, up 3.60 percent over the $126,516,369 received for the same period of Fiscal Year 1977.

A total of $128,679,347 has been distributed to the Transportation Trust Fund of the Maryland Department of Transportation. Part of this revenue is redistributed to local governments.

Postmaster Announces Employment Exams

Postmaster Guy William Hinebaugh has announced that Clerk-Carrier exams will be given soon and urged that all those interested apply to take the job-related tests.

The postmaster explained that those wishing to take the exam could obtain the necessary forms at the Oakland Post Office. The closing date for applying is Monday, March 27. Those applying will then be notified as to the date the exams will be given at the Cumberland Post Office.

"I do not want to give the impression we will be hiring great numbers of people in the coming months," the Postmaster said. "I anticipate approximately three vacancies will occur in the next two years that will be filled by hiring people from our up-dated job register. We need qualified people who will be willing to accept employment and want to offer people in the local community the chance to compete for these openings by signing up for, and taking the exams."

Reverend Sisler Completes Book

The Reverend M. David Sisler, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Melvin D. Sisler, Sr., of Mountain Lake Park, recently announced the publication of his first book. The volume, published by Pathway Press, Cleveland, Tennessee, is entitled, Finished! Living Words From The Dying Savior.

Concerning his book, Mr. Sisler stated, "When a loved one dies, family members usually cling to the last words of the deceased and from them draw strength for the days ahead. For the members of the family of God the last words of Jesus, have been recorded. Finished! is a study of Redemption's royal words — the seven st. ements Jesus uttered while He was dying."

Rev. Sisler is a native of Oakland. He is a 1965 graduate of Southern High School. He received a bachelor of science degree in history from Frostburg State College, and is a Church of God minister and has pastored the Church of God in Damascus, Maryland; and in Erie, Markleton, and Windber, Pennsylvania.

He has served for the past 3½ years as editorial assistant to the editor in chief of Church of God Publications. In this capacity he has edited and written numerous articles for the Church of God Evangel, the official journal of the Church of God, Cleveland, Tennessee. He has also written articles for other church periodicals and the Cleveland Daily Banner. He is a member of the Evangelical Press Association and the International Pentecostal Press Association.

His family includes his wife, Bonnie Belle, and their four children: Jennifer, Amy, Michael and Matthew.

Copies of the book are available from Mr. Sisler by writing to him at 4721 Pebblebrook Circle, Cleveland, Tennessee 37311. The book sells for $2.25, plus postage.

A "Sunny" Easter . . .

Once again Mother Nature forced us to our knees by lashing out with one of the most awesome displays of frozen rain this county has experienced in many years. Her actions created quite a havoc. Trees, homes and automobiles were damaged. There was a massive power outage. Those of us who subscribe to Bettervision were forced to spend Easter Sunday afternoon reading a book instead of watching the tube.

Once again, however, various individuals rose to the occasion and labored many tough, extra hours to remedy the effects of the storm.

Though we are all somewhat outraged with Potomac Edison these days, the men who worked around the clock in these unpleasant conditions deserve our thanks. Almost all power was restored within 72 hours. After all, the PE employees who have to go out at all hours, climb the poles and repair the lines have little to do with the fuel adjustment charge.

Telephone service was just momentarily interrupted. Once again, some dedicated persons gave a little extra.

Bettervision employees spent eight to ten hours on Easter Sunday climbing cold, icy poles attempting to restore service to customers.

Many volunteer firefighters spent much of their holiday standing by at their stations and answering various alarms created by the weather—a true example of service, above and beyond the call.

Immediately following the storm, Oakland city crews were canvassing the streets, removing fallen limbs and trees from residents' yards. City taxpayers should be pleased with the services rendered.

There are undoubtedly hundreds of accounts of friendly, neighborly acts performed by persons all over the county for those in need during the freezing onslaught. While it certainly wasn't a sunny Easter, the Christian spirit shown brightly all around.

You indeed hit us hard from time to time, Mother Nature, but we always have and always will bounce right back.

Potomac Edison, PSC To Discuss Proposed Fuel Adjustment Charges

HAGERSTOWN, MD. (UPI) — The Potomac Edison Co. said Wednesday it will meet with representatives from the people counsel's office of the Public Service Commission to discuss a proposed hid on fuel adjustment charges.

Potomac spokesman Robert B. Murdock said the meeting Thursday will focus on the proposed ceiling that could result in lower costs for its 125,000 Western Maryland customers.

Commissioner William S. Baldwin asked for the meeting to work out a plan that would provide some type of relief for the utility's customers, who have been faced with soaring electric bills resulting from the nationwide coal strike.

"The commission is quite sympathetic to the problems of these people," Baldwin said.

But Murdock said any form of relief to the utility's customers could possibly damage the company's financial position because it would delay the time that it could get reimbursed for its expenses.

Baldwin said the utility has been cooperative in the past in trying to keep the fuel-adjustment charges down, which is automatically passed on to customers.

He said if the charge is changed for Potomac, the decision could affect other utilities in the state.

The Senate Tuesday gave preliminary approval to a bill that would prohibit utilities from automatically passing on to customers increases incurred for fuel price rises. Under the measure, the Public Service Commission would have to approve fuel rate adjustment increases of more than 5 percent a month.

The bill would also require the commission to hold a hearing within 30 days of the time a utility in the state wants to increase.

The requested fuel increase would not go into effect until at least 30 days after the hearing. If the commission decides within 90 days of the hearing that the increase put into effect was unjustified, it could order refunds.

Youth Leads Police On Long Chase

A young man from the Deer Park area led local police a chase lasting several miles Friday night as he attempted to elude Oakland town police.

Michael Curtis Fitzwater, 18, of Turkey Neck, was charged with driving on his learner's permit without a licensed operator in his car, with reckless driving and with attempting to elude a police officer.

The chase started in Oakland, with Oakland police joined by Maryland State Police and several county deputies. Fitzwater was apprehended on the northern end of the Route 219 bridge at Deep Creek Lake after managing to stay ahead of police on Dennett Road, Broad Ford Road, the old Deer Park Road, Pysell Crossout, and Route 38.

He was released on $75 bond March 25, pending trial.

FIFTY YEARS OF MASONRY — George H. Hanst, pictured center, was honored Tuesday evening at the regular communication of Oakland Lodge #192, AF & AM, by being presented with a fifty-year emblem. Mr. Hanst, of Oakland, was raised to the third degree of Masonry on March 27, 1926, in the Oakland Lodge. He served as Worshipful Master in 1934 and 1935. He served as District Inspector for one year and is presently the treasurer of Oakland Lodge. Mr. Hanst was also active with the Boy Scouts of America for many years and is presently active in the Oakland Rotary Club and St. Mark's Lutheran Church. He was editor of The Republican for many years until his retirement last year. Standing with Mr. Hanst are, left to right, Homer Michaels, Deputy Grand Lecturer; James W. Nelson, Worshipful Master of Oakland Lodge #192; Louis Biggs, Grand Inspector; and Robert T. Hoffman, secretary of Oakland Lodge #192, who presented a history of Mr. Hanst's life in the Oakland Lodge.

Bolden's School Bill Passes House By Wide Margin

Delegate DeCorsey Bolden, R-Garrett and Allegany Counties, announced that House Bill #1247, which he introduced to permit the State Board of Education to reduce the 180-school day requirement upon request by local school boards under certain special conditions, was passed by a vote of 118-4 in the House of Delegates on Tuesday.

In explaining the reasoning behind the legislation, Delegate Bolden stated, "I believe that the local school board often finds itself compelled not to close public schools during unsatisfactory weather conditions because it is required by state law to maintain 180 days in the school year calendar. House Bill 1247 will help local officials to always consider safety first, without the pressure of the 180-school day requirement influencing their decision as whether or not to close the public schools due to treacherous weather."

The bill will now go to the Senate for consideration where it will have a hearing before the Senate Finance Committee, which is chaired by Senator James Clark.

If passed by both Houses of the Maryland General Assembly, county school boards throughout Maryland will be able to request the State Board of Education to reduce the presently required 180 days of school for reasons of natural or civil disaster or severe weather conditions which prevent normal school attendence in their localities. The provisions of the bill limit the maximum reduction of the school year to ten days, or two weeks, of school.

Delegate Bolden concluded, "I feel this change in the law will give the local board of education an alternative to requiring our children to attend school extra hours of the day or extra days during summer vacation in order to meet the 180-school day law."

An almost audible sigh of relief could be heard from the Don Browning residence on Fourth Street as this huge tree came crashing down, narrowly avoiding the house. Scenes like this were common on Fourth Street and throughout the county Sunday morning following a severe ice storm which hit the mountaintop. Broken conductors, downed power lines, fallen trees and toppled utility poles proved a challenge to the 70 Potomac Edison employees who worked since Sunday to repair the damage.

County Wide Blackout Remedied

Much of Garrett County was affected by a power outage that began Sunday at 4 a.m. following a heavy storm of sleet and high winds. William Baker, Operating Foreman for Potomac Edison reported that it was the worst incident of that nature since his affiliation with this area.

A similar calamity occurred in December 1964 and repair work was hampered by heavy snow. In comparison, this week's blackout was considerably worse because so many lines were downed.

Broken conductors, ice buildup, damaged lines and fallen trees made restoration efforts difficult for the 70 man repair team. The linemen came from Frederick, Hagerstown, Cumberland and Connellsville, Pa., to operate some 35 pieces of machinery used to remedy the damage.

The entire county was generally affected, with a broad area from Keyser's Ridge to Kitzmiller being heavily hit. Fifty percent of Potomac Edison customers in Garrett County were involved in the blackout.

Oakland particularly felt results of the storm when an electrical "feeder" which transfers power from West Virginia, was damaged within the city limits.

Several schools were without power, including Kitzmiller, Northern High and Southern High, which forced closing of county schools Monday.

Potomac Edison workmen have been steadily restoring power to county residents since Sunday. Mr. Baker said that as of Wednesday there were still 25 residences without power and that his men hoped to correct the situation before Wednesday evening.

It Started Thus

Last Thursday was mostly cloudy with showers beginning late in the afternoon. Friday mostly cloudy becoming overcast in the afternoon. Rain changing to freezing rain and then sleet began Friday night and continued through most of Saturday. There was some partial clearing about midday but the sleet and rain began again late Saturday and continued into Sunday morning. The afternoon was cloudy with some fog beginning to close in late in the day. Monday was cloudy with fog and mist all day. There was some more sleet and rain early Tuesday. The day was then overcast until afternoon when a clearing trend began. Yesterday morning was variable cloudy with a few snow flakes flying. The afternoon was mostly clear. Skies were variably cloudy this morning. The week's precipitation added up to .96 inches with most on Saturday .75 inch.

The week's temperature averaged 3.6 degrees below normal. Highs averaged 47.1 degrees or 6.8 below normal. The high was last Thursday's 58 degrees. The coolest day was Saturday with only 33 degrees. By Monday, the mercury was back up in the 50s. Lows averaged 28.7 degrees or .5 degree below normal. The lowest was this morning's 21 degrees. Yesterday's reading was a milder 39 degrees.

Oakland Woman Charged In Theft

An Oakland woman was arrested in Uniontown, Pa. late last week and charged with theft, receiving stolen property, possessing burglary tools and conspiracy.

Carolyn Sue Thomas, 30, was held in the Fayette County jail in lieu of $10,000 bond after police recovered a tractor-trailer and bulldozer that were recently stolen in Maryland.

Police said she was helping steal the equipment when she was taken into custody. Accomplices fled on foot, eluding police.

State police, who are continuing an investigation, notified the FBI because the incident involved the interstate transportation of stolen property.

The recovered vehicles were valued at $30,000, and the property of Norman Hanlin, Oakland.

Mrs. Thomas was then transferred to the county jail here, and was released on $1,000 bond Wednesday following a bond review in District Court.

An investigation is continuing.

George Construction Awarded Bid For Demolition Of The County Jail

The Board of Garrett County Commissioners unanimously voted to award a bid for demolition of the county jail to George Construction Company, during Monday's session in Oakland. George Construction, of Cumberland, had submitted low bid of $46,000.

Demolition is expected to begin in late spring, with completion scheduled 30 days from the starting date.

Other bidders were Pevarnik Brothers, Inc., Latrobe, Pa., $56,857; and Cecil Martin, Oakland, $51,900.

There was an option in the bid allowing 30 extra days for the work, and all three bidders quoted a $2,000 reduction in costs if the option were exercised.

In other business Monday, the commissioners unanimously voted to appoint Robert E. Lee as a representative on the Commission on Aging. In other Commission on Aging business the board agreed to contribute $300 to the local share for a station wagon for transporting senior citizens. Most of the money will be obtained from a state Department of Transportation grant.

The Commissioners also noted that the vast majority of the local share had been raised through fund-raising projects by the Commission and commended them for their efforts. Mrs. Marilyn Metheny is director of the local program.

Miss Ann Smith was appointed to the regular Emergency Medical Service Advisory council representing the Southern Garrett County Rescue Squad.

Miss Deborah Lawton appeared before the Board to discuss applications for HUD block grants projects for next year. Miss Lawton advised the commissioners that contrary to past procedure, next year's HUD program could be oriented to construction projects.

The Commissioners scheduled two meetings, one April 10 and one April 24 at 10 a.m. in the Grand Jury room, to compile a list of potentials for HUD grants. It is possible that water and sewerage projects could gain HUD approval next year.

The first of two tax abatement hearings requesting abatement of tax bills was held Monday. The petitioners allege there have been substantial errors in four condominium transfers at Prestige condominiums. The commissioners took no action pending further consideration.

Hospital Board of Governors Makes Decisions Regarding Building Plans

At a recent meeting of the Garrett County Memorial Hospital Board of Governors, several decisions were made affecting the proposed building and expansion program for the hospital.

According to Kenneth A. Richmond, administrator, the members of the Board have decided to "slow down" somewhat in their efforts towards the construction of an all new, 110-bed facility, which was the initial goal of the building program.

In citing some reasons for the "slow down," Mr. Richmond said that the economic growth of the county is moving slower than first anticipated and that the census at the hospital has been lower the past several months than projected. He said that one reason for the dip in census is the recent United Mine Workers strike. Mr. Richmond said that approximately 7% of the hospital's income comes from the UMWA. He also said that patient visits to nearly all doctors' offices in the county have also dropped the past few months, as much as 47% in some cases.

Mr. Richmond said another reason for the "slow down" was that some additional funding alternatives have recently been made available and warrant investigation.

The decisions made by the Board are as follows:

— continually re-evaluate the projected bed needs and modify them to a level more appropriate to meet today's existing need;

— develop an efficient and flexible hospital core, capable of having beds added to it quickly and inexpensively as the volume and population grows;

— utilize the existing facility to its maximum efficiency and within its financial reasonableness;

— continue developing with the Health Department the Health Complex concept, working towards providing the highest quality of total care to the patient at the most economical possible cost;

— postpone the groundbreaking of the building and construction program to 1979 while evaluating more fully all available means of financing;

— during the next 12-18 months, closely monitor the economic growth of the county, the effect of additional physicians and the impact of new services, and adapt the building and renovation program to meet the changing needs.

In conclusion, Mr. Richmond stated that it is the desire of the Board "not to overbuild and burden the public with unused, unnecessary expensive

Island Creek Mines Resuming Full Operations

Miners at Island Creek Coal Company's two Potomac Divisions near Bayard returned to their long-disused machinery and tools Tuesday, ending the 113-day-old, longest United Mine Workers strike in history.

Miners were scheduled to return to work Monday, but were prevented from entering the mines at both Alpine and North Branch by pickets from the Mine Construction union, who had not yet reached a contract with the Association of Bituminous Contractors. A tentative contract was agreed upon Monday night, and members will vote on the settlement next Tuesday.

Island Creek's mines will begin shipping coal again as soon as all equipment is running, possibly as early as today.

Union mines in Pennsylvania and other parts of West Virginia are also getting back into full production, but some mines in Kentucky, Illinois and Indiana are still closed by pickets from the construction workers local.

Schools' Current Operating Budget Dwindling Rapidly

Dr. William H. Buser, Superintendent of Schools, announced this week that parts of the current operating budget are being expended faster than last year. While $292,910 was budgeted to provide heat and light, it would appear at this time that both items will be overspent for the school year 1977-78. He indicated that the Operational Expenditures category of the budget is increasing more rapidly by percentages than any other aspect of the budget. Dr. Buser also stated that $36,000 was budgeted to pay substitute teacher salaries for teachers who are on sick or personal leave or are participating in school approved activities while school is in session. Nearly $31,000 of this money had been spent by March 28, 1978, and the balance probably will not cover the illnesses of teachers for the remainder of the school year.

With updated information in these two areas the superintendent remarked it appears it will be even more difficult to have an estimated $35,000 as this year's unspent balance to carry forward to next year's budget. Dr. Buser concluded that he, the staff, and the Board of Education will work to insure a deficit is not incurred in the current operating budget.

Hornbeck To Hold Public Meeting

David Hornbeck, state superintendent of schools, will be the principal speaker at an open public meeting Wednesday, April 5, at Garrett Community College.

Dr. Hornbeck's topic will be, "Project Basic," dealing with the state's planned emphasis on the basics of education.

After a visit with county school officials in the morning, Dr. Hornbeck will be visiting at Broad Ford and Southern Middle Schools from 1:30 to 3:30 p.m.

All interested persons are invited to the public meeting.

Jurors Instructed

Petit jurors reported at 9:30 a.m., Monday to the Circuit Court room in the Courthouse, and were instructed in their duties by Associate Judge Fred A. Thayer.

The group was dismissed in approximately one hour, after a tour of the Court room and jury chambers.

The jury will be called to hear its first case April 6, when Larry Lipscomb will be tried on a charge of rape. Jurors are to report at 9:15 a.m.

A jury will be selected April 11 to hear the case of Lawrence VanSickle vs. Russell Shafer, involving a dispute over a coal lease.

Program For Gifted And Talented Students Planned For This Summer

Applications are being accepted now for Maryland students of outstanding intellectual ability and talent in the visual and performing arts who wish to participate in the State Department of Education's summer programs for the gifted and talented.

"This popular summer series has grown annually over the last four years and each year it is oversubscribed by enthusiastic young people looking for a chance to expand their powers and work with their peers," according to David W. Hornbeck, state superintendent. "We stretch the dollars and the facilities close to their limit," Hornbeck said, "but we know we're turning away deserving young people from this immensely successful summertime activity."

Deadline for applications this year is April 1. School principals have application forms.

This summer nine facilities all over the state will accommodate 2,310 students, 635 more than last year's record number. The nine sites are one more than last year. State funds allocated for the vacation-time programs total $446,000, up $132,000 from last year.

Locations of the residential centers and their program emphasis will be: Maryland Center for the Arts, St. Joseph's College, Emmitsburg; Center for Intellectually Gifted/Junior High, St. Mary's College, St. Mary's City; Center for Intellectually Gifted/Senior High, Maryland School for the Deaf, Frederick; Center for the Sciences and Humanities, Wye Institute, Queenstown; Center for Environmental Science/Technology and Visual Arts, Frostburg State College, Frostburg; and the Center for Marine Science Studies, Chesapeake Bay Foundation, Annapolis.

Non-residential commuter centers will be: Center for Environmental Technology, Charles Community College, La Plata; Center for Studies in Science, Maryland Academy of Sciences, Baltimore; and the Center for Port-Related Careers, Community College of Baltimore Harbor Campus, Baltimore.

Principals in all public and private secondary schools in the state and all elementary schools with a sixth grade have received application forms and descriptive materials. Cost of enrollment for residential programs is $50 a week for room and board, with aid available in needy cases. Enrollment in commuter centers is free.

Director of the state program is John M. Shaffer, Maryland State Department of Education.

Hamburger—two pounds for 25 cents, beef roast—17 cents a pound, coffee—two pounds for 37 cents, eggs—2 doz for 45 cents! If you were shopping in 1937, you could expect to pay the above prices. We can't go back to 1937 but wouldn't it be grand if, on Saturday, April 1—April Fool's Day, someone would play a joke on us and change all the grocery prices back to 1937 prices. Oh well, our salaries would probably be turned back to 1937 too and that would not be fun. This year, people who have never grown anything will probably try their hand at gardening. Now back in the early 40's, people called them "Victory Gardens" but this year "Survival Gardens" seems more appropriate.

The following recipe features tuna fish which is high in protein but reasonably priced.

TUNA SURPRISE

1 can (6½ oz.) tuna, drained and flaked
1 can (10¾ oz.) cream of mushroom soup
1 cup thinly sliced celery
½ cup diced onions
½ cup salad dressing
1 cup crushed potato chips

Combine all ingredients except potato chips and spoon into 4 individual casserole dishes. Top with crushed potato chips and bake at 350 degrees for 15 minutes. Try serving with cheddar cheese chunks, buttered peas and carrots and Frosted Fruit Salad.

FROSTED FRUIT SALAD contributed by Donna Heginbotham

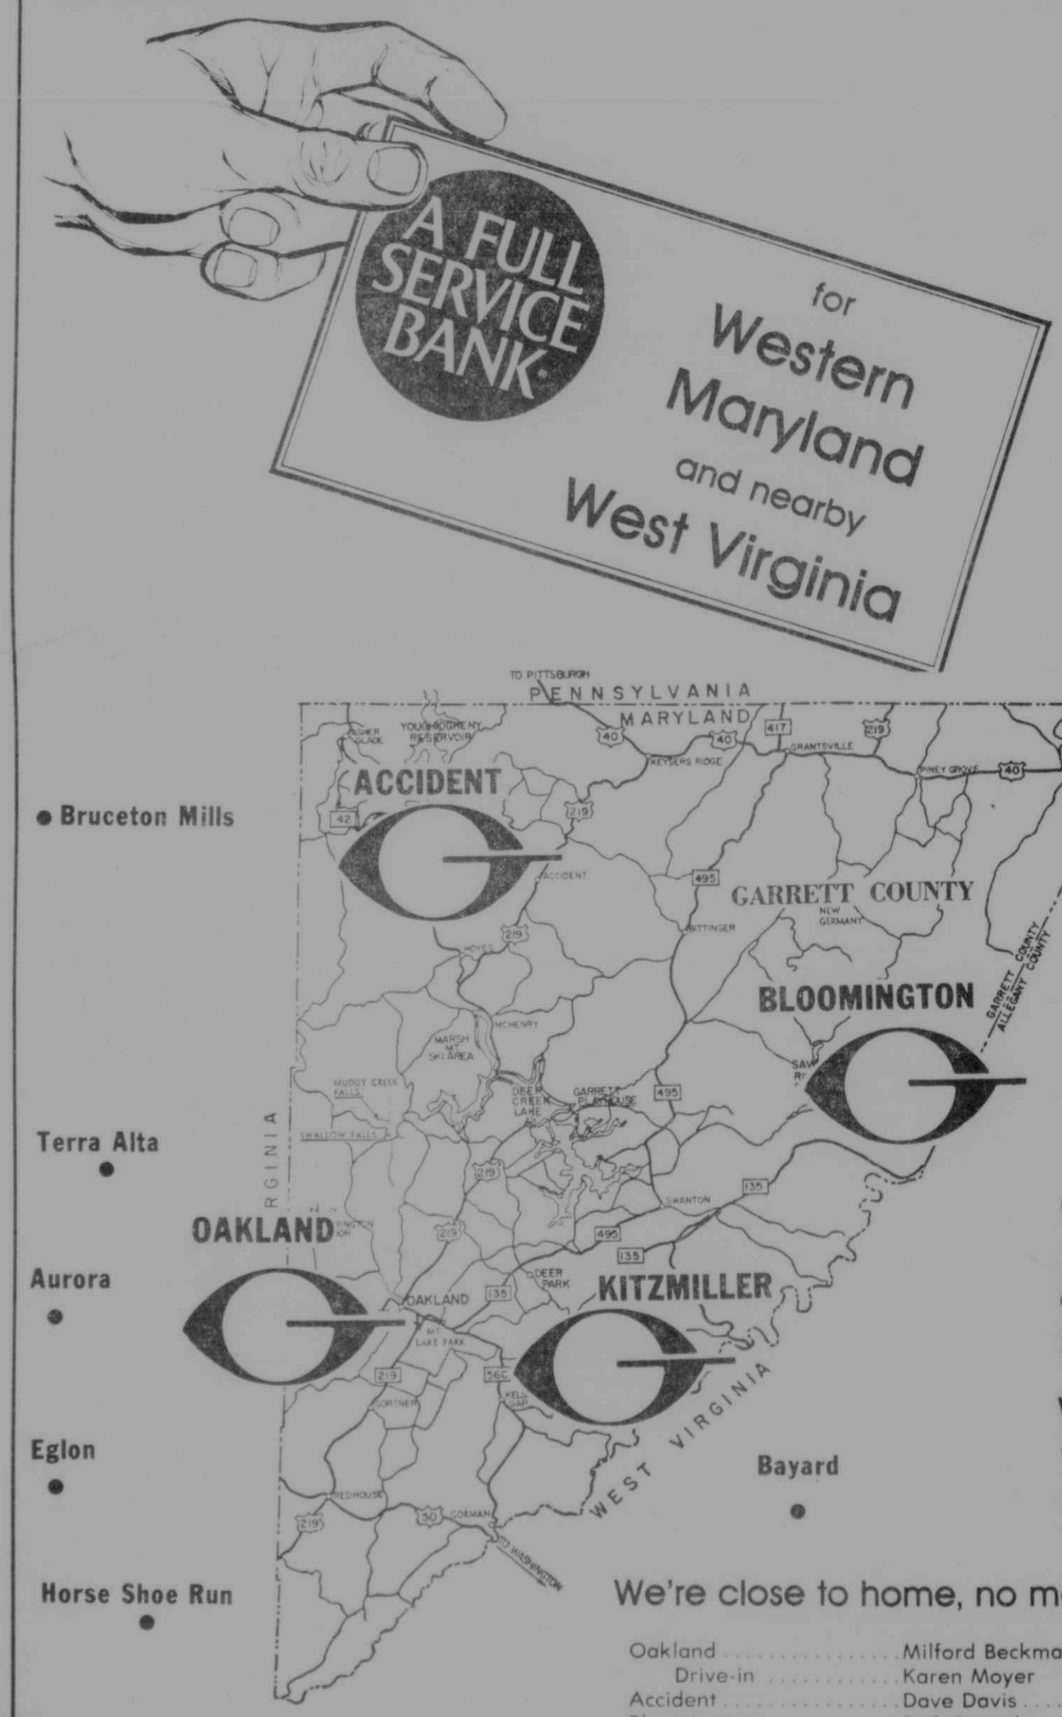
1 pkg. (3 oz.) Lemon Jello
1 pkg. (3 oz.) Orange Jello
2 cups hot water
1½ cups cold water
1 lg. can crushed pineapple, drained
½ bag miniature marshmallows
3 bananas, diced

Combine lemon and orange jello; add hot water and stir until dissolved. Add cold water; stir thoroughly and refrigerate until mixture starts to jell. Add crushed pineapple, marshmallows and diced bananas and pour into an 11"x13"x2" pan. Refrigerate until firm. Top with frosting recipe below. Sprinkle with chopped nuts, if desired.

SALAD FROSTING



1 egg, beaten
2 Tbsp. flour
2 Tbsp. butter or margarine
¼ cup sugar
1 cup pineapple juice

Combine above ingredients until smooth. Cook over medium heat, stirring constantly, until mixture is thickened. Cool and then fold in 2 cups Cool Whip.

NUTRITION NOTE: According to Georgia Stevens Nerud, Consumer Economics Specialist, Cooperative Extension Service, University of Md., there are few vegetables as versatile as carrots. They are a low cost vegetable which combine well with other vegetables and can be served either cooked or raw. Colorful, crunchy carrot sticks brighten any meal. Shredded carrots are good in cabbage slaw, tossed green salad, and molded into gelatin. You can saute, butter, cream, glaze or bake carrots. One average carrot has only twenty-one calories and provides more than the full amount of Vitamin A needed daily for an adult. Remember, Vitamin A is important in building and maintaining resistance to infections, as well as stimulating new cell growth. It is recommended for preventing or relieving poor skin conditions and is well known for preventing or improving night blindness.

TIP OF THE WEEK: Canned tuna, whether packed in oil or water, contains the same amount of protein—45 grams per 6½ oz. can. However, tuna packed with water contains about one-half the calories of tuna packed in oil. If you're trying to watch your weight (isn't everybody, it seems), try tuna packed in water.

Wildlife Habitat Project Underway

"Maryland Acres for Wildlife," a new program to combat loss of upland wildlife habitat, is underway.

It was launched by the Wildlife Administration of the Department of Natural Resources.

The program provides an opportunity for land managers and Wildlife Administration personnel to promote and restore wildlife habitats. Of special concern are those areas used by wildlife for nesting and shelter from weather and predators.

Approximately 50,000 acres of land are being consumed each year by housing developments, shopping centers, and industrial complexes. Much of this land housed upland wildlife populations. Coupled with this unrecoverable loss of habitat there has been a change in how nontilled areas of open lands are being managed, resulting in many overgrown hedgerows, ditchbanks and other weedy areas being "cleaned" up.

These vegetated or "weedy" areas are vital to upland wildlife for nesting areas, protective cover and for food, says Josh Sandt, Upland Wildlife Program Manager. According to Sandt, the Acres for Wildlife program will help to restore these lost habitats and educate the general public about upland wildlife habitats.

Landowners willing to enroll at least one acre of their land in the program will receive signs designating the plot as an Acres for Wildlife area, a certificate of appreciation, technical advice for management of the area plus planting material if needed.

Individuals or organizations who do not own land can also become involved in the program by sponsoring an Acres for Wildlife plot on a cooperative landowners property or on rights of way or other public lands.

For more information, contact any DNR office or Wildlife Administration District Office.

Man Arrested For Disorderly Conduct

An Accident man was arrested and charged with disorderly conduct and assault following an incident at the American Legion Post in Oakland early March 26.

Everett Allen Fratz was charged with the two counts by Oakland policeman Cpl. Roger Lewis, who made the arrest. Cpl. Lewis lodged the assault charge when Fratz began to struggle, resisting arrest.

Mr. Fratz was released later that day on his own recognizance pending trial.

Two other men were lodged briefly in the county jail. Elwood Sweitzer, Aurora, was brought in March 26 on a larceny after trust charge, stemming from an incident at Lakeview Exxon at McHenry during 1977. Sweitzer has been released on bond pending a hearing.

Larry Brenneman, Bittinger, was lodged in jail March 27 on a charge of driving while under the influence of alcohol, and was released the following day.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

Recently a fire broke out in an apartment in my home. Without doubt, the expediency and efficiency of the firemen who responded to the emergency prevented a disastrous fire.

I was out of town at the time and there have been nothing but favorable reports about the manner in which each of these men went about his work.

It is when we experience first hand the training and dedication of these firemen that we realize how much this great group of volunteers mean to our town. Thanks fellows!

Dear Editor:

Sometime Thursday night, March 23, 1978, the school sign on the front lawn of Northern High School was vandalized. The sign was completely ruined by pranksters, obviously from Southern High School, as the letters SHS were written numerous times over the sign in red paint.

Friday morning when I first discovered this display of ill humor, I was outraged. My immediate reaction was to "get them back". I visualized how wonderful a full bucket of blue paint would look poured over the entirety of the Southern High School sign. However, I then realized that an act of this kind would only make the students of Northern look as low as those from Southern High School.

The person or persons responsible for this destruction will probably never be known. The southern end has always managed to be sneaky enough as not to leave any clues behind. This sly and clever work can only be expected due to the amount of practice the southern vandals have accumulated. This is definitely not the first time such behavior has taken place. In recent months the school sign was stolen. It was never proven just who did the "dirty work", but one can well imagine who was responsible. For other displays of poor sportsmanship and destruction, one can attend any cross county match.

I am bewildered to know when the lower end of the county is going to teach its students to grow up and behave as well as those children's parents think they behave. I find their actions to be downright disgusting and a smeared reflection on the lower section of our county.

To the persons responsible for the destruction of our school property, I would like to say this: I wish I was as great as you think you are!!!

Dave Savage,
President, Student Gov't.
Northern High School

Dear Mr. Savage,

It seems a little premature to automatically place the blame on Southern High students, simply because the SHS lettering appeared on the sign. In fact, what better way for an angry Northern student to get back at his school and at the same time throw a punch at Southern students by making them look guilty? — Just a thought.

Also, it takes only one individual to carry out such destruction. It seems a bit unfair to imply that all of the students in the "lower" end of the county are guilty of such acts and need to "grow up."

However, we certainly understand your anger and we, too, agree that such acts are downright disgusting.

Dear Editor:

In reference to the Garrett County Transportation System, I would like to see a published report of how much money was collected in fares on separate areas, not just a report of how many people rode it, so we can get a picture of which runs are profitable. Also we need to know how much is received in grants. This report should include number of employees, salaries paid and cost of maintenance. It is only good business to expect a project to be self-supporting after a period of six or seven years. If we the people are being asked to support it with our tax dollars we need to be well informed to make an educated judgment in order to advise the County Commissioners how we feel about this matter. All sections of the County should be serviced at least occasionally to have County support. Some elderly people say they use it but many of them are being transported by Community Action and the Commission on Aging. There could very well be a duplication of service in some areas and no service in others.

If the runs for working people are unprofitable those fares could be raised to meet expenses and buses could stop running around the streets of Oakland, Mt. Lake Park and Loch Lynn empty during the day.

One reason for the buses in the beginning was to haul people to Oakland so why are the buses going to Frostburg? Is this a profitable run?

I feel it is time we had a more equitable distribution of services in the county and a better county-wide range of representation on advisory boards for important agencies.

We have listened to a few long enough, now let's hear from the silent majority for a change.

One of the heretofore silent ones

Dear Editor:

Having read many controversial issues regarding our local Board of Education, I would like to express my approval of one particular program. I am referring to the recent trip to France undertaken by fourteen students, one parent, and one teacher. I would like to see more students participating in this type of program.

Because this was a student trip and therefore done at a more reasonable rate, our son and others I'm sure, traveled to Europe when they wouldn't otherwise have had the opportunity. The small cost to the Board of Education was a five-day substitute teacher.

Thanks to Ms. Snyder, who spent many extra hours in preparation, and other teachers who cooperated with her, these students had an unforgettable experience.

Sincerely,
John Marple

Dear Editor:

As a senior citizen, there are two truths known here from experience and not found in books. Mountaineers are a separate breed and my dad never taught us fear.

With these two facts and an intense personal desire to keep our way of life, I register strong protests to any erosion. Outside influences are creeping upon us and diluting the heritage to our children, this is sickening.

Our ancestors faced the tomahawk which killed no deader than any nuclear weapon today and they faced it with bitter humor, without teaching their children despondency. They had hopes for the future, taught their children hope and also had a holiday dedicated to hope. Only a vestige remains and that is rapidly disappearing.

Today, Arbor Day can't be found on most calendars.

In my childhood that day was widely celebrated and as a symbol we children planted a small tree. We KNEW the tree would grow and future generations would benefit from it. We KNEW that foresters were the living representatives of the yet unborn. We KNEW that we would make this a better world. Dad would have awarded the "Fistburger, first class" to any monkey preaching cowardice or lies to his bunch. We can't do this today.

It is suggested instead that we Garrett Countians not only observe Arbor Day with as much enthusiasm as possible but to also express disapproval when we encounter the teaching of despair to our kids such as "the world will soon end" and "all office holders are crooks". Let this county remain the place where people are too proud to display fear, etc., to children! Let outsiders teach futility to theirs while we raise giants!

Dear Editor:

I am writing in response to the letter published in last week's paper from a concerned coal miner's little sister. I sympathize with you and agree that not all coal miners are "Bad Guys," because of the hazardous working conditions.

But who shows any concern for us, those who are unable to work, and have fixed incomes and those who receive small pensions, that just barely keep food on their tables? We have no other choice, but to accept what we get.

If prices keep going up, we and many others will be sitting in the comfort of our own homes, cold and dark, and wondering what to eat.

A worried disabled citizen,
Oakland, Maryland

Dear Editor:

The letters to the editor the past few weeks have clearly established that the Board of Education has established questionable priorities when it comes down to spending taxpayers money.

The Board has argued that its fleet of cars wouldn't be safe if they were left in the office parking lot overnight, yet they insist that three driver education cars remain in the high school lots nightly. I contend, if the cars haven't been vandalized in the high school lots then the Board lot shouldn't be any exception. If an exception must be made, then a fee should be imposed on those employees who use county cars to commute from home to work. I propose that employees using county cars should be charged $.14/mile ($1.00 minimum per day) for the round trip distance between their home and the county office. Why should taxpayers pay for public employees to commute to work?

The Board also claims that they can't purchase anything but a full-sized car because of the discomfort this would cause in down state trips. Frankly, I believe that they could endure a trip in a medium-sized car, but if they can't, then the five of them should be able to ride in one full-sized car. Why do they need ten?

Some other areas of questionable priorities are: denying funds for student field trips, yet sending supervisors to San Francisco, granting professional leave for a Vermont ski trip but denying it for a Social Studies field trip to Annapolis.

Most of these same questions have already been asked, yet the Board hasn't taken action to re-evaluate priorities. How can they expect the Commissioners to grant them additional monies when there is some doubt about the way funds are already being spent?

Dear Sir:

As a physical education teacher/coach in Garrett County, I felt very uninformed while reading the letter from a Southern Middle School teacher concerning the players and cheerleaders leaving school for a basketball game.

Groups that compete against other schools are considered interscholastic. An interscholastic sports event requires physical exams for cheerleaders and players, parental permission and transportation forms to be filed, all within Garrett County Board of Education guidelines and policies.

I was given the impression that interscholastic athletics had been ruled out for the middle school by the Board. Instead, intramural sports for both boys and girls were to be held at the school. There is extra-curricular money alloted for teachers to run the intramural program. This position was created by the Board to implement intramural programs at the Southern Middle School.

Intramurals are for the participation of all students. We should encourage as much participation by young people as possible.

Evidently there is an interscholastic basketball program for the boys. I question its validity on two points: First, it is contrary to present Board policy. Secondly, there's no equal program for girls. If the Board reversed its policies, girls' teams should be formed, unless its values are for boys only. If the Board keeps its policy of no interscholastic sports, let's provide intramurals for the girls also.

I had no idea that there was an athletic faculty at the Southern Middle School. Now I question the ratio of three men to one woman teacher when the ratio of boys to girls is almost equal.

Unequal staffing is county-wide, with five women teachers involved in physical education and fourteen men. Don't the girls deserve equal attention? Let's give the girls some priorities in physical education. They deserve it.

Sincerely,
Helen Rostosky

Dear Editor:

I am writing as a parent in response to Mr. Stem's letter last week. Mr. Stem implied that anyone who favored Delegate Bolden's bill was not really in favor of a quality education for the children of Garrett County. I disagree with that statement.

Under present legislation, the Board of Education could require the students to go to school in July and even August and could extend the students' school day as was done last year. I agree with Mr. Stem that most people of Garrett County are interested in a quality education but I can remember last year how tired my two elementary children were when they came home from the extended school day. I honestly do not think they learned a thing more during that extra time because the school day was just too long.

Under Delegate Bolden's bill (which appears dead for this term of the Maryland Legislature thanks to the Board of Education), students would not automatically go less than 180 days of school (like W. Va.) because of weather. The local Board of Education could continue to require 180 days if they so desired. However, the local board of Education could not require students to go to school in July or August nor could they extend the school day.

I did not hear one person last year state they thought the extended day was a good idea. Quite the opposite. Everyone I heard thought it was the most ridiculous plan they ever heard of. I am talking about parents, not teachers.

So, Mr. Stem: I feel citizens of Garrett County can favor Delegate Bolden's bill (that the Board of Education spent money to defeat) and still be interested in a quality education for our children. If you disagree, take a poll of the parents to get their ideas—not just a few leaders of the PTA, but send a ballot home with both sides explained and see how the Garett County public would vote.

Concerned parent

Dear Editor and Garrett Countians,

As an employee of Luke Paper Mill (Westvaco), I realize the importance of this company on the county and the surrounding areas. Westvaco employs approximately 2000 men and women, many of whom live in Garrett County. This is not saying anything about the taxes Westvaco pays to the county every year and the amount of Garrett County coal purchased by the company.

Now, we as Garrett Countians can help Westvaco. The Environmental Protection Agency is threatening to curtail the operations of the mill unless the company stops using Western Maryland coal for paper production.

Westvaco has spent millions of dollars in pollution control over the past several years. Yet, with all of Westvaco's pollution abatement efforts at Luke and with absolutely no air pollution violations, the EPA has still rejected Maryland request to permit the Luke mill to continue to burn local coal.

We as concerned citizens can, and must, write our comments to the following address in an all-out effort to change this decision of the EPA:

Mr. Howard R. Hein, Air Planning Branch, Environmental Protection Agency, Region III, Curtis Building, Sixth and Walnut Streets, Philadelphia, Pa. 19106.

Letters must be received by April 5.

It would be a horrible blow to our county if Westvaco were to go down the drain.

Sincerely,
Roger Bray

To the Editor:

It seems like everytime a good thing is begun in this county there are some who just have to take advantage of it.

I am referring to Broad Ford dam. I had always believed that a "sportsman" was a person to be trusted. Now, I have my doubts. I am referring to those so-called "sportsmen" who make every effort to get all of the stocked trout of the dam just as fast as they can. I have heard some of them brag that they had taken home 20 or 30 at a time. . .others "salved" their consciences by making two trips a day, taking home the limit each time.

As far as I am concerned, when the daily limit is exceeded, that is cheating and stealing. . .and certainly nothing to brag about. Yet, I have heard some men brag of getting their limits twice a day until the supply ran out, and filling their freezers to overflowing.

Even though Broad Ford is owned by the city of Oakland, it seems to me that the State Forestry Department should enforce the law, or other arrangements should be made.

There surely should be some way to stop the few who steal most of the trout taken from the dam.

Name withheld by request

Dear Mr. Sincell,

I believe you have served our community well by making your paper a forum for expression. On school matters I have always believed that PTA should serve this purpose, and I believe that PTA has been largely a failure because it hasn't served this purpose. Perhaps, though, our criticism is better and easier expressed in writing.

It is only when we listen to and accept constructive criticism that we know how to improve our work. I firmly believe that parents should have much influence on school policy. I also believe that good communication between administration, teachers, parents and students is a requirement for a good school system. Obviously, this has been lacking in the past.

Sincerely,
Bernice Idleman

Letter to the Editor

Dear Editor:

I see that Potomac Edison is about to ask for another rate increase. The spokesman stated, "the utility, which raised its basic electricity rates 11 percent last August, 'is not coming close' to the 9.1 percent rate of return on its investment that the PSC authorized last summer in granting this increase." I can say one thing: "the 11 percent" and "is not coming close" is very true, but what it should say is 11 percent "is not coming close" to the amount your bill has increased.

In comparing the 1976 and 1977 rates I found the first 50 Kwh increased .961 cents per Kwh or 16.04%. The next 100 Kwh increased .851 cents per Kwh or 21.33%. The next 300 Kwh increased .821 cents per Kwh or 44.86%. The next 300 Kwh increased .791 cents per Kwh or 33.80%. All over 750 Kwh increased .821 cents per Kwh or 37.66%.

Now let's assume you used 2,000 Kwh and compared the old and the new rates. Under the 1976 rates, 2,000 Kwh (with no fuel cost, taxes, or sitting surcharge) would have cost $49.89. The same 2,000 Kwh with the 1977 rate is $66.34. The difference of $16.45 shows a 32.97% increase. How can they claim an 11% rate increase when the bills reflect an increase of up to 35% or more?

I think it is about time everyone let P.E. know how they feel about the high cost of electricity. If they ask for an 11% increase this time and get it, and the bills skyrocket like they did with the last "11%" increase, it is really going to hurt.

You notice I didn't say anything about the fuel cost adjustment. That is because this paper couldn't print my feelings about this rip-off without setting the presses on fire!

Recent Mishaps Injure Three

Three persons were injured in recent accidents, one in a three-car chain reaction east of Grantsville. In a number of other mishaps no injuries were reported.

An accident the evening of March 17 caused injury to the driver of one car of a two-car mishap on U.S. 40 near Amish Road. Susan Gale Holliday, RD 1, Grantsville, was westbound on Rt. 40. John W. O'Donnell, Rt. 40, Grantsville, the injured man, had come out a private drive and into the path of the Holliday car and was struck by it. Tfc. R. B. Westmoreland investigated and charged O'Donnell with negligent driving.

A three-car chain reaction mishap on U.S. 40 east of Grantsville injured the driver of the middle car involved. Alta Montgomery, Salisbury, Pa., was taken to the Meyersdale Community Hospital by the Northern Rescue Squad. Betty L. Conn, Confluence, Pa., and the Montgomery car had stopped for a line of traffic ahead. David L. Wilt, RD 1, Grantsville, following the other two, failed to stop and struck the rear of the Montgomery car. Wilt stated his brakes failed but later inspection indicated otherwise. Tfc. R. C. Georg charged Wilt with failing to reduce speed. The mishap occurred the afternoon of March 18.

A man is said to have fallen asleep and caused his car to run off the Westernport road about a half mile south of the Savage River Road. Dwight Leroy Deshong, Jr., Barton, was driving north about 4 a.m. when his car went to the left, down a steep embankment and came to rest against some trees. Tfc. Dale K. Williams charged him with negligent driving.

A car ran into a snow bank and turned over on its side about 3 a.m. on March 19 on U.S. 219 just north of Foster Road. James Dean Harvey, RD 4, Deer Park, said that a vehicle had forced him off the road.

Archie C. Arthur, Huntington, W. Va., was traveling west of U.S. 48 about five miles west of U.S. 219 about 10:30 p.m. last Wednesday and struck a deer. He attempted to avoid the animal but could not. Tfc. Georg investigated this one also.

Several accidents occurred on March 17.

Christopher K. D. Pritts, N. Second Street, Oakland was taken to the Garrett County Memorial Hospital by a passing motorist after his car skidded on the snow and struck an embankment. He was northbound on the Sand Flat Road about a mile south of Boy Scout Road just after 1 a.m. March 17.

A two-car wreck occurred on the Wilson Road just east of the Kempton Road shortly past noon the same day. James E. Watkins, Wilson, was eastbound and noticed the car of Charles F. Bourling, Elizabethton, Tenn., traveling westbound. Watkins applied his brakes, began to slide on the snowcovered road and struck the Bourling car. Tfc. C. H. Hinnant investigated.

Poor visibility, due to heavy snowfall, was apparently the cause of an accident on U.S. 219 just north of Oakland about 7 a.m. the same day. Charles M. Knotts, Jr., Kitzmiller, and Larry C. Rogers, Petersburg, W. Va., were northbound. Rogers started to pass the Knotts car as it was about to make a left turn into a private drive. Knotts struck the Rogers car and then went off the right side of the road. Tfc. E. J. Upole made no charges.

Another March 17 accident occurred on Mattingly Hill Road near the Hoyes-Sang Run Road about 5:30 p.m. apparently caused by other vehicles being stuck on a snowcovered hill. Steven H. Volkman, Bruceton Mills, W. Va., and Warren G. Thomas, RD 1, Friendsville, were northbound. Thomas stopped due to vehicles stuck coming up on the hill as he was going down. Volkman was unable to stop and struck the Thomas car in the rear.

About two hours later a two-car mishap occurred on Md. Rt. 135 just east of the Deer Park Hotel road. William E. Fitzwater, Jr., RD 1, Swanton, was stopped westbound on the shoulder of Rt. 135. James A. McCroskey, RD 3, Deer Park, came out of a private drive, made a right turn onto Rt. 135 and struck the parked car of Fitzwater. Tfc. L. R. Rosage charged McCroskey with negligent driving.

Accident reports are again available at the State Police detachment at McHenry, the first since last July.

April 5 Proclaimed State Arbor Day

Arbor Day will be marked in Maryland this year on April 5, according to a proclamation issued by Acting Governor Blair Lee III. In the proclamation Governor Lee encouraged the citizens of Maryland to participate in the observance of Arbor Day by planting ornamental and forest trees for the benefit of the State's environment.

This year marks the 106th observance of Arbor Day in the nation. Arbor Day calls attention to the forests of Maryland, the State's most valuable renewable and recyclable resource. Forests provide timber for industry, habitat for wildlife, watershed protection, clean air, improved water quality, recreational opportunities and aesthetic beauty.

The Maryland Forest Service was created in 1906 when John and Robert Garrett gave the State nearly 2,000 acres of woodland in Garrett County for use as a demonstration of forest management. An agency of the Department of Natural Resources, the Maryland Forest Service observes Arbor Day by taking part in ceremonies throughout the State.

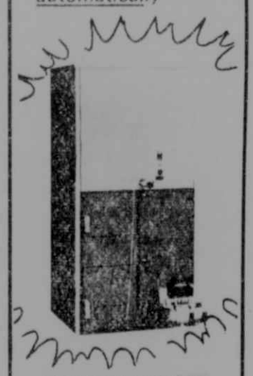
Sarbanes Urges Relief For Maryland Residents Exorbitant Electric Bills

In an effort to aid Western and central Maryland residents whose electric bills reflect the results of the coal strike, Senator Paul Sarbanes announced this week that he has asked the Director of the Community Services Administration to find ways to ease the burden on Potomac Edison's customers.

In a letter to Dr. Graciera Olivarez, director of Community Services, Senator Sarbanes urged that funds under the crisis intervention program be expedited to Marylanders.

"I would like to urge that this program be expedited," Senator Sarbanes said, "and that every effort be made to assist those residents severely affected by the increased fuel adjustment costs."

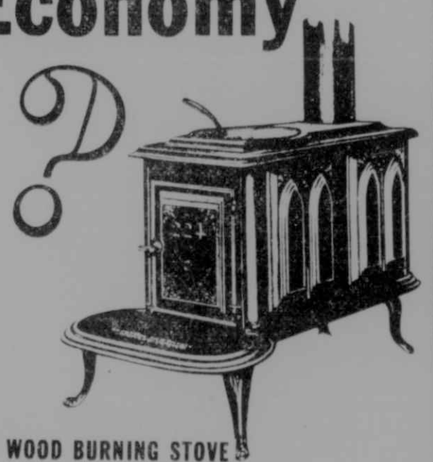
Western and central Maryland customers of Potomac Edison have experienced large increases in their electric bills since the coal strike has forced PE to purchase electricity from oil-fueled plants.



Sarbanes pointed out that the fuel adjustment rate for some western Maryland customers jumped from .4 cents per kilowatt hour to 2.5 cents per kilowatt hour.

Senator Sarbanes, citing the great public interest in this matter, also urged Charles Curtis, chairman of the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission, to provide him with the best available information on the purchase of interstate electrical power and the regulations governing such purchases.

"Western and central Maryland citizens have already suffered a 30 per cent curtailment in power and it is an additional hardship for them to pay large increases in their electric bills as well," Senator Sarbanes said.



Sarbanes also said that he has asked the Department of Energy for information regarding the rumor that trainloads of coal are available in neighboring states. Sarbanes has asked Secretary of Energy James Schlesinger to provide him with all information regarding mid-Atlantic coal supplies and their distribution.

Kits can help detect cancer of the colon or rectum in its early stages. The simple test kits and all needed information are available at Englanders, Proudfoot's and Gregg's Pharmacy in Oakland, and Deist Pharmacy in Grantsville. Kits are also available from all health department centers in the county.

Maryland Classifications Altered Beginning 1979 - 80 Season

The Maryland State School Athletic Classifications were changed at a recent MPSSAA meeting by a vote of 26-20, altering the classifications from four to three.

As of the 1979-80 school year the classifications will be AAA, AA, and A.

Allegany and Fort Hill in District One will move to the new AA along with North Hagerstown, Thomas Johnson, South Hagerstown and Frederick.

Allegany and Garrett County C schools along with Williamsport and Southern of Washington County will be in the A class. Seneca Valley, generally regarded as the best in the state during the past two seasons, will be in AA with Fort Hill and Allegany.

Wrestling will be held in two classes. The first year it will be AA, A, B, and C and the following year it will be AAA in one class and AA-A in the other.

The track committee changed several of the girls' events to be consistent with other events. The addition of girls tournaments in all classifications has increased anticipated expenses considerably and is the reason for the fewer classes.

Proceeds from the fund raising project will be used to send Southern wrestlers to wrestling camp in June.

UNWANTED FIREWOOD — These residents of Pennington Street in Oakland awoke Easter morning to find a plentiful supply of firewood in their yard. This mammoth limb fortunately missed hitting any power lines although many other such limbs created one of the most massive power outages in the history of Garrett County.

Sam Church Takes Over UMW Duties

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sam Church, a tough former mine electrician from southwestern Virginia, is conducting the day-to-day operations of the United Mine Workers union.

Church, 41, was thrust into the position when UMW President Arnold Miller, 54, was hospitalized Wednesday with what Church called "a mild stroke."

Miller was listed in stable condition in the intensive care unit of Mt. Sinai Medical Center, in Miami Beach, Fla., according to Dr. Philip Samet.

The union chief was stricken only hours before a UMW bargaining council approved a new mine construction contract.

The council action, by a 37-0 vote, cleared the way for 14,000 rank-and-file mine construction workers to vote Tuesday on whether to ratify the contract.

Under the UMW constitution, Church assumes Miller's duties in his absence and would succeed to the presidency in the event of a vacancy. Miller made this point himself when he referred during the long strike to the talk of impeaching him.

He said at the time the move was futile since the constitution provides for the line of succession. Church is Miller's protege.

Church replaced Miller in presiding over the four-hour bargaining council meeting, and lack of dissent raised hopes construction workers would ratify the contract and bring peace to the soft coal mines since the miners went on strike Dec. 6.

Bargaining council members said they expected little trouble with ratification.

"It's a pretty good contract," said Don Lawley, a council member from the Oklahoma-Arkansas district. "They got more than the coal miners got."

The construction contract is similar to one approved by the union's 160,000 coal miners last Friday, including a basic $2.40-an-hour wage increase over three years.

Union leaders earlier urged construction workers not to picket mine sites and to allow miners to return to work, but some refused and closed numerous mines.

In Illinois, pickets kept about 12,000 of the state's 15,000 miners off the job Wednesday and in Indiana, all 21 union mines were shut down by pickets, idling about 3,000 miners.

The Peabody Coal Co., with eight Indiana mines, complained to the National Labor Relations Board in Indianapolis that the picketing was an illegal secondary boycott. An NLRB spokesman said it would be at least Friday before it decides whether to seek an injunction.

In other action Wednesday, UMW district presidents were presented with relief checks designed to speed up the flow of money to the coalfields from the union's miners relief fund.

"Most members will not receive their first pay for another month," Miller had said in referring to the distribution of funds donated by other unions, before his stroke. "I am urging the districts to work swiftly within the (union) guidelines to administer this aid."

Moro Asks Italy To Meet Demands Of Kidnappers

ROME (UPI) — Kidnapped former Premier Aldo Moro is appealing to the Italian government to meet the demands of his Red Brigades abductors, warning he may be forced to make "unpleasant and dangerous" statements.

Interior Minister Francesco Cossiga received what investigators thought was an authentic handwritten letter from Moro Wednesday night, and held an emergency meeting with Premier Giulio Andreotti to discuss the government's response.

Moro was kidnapped two weeks ago today by ultra-leftist Red Brigades terrorists, who shot and killed his five police bodyguards. The letter was the first direct communication from the frail, 61-year-old Moro.

Photocopies of the letter were found in Rome, Milan, Genoa and Turin garbage cans by reporters alerted by telephone. Police said the letter seemed genuine and top investigator Luciano Infelisi said: "This is it."

The letter, addressed to Cossiga, said the Red Brigades were subjecting Moro to an intensive "people's trial."

"I am under full and unchecked domination, subjected to a people's trial that can be graduated as is seen fit," Moro said.

"I am in this position with all the knowledge and sensitivity deriving from my long experience, with the risk of being called or induced to say things that might be unpleasant and dangerous in certain circumstances."

The letter did not elaborate on this warning or say what the Red Brigades demands were.

Politicians said they did not believe Moro was acquainted in detail with NATO defense secrets. But as a five-time premier and a minister in nine postwar cabinets he may know political secrets damaging to his scandal-ridden Christian Democratic Party.

Politicians have speculated the Red Brigades may use Moro as a hostage to demand freedom for the gang's founder, Renato Curcio, and other group members currently standing trial in Turin.

The letter urged Andreotti to confer with President Giovanni Leone and other top politicians and persuade whoever may be reluctant to give in to Red Brigades demands.

"May God enlighten you, sparing you from being mired in a painful episode on which many things might depend," it said.

An accompanying Red Brigades communique said "the questioning (of Moro) is continuing with the prisoner's full collaboration. ... The information we are thus in a position to gather will be double-checked and then made known to the revolutionary movement, which will know how to make good use of it."

The Washington-backed Christian Democratic party, which has ruled alone or in coalition since World War II, is ridden with factional strife and corruption scandals, including allegations of past payoffs by the CIA and Lockheed Aircraft Corp.

This hanging branch in front of the George Littman residence on Pennington Street was, no doubt, one of the culprits in this week's blackout. Fifty percent of the county's residents were without power, and workmen used some 35 pieces of machinery in their restoration efforts.

beds and services."

"It is similarily the immediate desire of the Board to create felxibility and increase the efficiency of the present building, which will allow for future growth," he said.

Juvenile Courts Have Busy Year

The Garrett County Juvenile court handled a total of 80 cases in fiscal 1977, with the principal offenses being 19 robberies and 15 burglaries.

The remainder of the offenses were 10 assaults and 10 sex offenses, seven shoplifitings, six vandalisms, five narcotic violations, two purse snatchings, one arson and one receiving stolen goods. There were no reports in the categories of robbery, disorderly conduct, glue sniffing, alcoholic beverage violations or firearms violations.

Allegany, Garrett and Washington counties make up Region Four of the Juvenile Services Administration of Maryland.

Statewide statistics show the biggest offense was assault with 6,445 cases, followed by burglaries, 6,263; larceny, 4,907; shoplifting, 4,874; vandalism, 2,470; disorderly conduct, 2,233; auto theft, 1,983; alcoholic beverage violation, 1,003; robbery, 806; firearms, 619; receiving stolen property, 471; arson, 411; sex offenses, 291; glue sniffing, 216; and purse snatching, 105.

Bassett Hounds Reported Stolen

Members of the Garrett County Sheriff's Department are investigating several larcenies and breakings and enterings which were reported during the past week. Two Bassett Hounds were among the missing.

Robert Kirkham, Jr., Route 1, McHenry, reported March 24 the larceny of two Bassett Hounds, a male and a female, from his property. Value of the black, white and brown dogs was set at $500. Both animals are A.K.C. registered, and the female has a tattoo inside her right leg.

On March 22, Roy Kahl, Route 1, Accident, reported a destruction of property incident on his farm lands off Bumble Bee Road. According to the sheriff's report, someone drove a vehicle into Mr. Kahl's fields, causing approximately $500 damage according to his estimates.

Kenneth Osburn Fatkin, Baltimore, told the sheriff's department that sometime between December 26 and March 24, someone broke into his summer cottage near Deer Park. Items missing were valued at $405, and included a stereo, carpet and furniture.

Entry was gained by breaking the front door jamb and forcing the lock.

Wanda Bosye, Bloomington, reported March 24 that a bicycle, valued at $80, had been taken from her home. The bicycle was recovered unharmed later that day, and juvenile petitions are pending against three young males from the Bloomington area.

Man Sentenced To Five Years For Grand Larceny

One man was sentenced to five years to the Commissioner of Correction for grand larceny. Four others pleaded guilty of daytime housebreaking or larceny. Another man received a four year suspended sentence for embezzlement. These cases were heard in Circuit Court by Judge Fred A. Thayer, Tuesday.

Jackie Friend, Thayerville area, pleaded guilty on two charges of grand larceny and was sentenced to five years to the Commissioner of Correction. The charges grew out of incidents in Thayerville and Sand Flat last Fall.

Wayne Martin Casteel, Lydia Jane Friend, Doris Elizabeth Friend, and Betty Elaine Turney, all of Friendsville, were all involved in an incident in the Mill Run area last Fall. All pleaded guilty at the trials Tuesday, Lydia Friend and Betty Turney were charged with four counts of larceny each and Doris Friend, three. All three received a one-year suspended sentence, each. They are to pay a $500 fine each promptly having been placed on probation for four years. A presentence investigation was ordered for Wayne Casteel who had pled guilty of daytime housebreaking. The charge of storehouse breaking was dismissed.

George A. Shimer, Nikep, pleaded guilty of two charges of embezzlement at a trial February 15, and a presentence investigation was ordered at that time. Tuesday he received a four-year suspended sentence. He was placed on probation for an undetermined period or until restitution of $1,500 is made. The embezzlement involved two places in Grantsville last Fall.

House Bill 296 Killed In Senate

Delegate DeCorsey E. Bolden (R-Garrett & Allegany Counties) recently released that House Bill #296, an act to repeal the $2.00 Public Lands Stamp required by hunters on state land, was killed on March 16 by a motion in the Senate to table the bill by a vote of 16 to 9 with 22 senators not voting.

This legislation was sponsored by Delegates Bolden, William Byrnes, Thomas Cumiskey, and Casper Taylor of the Allegany County Delegation. The delegates believe that the $2.00 Public Lands Stamp is an unnecessary tax burden on the hunter in general, and specifically discriminates against Western Marylanders whose counties contain a high percentage of state-owned land. The Department of Natural Resources was the major opponent of this bill due to the revenue that would be lost if the $2.00 Public Lands Stamp was repealed.

House Bill #296, which was passed as a state-wide bill on February 1st by an overwhelming 116 to 6 vote in the House of Delegates, was later amended in the Senate Economic Affairs Committee to include only the four western counties of Maryland (Frederick, Washington, Allegany, and Garrett).

Following much debate on the Senate floor on March 16th by other counties who also wanted to be exempted from the Public Lands Stamp, the motion to table the bill, thus ending discussion, was passed. Delegate Bolden stated, "On March 20th we again tried to bring our bill to the Senate floor for reconsideration; however, the motion to reconsider was also defeated."

Rohrbaugh Injured In Jeep Misahp

Allen Rohrbaugh, who was injured in a one-vehicle accident early Saturday, has been released from Garrett County Memorial Hospital.

Young Rohrbaugh sustained a broken left arm and back abrasions in the early-morning mishap, and was taken to the hospital by members of the Southern Garrett County Rescue Squad.

His vehicle ran off Route 219 south of Gortner and he was thrown through the soft top of his Jeep.

"Satellite Mail" May Be Possible

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Postal Service next year will begin bouncing international facsimiles of letters off satellites in an experiment that may lead to electronic delivery of domestic mail.

Postmaster General William F. Bolger Tuesday signed an $895,000 contract with the Communications Satellite Corp., for a one-month demonstration using dummy mail. It may be followed with a year of field tests with mail.

Bolger, holding his first news conference since taking office March 15, emphasized it will be purely an experiment to test feasibility and determine whether there is a real demand for such service. But he added: "If we didn't think the project has a great chance of success we wouldn't be going into it," Bolger said.

During the experiments mail will be transmitted in coded electronic language from post offices in Washington and New York City to five or six countries. The receiving post office will get replicas of the original, including signatures, drawings or charts.

One page can be sent in a small fraction of a second. Bolger estimated the Postal Service might charge $1 to $4 per page.

Capitol Last To Fly American Flag

ANNAPOLIS (UPI) — A bill sent to acting Gov. Blair Lee III for his signature Wednesday would end Maryland's position as the only state in the country that does not fly the American flag over its Capitol.

The House-passed bill was approved by the Senate Wednesday with only one protest.

Currently, state law requires only the Maryland flag to be flown over the State House, but the bill would require the American flag to be rung up the flagpole with the state flag.

Sen. Porter Hopkins, R-Baltimore County, the lone dissenter, said there is nothing wrong with flying only the state flag from the State House flagpole.

"We've got a pretty Maryland flag, let it fly alone," he said.

Soviet Article Appears To Be Warning To U.S.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The State Department is studying, with the attention usually reserved for important state documents, a Soviet newspaper article that appears to be meant as a warning to the United States.

Soviet officials in Washington underlined the warning and said the article in Pravda is "authoritative," meaning it had the direct approval of the ruling politburo.

The article was signed by Georgi Arbatov, head of the North American affairs section in the Soviet Foreign Ministry, and the theme is summed up in the headline: "A Time of Crucial Decisions."

Arbatov said the central issue in Soviet-American relations is the strategic arms limitation talks and, "One cannot escape the impression that it is on this root question that Washington has once again entered a period of vacillation."

One U.S. official noted that the tone of the Arbatov article was "not threatening, but anxious" and it was a carefully phrased plea to try to salvage the SALT II negotiations.

The talks reportedly have bogged down over several technical but important issues on such new weapons as the cruise missile, the Backfire bomber and submarine-launched ballistic missiles.

A Russian official in Washington, who repeatedly stressed the article expressed the concerns of the Soviet leadership, said the Soviets are getting the impression the administration is prepared to let everything slip — including the SALT agreement — in its obsession with the Panama Canal treaties.

In part, the Soviet article was a response to two recent public American statements: a warning from presidential assistant Zbigniew Brzezinski that Soviet actions in the Horn of Africa would inevitably affect Senate attitudes when it came time to ratify the SALT treaties, and President Carter's recent defense speech in Wake Forest, N.C.

In that speech, his toughest statement on the Soviet-American military balance, Carter warned the United States would be prepared to spend whatever was necessary to match the Soviet defense buildup.

A high U.S. official said two conclusions have been drawn in a preliminary analysis of the Pravda article:

—The speed of the Soviet response is unusual, indicating the Russians are giving the problem priority attention. The official said, "It is a sober, serious document."

—The Soviets apparently still do not understand, or take seriously, the American concern about Soviet military involvement in Africa. The official said the Pravda article brushes off the complaints and "is not really a response."

State Department spokesman John Trattner said the Pravda article was a "serious and thoughful commentary and we are studying it carefully."

But he disputed the contention that U.S.-Soviet relations are moving toward some sort of critical point.

"Relations are not at or near a crisis," he said. "In our complex relationship it is not useful to take daily temperature readings."

Arkansas Residents Return Home After Chemicals Disperse

LEWISVILLE, Ark. (UPI) — A few of the 1,700 residents of this southwest Arkansas town returned to their homes today although officials recommended they remain at shelters until derailed tank cars containing lethal chemicals completely burn out.

"Some people have drifted back, but they're doing it on their own," Lewisville Mayor Paul King said today. "The state police reopened our highways, so we can't keep them from coming back. But they've been warned. We warned them on radio and everywhere not to come back yet, so I'm not assuming responsibility for them."

King said the chemical fire, which claimed no lives or injuries, was under control. He said he planned to meet later in the day with state Health Department, Civil Defense, Environmental Protection Agency and the Cotton Belt Railroad officils to decide if the evacuation should be declared over. Another 300 residents also were evacuated from rural routes surrounding Lewisville.

"The situation is looking better, but I'm not going to tell the folks to return home until we get clearance from the authorities," King said. "To me, having them come home early is not worth a life."

King estimated 15 to 20 families had returned to Lewisville by mid-morning because U.S. 82 and state Highway 29 were reopened. He said most evacuees were residing with friends or relatives in Hope and Magnolia and at an evacuation center.

Economic Indicator Improved From January Depression

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A government index of future economic trends was unchanged in February, the Commerce Department reported today. It was an improvement from January's depressed level but still an indication the economy may remain somewhat sluggish in upcoming months.

The Index of Leading Indicators had plunged 1.3 percent in January, the largest drop in three years and the first decline in five months.

The government blamed the January slide, originally measured at 1.9 percent, on bad winter weather and the crippling strike by coal miners.

February's static index compared unfavorably with the same month in 1977 when the list of government indicators rose 0.8 percent after falling 1.1 percent in January.

Nevertheless, Charles Schultze, President Carter's chief economic adviser, today predicted a "snapback" of the economy during this year's second quarter.

In a speech in Indianapolis, Schultze said he expected first quarter losses to be made up "and continuation of a solid rate of growth in the second half" of 1978.

The administration is sticking to its prediction of a 4.5 percent to 5 percent economic growth rate for the full year.

The February index stood at 133.4 of a 1967 base of 100, the same as in January.

The "Duke" Admitted

BOSTON (UPI) — Actor John Wayne has been admitted to Massachusetts General Hospital for a series of tests.

Wayne, who has appeared in more than 200 movies in his 50-year screen career, is not suffering from a recurrence of cancer, a hospital spokesman said.

Johns Hopkins Study Shows That Maryland's Economy Is Declining

BALTIMORE (UPI) — Economic development in Maryland is declining because of high taxes and labor costs, ineffective leadership and a reputation for crime and political corruption, according to a Johns Hopkins University research group.

The Task Force on State Economic Development said the number of manufacturing jobs has been dropping at a greater rate than the regional decline in the Mid-Atlantic and Northeast states.

The report, issued by Hopkins' Center for Planning and Research, said Maryland's total employment grew between 1970 and 1975 only because state and local governments burgeoned by 25 percent, offsetting job losses in the private sector.

To reverse the decline, the research group recommended "strong gubernatorial leadership," which should analyze the state's changing economic condition, coordinate a "Jumbled array of policies and programs" and develop a comprehensive program to foster development.

The report was prepared by five Hopkins researchers and 21 business, labor, civic and political leaders.

The task force, which was created last April, criticized private industry for failing to point out deficiencies to political leaders so corrective measures could be developed.

It also said the state Department of Economic and Community Development "has not been effective in combating private-sector employment decline."

Moreover, the report charged Maryland governors with lack of "consistent" leadership to coordinate efforts to improve the economy.

"In states such as South Carolina, Virginia, Pennsylvania and West Virginia, the governors have been in the forefront of efforts to attract new economic activity and have set a tone favoring economic development which pervades their administrative agencies," the report said.

Linda Glotfelty And Craig Wengerd Wed New Year's Eve At McHenry

McHenry United Methodist Church was the setting for the New Year's Eve wedding of Linda Marie Glotfelty and Craig Earl Wengerd. The candlelight, double ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. Ellis Harvey. A single lighted candle was placed in each window with two candelabra adorning the altar. Holly was placed throughout the church to carry out the holiday theme.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Roy R. Glotfelty, of near McHenry, and Mr. and Mrs. Joseph E. Wengerd, Grantsville.

Registering guests and distributing programs was Mrs. Shelby Paugh, aunt of the bride. Ms. Gale Wengerd, sister of the groom, served as organist, playing a prelude of both traditional and modern wedding music. She accompanied Mrs. Nina Wagner, soloist, who sang "We've Only Just Begun" prior to the ceremony and "The Wedding Song" and "Lord's Prayer" during the service. First Corinthians, Chapter 13, the Love Chapter was the opening scriptural reading. Following the traditional opening words, charge and questions, the couple exchanged vows which they had written and received the rings as a symbol of those vows. The minister read "On Marriage" by Kahlil Gibran followed by the couple's observance of Holy Communion.

Given in marriage by her parents and escorted to the altar by her father, the bride was attired in a floor-length white velvet gown. The dress, which was fashioned and made by the bride, featured an empire waist with V-neckline and stand-up collar. The long sleeves were gathered at the shoulder and joined to a cuff at the wrist. The gown, excluding the sleeves, was completely lined with white rayon. The fingertip-length veil featured Venise lace with the headpiece accented by white satin and seed pearls. The bride carried a bouquet of white roses and stephanotis accented with holly and velvet ribbon.

Attending the bride as maid of honor was Linda Wengerd, sister of the groom. Bridesmaids included Carol Wengerd, sister of the groom, and Michele Glotfelty, sister of the bride. All were attired in floor-length red velvet gowns similar to the bride's, with gathered elbow-length sleeves. The attendants wore red velvet ribbons in their hair and carried bouquets of white roses and stephanotis, and the traditional greens accented with sprigs of holly and velvet ribbons.

Attending the groom as best man was William Hetrick. Ushers were Allen Glotfelty and Randall Glotfelty, brothers of the bride. The entire party was attired in formal white tuxedoes with white ruffled shirts accented with boutonnieres.

The mother of the bride wore a floor-length red knit gown with matching long sleeve jacket. The groom's mother was dressed in a floor-length green gown with a sheer overlay. Mothers and grandmothers of the couple wore cymbidium orchid corsages, matching their dresses.

A reception was held in the church basement which was decorated in white, green and red streamers, white bells and sprigs of holly. The three-tiered wedding cake trimmed with holly featured a red running fountain. Mrs. Shelby Paugh, aunt of the bride, cut and served the wedding cake. Punch was served by Mrs. Betty Roberts, aunt of the bride. They were assisted by Mrs. Norma Bowman, Mrs. Martha McCartney and Ms. Mary Lyn Sebold, cousins of the bride.

The bride is a graduate of Northern High School and received her bachelor's and master's degrees from West Virginia University. She is presently Project Director of the Garrett County Child Development Project. Also a graduate of Northern High School, the groom received his bachelor's degree from Frostburg State College and is currently enrolled in the master's program. He is Assistant Manager of First Federal Savings and Loan.

Following a honeymoon in Florida and Key West, the couple has established residence in Oakland.

LOVE LOOKS UP

For Karl and Karen this month marks their second wedding anniversary. It brings bright memories that glow as the candles glowed that Saturday evening they were married.

But "looking back" is not the character of love. Love looks up! It finds its soul in the presence of God. It finds its body in the devotion of a man and a woman to each other, devotion enriched by faith and expressed in unselfish affection.

Love looks forward, too! It faces confidently the years ahead, expressing its spiritual vitality in hope and purpose and concern for others.

For Karl and Karen, as for other Christian couples, the smile in looking forward is born in looking up.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

THE ANANIAS COMPLEX

Lesson for April 2, 1978

Background Scripture:
Acts 4:32 through 5:11
Devotional Reading:
Romans 12:3-13

I suspect that lots of preachers take an ill-disguised delight in the story of Ananias and Sapphira (Acts 5:1-11). It makes a perfect text for the Every Member Canvas or annual budget sermon.

The story is simple in outline.

Rev. Althouse

In a period when many of the disciples owned all things in common to meet the needs of the whole fellowship, a man and wife, Ananias and Sapphira, sold a piece of property and took the proceeds and laid them at the feet of Peter, the foremost apostle of the church. Ananias led Peter to believe that the money he was offering to the church was the complete revenue from the sale. Actually, it was only a portion.

The lie

To Ananias' shock, however, Simon Peter knew that he was telling a lie and he confronted him with his deception. Terrified to be discovered in his lie, Ananias dropped dead at Peter's feet. Later, his wife also came to Peter and, not knowing what had happened to her husband, repeated the same lie. She likewise died on the spot when accused by Peter.

Actually, the point of the story is not that Ananias and Sapphira did not give all the proceeds of the sale to the church. Peter made this clear when he said to Ananias: "While it [the property] remained unsold, did it not remain your own? And after it was sold, was it not at your disposal?" (5:4). In other words, the sharing of their worldly goods was completely voluntary. No one had to do it. Ananias and Sapphira made this decision on their own.

Where this couple went wrong, rather, was in trying to "have their cake and eat it too," as the old saying goes. They wanted to keep some of the profits (their privilege) while at the same time pretending that they were turning over to the church the whole amount.

Tempting the spirit

Actually, our stewardship problem as Christians today is not so much that we don't share enough—although we don't—but that, like Ananias and Sapphira, we pretend that we are giving a great deal more than we are. What we share with others is pitifully small, but the root of our sin—and that's what it is—lies in our protests that we are sharing "all we can." We give the impression that our giving is sacrificial, when, in fact, it represents a very small part of our income. We continually protest how little we have and at the same time are living in a material prosperity that is unequaled in the world's history. As Peter said to the tragic couple: "You have not lied to men but to God" (5:4).

If we want to continue to spend our money as we are doing, that is our choice. We may share as much or as little as we like. But let us not fall victim to the Ananias Complex and tempt God's Holy Spirit with the pretentious lie that we are sharing all we can.

TWO GREAT DANGERS TO YOUR EYES

There are many causes of blindness, from congenital defects to accidents. But, two different degenerative and progressive diseases are a great danger to persons over 40. Senile cataracts cause about 13% and Glaucoma about 14% of all blindness.

But cataracts can be safely removed and glaucoma can be controlled, providing the diagnosis of either is made and treatment begun in its early stages. The only sure way to guard against these two dangers is to have your eyes examined by a Doctor every two years after the age of 40. It takes an expert to diagnose them.

YOUR DOCTOR CAN PHONE US when you need a medicine. A great many people entrust us with their prescriptions. May we compound yours?

Earth's Axis

Since the earth acts like a gyroscope, its axis points in an approximately constant direction. Therefore as the earth revolves around the sun, the north pole of the axis points toward the sun at one position. At a position on the opposite side of the sun, the north pole points away from the sun. However, the north pole points at the north star, Polaris, from every position in the earth's orbit. Northern hemisphere summer occurs when the north pole is pointing toward the sun.

Moon

Last Quarter phase will be 10:11 a.m. tomorrow as the moon reaches a point 90 degrees west of the sun as observed from earth. Moonrise was at 10 minutes past midnight this morning. Wednesday the moon won't rise until 4:47 a.m., almost 5 hours later than today.

At midnight tonight the moon and earth will be separated by 369,950 kilometers (229,920 miles). This is the second perigee of the moon during March. Perigee is the nearest the moon and earth approach during a lunation, revolution of the moon around the earth.

Visible Planets

Mercury, Venus, Mars, Jupiter, and Saturn all continue to be visible this week. Mercury remains to the right of Venus, the bright object just above the western horizon, and is seen shortly after sunset. Mercury will disappear during the week as it moves between earth, and sun; and more of its dark side is toward us. Mars is among the stars of Cancer. It sets shortly before midnight. Jupiter is among the stars of Taurus. It sets near midnight. Saturn is high in the east sky at sunset, among the stars of Leo.

Daylight Increases

Wednesday will contain 5 minutes more daylight than there was today. The sun rose at 6:06 a.m. this morning. It will set 12 hours 33 minutes later at 6:39 p.m. Wednesday the sun will rise 9 minutes earlier, and it will set 6 minutes later than it did today.

Maryland Initiates Statewide EMS

The State of Maryland became the first in the nation to achieve statewide emergency medical communications yesterday. Dr. R. Adams Cowley, Director of the Maryland Institute for Emergency Medical Services, announced the dedication of the Maryland Emergency Medical Services Communications System.

This system utilizes an ultra high frequency (UHF) medical band to provide radio-telemetry communication between emergency medical teams in the field and consulting physicians at participating hospitals. With additional communications modalities the system can also link emergency medical services (EMS) components — ambulances, fire station central alarms and hospitals — from any area of the state to any other area.

Through the EMSCS, rescue personnel may seek consultations from participating hospital emergency departments, regional cardiac consultation centers, areawide trauma centers and the trauma specialty referral centers: adult trauma, pediatric trauma, burns, neonatal, hand trauma, poison and spinal cord injury.

The Maryland EMS communications system began development in the early 1970's under a federal grant for the Baltimore metropolitan region. The Emergency Medical Resources Center (EMRC), placed into operation in May 1975, provided ambulance to hospital communication and cardiac telemetry capabilities for Baltimore City and the five surrounding counties.

The statewide communications system was mandated in 1973 with the creation of the Division of Emergency Medical Services by Executive Order of Governor Marvin Mandel. Dr. R. Adams Cowley, DEMS Director, immediately initiated efforts to implement a specific gubernatorial directive to "promptly develop a program for establishing and operating the statewide emergency medical communications system." DEMS contracted with a consulting communications engineering firm to design the system, and General Electric Company won the two million dollar contract for providing system hardware. SYSCOM, the statewide communications center, was established at the Maryland Institute for Emergency Medicine in Baltimore.

The EMS communications system represents a three and a half million dollar investment of state, regional and federal resources. EMSCS operating costs of $250,000 per year are borne completely by the State of Maryland, under the auspices of the Maryland Institute for Emergency Medical Services (MIEMS). The costs of other components of the system, such as the fire department central alarms, ambulance rescue companies, and the hospital consultations are borne by the local jurisdictions and their hospitals.

MIEMS, an autonomous institute under the University of Maryland, represents the amalgamation of the Division of Emergency Medical Services (DEMS) and the Maryland Institute for Emergency Medicine (MIEM), which occurred in July, 1977.

State Tax Aid Available For Last Minute Filers

With just a few weeks left before the April 17 deadline for filing Maryland State income tax returns, State Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein has announced a schedule of more than 17 extra hours of taxpayer assistance.

"All eleven permanent offices of the State Income Tax Division will be open every Monday evening and two of the remaining Saturdays before the April 17 deadline," Mr. Goldstein said. The schedule is as follows:

Monday, April 3, 4:30 - 7:00 p.m. (telephone assistance only)

Saturday, April 8, 9:00 - 1:00 p.m. (telephone & walk-in assistance)

Monday, April 10, 4:30 - 7:00 p.m. (telephone assistance only)

Saturday, April 15, 9:00 a.m. - 1:00 p.m. (telephone & walk-in assistance)

Monday, April 17, 8:30 - 9:00 p.m. (telephone & walk-in assistance)

Taxpayers can get answers to their questions and get their Maryland State Income tax returns completed free of charge if they bring a completed copy of their Federal tax return and all W-2 Forms with them.

The addresses and telephone numbers of the Income Tax Offices are listed on the back of the State income tax packet and in local telephone directories.

"Our office has already processed more than 950,000 State income tax returns this year, but about 700,000 taxpayers still haven't filed their returns. Approximately 375,000 taxpayers who have not filed will receive refund checks, but it will take much longer to process those refund checks when the deadline gets closer," Mr. Goldstein said. "We have mailed out approximately 710,000 refund checks, averaging $167.62 for a total of $118,981,197 in refunds."

At the same time last year, the State Comptroller's Office had mailed 671,678 refund checks to Marylanders, each averaging $153.61.

Meeting To Discuss Black Lung Act Set In Kitzmiller

A public meeting will be held in Kitzmiller, Md., on Monday, April 3, 1978, to discuss the Black Lung Reform Act of 1977, James E. Robertson, District Manager of the Cumberland Social Security Office, announced last week.

The meeting will be at the Fire Hall from 10:00 a.m. to 12:00 Noon. Anyone who has never applied for Black Lung benefits before, but think they may be eligible, should attend the meeting.

Persons whose claims for Black Lung Benefits were previously denied do not have to take any action at this time. All denied claims will automatically be reviewed under the new provisions and Social Security will notify these persons by mail of their rights under the new law in the next several weeks, Mr. Robertson stated.

Fines Levied For Drunken Driving

Drunken driving, illegal license and operating drew substantial fines levied by Judge Lewis R. Jones in District Court during the week ending March 28.

Kenneth Edwin Reams, RD 5, Oakland, pleaded guilty of driving in an intoxicated or impaired condition and was fined $205.

Jetna Josephine Kelly, Star Route, Friendsville, pleaded guilty of driving while intoxicated and was fined $105. Two charges were dismissed in plea bargaining: failing to drive to the right of center of the road and operating a motor vehicle while license is suspended or revoked.

Charles W. Moats, W. Liberty Street, Oakland, pleaded guilty of operating a motor vehicle after privilege was revoked and was fined $105. A 10-day jail sentence was suspended.

Paul Allen Charlton, Mentor, Ohio, pleaded guilty of permitting a motor vehicle to be operated contrary to law and was fined $105. A charge permitting an unauthorized person to operate a motor vehicle was merged with the first charge.

Others stood trial on less serious charges.

Lester O. Bittinger, S. 8th Street, Oakland, pleaded guilty on two charges. For operating a motor vehicle on tags issued to another, he was fined $20, and for operating an unregistered motor vehicle, $15.

Joseph S. Yoder, RD 1, Grantsville, pleaded guilty of operating a motor vehicle with tags issued to another and was fined $30. He pleaded guilty of operating an unregistered vehicle and any fine was suspended.

Harry Hitchins, RD 1, Friendsville, pleaded not guilty of failing to keep to the right of center of road and the plea was sustained.

Several pleaded not guilty of charges but were placed on probation before judgment and paid costs: Thomas J. Panther, Oakland, was charged with failing to keep to the right of the center of the road; Dennis W. Beckman, RD 1, Oakland, was charged with making excessive noise; John W. the ROCKPILE

by Cathy Helbig

In July of 1914 a group of Suffragists took a long hike through Garrett County while recruiting new members.

The leaders of the movement were highly elated over their victory in a debating contest. Mary Brennan and Madge Thurlow convinced the judges that women should vote while a local preacher opposed woman suffrage and denounced their move entirely.

Although the Rev. tried his best, 820 new members were received through twenty mass meetings.

Several weeks later an invasion was planned by the Maryland Association Opposed to Woman Suffrage to counteract the effect of the hikers who invaded the county and awakened interest in women's vote.

"Although the suffragists report they gained over 800 names during the two weeks hike, the anti-suffragists feel that the population of Garrett County, which exceeded 20,000, offered a favorable field for activity."

The prohibition feud was also on and statements such as "A specimen of the work of the saloon keeper was seen in one of Oakland's alley's Tuesday, dead drunk. For safety the poor fellow was put in jail over night, at the expense of the county," were found quite frequently as Garrett County was obviously destined to be "dry."

"Alleging that her husband refused to take a bath in the four months she lived with him, Mrs. Susie Woods of Ohio began suit for divorce against Dillard C. Woods. They were married in January. Mrs. Woods says that she waited until spring for her husband to take a bath before leaving him."

"Mrs. D. E. Offutt has received from Mrs. Woodrow Wilson, mistress of the White House, a handkerchief, the handwork of Mrs. Wilson, which will be on exhibition and sale at the lawn fete to be held at the Presbyterian Church."

The July 30th issue carried bad news for the farmers; the Army Worm was creating havoc in almost every section of Garrett County.

Their first appearance was on the farm of Abel DeWitt near Deer Park. His field was so devastated that to save an adjacent corn field he set fire to his grass and allowed it to burn over 5 acres.

"Sunday afternoon a gentleman driving in the neighborhood of Kaese's mill saw a large number of Army Worms on the move. He made 300 steps across the width of the moving army. The width of that army was 900 feet, the length he did not ascertain."

The Republican published a bulletin issued by the Dept. of Agriculture containing ways of controlling the pest before every farmer suffered too great a loss.

A very unique method of transportation was tried and accomplished in 1914; The post office at Highview, near Romney, accepted for shipment by parcel post, George Larick, a six-year old boy, who was shipped from there to a small town in Virginia.

"Although it was a technical violation of the law, he was received and delivered to the address tied on his coat. The postage amounted to 50 cents, and a special delivery stamp was also attached.

"The Highview postmaster, it is said, was ignorant of the fact that the law does not allow the transmission of human bodies through the mail."

The personals of that year carried the usual with remarks and newsworthy incidents; "The large demijohn in front of Davis' whiskey store has disappeared, to the delight of the general public."

"A chronic kicker is complaining because Noah didn't swat the flies when the supply was limited."

"The boarding houses are squirming over 9 cents a pound sugar."

And on July 16, 1914 the resources of the two National banks of Oakland were one million one hundred and sixteen thousand, three hundred and sixty-one dollars and eighty-eight cents.

Finally, the editor offered his own heavy philosophy; "We are all liars. When a man owes us a dollar we think of it and cuss him every time we see him. And later on, when he does hand the money over, we smile and say: 'Oh, there's no hurry. I had forgotten all about it.'"

I guess people are the same no matter what Rock Pile you're in.

AURORA-EGLON NEWS

Church services were cancelled everywhere in Union District except at Maple Spring Church on Easter Sunday. Freezing rain, sleet and snow hit the area on Saturday and although it warmed a little during the day, it melted very little and rained and froze all during Saturday night leaving everything covered with a heavy coating of ice. Trees and limbs caused lines to be down and power was off all over the area.

Sunrise Services were held in the Maple Spring Church where there was still power at that time on Sunday morning. All of the pre-Easter services held in the various churches throughout the area had been well attended during Holy Week.

About 6:00 a.m. Easter Sunday morning, fire destroyed the home of Truman and Lunda Kisner at Limestone, St. George. Losing all of their belongings were Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Kisner and Wilfred Kisner in addition to the elderly couple. The family is at present staying with neighbors, the Freeman Dumires. The cause of the fire is not known.

The president, Opal Myers, reported on the President's Day meeting held that day in Kingwood which she, Nina Layman and Linda Lewis of Eglon attended. She also discussed the upcoming Preston County Health Council elections. Plans for a craft workshop were discussed but nothing definite set.

Mrs. Vesta Stemple showed the special feature, two quilts that she had made. One was the Dresden Plate and the other a Star pattern. At the conclusion of the meeting she served refreshments to those named above and Wilda Wilt, Mary Wotring, Shirley Parsons.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl C. Myers of Ellerslie, Maryland, were honored on the occasion of their 50th wedding anniversary on Saturday evening, February 11, 1978 in the home of their son-in-law and daughter, Merle and Ella Grace See of Hyndman, Pa.

PET POINTERS

by jim willis

"The cruelest thing a pet owner can do is not to provide the household pet with a proper collar and dog tag," according to Phyllis Wright of The Humane Society of the United States. "Untagged pets make up more than seventy-five percent of the nearly 12 million pets which stray and become lost each year. Untagged dogs and cats are strays, period, animals with no known home, and in most cases end up in the local animal shelter."

The result? Animal shelters are drastically overcrowded. Often, insufficient funding, a lack of personnel to staff the shelters, make it impossible for stray pets to receive food, care and protection over long periods of time. Worse still, if the pets are not claimed by their owners, or adopted by other families within the shelter's grace period, shelters have no other recourse but to put the animals to sleep in order to care for newly arrived stray pets.

Ms. Wright points out that, "If more pet owners would provide proper identification for their pets, more stray pets would be returned to their owners, and animal shelters would serve their intended purpose as a temporary haven for the lost family pet."

The solution ultimately lies with the individual pet owner. A pet indentification tag and collar, coupled with proper licensing of the family pet in accordance with community regulations, provides an added guarantee that the lost pet will be returned home safely.

Robert Frank, Director of the Society of St. Francis, a non-profit animal protection agency in the Chicago area, has this to say about the importance of identification tags:

"Stray pets can't talk, and if a pet has no indentification, there is no way of knowing where the pet owner can be contacted. Pet identification tags with the owner's address and telephone number do the talking. The owner can be contacted as soon as the pet is found, and in ninety percent of the cases, the pet is quickly returned."

Even the most responsible pet owner can make a mistake, and in spite of all precautions, the family pet can be lost or stray. In this regard, Mr. Frank points out the importance of keeping a collar and tag on the pet even after it is inside the house. By doing so, the pet owner guarantees identification if the dog or cat should slip out of the house without the owner's knowledge.

It is important to note that animal protection agencies throughout the United States strongly urge pet owners not to put their pet's name on the identification tag. Most pets are quick to respond when called by name. Publicizing the family pet's name on a dog tag only serves as an added incentive to petnappers.

Allen Products Company, makers of ALPO Pet Foods and other pet food products, is offering a pet identification tag as part of the company's continuing program to encourage pet owner responsibility.

Stamped in stainless steel with a sturdy stainless steel S-hook, the tag provides room for the owner's name, address and telephone number. Interested pet owners should send $1.00 along with complete address and telephone information to: ALPO Dog Tag Offer, P. O. Box 4416, Madison, Wisconsin 53711. (Reprinted from ALPO News).

Garrett Cancer Unit Beginning Detection Project

The Garrett County unit of the American Cancer Society is launching an attack on "The Cancer Nobody Talks About" — colorectal cancer.

According to Dr. Gilcin Meadors, President of the American Cancer Society, colorectal cancer (cancer of the colon and rectum) is the most common internal cancer. It will strike some 101,000 Americans, men and women equally this year and will be second only to lung cancer as a cause of death by cancer. Despite the seriousness of the disease, many people are embarrassed by references to colorectal cancer and do not take advantage of potentially life-saving diagnostic tests.

"The difficulty in detecting colorectal cancer when it is in an early, highly curable stage has contributed to the high death rate from the disease," says Dr. Meadors. "But, if the diagnostic tests currently available would be more widely used two out of every three patients might be saved through earlier diagnosis and prompt treatment."

He notes that the Guaiac Test, more commonly referred to as the "hemoccult" Test, may be the key to preventing many unnecessary deaths from colorectal cancer. The test finds hidden blood in the stool which is sometimes an early warning signal of cancer. The hemoccult test can be done by a doctor during a regular health check-up or can be self-administered at home.

"The presence of blood in the stool is a signal to the doctor that further testing must be done to determine the cause of the bleeding," says Dr. Meadors.

Through its Public Education programs, the Garrett County Unit of the American Cancer Society is working to inform people of the importance of the Hemoccult test. Plans are being made to offer the test to persons over 40 years of age, the age when colorectal cancer begins to occur more frequently. The ACS is currently setting up Hemoccult test distribution centers in Garrett County where residents may pick up the tests and return them for reading free of charge, beginning in mid-April.

For further information about colorectal cancer and the Hemoccult test contact the American Cancer Society, 733-8272.

Northern Rescue Will Purchase New Ambulance

At its last meeting the Northern Garrett County Rescue Squad endorsed the Ambulance Selection Committee's choice of a new unit for the squad. The new unit will replace the last surplus vehicle, a 1961 Pontiac, currently operated from the Accident Station.

Committee chairman, James O. Wilburn, and members Ron Folk, and Don Ringer chose a Wheel Coach on a 1977 Dodge chassis. This combination will be a similar design of the present vehicles operated by the squad and will be similarly equipped. H and A Ambulance Co. will deliver the vehicle by the middle of May.

Although funds from the State will assist in paying for the new ambulance, approximately $12,000 will be required from the squad's own funds. No organized fund drive is planned, however, donations are welcomed.

HUD Block Grant Program Now Open

The Garrett County Housing Office is now accepting applications for the HUD Block Grant Program.

This project will provide grants for owner-occupied dwelling units for the purpose of preventing these units from deteriorating beyond practical repair or into unsafe or unsanitary conditions. Funds will not be spent on those homes which cannot be raised to "standard" condition by such rehabilitation.

The scope of work eligible under this program will include, but not be limited to electrical, plumbing and heating installation, insulation and major structural (foundation and/or roof) repair.

To qualify for either structural or sanitation or housing rehabilitation grants, applicants must:

1. Be legal residents of Garrett County.
2. Meet limited income guidelines.
3. Own and occupy the unit for which application is made.

Priority will be given to elderly and handicapped persons.

For additional information persons should contact the Garrett County Housing Office at 323 Oak Street, Oakland.

Auto Tags Expire Midnight Tomorrow

The 1978 auto registration license stickers expire at midnight tomorrow, it was reminded by Mrs. Arzella Parsons, County Treasurer.

She has sold 3,000 of the 1979 stickers, but she said the volume is running considerably behind last year. Mrs. Parsons also mentioned that if the applications for the tags are received, it does not excuse the person from acquiring the tags on time. To obtain the application the car owner must obtain same at the LaVale office of the Maryland Department of Transportation. The office is located at the Searstown Shopping Center.

Den 2, under leadership of Marlene Taliaferro, presented a recital on the meaning of Cub Scouts. Mrs. Taliaferro received an award for one year of service.

Patsy Baker presented awards to leaders Fred Bowser, Wanda Bowser, Marlene Taliaferro, and Lois Sines. A surprise award went to Helen Kinzey for two years as assistant; Jane Fox, principal of Friendsville Elementary School; Ted Zarnoch and Chip Mosser.

Special thanks were given to Joanne Umbel, Helen Harshbarger, Sharon Garner, and the Friendsville fire department. Cubmaster Bowser then presented Patsy Baker with a two-year service pin and a special gift from the Pack.

Marian Bowser, Accident, won the lamp donated by the Baily Glass Company, Morgantown, and Margaret Umbel, Sharon Garner and Timmy Umbel won door prizes.

Mrs. Fox closed the dinner with benediction.

Plans are now being made to join Cub Pack 80 of McHenry in a circus to be held April 23 at the Accident Elementary School. On May 21, Pack 45 will hold a Pinewood Derby, the first Cub Scout softball practice, and picnic lunch at the Friendsville Elementary School.

Whitewater Weekend Begins Saturday

The last in this year's series of Whitewater Weekends gets underway this Saturday in Petersburg, W. Va. The weekend includes slalom races, an old time music show, Potomac Highland Craft Show and Sale, an outdoor show, whitewater movies, the Third Annual Whitewater Fiddlers' Contest, championship races, a muzzle loading rifle match, the downriver championship race, the Canoeists' Mass and a selection of delicious food throughout the weekend.

One of the weekend's special highlights will be "Cowboy" Showers from Waynesboro, Va., calling the western style square dance sponsored by the Petersburg Lions Club, Friday. Showers is a well known caller in Virginia, West Virginia, Pennsylvania and Maryland. Many clubs will be represented from these states.

The dance will be held in the Petersburg High School "A" Gym from 8 p.m. until 11 p.m.

All the participating clubs belong to the National and International Federations of Western Style Square Dancers. New members are required to complete a beginners class of 50 basic movements before becoming club members. It is from these basics that new calls originate. All club members dress in the traditional square dance apparel and a strict code of ethics is required by all clubs.

Spectators will be given a chance at a few basic calls between dances with club dancers assisting.

Donation will be $3.00 per couple for dancers and spectators are welcomed at no charge.

CONTROLLING THE PROPERTY TAX LEVY

Q. What can do we do about the tax rate?

A. As a property owner you can exercise some control of the tax rate and, ultimately your property tax, in several ways. In order to be effective, you should first understand how the tax rate is set.

The city, and each county and incorporated municipality are empowered to fix their own property tax rates. First, the mayor or county executive prepares a proposed budget — based upon departmental requests — for which a tentative tax rate is set. You can individually or as a group of property taxpayers make your views known to these public officials at this time.

Next the budget is reviewed and approved by the city or county councils who can cut but not increase the budget. Before any final decision is made, hearings which are open to the public are held. This gives the property taxpayers a second opportunity to make their wishes known. But the fact is that these hearings are usually poorly attended by the public and frequently well attended by special interest groups. After the hearings, revisions are made and a final tax rate is fixed to pay for the amounts appropriated in the budget.

Property owners have still another opportunity this year that they have not had before to control the tax rate. The new Constant Yield Tax Rate Law stipulates that the tax rate cannot be increased by the local government before advertising the intent to do so and holding a public hearing. Notices of these hearings are to be prominently displayed, and will be appearing in the newspapers within the next few months. Property owners should watch for them, attend the open forums when they are held, and express their views. Your appearance and participation will have an important impact upon what the final tax levy will be.

Curtailing spending, which is the solution, is not as easy as it sounds. The property tax goes to meet the expenses for the services that local government provides. For example, 18% of the City budget is supported by the property tax. In Baltimore County, it is 44%. Anne Arundel, it is 27%. In Montgomery, it is 43%. All of the services supported by the property tax are important, and many of them are essential to the life and well being of the community. The property tax is used to pay for education which alone accounts for between 60 and 70% of a local government budget. It pays for law enforcement and public safety, roads, social and health services, sanitation, sewerage, storm drainage, and snow removal. It pays for recreation and parks, libraries, and a host of other amenities that contribute to the cultural enrichment of the community.

You must consider also the fact that local government is caught in the same inflationary squeeze as is the homeowner. The energy costs for heating schools and other public buildings have risen dramatically within the last few years. And there are certain built-in costs which cannot be ignored, such as salaries and pensions for employees and debt redemption. The property owner must decide which services are necessary or desirable, and he must resist the temptation to continually request more and more government services.

In the end, the property tax bill, which is the product of your property assessment times the tax rate, reflects your proportionate share of the amount that is necessary to pay for the expenditures of the next year, and the best way to control the property tax is to curtail spending.

Questions or letters of general interest on assessments and the property tax should be addressed to 'Assessment Answers — James Burley' in care of this newspaper. They will be answered through this column to the extent that space allows.

This column was written with the co-operation of the Maryland State Department of Assessments and Taxation.

With the exorbitant prices of utilities many of us have had to rearrange our budgets and our lifestyles.

In an attempt to save enough money to pay the additional fuel adjustment charges we have cut out all frivolous expenses such as groceries. We've removed all the light bulbs from their sockets, disconnected the stereo and television. We read by candlelight, do our laundry at the laundromat (ideally at the laundromat, entertain guests at the laundromat) and although we've been greatly inconvenienced it's helped.

If the electric bill was $100 this time last year, and you've cut down on usage drastically as we have done, you can probably expect a $40 electric bill this year. You can also expect a $70 fuel adjustment charge — but just think how much energy you've saved!

Actually I like my new lifestyle. It's fun to scrape the ice off the inside of the kitchen window so you can see out. It's amusing watching your cat melt the ice in the water bowl with his Bic lighter . . . and although it may not be the latest thing in evening wear, it's good exercise hopping around the house in your sleeping bag, zooing up and down stairs is not only good exercise, but dangerous!

As another means of offsetting the fuel adjustment charge, many of us have taken part-time jobs. I work as a waiter on the weekends. The money isn't terrific, but I get to take home leftovers, I tell them they're for the dog. Another girl at our office works as a bartender on the weekends. If you drink enough you're not likely to feel the cold when you return home.

The utility bills have turned everyone into a cynic. Our bookkeeper commented that it is no wonder they've repealed the death penalty. With the cost of energy, who could afford to run the gas chamber or the electric chair.

Well, they say Spring is right around the corner, but our homes are still freezing. One tip for keeping warm the next time the mercury drops: take all of your utility bills, make a neat little pile of them and set them on fire. They'll only burn for a minute or two, and they won't produce much heat. . . . but it will leave you with a warm feeling that will last until May.

To Present Night Of Harmony May 6

The Oakland Barber Shop Chorus will present its annual Night of Harmony Saturday evening, May 6, in the Southern Middle School.

Joseph Welch, president, has announced the Circle W Four quartet from Pittsburgh, Pa., will headline the show.

Other quartets appearing on the program will include the Alleghany Express of Cumberland, and the Mountainaires of Oakland.

The Oakland chorus, directed by Prof. Charles Springman, will make two appearances during the evening.

Dentist's Mailbox

By Harris Heyden

Q. My 15-month-old baby, who is on dilantin and phenobarbitol for seizures, has streaked teeth. Will the child outgrow the condition?

A. The dilantin and phenobarbitol are not the cause of the stained teeth. The teeth are probably discolored because they need to be cleaned. You should be cleaning your child's teeth every day with a piece of gauze or small soft toothbrush. External stains (those on the outside of the enamel) can only be removed by brushing, or by a dentist or dental hygienist.

It is possible that the child's teeth are stained because of some other medication, like tetracycline, especially if it was given to the child during the first few months before the teeth erupted into the mouth.

To be certain, your child should be examined by your regular family dentist who can advise you as to what the "streaking" is and what, if anything, should be done about the condition.

Q. What is good for "bad breath" caused by tooth decay?

A. There is only one way to eliminate bad breath caused by tooth decay: remove the decay and restore (fill or cap) the teeth. If the decay has already infected the pulp (nerve) of any tooth, then root canal treatment will be needed before filling or crowning the tooth. Should the decay have already destroyed the tooth to a great extent (making root canal treatment, build-ups, and crowns impossible), then the tooth must be removed.

In one way or another, the tooth decay must be removed to avoid possible pain and/or infection. If you have neglected your teeth to the point that you have bad breath from decay, it is very likely that you also have periodontal (gum) disease. This can also cause bad breath and loss of teeth.

Tooth decay and periodontal disease are the two most common dental diseases. See your regular family dentist at once. These are progressive diseases that will get worse unless treated.

Q. I have a tooth that has been bothering me on and off for sometime now, but I dislike going to the dentist. The last time I went, he told me the tooth must be removed. But, I wanted to wait. What is your opinion?

A. The longer you wait, the more difficult it becomes to treat the tooth because the more likely it is that there will be problems, such as swelling, from infection. It is far better to prevent disease with regular care, than to wait until something causes discomfort. It is also easier to treat any disease, including tooth decay and periodontal (gum) disease, in their early stages.

However, in most cases, early tooth decay and periodontal disease can only be detected by the dentist or dental hygienist.

Another thing: it is less expensive to treat most diseases early, so, you will not only save yourself discomfort and money, but you will save your teeth.

Q. What does a canker sore look like? Can the dentist treat it?

A. Canker sores are a single ulcer, small in size, that develop in the lining of the mouth and probably are caused by a virus. They are found in the mouths of children as well as adults. They usually require 10 days to heal. Sometimes a child's mouth will become seriously infected. This can cause a gingivitis (inflammation of the gums).

The dentist can relieve the pain associated with canker sores but certain kinds come back in spite of any treatment now known.

Q. I wore an upper denture for years before having trouble with looseness. The dentist told me that I had spongy gums that would have to be trimmed. After that, he made me a new denture. Now, several months later, my gums are spongy and red again. What do I do now?

A. Bony ridges under the dentures shrink. This causes looseness of a denture and spongy gums. Removing this flabby tissue gives the denture a firmer, healthier base to sit on, but does not necessarily give a tighter fit.

Because the recurrence of this problem came within such a short period of time, it may be the result of an allergic-type reaction to the denture material. It might also be the result of an incorrect bite, a habit such as clenching or grinding, or from wearing the denture constantly.

Unfortunately, some people seem unable to wear dentures without irritation or redness, and not everyone is able to wear dentures. People who have worn dentures for years may suddenly find it difficult, if not impossible, to continue to wear them. Almost all denture wearers will experience increasing difficulties in wearing dentures as they get older due to changes in muscle tone, metabolism, and saliva.

So I suggest that you consult with a dentist in order to determine if the occlusion (bite) of your denture is correct. Secondly, I suggest you make sure that you have no conditions which could make your gums more easily irritated. A skin test can also determine if you are allergic to the denture material.

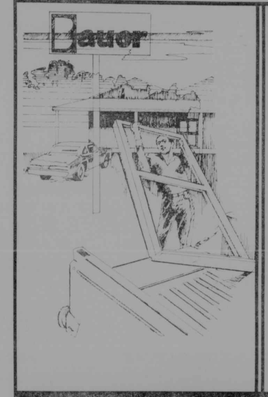
In the meantime, leave your denture out as much as possible, and clean your ridges and palate daily with a soft toothbrush or washcloth. And follow a well-balanced diet.

Q. Last summer I had to go to a new dentist because my regular dentist was on vacation. I had a tooth that was throbbing and my cheek was swollen. The dentist referred me to a specialist for a root canal, which I had done. After the root canal was finished, I returned to the new dentist for a filling which broke. He put on a temporary cap which came off 3 times. Now my regular dentist says he won't cap the tooth because I'm still having trouble with it. But the specialist says that the x-rays show a good root canal job. What do I do now?

A. Root canal treatment is usually, but not always successful. Even the very best looking root canal filling on an x-ray picture does not guarantee that the tooth will be retained. The anatomic, physiologic, and microscopic reasons for this are too complex to explain in this space. But, suffice it to say that the very best root canal tooth may still be lost.

First, I would suggest that you consult another endodontal (root canal specialist) to substantiate the present condition of your tooth. Occasionally, retreatment is necessary. And sometimes a special treatment is needed to surgically remove remaining inflammation in the bone around the tooth or to seal the root end surgically.

There may be a crack in the remaining tooth and/or root. Cracks are not always visible to the unaided eye or on x-ray pictures.



It is not likely that the filling and/or temporary cap are the cause of your discomfort.

By
Congressman Goodloe Byron
Maryland—Sixth District

This column serves as another vehicle to keep in touch with my fellow residents of central and western Maryland. Send your questions or comments to me C/O U. S. House of Representatives, Washington, D. C. 20515. While I'll be unable to print all replies, I will answer each of you who contacts me.

The following questions were typical of the kind asked of me in recent weeks.

What can be done to control the growth of big government?

In action designed to cut red tape and bring the bureaucracy under control I have cosponsored legislation to give Congress the power to veto unreasonable agency regulations which run contrary to the intent of Congress and the public. I have also introduced "sunset" legislation which would automatically terminate federal agencies unless a congressional study can justify their continuing cooperation and extension. Finally, I have voted to give the Administration authority to reorganize the federal government with the intent of reducing the number of agencies that currently lack coordination, duplicate each other's functions, and thwart effective and efficient government.

Does your office have any information on consumers' rights as they apply to air Carter flights?

You might want to order a new booklet from the Civil Aeronautics Board entitled "Consumers' Guide to Air Charters." This free leaflet explains eight different types of charters, their requirements, and some charter pitfalls to watch out for. For your copy, write Consumer Information, Pueblo, Colorado.

According to your recent survey, how many citizens feel congressional elections should be subsidized with federal money?

Several bills have been introduced relating to federal subsidies for congressional races. Supporters argue that public financing, similiar to the tax return checkoff system already used to finance presidential campaigns, would reduce the dependence of congressional candidates on contributions for business, labor and other interests. Opponents claim the proposal would cost the taxpayers an estimated $30 million. I put this matter before the citizens of Central and Western Maryland on my recent questionnaire and based on 20,000 responses the clear majority were against the idea of subsidizing part of the cost of congressional races. The final tally showed 31 percent in favor, 62 percent against and 7 percent undecided.

Can a coal miner drawing State Workmen's Compensation benefits draw Federal Black Lung benefits as well?

Yes, but only under certain circumstances. State Workmen's Compensation for injuries, or diseases, unrelated to black lung will not be subtracted from a federal black lung award. For example, if a miner draws State Workmen's Compensation for a back injury, this would not change black lung payments. However, if the miner is receiving State Workmen's Compensation for black lung disease, that would be subtracted from the federal black lung award.

Often the Federal Government asks consumers for comments on its proposed actions. How does one learn about these proposals?

If you want to know what the government is planning to do that will affect you as a consumer you might want to subscribe to Consumer News. This Office of Consumer Affairs newsletter is published twice a month and includes summaries of Federal consumer proposals and final actions, new consumer laws, recalls and consumer tips. For more information you may write the Consumer Information Center, Pueblo, Colorado 81009.

What is the status of your bill to protect the Appalachian Trail?

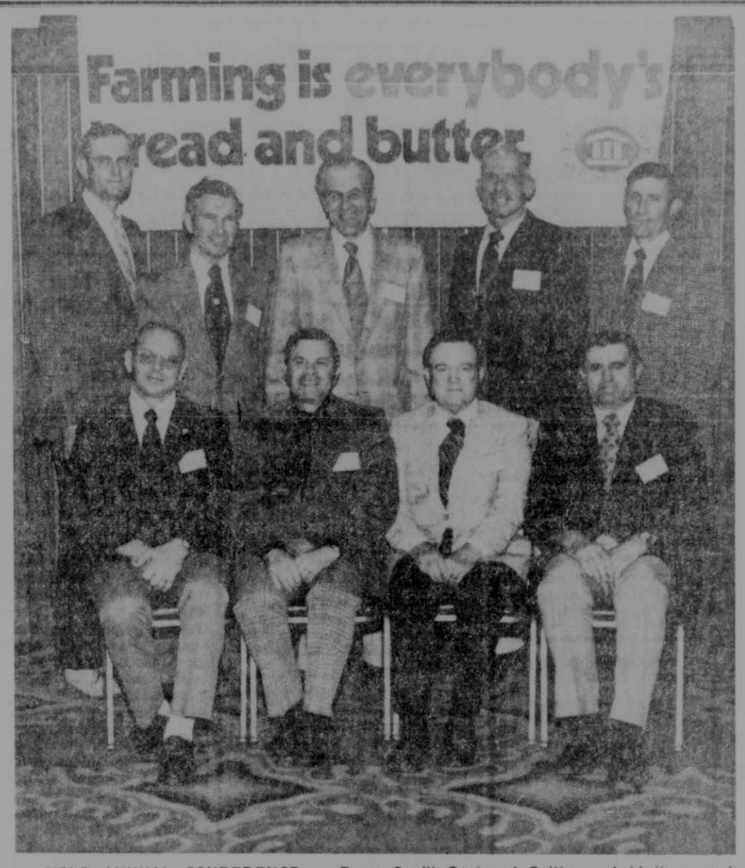
I am pleased to report that last week the Senate passed H.R. 8803, the legislation I introduced to protect the Appalachian Trail. As you will recall, the House passed the measure last October. The Senate made a few changes in the bill, all of which are minor and do not affect the basic provisions. I am currently reviewing these differences with the House Interior Committee and am confident we will be able to enact a final version of the legislation into law this spring.

Based on the results of your recent questionnaire, what do you see as the most important issues confronting Congress?

The top three items on the minds of citizens in Central and Western Maryland are controlling inflation, solving the energy problem, and maintaining a strong national defense. The need to reduce unemployment and crime also ranked high with respondents. I would certainly agree with these findings and add tax reform and balancing the Federal budget to the list.

I am thinking about converting my water heater to solar energy. Is there a Government Agency I can contact to get more information on this matter?

I suggest you contact the National Solar Heating and Cooling Information Center at Post Office Box 1607, Rockville, Maryland 20850. The Center also has a toll-free number you can call if you would like immediate answers to a specific question or if you would like to order any of the material they have in print. The toll-free number is 1-800-523-2929.



Can you tell me your position on forced busing?

I have been a consistent opponent of forced busing and have voted to restrict the Federal government from ordering local communities to institute busing plans against their wishes.

What have you done to protect the American worker from losing his job because of unfair foreign competition?

I firmly believe that American businesses and workers deserve protection from such competition. I have consistently joined with other Members of Congress in urging the President to take strong action to assist the American steel, textile and shoe industries — all of which are important to the workers in Central and Western Maryland. I also have supported legislative proposals which seek to combat the unfair competition of foreign countries who subsidize their industries and exports, exploit their citizens by allowing very cheap wage rates, and permit "dumping" of excess production in the United States.

The U. S. has only one living five-star general, Omar Bradley, who is 85 years old.

IN MEMORIAM

In memory of our dear Mom and Grandmother, Edith E. Friend, who passed away April 1st, 1977.

Dear Mom and Grandma,
It's been so lonesome without you, sad have been the days.
Home hasn't been the same since you went away.
To some you may have been forgotten,
to others a part of the past.
But to us who loved you dearly,
Your memories will always last.

Love you,
Your children and grandchildren
—Adv. 5-1t.

IN MEMORIAM

In memory of Ronald Hugh Sisler, killed August 19, 1977, for his 20th birthday, March 30th:

Today you would have been twenty.
Such a short time you had to live.
The memories you gave us though,
Are soft, gentle, loving, flowing—as through a sieve.
To spread and radiate—as a pebble in a pond;
Rippling, touching through us whom you touched.
A hundred lives and more with goodness and kindness and soft brushing as of angel's wings,
With a love not felt before.

Sadly missed by Mother, Father, Brothers & Sisters

Politics Forum Slated April 6

The fourth in a series of Community Forums on Popular Culture topics will be held next Thursday evening at 7:00 in the Garrett Community College Auditorium. Topic for this forum will be Politics and Popular Culture. An article on this topic will be contained in next week's edition of The Republican.

The panelists for the forum will be Tim Dugan, Garrett County Planning Director; Garfield Shaw, who has instructed at GCC in American History and Political Science, and is currently working on his Doctor of Philosophy dissertation at West Virginia University in Political Science; and Albert Feldstein, a political science student, government worker, and writer.

Questions will be discussed such as: What does the term politics mean to you? What is currently affecting politics? The women's movement? The media? Corruption? Interest groups?

A full-length movie based on politics starring Robert Redford will be viewed as part of the forum. The forum is open and free to the public.

Community College Courses by Newspaper Forums is a project of the American Association of Community and Junior Colleges, and is supported by a grant from the National Endowment for the Humanities. Co-sponsors for the politics forum will be the Garrett County Business and Professional Women's club and the Oakland-Mt. Lake Park Lions club.

Library Corner

April 2-8 is National Library Week, a good time for everyone to visit the nearest agency of the Ruth Enlow Library of Garrett County. This includes the main library in Oakland, branches in Grantsville, Accident, Friendsville, Kitzmiller and Finzel and the bookmobile. In addition to books library users will find magazines, newspapers, pattern catalogs, phonograph records, tape cassettes, 8mm and 16mm movies, filmstrips and even jigsaw puzzles. The Ruth Enlow Library can draw upon the resources of Western Maryland Public Libraries, the regional library in Hagerstown, and through the Maryland Interlibrary Loan Network can borrow from the collections of a number of other libraries.

The Junior Girl Scout Troop #922 will visit the library in Oakland on Tuesday of this week to work on their "Books" badge. This will involve practice in using reference books and in finding books and magazine articles of interest to them.

"Cartoon Festival," "Watch Out for My Plant" and "Curious George Rides a Bike" are the movies to be shown at the library in Oakland on Saturday, April 1 at 1:00 p.m.

Those who are planning to take tests of various kinds will find a number of useful books in the library. "Taking Tests and Scoring High" by Honig, "High School Equivalency Diploma Tests" by Turner, "Questions and Answers on Real Estate" by Semenow and "Scholastic Aptitude Tests" are among the books now on the library shelves in recent editions. Guides for preparing for a number of different civil service tests are quickly available on interlibrary loan.

"The One-Hander's Book" by Veronica Washam is a well-illustrated "how-to-do-it" book on coping with such everyday tasks as tying shoes. Those who have suffered broken arms recently will find it very helpful. Other unusual "how-to" books of the past few weeks include "Teaching Your Children Photography" by Cyr, "Wood Decks: Construction and Maintenance" by Anderson, "How to Get Happily Published" by Appelbaum and "Guide to Bees and Honey" by Hooper.

For more information on library materials, services and schedules call 334-3996 in Oakland, 826-8292 in Accident, 895-3298 in Grantsville, 746-5662 in Friendsville, 453-2368 in Kitzmiller or 689-8388 in Finzel.

THE REPUBLICAN

VOLUME 102 | OAKLAND, GARRETT COUNTY, MD., WEDNESDAY, APRIL 5, 1978 | PER COPY 15c | NUMBER 6

No Oscar For Lee . . .

The Maryland Senate passed a bill yesterday that is indeed, to put it in today's vernacular, one of the most outrageous rip-offs that has ever come down the path (see story, page 12). This particular piece of legislative garbage will establish public financing for the primary and general election campaigns of the candidates for governor, lieutenant governor, attorney general and state comptroller. Candidates for these offices will each receive approximately $480,000, directly out of our pockets, for each campaign.

While most of us are struggling just to keep up with the bills, let alone purchase anything extra, our legislators, the people who are supposed to represent us, work for us and help us, have passed a piece of legislation which will cost the taxpayers of Maryland an average of $1,000,000 per year!

To qualify for this public financing, a candidate must raise a certain percentage of his own funds. In other words, if a candidate has just enough intelligence to raise some money, but is a blundering idiot politically and otherwise, he will still receive support in the form of our tax dollars. It almost takes away our right to support just one particular candidate. Or, stating it another way, it forces us to support all candidates, no matter who they are, where they come from or what party they represent (including the Nazi party, the Communist Party, etc.).

Senator Charles Gilchrist, D-Montgomery County (not Garrett County, fortunately) who supported the bill, stated that fund raising is the "worst element in running for public office and the element most likely to lead to corruption."

In other words, what Sen. Gilchrist is saying is that if a candidate is required to raise his own campaign money, this would force" him to be corrupt. We like Senator Melvin Steinburg's response, "It is the candidates who are corrupt, not the system."

To top it all off, this bill was proposed by none other than Acting Governor Blair Lee (a multi-millionaire) and Senate President Steny Hoyer, a Democrat from Prince Georges County. We are convinced that Mr. Lee's "Acting" will never merit an academy award. In fact, it might be nice for all of us if he would seek some other line of work.

Autumn Glory Hosts Dottie West

Country music artist, Dottie West will be appearing at this year's Autumn Glory Festival according to an announcement made this week by Festival Chairman, Edwin Walthall.

Miss West will be performing at the Maryland State Banjo Championship, Friday, October 13, at Southern High School, Oakland. She has had numerous Number One recordings including "Country Sunshine," "Here Comes My Baby," "Killing Me Softly," "Jesse" and "Last Time I Saw Him." Currently Miss West has a record in the top ten of the country music charts with Kenny Rodgers called "Every Time Two Fools Collide."

Mr. Walthall went on to say "the entire festival committee is extremely excited about the opportunity to have Dottie West in Oakland this fall since she is one of the biggest names we have been able to host since the beginning of the Autumn Glory Festival. Also the fact that she is in the top ten of the entire country music world makes us doubly pleased."

Dottie West has received a Grammy for the song she wrote, "Here Comes My Baby," which has become her most widely recorded hit.

"There's been 100 cuts of "Here Comes My Baby" that I know of," Dottie says. In all, she estimates she's written 350 to 400 songs, "and that's not really a lot."

Additionally, she has won Billboard's top writing award in 1974 and other writing honors from Broadcast Music, Inc., the performing-rights organization. Her song "Country Sunshine" won her two Grammy nominations as best Female Performer and Writer as well as the CLIO Award for Best Commercial of the year for Coca-Cola. Dottie West and Kenny Rodgers will be hosting a network broadcast country music show this evening.

Commissioners Plan Hearing On Junkyard Rules

The Garrett County Commissioners are planning a public hearing on Monday, May 8, at 10 a.m. in their offices on proposed ordinances concerning operation of junkyards in the county. The public is encouraged to attend, to help draft new regulations for the operation of junkyards.

The hearing was prompted by a decision handed down in the Garrett County Circuit Court by Associate Judge Fred A. Thayer on February 17, declaring the county's present regulations null and void.

The judge made his decision in the appeal case of Adrian T. Martin, who had been told by the commissioners last fall that he could not operate a junkyard along Route 38. A public hearing had been held October 24, at which time the commissioners made the ruling based on testimony at a public hearing.

In his decision in the appeal case, Judge Thayer ruled that the county's regulations were invalid because the Commissioners had not filed proper recording procedures. As a result of Judge Thayer's decision, Mr. Martin has reopened his business near Deer Park.

New regulations have been formulated by the Commissioners and copies of the proposed regulations may be seen at the Commissioners' office prior to the public hearing in May.

Board Schedules Lengthy, Busy Session Monday

John Nelson, county planner, was among the first to meet with the Garrett County Commissioners during the April 3 meeting, according to the minutes narrated by chairman George Edwards.

Mr. Nelson discussed the Program Open Space proposal for the Long Stretch-Finzel area and the commissioners agreed to pay the costs of the third appraisal required on the first selected site for the area park.

The Commissioners then met with representatives of the Board of Education, Head Start and the Child Development program, Mrs. Barbara Flinn, Mrs. Jean Tressler and Mrs. Linda Wengerd, and signed a proclamation declaring the week of April 2-9 "Week of the Young Child" in this county.

George Comp, Civil Defense director, discussed with the commissioners the present communications system and noted that he hoped to soon switch over to a microwave system.

The commissioners plan a public meeting to discuss a proposed draft of regulations for junkyards. The meeting is scheduled May 8 and a public notice to that effect appears in this week's edition of The Republican. Copies of the proposal are available for reading at the commissioners' office.

At a meeting with Herb McCrobie, county roads engineer, bids for county roads needs were awarded. W. H. Fratz was awarded the bid for supplying fuel oil and kerosene, and Peters' Fuel was awarded the gasoline bid. Gaylord Fuels was awarded the stone bid.

The commissioners decided to ask counsel of their legal representative before making a decision in the tax abatement case concerning several condominiums at Will o' the Wisp. Speaking with the Commissioners Monday were Azzella Parsons, county

Two Walk Out Of Savage Area After River Foils Crossing

Two boys from Barton were the object of a search in the Savage River area early Sunday after they had gone fishing and failed to return to their vehicle.

State Police reported that James Grable, 19, and David Grable, 14, were objects of an extensive search Saturday evening and Sunday.

The two had left home Saturday morning to fish in the Savage River area, and failed to return home later in the day. Another brother located their car and became alarmed when he could not find his brothers.

Department of Natural Resources police, Westernport firemen, state police, and nineteen members of the Garrett County Search and Rescue unit helped friends search the area.

Jim and David emerged Sunday morning and notified authorities that they were no longer missing.

They later told police they were able to wade across the Savage Saturday, but when they decided to return across the river to the car they discovered the river had risen considerably. They decided they could not ford the river during the night, and waited until morning to walk downriver about five miles before reaching the breast of the dam for a crossing.

State police said that Saturday's high temperatures caused considerable runoff into the river, raising the water level by six inches or more.

Hobart Shillingburg, member of the Search and Rescue unit of the county, said the boys were very tired but unharmed.

Bolden Attacks EPA On Westvaco Issue

Delegate DeCorsey Bolden, (R-Garrett and Allegany Counties) announced Monday his firm disapproval of the decision of the Environmental Protection Agency to reject the state of Maryland's request to allow the Westvaco mill in Luke to burn local coal.

In a letter to Howard Heim, chief of the Air Planning branch of the EPA in Philadelphia, Delegate Bolden said that the EPA decision against the use of local coal was "not only unfair and unjust, but it doesn't make good common sense." The delegate continued by reviewing the improvement in the area's environmental quality due to the extensive efforts of Westvaco to eliminate major pollutants from the air and water. Also emphasized was the economic importance to the local people who depend on the Luke mill for their livelihood, as well as the impact on the local coal industry.

Delegate Bolden invited the EPA official to accompany him on a personal tour of the mill area before making any final decisions on this matter.

"MY FELLOW AMERICANS . . ." — This grinning gargoyle was actually a very political pooch perched precariously on his podium in front of a Seventh Street residence. The dog took the opportunity to speak to passerbys about his campaign . . . rumor has it he's running for Register of Wills.

June 19 Slated For Leuschner Murder Trial

The trial of a Salisbury man charged with murdering two young boys will begin in Garrett County on June 19 with selection of the jury, it was announced this week by Associate Judge Fred A. Thayer of Garrett County's Circuit Court.

The trial of Ellwood Leuschner, 45, is scheduled to last at least one week, according to Judge Thayer. Preliminary matters will be disposed of between April 19-21, but the jury will not be called in during this time.

Leuschner has pleaded innocent by reason of insanity to the two murder charges. A change of venue had been ordered from Wicomico county after Judge Alfred Truitt ruled there had been too much publicity in the Salisbury area for Leuschner to obtain a fair trial.

Leuschner was arrested and charged with first degree murder following an extensive investigation. He was arrested shortly after police found the body of nine-year-old William "Rusty" Marine, who disappeared October 30. When his body was found one day later, an autopsy revealed he had been stabbed repeatedly in the back and sexually molested.

The body of ten-year-old Troy Krause was found several days later, in a stream bed about 150 feet from where the Marine boy's body was found. He had been strangled with his shirt. Troy had been missing since July.

Leuschner was orginally arrested by state police on a California fugitive arrant, issued when he violated his parole in Sacramento. He has been convicted of three rapes in California.

EPA Grants More Time For Westvaco Coal Burning Issue

Westvaco has announced that the Environmental Protection Agency has granted the company's request for an extension to May 8, 1978 for submitting letters and other information into the public record regarding the Luke mill issue with EPA.

The company asked for additional time in order to obtain information from EPA files and from EPA technical experts in an effort to gain an understanding of why EPA intends to reject the request that has been made by the State of Maryland that would enable the mill to continue burning locally mined coal. With this extension the company will have time to analyze properly and to comment on EPA's position so that the public record will be complete. Westvaco urges anyone in the community who hasn't contacted the EPA by letter to do so before the new deadline of May 8, 1978. All letters should be addressed to Howard R. Heim (3AH10), Chief Air Planning Branch, Environmental Protection Agency Region III, Curtis Building, Sixth and Walnut Streets, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania 19106, Attn: AH10(M)D.

Pickups Disappear From Kitzmiller

One of two pickup trucks stolen from the Kitzmiller area April 2 and 3 was taken during daylight, according to the sheriff's report made Tuesday afternoon.

The first truck, a 1973 black Ford four-wheel drive, had been parked on the lot of the J and Z Auto Sales along Route 38 at 6 p.m. according to the report filed with police by Douglas Allen Rodeheaver, Route 4, Oakland. When he next checked the lot, about midnight, the truck was gone.

John Lee Paugh, Kitzmiller, told the police his red 1976 Chevrolet pickup was taken while parked on the shoulder of a Kitzmiller street between 8 and 11 a.m. April 3.

Value of toe missing Ford was listed at $5,000; value of the vanished Chevy at over $5,000.

Both vehicles were half-ton models, and both owners reported the ignition switches and doors were locked, windows rolled up and keys removed.

Hamilton Requests Investigation Into Utility Fuel Costs

Wayne Hamilton, member of the Board of County Commissioners, this week mailed a letter to Acting Governor Blair Lee, III, requesting an investigation into the fuel adjustment charges on utilities.

His letter began by mentioning the ice storm which left half of the county without electrical service, noting that residents were dealing with their problems since "Garrett Countians are equal to most emergencies - where people help people."

He continued:

"My purpose in writing, however, is an emergency, not of people making but one created by corporate protectionism and profit assurance to stock holders of Potomac Edison with the pass-through fuel costs being added to electric bills. These costs are unbearable to every user of this utility service, from businesses to the person on the smallest social security benefits.

"It is unpardonable that the utility company is set apart, as an industry, for assured stockholder profits, along with their franchise protection. Not even having to operate in a competitive marketing situation, they are permitted to parasitize users income, for Potomac Edison's profit structure. The unpardonable hardship created here in Garrett County to our citizens has prompted me to speak in their behalf.

"I petition you, using the powers of your office, to implement an investigation into the unjust add-on charges to electric bills and as well the same for gas users. Our citizens are being preyed upon. Please act immediately, we need relief, we want relief!"

Sahib, Byron Address Rotary Club

Congressman Goodloe Byron

The Oakland Rotary Club held its weekly meeting at the American Legion Thursday evening. President Brad Stewart opened the meeting by introducing the first guest speaker of the evening, Dr. Aftab Sahib, a Pakistani veterinarian employed by Sterling Processing.

Dr. Sahib prefaced his talk with a passage from the Koran and then went on to note similarities and differences between Pakistani and American culture. Highlighting the talk were descriptions of major festivals such as the "Feast of Sacrifice," the "Feast of Fast," the birthday of Mohammed and the "Night of Records." He closed with brief descriptions of Pakistani national sports and popular handicrafts.

The next speaker on the Rotarian program was Goodloe Byron, Democratic Congressman from the sixth District. Byron opened his talk with the assurance that "Congress, especially the House of Representatives, works in response to the peoples' requests." The Congressman stated that in working for the people of this area, he had recently opposed the creation of a Consumer Representative Office and the public financing of congressional campaigns.

Byron also pledged his support to Westvaco in their dealing with the EPA requirements.

Several members of the audience questioned the congressman on major issues concerning the coal strike. Byron said "(the) Taft Hartley (Act) gives us adequate machinery to deal with these large labor strikes — its up to the administration to use the Taft Hartley Act properly." He explained that the Supreme Court will rule during its next session on whether public funds can be used to literally fund a strike, i.e. with food-stamps and welfare benefits.

Byron also opposes the Labor Reform Act and stated that he thought action on the Humphrey Hawkins Bill would slow once it reaches the Senate floor, as do most labor related bills. "We shouldn't be too critical of the slow grinding wheels of the legislative process, sometimes there's a definite advantage in that," the congressman said.

The congressman opposes the new extensive agricultural subsidy program that Carter is concerned about. Byron said, "We're number four in the country with our taxes. I'd like to see a tax credit bill passed — everyone is fed up with tax burdens and deficit spending."

Byron closed with a comment that the Panama Canal Treaty was "a little hasty" and explained that if the House is asked to vote on the disposition of U. S. land in the Panama Canal Zone he will oppose such disposition.

Professionals May Now Advertise In C&P Yellow Pages

C&P Telephone now is accepting requests from professionals for display advertisements in its Yellow Pages. The change is the result of recent court decisions concerning free speech.

The Telephone Company has developed guidelines for the advertising to assure that it is informative to the user of the Yellow Pages. For example, the ads may contain information such as scholastic achievements, memberships in societies and associations and professional authorships.

The Reuben H. Donnelley Company handles the sales of the Yellow Pages for C&P. More than 20 professions, ranging from architects to veterinarians, may advertise in future Yellow Pages under the new guidelines.

Events Above The Mountaintop

6-12 April 1978

Uranus

April, 1978 is a good month to observe Uranus. This planet is the one beyond Saturn. It is just at the limit of unaided eye observation due to the faintness of its reflected sunlight. All the planets we see reflect sunlight, which is the reason we can see them. Uranus will be very close to the brightest star in Libra, Zubenelgenubi. This is a double star. Several days before, and after April 27, Uranus passes the two stars of Zubenelgenubi. This event will easily be seen through binoculars.

Moon

New Moon phase of the moon will occur tomorrow at 1:15 a.m. At this time the moon will be between the earth, and the sun. This is 2 weeks after the Full Moon phase at which there was a lunar eclipse. Tomorrow, the moon passes partly across the direct line between earth, and sun to cause a partial solar eclipse. This eclipse will be seen in the South Atlantic Ocean. Moonset varies between 5.59 p.m. today and 11:42 p.m. next Wednesday.

Visible Planets

Venus, Mars, Jupiter, and Saturn are easily visible to the unaided eye this week. Venus sets about an hour and one-half after sunset. Mars is in Cancer, high in the south at sunset. Sunday, Mars is at its greatest distance from the sun, 249 million kilometers (155 million miles). Jupiter is in Taurus, moving toward Gemini, high in the southwest at sunset. Saturn is high in the southeast at sunset with the stars of Leo.

Daylight Increases

There will be 15 minutes more daylight next Wednesday than there was today. Sunrise was at 5:55 a.m. this morning. Sunset will be 12 hours 51 minutes later at 6:46 p.m. Wednesday sunrise will be at 5:46 a.m. followed 13 hours 6 minutes later by sunset at 6:52 p.m.

Letters to the Editor

REMINDER — Unsigned letters to the editor will NOT be printed under any circumstances. Letters exceeding 300 words will also not be printed.

Dear Editor:

We are writing this letter in response to a letter published two weeks ago concerning the interscholastic sports program at Southern Middle School.

The letter was written by a Southern Middle School faculty member who was indeed in opposition to the sports program, however no reasons were given, except that they missed classes going on trips. This is true however they missed only TWO periods and only went on ONE trip. As you see there was a plural used when a singular would have been more appropriate (trips).

It also mentioned the collection of funds providing for uniforms for the upcoming year. We're sorry but this is just some wild rumor that has been spread along with others based on false pretenses.

Some teachers started a petition that opposed interscholastic sports. The majority voted their way, however, the student body was given ABSOLUTELY NO chance to voice their opinions.

When the controversy arose the students to be involved started a petition but of course no heed was taken.

Without a team there is no reason for a mascot for what would it represent? Therefore, that leaves no school spirit! It's easy for the teachers to oppose the situation, but the students are the ones to be affected so why not give us a chance???

Sincerely,
Susan Devlin
Amy Gosnell

Dear Editor:

I would like to take the liberty to voice the resentment that I, and other miners in Garrett County and nearby West Virginia have over the way we were treated during our U.M.W.A. strike.

We have taken slurs, put downs and even cursed by the people in this county, by some of the merchants, the radio station, and yes, even this paper.

I would like to ask the merchants how many thousands of dollars a year they think they would lose, if all the area miners were to take their money elsewhere? Some even have the gall, now that the strike is over, to have a miners sale. As if they want to do us a favor.

To the radio station and this paper, we would like to know what gives you the power to act as judge and jury, in condemning us as you do?

It seems whenever one of the other labor unions strike, there isn't much said, but let the U.M.W.A. try to get something better (which we didn't), we are the dumbest kind of people there are. I think the people found out just how dependent they are on "the dumb coal miner," and they should wake up and find that we all need each other, just a little bit.

Thank you,
Marvin Thomas
Local 2478,
U.M.W.A.

Sir:

In reply to the article in your paper about the Garrett County Bus System.

I have seen the county bus in the eastern part of the county, with the bus driver lying over the wheel asleep for as long as one hour, and not one passenger on the bus when the driver decided to move on.

Now the bus system may be ok in the area around Oakland and the immediate area, providing it is self-supporting, but for the rest of the county I can not see where the bus is needed.

If you live in the eastern end of the county and have to go to Oakland by bus you have to stay over night.

Now that the federal funds are used up, the taxpayer is supposed to foot the bill, with unemployment up and no new industry coming in to the county, I don't see where the taxpayer can afford this bus system.

In the neighboring town of Meyersdale, Pa., they have operated a taxi and bus system for years at a profit and without federal funds or funds from the taxpayer. If this can be done in another town the size of Oakland why can't it work here.

I can not see how the taxpayers can be saddled with this bus system along with the high state and county taxes.

Thank you,
James Baker

Dear Sir:

Aside from the aspects of meager pay and odd hours, the very least the Mayor and Town Council of Oakland can do is furnish adequate equipment for the local police department.

I wonder if the Mayor or any member of the Town Council has taken a good look at the tires on the one and only Oakland City Police car. The two rear tires are bald — without a hint of tread! Would they keep their own cars in that condition? I think not.

A new police vehicle is slated for purchase later this year, but the need for a safe vehicle exists now. In last week's issue of The Republican there is an article on the front page that gives an account of a high speed chase (of considerable duration) in which the city police car was involved. There is enough danger in law enforcement without enhancing the danger by faulty equipment.

If one of the public would be caught with tires as bald as these, then a "repair" or "inspection" ticket would be in order. The Oakland City Police car will not pass state inspection! Perhaps the chief of one of his officers should write themselves a ticket for the bald tires. Let the Mayor and Town Council of Oakland explain in court. Why wait until something drastic happens? Crime won't.

A concerned citizen

Dear Sir:

I've read the letters to the editor of The Republican concerning the one-hundred eighty (180) day school requirement. One member of the Garrett County Board of Education stated, "I am convinced our children need all the education they can get to function in today's society." I also agree that we need all the education we can get, but I think it is equally important the quality of education we receive in those one-hundred eighty days.

Making up school is just another way of saying, putting in time.

A student

Dear Sir:

I've watched with little patience the deliberations of the Governor and State Legislature as they argue about how small of a salary adjustment to give state employees.

I've also observed, with considerable disgust, the propaganda which maligns the character of the state employee.

It appears that the popular concept of the state employee is of a gold-bricking goof-off who enjoys job security with little job responsibility.

Such is not the case!!!

State employees are notoriously underpaid in comparison with the private and federal sector.

Furthermore, state employment is no longer a guarantee of job security.

In fact, the only advantages enjoyed by State employees are superior vacation leave, holidays, and an excellent retirement system.

However, the state employee's retirement system benefits will soon be seriously weakened by the very legislators who recently voted themselves and the Governor a tremendous salary raise.

In the performance of my job, I have observed state employees in every state agency in the four Western Counties.

With few exceptions, I have found them to be hard working, industrious individuals who take great pride in their jobs.

Poor wages have forced many to put their spouses to work and/or to "moonlight".

Maryland is offering state employees a two percent salary adjustment and maybe, a career salary plan for long term employees which would grant employees with over ten years service a token acknowledgement.

Unlike the Coal Miners, state employees do not get a 'true cost of living adjustment every year, so, state employees find that their wages have less purchasing power as they find themselves further behind the eight ball of inflation.

All of this apparently means little to the Governor, Legislators, and general public who demand more public services, but refuse to pay employees a decent wage.

Maybe it's time to clean house in November.

Sincerely,
Larry D. Kump
Field Representative of the Maryland
Classified Employees Assoc.

Dear Editor:

Irate customers of Potomac Edison should know that Maryland customers are normally served by the Williamsport, Md. Power station of Potomac Edison. They should also know that most of the coal, if not all of it used there comes from legal non-union mines in Western Maryland. I use the word legal because mines legally have a right to produce and ship coal without harassment from miners who chose to strike. Striking miners are legally allowed to strike, but they have no right to deny the right of non-union mines to mine and ship coal to anywhere. If Potomac Edison had been able to receive non-union coal at the outset, they would not have had to buy power from other companies and there would not be a rate hike problem.

The acting-governor of Maryland knew this and from the first day of the strike, he could have sent state police to protect non-union miners. Carter could have provided protection with Federal troops and the National Guard. Instead, politicians were more concerned with union votes than the welfare of the country. So place the blame for the electric rates and inflationary prices where they rightly belong — on striking miners and political leaders.

Carter did nothing for so long because the union leaders gave him over $20 million dollars to help him buy the presidency. Union-backed Senators Sarbanes and Mathias did nothing for 108 days of the strike.

Miners were offered a 37% raise. They rejected it while other workers in other fields are satisfied with a raise of 5% or 6% per year.

A university professor found that the government was providing the miners with food stamps and welfare in the amount of $432,000 every day. Political leaders again are to blame for prolonging the strike and forcing the rest of the people to foot the bills.

Dear Sir:

In reply to "a Local Taxpayer."

We, those dedicated wives, were not making cracks, but instead stating facts. Yes, the worst road conditions are present in the spring when thawing is occurring, and we agree that the damage has already been done, but who did it is what we are asking? These coal trucks haven't been on the roads during this past winter nor have they been on the roads this spring until the last few days.

As for the coal tax money, it's plain to see that "A Local Taxpayer" has no knowledge whatsoever of the amount of tax that is paid by each and every one of these coal companies. Believe me, each amount is a maximum one and any one of these independents or companies would probably be happy to open their bookkeeping records to those "Local Taxpayers" to prove it. What is done with this coal tax and road tax money after it is paid is beyond our control.

So, "A Local Taxpayer" our point in answering your letter is, before you make statements.

1. Compile your facts,
2. Review your points and
3. Make your statements in a way that you are not contradicting yourself and making statements that you don't have any basis for or knowledge of. You are making it appear as if each and every taxpayer in Garrett County is only a loose lip and as for cracks, here's one "Loose lips, sinks ships."

Dear Editor:

I read in your paper where County Commissioner Edwards finally balked at voting more County money for the Sanitary Commission, but, why wait until $400,000.00 has already been poured down that drain?

Mr. Edward's attempt to turn Accident and Friendsville against us is down right shabby. We don't expect them to pay our sewerage bills. We didn't ask the County Commissioners to lend a cent to the Sanitary Commission. We pay only what we owe by legal contract, not those enormous cost overruns.

I had hoped that the relationship between the town of Mt. Lake Park and the Sanitary Commission was improving since my taking office, but this is not the case.

Last December the Circuit Court ordered the Sanitary Commission to supply water to the John and Mary Drive areas within 14 days. This court order was ignored by the Sanitary Commission. Once again, the town of Mt. Lake Park was left holding the bag, and had to pay for this service. If we are not satisfied with the Court's decision in the sewerage service charge, I am sure there are other courts.

I intend to see that the citizens of Mt. Lake Park do not end up holding the short end of the stick in dealing with the Sanitary Commission. As for the Commisson's financial problems, I could care less if they went bankrupt tomorrow.

Sincerely,
Russell B. Alexander,
Mayor of Mt. Lake Park

Dear Sir:

I read the article in last week's Republican concerning the passage of Delegate Bolden's bill concerning the length of the school year and school day. His bill passed the House of Delegates 118 to 4 and now goes to the Senate.

The bill passed by this wide margin in spite of Dr. Buser's efforts at county expense to defeat it. I would like to ask the citizens of Garrett County for any reasons they can give for the Board of Education and Dr. Buser to spend tax money for the defeat of a bill that has such overwhelming support around the state. The vote certainly says something about Dr. Buser's and the local Board of Education's influence in Annapolis. I think Delegate Bolden should be applauded for supporting such a bill even though the local Board of Education was so opposed to it.

Does Dr. Buser intend to continue spending taxpayers money to lobby against the bill now that it is in the Senate? I feel the majority of taxpayers would oppose this.

I agree with last week's writer that Dr. Buser and the Board of Education should send letters home to get public opinion on a subject before they spend OUR money to support or defeat a bill.

Dear Editor:

I am a senior at Northern High School and, for the past six years, I have tolerated being constantly put down and stepped on by students from Southern.

Whenever there is a contest between the two schools, N.H.S. supporters are subjected to ridicule, bad sportsmanship, and just plain bad manners from a large majority of Southern students.

During the '77-'78 basketball season I attended a game at home the week after we had defeated Southern away. The score was extremely close, but Southern pulled ahead in the fourth quarter to win the game. However, judging from the reaction of Southern, one would have thought they were twenty points ahead throughout the entire game. Not only did some of the spectators show bad manners, but S.H.S. cheerleaders actually mocked ours while N.H.S. had the floor.

While I am sure nothing can be done about the sportsmanship of Southern students, there is something about which I'd like to see some action taken. Some months ago, the NORTHERN sign was stolen from the front lawn of the school. After we went to a lot of trouble to have it replaced, it was ruined by some people who have no respect for others. (In case you haven't noticed, drive by N.H.S. and look at the "S.H.S." in red paint which now covers the sign). I have nothing against school spirit, but I do feel that there are limits.

I would like to able to be proud of Southern, for they represent my home county. But with their attitude such as it is, I can't find an ounce of pride in my body.

In closing, I'd like to say to any Southern students involved that though they may find their actions amusing, I am disgusted and revolted. When are you going to grow up?

A concerned student at N.H.S.

Dear Editor,

I am writing this letter as an answer to Dave Savage from Northern High School. I would like him to know that there is writing in spray paint all over the bathroom wall at Southern High. It has N.H.S. vulgarities about Southern written all over the place. N.H.S. is also written in bright red spray paint at the Little League baseball field below Southern. Also at Southern Car Wash and on county road signs, N.H.S. is written in paint.

So, I don't think Mr. Savage should say that the people at Southern are "low" and "should grow up." Maybe the people at Northern are just getting revenge, but then maybe they started the spray paint writing.

Jo Butler,
A Student at S.H.S.

Gentlemen:

In last week's edition of The Republican, you printed a letter from Dave Savage concerning vandalism of our Northern High School sign.

Dave is president of our Student Faculty Senate, but this letter was not a project of, nor was it endorsed by, our Student Faculty Senate.

We are, of course, against any type of vandalism, but we are also against blanket condemnation of others. As your editorial reply correctly stated, proof should be first obtained and then the responsibility should be placed on the ones guilty of the vandalism.

Sincerely,
J. Kenneth Bittinger
Principal

To the Editor:

I would like to address my letter to Dave, President, Student Government, Northern High School.

I have taught school in the Southern end of Garrett County for 28 years; and I resent your criticism of our students, their parents and teachers. For the most part, I am proud of all the students it has been my pleasure to work with, as well as the teachers who worked with my son.

Let me tell you about an incident that happened at Northern High School about 2 years ago. Bruceton and Southern were playing basketball. "Someone?" cut the gas line on a Bruceton bus. He was observed and ran; but, he threw a match at the leaking gas. Luckily, the match missed the gasoline. Was every student in the Northern end of our county guilty? Hardly!!

Don't be too "bewildered" (quote) Dave, about when we are going to teach our students to grow up.

The students graduating from both our high schools are turning into citizens that we, in Garrett County, can be very proud of.

Sincerely,
Virginia Ryan

Dear Mr. Editor,

In regard to Mr. Stem's letter a week ago, I am a parent interested in better education. I think it may have been a slip when he said one out of five people are illiterate. I once heard a school board member in Garrett County say the average high school graduate reads on a fourth grade level.

I would like to meet his challenge — how students may benefit when we forget missed days. Very simple, and our educators should know. The basics for an education are the three R's. These have been neglected. The students are spending time studying other subjects that are worthless and some that are detrimental. The so-called higher education is to teach everything from how to brush their teeth to sex education. When will our educators realize what an education is?

When our children are to be taught everything they learn in school we will have a stupid generation not capable of thinking for themselves.

The cost of our schooling has become unreasonable. The grade standards are being lowered and morals in the schools have gone to pot. It is time these little dictators start working for better interest of the people.

Your truly,
Homer Mellott

Lutherans believe . . .
IN THE RESURRECTION OF THE BODY

The lily branch represents new life through Christ's resurrection, the crown indicates Christ's Kingship, the background of the cross points to Christ's victory over death.

Miracle, did you say? It surely is!
That's the glory of the Christian faith. Death is not the end. Hope is not limited to this life.
The Christian lives in sure and certain hope of the resurrection of the body, because Christ—who arose from the dead—promises this same resurrection to every one of His followers.
Explain it, you say? Who can explain a miracle?
Lutherans make no attempt to explain the mechanics of the resurrection of the body. It's a matter of faith.
Their only touchstone is Scripture.
Christ has promised, "I go to prepare a place for you. And when I go and prepare a place for you, I will come again and will take you to myself, that where I am you may be also."
In what manner will this be?
St. Paul offers a glimpse saying, Christ "will change our lowly body to be like His glorious body."
. . . and that means a resurrection, a new body, one that is everlasting and will never suffer. Thus resurrected the Christian will praise God eternally.

Would you like to know more of this confessional and ecumenical church? A cordial welcome will be yours.

treasurer, representatives of the Assessment Division, and State's Attorney Ralph Burnett.

The Commissioners appointed William W. Nace to the Land Reclamation committee to fill the position vacated by Eugene Straub, effective July 1.

The Board then approved a move by the Sanitary Commission to make another draw on the line of credit for financing of the Mt. Lake Park-Loch Lynn water rehabilitation system. The Commission had requested interim financing with Liberty Trust before the FHA loan is paid.

The commissioners also discussed the agreement concerning operation of the county airport. Jim Gibson and Robert Railey have requested permission to begin operating the facility, taking over the contract currently held by Nicholson Air Services of Cumberland. The contract will be appraised by both parties involved before changes or decisions are made.

The Board agreed to take over the option from the town of Accident for the industrial site there, to develop the land further as an industrial park. Further information will be forthcoming from the Garrett Development Corporation concerning this acquisition.

Dick Paugh, representing the fair board, asked an additional $1,000 for fair premiums, and the commissioners decided to match state funds up to the $1,000. Further discussion will be held in approximately a month concerning the amount of funding needed, and amount supplied by the state.

Dr. William Pope, county health officer, discussed office space problems currently being experienced by his department. FILM CLIPS
by jim willis

Julia has my vote for movie of the year. Starring Jane Fonda (my choice for Best Actress) and Vanessa Redgrave (ditto for Best Supporting Actress) it is a brilliant study of friendship based on an incident in the life of Lillian Hellman.

Most us remember that special childhood friend. The one we laughed with, cried with and loved. Unfortunately, both people usually end up changing as they mature, and can no longer relate in the same fashion . . . sometimes they move away.

That's exactly what happens in Julia. Growing up in America, Vanessa portrays an ultra-wealthy girl and Jane (as Lillian Hellman), a not-so-wealthy, not-so-daring friend. They hike together, dream together, try cigarettes and wine together.

In later years Vanessa leaves for medical studies at Oxford and Jane takes a job at an American publishing house. Vanessa leaves Oxford to continue studies in Vienna and Jane finds fame and fortune as a playwright and marries.

Vanessa, forever the activist, remains in Vienna as war breaks out, and leads an underground movement against Naziism, Fascism and Hitler. In an act of desperation she calls on Jane to act as a courier. The intrigue here on out will bring you to the edge of your seat, perspiring profusely!

The ending is both sad and beautiful. To tell you more would spoil it for those who haven't seen the movie. Suffice it to say that the directing, costuming, makeup, photography and locations are superb — but you'll probably never notice them . . . Jane Fonda overshadows everything.

If you'll remember, Jane was ostracized from the Hollywood crowd for a number of years because of her leftist politics. She was forced to appear in low rent movies such as "Barbarella" (a sci-fi fiasco). She's turned in a number of fine performances since then, but Julia is the one to make Hollywood fall at her feet.

Parachuting Tops List of Activities For Sgt. Draeger

SSgt. Allyson Draeger recently visited her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lee Shillingburg, Steyer, upon returning from her Air Force tour in Italy.

Allyson received her license as an advanced parachutist with an Italian jump club based at the foot of the Dolomite mountains in Northern Italy.

Allyson and the four others in the first class of Americans to sport jump at the Italian Aero club, "Bellno," made their first jump July 12, 1975.

Her instruction was given by MSgt. Mike Copple, who last year was assigned to the Air Force Academy as an instructor, leaving her as senior jumper at Aviano AFB.

During her three years and 100 jumps, Allyson gained her jump master and instructor ratings, and has assisted in training ten students so far.

Allyson jumped in the EPL (European Parachute League) meet "76" in Germany and has participated in many demonstrations. One International demonstration included a difficult water jump.

Allyson's highest jumps were made at 12,000 feet. She loves all aspects of sky diving but lists as her favorites free falling and relative work with other jumpers flying in formation.

Allyson will be making a jump in Colorado Springs before going to her next assignment at Goodfellow AFB in Texas.

Grain Reserve May Prove Beneficial

"We believe that if a sufficient number of farmers participate in the reserve program, grain prices will rise," Paul A. Crowl, Chairperson of the Maryland Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation (ASC) Committee, said.

Crowl noted that there are other important advantages in the program: "Farmers retain ownership and control permitting them to take advantage of later price increases. They can receive a commodity loan advance to help their cash flow while the grain is in reserve."

"The farmer receives annual storage payments in advance (25 cents per bushel for wheat, barley, corn and sorghum; 19 cents for oats) from the Commodity Credit Corporation (CCC) to help pay the costs of reserve storage," Crowl said.

Crowl indicated, in addition, that reserves will ensure that the U. S. will continue to be a dependable supplier to other countries. To help achieve this, a national reserve target of 330 million bushels for wheat and 670 million bushels (corn equivalent) for feed grains has been set.

As of March 20, about 239.2 million bushels of wheat, 8.4 million bushels of barley and 10.5 million bushels of oats had been placed in reserve.

Since March 1, farmers with 1977 crop wheat, barley and oats were able to immediately enter the program without waiting for their loans to mature. Early entry for corn and sorghum will be announced later.

Applicants for ASCS programs will be given equal consideration without regard to race, color, sex, creed or national origin.

Intiated Into National Society

Steven Filemyr, a junior at Lehigh University, Bethlehem, Pa., was recently initiated into the Pennsylvania Alpha chapter of Tau Beta Pi Association, national engineering honor society.

Nominees to Tau Beta Pi must qualify scholastically by being in the upper eighth of their junior classes; the second eligibility requirement is exemplary character, which includes personal integrity, breadth of interest both inside and outside of engineering, adaptibility, and unselfish activity. In considering a student for membership in Tau Beta Pi, personal integrity transcends every other qualification.

Steven is chemical engineering major at Lehigh, attending on a four-year Army ROTC scholarship. He is also a member of the marching band and was recently elected president of his fraternity, Theta Chi.

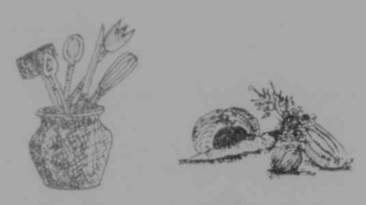
Byrnes Asks For PSC Hearings In Cumberland Area

Delegate William B. Byrnes (Chairman, Allegany County Delegation) Friday asked the Public Service Commission to hold emergency hearings in the Cumberland area, in the wake of the outrageous electric bills being received by the consumers in Western Maryland.



Although the Public Service Commission has been holding hearings this week in Baltimore on the Western Maryland problem, Delegate Byrnes said that it was imperative that the Commissioners take the hearings to the people involved. "The problems with utility bills are in Western Maryland, NOT in Baltimore!" Besides, after paying their electric bills, the people of Western Maryland could not afford the gas or bus fare to come to Baltimore!"

Continuing, Delegate Byrnes said, "The people of Western Maryland have a right to know why their bills are so high, and the bills of the Potomac Edison customers 'across the river' in West Virginia are still normal."

"My staff has been looking into the reasons for the discrepancy in the bills between the customers of the two states and we find the Fuel Rate Adjustment (FRA) charge is the big culprit," stated Delegate Byrnes. According to Byrnes, the West Virginia Public Service Commission has ruled against utility companies adding on a separate charge for fuel on their bills. It is the feeling of the West Virginia Commission that the cost of fuel should be treated like any other normal operating cost incurred by the company, and as such should be included in regular rate increase requests. The consumers in West Virginia, under this type of billing, will eventually pay the fuel costs of Potomac Edison through large rate hikes, but it will be over a longer period of time than the monthly billings in Maryland, and thus, the consumers in West Virginia avoid the outrageous bills being received in Maryland!

"I understand the problems facing the Potomac Edison company," said Byrnes, "because of the coal strike. But I question whether Potomac Edison has been prudent in its purchase of coal at the lowest possible price. I also question how, in Heaven's name, does the Potomac Edison Company expect the average homeowner in Western Maryland to possibly pay a $700 or $800 electric bill?

"The people of Western Maryland have a right to, and deserve to, know the answers to these questions. Therefore, the Public Service Commission of Maryland must hold public hearings in the Cumberland area as soon as possible."

Cooking Corner

by Mariane

In Garrett County and throughout Maryland, April 2-9 has been proclaimed "Week of the Young Child". Locally, Child Development, Head Start and the Board of Education will have special programs and open houses to acquaint the public with the programs they offer for young children up to age five.

Thought that it would be appropriate to dedicate this week's column to young children and some of the fun things they can learn and do in the kitchen. A kitchen can be a fun and almost magical place to a young child. They get to smell tangy oranges and spicy cinnamon; they get to hear hamburgers sizzling and celery crunching; they get to see a pan of goopy cake batter bake (almost magically to them) into a yummy cake; they get to squeeze cookie dough and, best of all, they get to taste wonderful new things. We grownups take a lot for granted but, to a young child, everything is new and waiting to be explored. A kitchen is a great place for a young child to learn colors, shapes, textures and sizes. To a little one, it's fun to pick up beans from one bowl and put them into another; it's fun to shape cookie dough into balls; it's fun to stir their fingers through a small bowl of flour; in fact, it's fun to do most anything in the kitchen. Our patience will stretch farther if we can just remember that all the things children want to do in the kitchen are just ways for them to learn new things.

The following recipe is for homemade playdough which is surprisingly similar to the kind you purchase in the store for a high price.

HOMEMADE PLAYDOUGH

1¼ cups water
½ cup salt

Heat above, on low heat, until bubbles disappear. Remove from heat and add following:

2 Tbsp. alum (you can find this in the spice section of grocery store)
2 Tbsp. oil
2 cups flour

Thoroughly mix above ingredients and, when cool enough to handle, divide into small balls, add a few drops of food coloring and knead until color is evenly mixed. Children love adding a drop of this color or two drops of that color and enjoy having playdough which is their own special color. If you store this playdough in an airtight bag, it will last for a long time.

Let the children help stir the following recipe. It's fun, very easy and children love the end results.

KNOX BLOX

4 envelopes Knox Unflavored Gelatin
3 packages (3 oz. each) Jello (any flavor)
4 cups boiling water

In a large bowl, combine gelatin and Jello. Add boiling water and stir until all gelatin is dissolved. Pour into a large, shallow baking pan (example, 13"x9") and chill until firm. Cut into squares and watch your children thrill over wiggling pieces of Jello which really taste good. These will not melt at room temperature either.

NUTRITION NOTE: Growing children, especially, need foods from the basic four daily. The basic four are: Enriched and Whole Grain Bread and Cereal — at least four servings daily.

Lean Meat, Fish, Poultry, Eggs, Nuts, Peanut Butter, Dry Peas and Beans — two or more servings daily (two ounces, edible portion, to a serving).

Fruit—Vegetable — four or more servings daily. Include one which is deep green or yellow for Vitamin A and one which is rich in Vitamin C such as citrus fruit, strawberries, green peppers and tomatoes.

Milk—Cheese — two or more cups of milk daily. One ounce of cheese is equivalent to one cup of milk.

TIP OF THE WEEK: You say you know what good nutrition is but you can't get your little darling to eat any of it. Here are some ideas which may get picky eaters interested in eating. Let them have their own special plate which is smaller than a regular dinner plate. If it has a picture of Mickey Mouse or some favorite character on it, all the better. Let your child serve his or her own food. They may only put a teaspoon of each food on their plate but they may surprise you and go back for a second or third teaspoon. Make sure there are small portions of meat for them. In fact, let them shape their own hamburgers or such foods and they'll be more likely to eat. If your child is a poor eater, don't allow any snacks unless they are good food items such as apple wedges, chunks of cheese or raisins. Above all, let your child see that eating is fun and don't allow meal time to become a battleground.

Horse Owners Are Warned About Sleeping Sickness

Maryland Department of Agriculture Veterinarians urge all owners of horses and ponies in the state to have their animals vaccinated against equine encephalitis, also known as "sleeping sickness."

This dread disease of equines poses a threat when mosquito populations soar during the coming warm months of spring and summer.

Dr. Hugh E. Binks, Chief of MDA's Animal Health Section, and Maryland State Veterinarian, says, "effective vaccines are available, but they are only effective for one year, so revaccination is necessary — preferably in the spring."

He adds that "combination vaccines are available for eastern (EEE), western (WEE) and Venezuelan encephalitis (VEE). Western and eastern encephalitis occur seasonally in many parts of the country while VEE has not appeared in the nation since 1971."

All three forms of encephalitis affect humans as well as horses. Birds usually act as a disease reservoir and carry the virus of EEE and WEE. Mosquitoes transmit these diseases from the birds to horses or humans.

Western Maryland Prepares For Annual Maple Sugar and Syrup Production

BALTIMORE (UPI) — Farmers in Western Maryland will tap more than 3,000 maple trees this month to begin harvesting the state's production of maple syrup.

Agriculture specialists in Maryland say syrup production in the state has shown a steady decline in the last 60 years and they estimate this year's harvest will be only a fraction of what it was during World War I.

In 1968, the last year syrup production figures were tabulated, production totaled 9,000 gallons, with an on-farm value of $48,000. That compares to 13,000 gallons harvested in 1965, 14,000 gallons produced in 1950 and 151,000 gallons grossed in 1919.

The total production of maple syrup in the U. S. in 1975 was 1.2 million gallons with a value of $12.7 million. The 1975 figure topped a low of 857,000 gallons produced in 1973, but fell far short of the record seven million gallons produced in 1890.

Harold Steyer, 58, a maple tree farmer near Loch Lynn who owns a 70-acre spread, said many of his neighbors in Garrett County stopped producing maple syrup because it was too much work.

"The kids didn't want to take it up when their parents got too old," he said.

Steyer said the Depression greatly affected the industry in Maryland because "people got hungry for money."

"They cut down all their trees," he said. "There are very few left to tap. They sold the trees for lumber to get money for food."

He said rising energy costs have made the cost of boiling down the syrup more expensive because gas and electric stoves have replaced wood-fired stoves.

Steyer, who describes himself as probably the largest producer in Maryland, said the amount of syrup that is shipped north has dropped sharply.

New England producers would buy Maryland syrup to mix with their own, he said.

"I remember when people around here would fill four or five rail cars for shipment to Vermont," he said. "This was probably 40 years ago. Most of it was dark, off-flavor syrup."

"Today, very little goes north. We keep the dark — people around here like it. They grew up on it. When I was a kid we sold the best and ate the worst (the dark)."

In 1977, Steyer and his son Mike produced about 600 gallons of syrup with gross sales hitting about $7,200. But the young Steyer said net profits totaled about $3,600 because labor ate up about 50 percent of sales.

"Not much of the money is pocketed," the young Steyers said.

The Steyers, who also run a 200-acre dairy farm, predict in a good year they could produce about 800 gallons of syrup.

During one bad year, Steyer said "It didn't pay to put the buckets out. We got only two to three barrels."

Pen Mar League "Swings" Into Action

By Jim Willis

The Pen Mar Baseball League is beginning its 30th consecutive year of operation this season. The League is a semi-professional baseball unit made up of nine teams from the Tri-State area. Cumberland, Everett, Cresaptown and Hyndman comprise the Norththern division with Romney, Oakland, Keyser, Island Creek and Moorefield making up the Southern division.

The League is one of seven original organizations formed in the Cumberland area after World War II, but is the only baseball league still in operation in the area.

In recent years the League has grown under the directorship of "Tack" Clark. "Tack" is now an assistant in football and baseball at Potomac State College and brings to the League a knowledge of baseball as a former player in the Boston Red Sox organization.

The League provides a high calibre of baseball for the better high school players, college players and men in their 20s and 30s who once played high school, college and Minor League baseball.

Recently four players in the Pen Mar League have been drafted by major league teams. Dan England of the Chicago Cubs played with Everett, Francis Mouse of Kansas City and Larry Edwards of Milwaukee both played with Cumberland and Rodney Feight now plays for the Expos.

Semi-Pro Baseball started to die in the 1950s as softball grew in popularity. However, new enthusiasm in the League started last year as Pen Mar picked up two new teams, Cresaptown and Island Creek Coal of Bayard. The Grantsville American Legion sanctioned a team which entered the Western District of American Legion Baseball with the aid of Phil Caruso of Oakland. Phil is also co-coach of the Southern High baseball team.

This year, Moorefield, entered the Pen Mar League and will play in its Southern division. The Legion program also picked up a new team with Lonaconing, rounding their program out to four teams. The Legion program and Pen Mar work closely together with the Cumberland Legion team which also participates in the Pen Mar League. Players from other Legion teams play on Pen Mar teams without a conflict in schedules

The future for young baseball players in the Oakland area has never been brighter, with several Little League and senior division programs. Southern high school offers a team coached by Bill Hogan and Phil Caruso. Garrett Community College, under the direction of Dennis Fearnow, has been a power house in junior college baseball since 1974 and many of the talented area high school players have gone on to play for Garrett. The Grantsville Legion draws its players from Garrett County and nearby W. Va. schools and prospective players have two Pen Mar teams to choose from within 14 miles of each other — Oakland and Island Creek.

The League makes a practice of using hometown umpires such as Doug Ellis and Earl Rickets of Oakland.

A Pen Mar Yearbook was started at the suggestion of Basil Armstrong, coach of Cresaptown, and the book which includes teams, players and history was a tremendous success in its first year.

The Oakland team entered the League in 1973 and enjoyed its finest year last season by coming in second to playoff champion, Romney in the Southern Division and advancing to the finals in Divisional playoffs. Much of last year's success can be credited to coaches, Ernest Shotwell and George Brady, and the pitching expertise of Mark McCarty and John Helmick.

Oakland expects a younger team this year and will draw heavily from the high school and legion teams.

Tryouts will be held within three weeks, with the season scheduled to begin May 21. Oakland and other teams in the Southern Division will be playing a total of 20 games this season and the Northern Division will play 22 games.

Minor League To Be Organized

The Oakland Little League is planning an organized minor league this year. All persons 9-12 years old who are not selected for a little league team will be able to participate in the minor league. Instruction will be given in the basics of baseball and persons will be divided into teams according to age and playing ability. The teams will not have a demand schedule, but will play on a scrimmage basis under supervision.

Any persons who will be eight years old on or before July 31, will also be eligible to participate in the minor league. All eight year olds are to report to the Little League field on Dennett Road, Thursday April 13 at 5:30 p.m.

GCC Splits First Spring Contest Against Pot State

In the first game of a doubleheader Saturday, Garrett Community College downed host Potomac State 8-2, while the Catamounts retaliated with a 14-6 rout in the second game.

The twinbill was the opening of the second session of the Laker's baseball season, since by Maryland JUCO Conference rules they are allowed to combine both the fall and spring divisions into a single season. The split upped Garrett's overall record to 12-2, despite the fact that it was their first outing this year.

The split brought Potomac State's record to 2-3, following their first win over the Navy Jayvees last week and a season-opening twinbill loss to Allegany CC.

Freshman Ron Kaufman led the Laker victory in the first game by touching bases with Rex Walbolt's three singles and Tim Hornick's pair of singles. Mark Martini and Bob Varner chipped in with doubles.

In the second game, all but one of the Catamounts managed at least one hit, with Ed Trietley adding a pair of doubles in support of Ron Pizatella's distance mound stint in his first decision of the year.

Garrett hosts South Allegheny in another doubleheader today, a rescheduling of a previously rained-out meeting.

Marylanders May Itemize Deductions

Officially, Maryland income taxpayers who were not permitted to itemize deductions on their 1977 Federal income tax returns may itemize on their Maryland State income tax returns. Emergency legislation to allow the itemization, proposed by Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein in February, was approved by the General Assembly and signed into law by Acting Governor Lee Monday, April 3.

"Our office has been accepting itemized State income tax returns from taxpayers even if they were not allowed to itemize on their Federal returns, but thousands of taxpayers have apparently been waiting for the legislation to pass before filing their returns," Mr. Goldstein said.

Approximately 220,000 Maryland State income taxpayers are saving as much as $175 under the new procedure. These taxpayers did not have enough deductions to itemize under Federal law, but could benefit by itemizing on their State tax return.

Taxpayers wishing to take advantage of the new law should include a copy of Schedule "A" of Federal Form 1040, which lists itemized deductions, along with their Maryland income tax return. Copies of Federal Schedule "A" are available at all offices of the Maryland Income Tax Division and are included in the Federal Form 1040 tax packet.

Generally, taxpayers may deduct anything on their Maryland tax return that is permitted as a deduction of Federal tax forms. The major exception is State and local income taxes, which may not be deducted on the Maryland Income tax return.

"Taxpayers who have already filed their Maryland income tax return, using the standard deduction, and who would benefit from itemizing deductions under the new law, may file an amended state income tax return claiming those deductions. Copies of the amended form are available at all of our offices or you may write the State Income Division, Annapolis, Maryland, 21401 and request one," Mr. Goldstein said.

Maryland State income tax offices will remain open on Saturday, April 8, and Saturday, April 15, from 9:00 a.m. until 1:00 p.m. to offer additional hours of taxpayer assistance. The 11 permanent offices will also be open Monday evening, April 10, and accept telephone inquiries from 4:30 p.m. until 7:00 p.m.

All offices will be open from 8:30 a.m. until 9:00 p.m. on Monday, April 17, the filing deadline. The addresses and telephone numbers of all offices are listed on the back of the Maryland Tax packet and in local telephone directories.

New Program To Honor Firefighters

Two representatives of the Allegany-Garrett County Volunteer Firemen's Association are on a committee to select nominees from the two counties for the Maryland Firefighter of the Year Award.

This is the first year the award is being offered in this state by the Joseph Schlitz Brewing Company and the Maryland State Firemen's Association. Robert Stevenson of Midland is the Chairman and William Miller of Barton is co-chairman of the nomination review committee.

All members of volunteer fire companies and municipal federal fire companies are eligible for the awards.

"We're very pleased that the Joseph Schlitz Brewing Company has shown the public spirit to launch this much needed program. Now the firefighters of this state will receive the recognition they deserve and bring public notice and prestige to the fire service."

There are approximately 25,000 volunteer firefighters in the state and some 3,000 paid career firemen.

Schlitz has created similar programs in New Jersey and Wisconsin where they have been viewed as beneficial to firefighters by increasing public awareness of their personal contributions to fire safety.

"Each firefighter of the year within a fire company will receive a plaque," Wood said. "Each firefighter selected will automatically become a candidate for the statewide award. The winner will receive the grand trophy."

A committee will review nominations and choose the statewide winner. Next October 28, an award ceremony and dinner for award recipients will be held at a site to be announced later.

Four One-Vehicle Mishaps Noted

Four one-vehicle accidents were noted on the records of the Maryland State Police at McHenry yesterday. One person was injured and another has been charged with drunken driving.

A cyclist was slightly injured when his motorcycle slid on some sand and gravel at the intersection of Mattingly Hill road and Glade road last Friday evening. George L. Fike, RD 1, Friendsville, was eastbound on Glade road and stopped at a stop sign. When he pulled out onto Rt. 42, making a left hand turn, his vehicle skidded out from under him on the sand and gravel throwing him off. Tfc. E. J. Upole investigated.

Kenneth Ray Broadwater, Princeton, W. Va., was northbound on the Underwood road just north of the Crellin-Underwood road about 9 p.m. last Friday. He was said traveling at a high rate of speed when he lost control of the car on a right hand curve. The vehicle struck a ditch/embankment, rolled over and came to rest on its wheels he headed south in the southbound ditch. Tfc. Upole charged Broadwater with driving while intoxicated.

An icy road surface caused a mishap on U. S. 40 about a half mile west of Zehner road early the morning of March 28. Randy R. Green, Rt. 1, Grantsville, was eastbound in his truck when he struck an icy spot, skidded, struck a snowbank and overturned. Tfc. R. C. Georg made no charges.

An unknown vehicle severed the guy-wire of a utility pole along the Glendale road near the Zeddock Miller road about 11 a.m. March 26. The vehicle failed to negotiate a left curve, probably due to icy conditions, struck the guy-wire and completely severing it. A witness said the Jeep then left the scene. Tfc. Upole investigated this one also.

Treasurers' Salary Increase Approved

Delegate DeCorsey E. Bolden and Senator Edward Mason, after considering the recommendations of the Garrett County Salary Study Commission, ammended House Bill 1705, which pertains to the salary of the Garrett County Treasurer, so that it would provide a minimum annaul salary of $12,000 dollars for that elected position.

The Salary Study Commission had previously recommended in their report, a minimum salary of $10,500 for the position of County Treasurer. According to Delegate Bolden and Senator Mason, this recommendation did not seem in line with those salaries recommended for other elected officials of Garrett County.

After consultation with the members of the Salary Study Commission, it was agreed that this ammended increase was justifiable.

The ammended version of House Bill 1705 was approved by the House of Delegates on Tuesday and has now been forwarded to the governor's office for signatures.

Senate Passes Public Financing Of Statewide Elections Bill

ANNAPOLIS (UPI) — The Senate has passed a bill that would establish public financing of statewide elections. An opponent said the bill gives him visions of "people . . . with bushel baskets, just waiting to get their funds."

The bill, passed 32-12 by the Senate Tuesday, still needs House approval. It was proposed by Lee and Senate President Steny Hoyer, D-Prince George's - two leading candidates for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination.

"It's the biggest raid on the public treasury that we've ever gone to," said Sen. John Coolahan, D-Baltimore County.

Under the measure, state money would be provided for the primary and general election campaigns of candidates for governor, lieutenant governor, attorney general, and state comptroller.

A candidate would receive 12.5 cents for each state resident in both the primary and general election campaigns. Using a Maryland population estimate of 4 million, a candidate would receive about $480,000 for each campaign.

To qualify, the candidate would have to raise one-third of the $480,000 in single contributions of no more than $250 to show that he had some support in the state.

Currently, voters can add $2 to their tax bills to contribute to public financing of campaigns. Only about $400,000 has been raised in the last several years.

"The public in this state has indicated (through its small contributions under the $2 system) that they do not want to finance campaigns for any of us," Coolahan said.

Sen. Edward Hall, R-Calvert, also opposed the bill, claiming it would kill grass-roots participation in campaigns.

"I have visions of people lining up around the Board of Election Commissioners with bushel baskets, just waiting to get their funds," Hall said.

But Sen. Norman Stone, D-Baltimore County, supported the bill, saying it would put candidates on "an even keel."

And Sen. Charles Gilchrist, D-Montgomery, said fund-raising is the worst element in running for public office and the element most likely to lead to corruption.

Sen. Melvin Steinberg, D-Baltimore County, responded it is the candidates who are corrupt, not the system.

Senate Wants To Lower Air Standards

ANNAPOLIS (UPI) — Despite pleas that Maryland has one of the best air quality protection laws in the nation, the Senate passed and sent to the governor Tuesday a bill to lower the standards to those of the Federal Government.

The vote was 31-12.

While the bill would dilute the state's standards to equal the federal standards, counties could ask the state for permission to establish tougher standards for their areas.

"The Maryland Air Quality Control Act is probably one of the best in the country," said Sen. Julian Lapides, D-Baltimore, in opposing the bill.

He tried to limit the use of the reduced standards to three years, at which time the state's higher standards would go back into effect, but the Senate voted 24-14 against his amendment.

Senate Minority Leader Edward Mason, R-Allegany, said the bill is needed so lowgrade coal, which has more pollutants, can be burned to help Western Maryland obtain less expensive energy.

Western Maryland was hard-hit by the recent coal strike, which resulted in skyrocketing utility bills in the area.

"There is absolutely no verification that this bill is going to affect the health of the citizens of Maryland" by causing more pollution, Mason said.

But Sen. C. Lawrence Wiser, D-Montgomery, said it did not necessarily follow that there would be no adverse effects of lowered air quality standards.

"No one ever said clean air is going to be cheap. . . But I think the people of this state are willing to pay that price," Wiser said.

He also opposed the bill because it abrogates the state's responsibility for determining its air quality standards and leaves the decision with the Federal Government.

Majority Leader Roy Staten, D-Baltimore County, said he supported the bill because "air knows no boundaries" and, therefore, should be a national rather than state responsibility to regulate.

the ROCKPILE

by Cathy Helbig

It was April 13, 1931, and Oakland was definitely the hot spot in Garrett County as firemen were kept busy with five alarms in a 24-hour period. A storage building was destroyed in Crellin and four brush fires got out of control in the Oakland-Deer Park area.

In June, a tarantula measuring nearly 5 inches was captured at Smouse's store when it dropped from a bunch of bananas being exposed for sale. It was sent to the Oakland High School for study by biology class.

"Two women entered the store of a local merchant and asked to be shown some baby shoes. The pair of shoes did not please the women, and while his attention was directed elsewhere they left the store taking the shoes with them.

"Pursuit followed to the banks of Wilson Creek where the shoes were recovered and the women returned to the store.

"After a number of questions as to the identity of the women, their circumstances, and whether they made a practice of running out on clerks, the merchant, instead of having them arrested for petty larceny, gave them two pairs of shoes and dismissed them with a little advice.

"The merchant requested that publicity for him was not necessary, so it is impossible to give his name, but his initials are Lawrence M. Fraley."

Around the nation a few strange events found their way to the pages of the local newspaper: "In Chicago, a surgeon, amputating a leg of an injured patient, found two inches of a bone protected by plates on which he had engraved his initials twenty years ago where he inserted the bones, taken from a sheep, when he was performing an operation on the same man."

"In Kentucky, Mrs. Levi Deaton, mother of triplets, has named them Amos, Andy and Madam Queen."

The Sunday Blue Laws were the center of a fight in the General Assembly in 1931. A story published provided some unusual laws still unrepealed as of that date:

"It is unlawful in Maryland to utter or write profane words concerning the Trinity or any person thereof and the punishment may be up to $100 fine and six months imprisonment.

"It is unlawful to give or sell any person in Garrett County under 21 years of age either cigarettes or cigarette paper. Tobacco, however, is not specified and thereof may be supplied! Fines for offenders against this law are provided and for the first offense a penalty of not less than $25 and not more than $50 may be imposed with fines of $100 to $300 for subsequent offenses.

"If the fine and costs are not paid for such offenses the law says, the culprit, male or female, 'shall be required to work the same out on the public roads.'

"There is still a law in force which requires that every traction engine propelled by steam be preceded by at least two men; whose duty it shall be to conduct the engine so as to cause as little alarm as possible to horses or other draft animals."

"Another law requires hotels to have sufficient stable and provender for five horses at least, a requirement which might on short notice prove rather embarrassing to many modern city hostelries."

"Baltimore city last week passed an ordinance requiring the payment of $1000 by every band of gypsies entering the city, but that law has been in force in Allegany, Baltimore and Garrett counties since 1904." Hopefully, these laws have been written off by now.

Finally, 1931 proved an embarrassing year to some Oakland residents as they were forced to leave town because of alleged "Whoopee parties;"

"Ordered by Mayor Grover Stemple to move out of town, tenants of an apartment on Second Street left within 24 hours, taking their belongings and shaking the dust of the city from their feet."

The mayor's order was made following a number of complaints by local residents who stated that several fights had occurred there, one especially fierce when the wife of one of the men came to town and visited the apartment.

"A second rumpus is said to have taken place when one of the male sojourners chased a visitor down the stairway with a butcher knife, who threatened to run it through the fleeing man and clinch it on the opposite side of his anatomy."

Sheriff Haenftling issued a warning which the tenants and their guests refused to heed and as a result, "Oakland has several fewer undesirable citizens than were within her gates a week ago."

Bikini Atoll, scene of the 1954 hydrogen bomb explosion, is still declared unsafe.

Exhibitors will be able to make two entries in any one class according to the classification of breeds as Nubian, Alpine, Toggenburg, Saanen, La Mancha or Recorded Grades. Please note that grade animals, dairy goats with horns or bucks will not be exhibited under ADGA rules.

To encourage youth who may own grade dairy goats to be able to participate in the 4-H & FFA Dairy Goat Show, Mrs. Jane Burkle, an ADGA representative, will be at the residence of Howard and Bernice Kepple, located on the Spring Glade Road near Oakland, on Saturday, April 15th, starting at 12:30 for the purpose of "recording" grade dairy goats as being "Native on Appearance" for one of the breeds of dairy goats.

During this time Mrs. Burkel will tattoo the goats and evaluate the animals' physical conformation so that they can be included in this year's show as "Recorded Grades." For further information persons may contact Mrs. Bernice Kepple or call the Extension Office at 334-2145.

Nineteen Die In Highway Mishaps

Nineteen persons lost their lives on Maryland Highways during the week ending April 2, according to the weekly news release compiled by 2nd Lt. M. I. Morgan of the Maryland State Police. Of the persons killed, nine were drivers, six were passengers and four were pedestrians.

If you have heard someone say, "I've never seen so many motorcycles on the road," or said it yourself, you are right. For many reasons, the motorcycle's popularity has rocketed upward. As a result, three motorcyclists lost their lives in Maryland last week.

According to Lt. Morgan, "If you are part of the overwhelming majority of drivers who have not had the experience of operating a motorcycle, you are a hazard to the cyclist without intending to be.

"We think of ourselves as experienced, skillful drivers capable of handling any highway emergency. Until we personally have experienced the unprotected, unloved feeling a motorcyclist undergoes in today's traffic, there is a big gap in our own driving knowledge. Driving a four-wheeled vehicle is very different from operating on two wheels. Unfortunately, many motorists become annoyed with cyclists who ride near the center line instead of near the shoulder. There are good safety reasons, along with the legal right to do so. The cyclist is more visible near the center line. There are serious blind spots the four-wheel driver can not see in his rear view mirror, even if properly adjusted. Thousands of motorcycle-car collisions have occurred because the auto driver simply did not see the motorcycle."

Persons killed through April 2, 1978 numbered 130, well ahead of the 117 toll for this same time last year.
